A BIG SHOW IS PROMISED IN NEXT CONGRESS

Many New Problems Will Add To Busy Time In Washington

What promises to be the best "show" of 1935 will start early in January. Officially called the Congress of the United States, there is an excellent chance that for drama, excitement and thrills it will outdo Belasco.

Business is frankly worried, looks to Congressional action with fear and trembling. And it seems certain that the White House anticipates the session with something less than unmixed pleasure. The Congress is overwhelmingly Democratic. It is—if campaign speeches mean anything—committed heart and soul to the Roosevelt policies. But it likewise contains a number of men who, had it not been for the potent Roosevelt support, would never have had a chance of election to a first-class office, who know little of economics, less of industrial problems, and nothing of monetary affairs. These men are the "radicals" of the next Congress—and it is inevitable that they will worry able, conscientious and intelligent New Dealers about as much as they will worry conservatives. The President is like a ship captain in an emergency—whatever happens will be pinned on him, whether he could have taken a different course of action or not. And if the Congress, over the President's wish, passes dangerous unprecedented laws, any ill effect they produce must eventually come home to the Roosevelt stoop.

Best guessers believe that one of the big debates of the next Congress will center around the proposed 30-hour work week. Many representatives have pledged its enactment, as have a number of Senators. Business does not want it—nor does the President. He knows that it would place a burden on industry which it cannot afford at this time, that shorter working weeks must come by a process of evolution, rather than by legislative fiat. The Federation of Labor is solidly behind the law, but the chances are that, even with this potent support to combat, the President will be able to smother it.

The bonus, a cross which every presi-

Mayor C. Fenn Jones announced this week new police officers who have been named to succeed Sheriff-elect J R. Hardy and J. A. Nivens, who has been named chief-deputy.

Succeeding Mr. Hardy as police officer on day duty is John Browder who for several months has been serving on the night force. While on duty at night, Officer Browder has proved himself alert and has been successful in the apprehension of perpetrators of several burglaries and other crimes.

Matthis Waggoner, who, too, has served on the night force during recent months, has been named to succeed Mr. Nivens. Mr. Nivens, however, will continue in his present capacity until a second man has been selected for night duty, Mayor Jones stated.

7 PERSONS ARE INJURED WHEN AUTOS COLLIDE

Slippery Roads Are Cause Of Cars Smashing On Birmingham Highway

Seven persons were injured, two seriously, in the collision of two automobiles on the Birmingham Highway three miles north of Clanton about 6:30 Thursday night.

Mrs. T. W. McKee, a passenger in the car driven by her husband, T. W. McKee, of Cordova, Ala., suffered a broken pelvis and possible internal injuries while Mrs. Ida Musgrove, also in the McKee machine, received possible internal injuries.

McKee suffered severe cuts and lacerations about the head and face while his other two passengers Miss Ola Musgrove and Frank Musgrove, 15, received cuts, bruises and suffered shock.

The driver of the other machine, Cecil Gardner, Selma salesman, lost several teeth in the crash, and his companion, J. G. Stamps, also of Selma, suffered a broken nose.

All of the victims were treated at a hospital here.

It was raining at the time of the accident, and witnesses said that a third car attempted to pass one of the cars, causing the wreck. The driver of the third auto was uninjured, it was reported.

The McKee car and Gardner's machine were demolished.

Clanton Business Firms Sponsor Xmas Lights

With upwards of a thousand lights of many colors brightly illuminating the business district and shedding a lovely hue of Christmas effect, Clanton gained the commendation of thousands of people from far and near during the holiday season just closed.

The lights came down on New Year's eve and were carefully packed away to do service again next Christmas in a scheme that is calculated to outshine this one as much as this one did the former one.

Led by a committee of the Kiwanis Club, composed of John Hollis, Mell Martin and Leonard Williams, the splendid success of the Christmas lighting program was made by the hearty co-operation of officials of the Town of Clanton, the ladies of the Pilot Club, the Alabama Power Co., and almost the unanimous support of every business establishment in town.

Besides those organzations mentioned above, the committee has released the following list of business places which contributed money to help carry out the scheme:

Corner Fruit Store, Yellow Front, John Gore, Service Barber Shop, A & P., Dollar Store, Farmers Hardware Co., Matt's Lunch Shop, E. L. Klinner Furniture Co., Exchange Hotel, Taylor Wholesale Grocery Co., Dief's Service Station.

FEB. 1ST AND IT WILL BE TOO LATE TO PAY YOUR 1935 POLL TAXES

January 31 is the deadline for the payment of poll taxes. If you have not attended to this important matter, you are urged to do so before it is too late.

Although the big county election is past and there is little liklihood that the residents of the county will be required to vote on local questions during the coming year, still it is of vast importance that poll taxes are kept paid to date.

With the Legislature convening and the installation of new State officials, there will possibly be several important questions in State affairs regarding which the people of this county will want to express an opinion.

1935 To Bring Many Big Things To County

Many Long-Needed Improvements Will Take Shape In County During The New Year; Farmers Given Better Chance

By Victor Morris

The year 1935 promises much for Chilton County. Before the next 12 months have rolled by the people of this county will see many long-needed improvements taking shape within the limits of their county.

During 1935 near a quarter-million dollars of Federal funds will pour into Chilton County in the form of public buildings, road paving, extension of watermains, and other valuable civic improvements.

Official notice has been received by Acting Postmaster Billy Smith that bids will be opened February 11, preparatory to the awarding of the contract for the erection of Clanton's new $55,000 post office building. On January 6 bids will be accepted for the construction of a new city hall in Clanton, Already practically two miles of hard surfacing on the Clanton-Selma highway is near completion, and contract for an additional two miles has been let. Work is expected to get underway on this project within the next few weeks, according to information from the office of the National Reemployment Service here, which will have charge of the selection of all labor on this and other Federal projects in this county.

M. C. Slaughter, manager of the office, has estimated that work will be given to approximately 500 persons during the year on the several projects which will be under construction in Chilton County. All of these projects should be well underway before Spring, he said.

In this county, which is primarily an agricultural county, what the year holds in store for the farmer is of chief importance, and according to the opinion of some of the county's closest observers, every indication points toward improved conditions for the tillers of the soil.

County Agent J. W. Fant expressed the belief that 1935 will be the best year for farmers since 1919, which is recognized as the peak of all times. With the assurance of protection afforded by the Bankhead Cotton Control Act, there is no reason to believe that cotton will not bring prices equal to present quotations, and should our export market be opened, as is hoped, the price of cotton will surely show an increase by the time that this year's crop is ready for market, Mr. Fant pointed out.

"The farmers of this county are entering this year with an advantage not often enjoyed by our farmers. That is they have plenty of food for themselves and plenty of feed for their livestock. It isn't often that the farmers of this county have begun a year so well prepared," he declared.

Commenting on the outlook, Judge L. H. Reynolds declared that in his opinion the people of this county have every reason to march forward with an optimism that has been absent for some time. "I can see no reason," he said, "since the passage of the Bankhead Bill that the cotton farmers should not enjoy a gradual climb back to more prosperous times." In this county, he pointed out, the chief interest is agriculture and whatever the outlook for this industry is an accurate barometer for all other industries in this section, "and I believe that we are well on the way to better times."

Regarding the outlook in the educational field, Supt. Lother E. Little declared that it is hardly possible to ascertain just what the future holds, but averred that with the wise leadership we have, both in State and National Government, he believes that those interested in education have reason to face the future with renewed faith and hope.

Again this year, the Federal Government has come to the rescue of education in Alabama, and Gov. Bibb Graves has pledged that "schools will run during his tenure of office."

So viewing the situation from every angle, it seems that the people of Chilton County can look forward to a "Happy New Year."

BUSINESS HOUSES OF CLANTON MAKE CHANGES IN LOCATIONS

E. L. Klinner Furniture Co., Now Occupying Large Quarters Across The Street; J. R. Mullins Company Moves; Ben's Place Next To 1st Nat'l Bank

Three Clanton business firms change locations this week. The E. L. Klinner Furniture Company began the moving parade, when it was removed from its location in the Mullins Building across the street to the Upchurch Building.

The J. R. Mullins Company removed from its location on the corner of Main Street and the highway to the site vacated by the Klinner Furniture Company. Ben's was the last in the trio when this establishment was installed in the building next to the First National Bank Building.

For sometime work has been underway renovating the new location of the E. L. Klinner Furniture Company, preparatory for its reception at the first of the New Year. The walls in the building have been cleaned and repainted, new floors installed, and various other improvements. The management invites its patrons to visit the new location.

J. Renfroe Mullins, manager of the J. R. Mullins Company, stated that a new building will be erected on the site, which has been occupied for near a half-century by this company and its predecessors.

This change of location, Mr. Mullins pointed out, will be advantageous inasmuch as it will place the main store nearer the warehouse from which the fertilizer business is conducted. "We will endeavor to continue to render the same service which has been found at our store for the past forty years," he said.

No definite announcement regarding the plans for the construction of a new building on the Mullins corner were available at this writing. Neither was it learned who will occupy the building being vacated by Ben's.

New Chevrolet In Clanton Jan. 5th

The new Chevrolet Standard Six will be on display at the showrooms of the Hayes Chevrolet Company next Saturday, according to an announcement by J. W. (Dick) Hayes, manager of the local agency.

With increased horsepower, equipped with a 74-horsepower motor, the new Chevrolet is a revelation in performance Mr. Hayes stated. More power is assured, greater speed with less strain on the motor and framwork of the car, is available, and the performance is even smoother than previous models of this automobile, he explained.

"Another feature of the new Chevrolet," Mr. Hayes pointed out, "is the New Rigid-X Frame. The chassis of the New Standard Six is the strogest, heaviest, most rugged chassis that has ever been offered in the Chevrolet Six line. While the new chassis incorporates many of the fundamental features of design for which Chevrolet is noted, it introduces new developments, refinements and improvements that make the Standard Six a safer car to drive, and a more comfortable car in which to ride."

The new models are larger and afford more interior space, affording greater comfort to the driver and passengers. The management of the Hayes Chevrolet Company invites the public to visit the showrooms Saturday and see the New Standard Six.

Dr. Gragg Bags A Buck In Hunt In Choctaw

If you happen to see Dr. V. J. Gragg walking the streets with a militaristic air that might seem exaggerated even for a noted physician and surgeon of his rank, the cause for this sudden erectness of statue is explained by the fact that only a few days ago his markmanship brought to earth a big buck.

With a party of more than 30, Dr. Gragg was one of the three who bagged a deer on a hunt down in Choctaw County last Monday. Dr. J. E. Edgar and Dr. C. O. Lawrence, of Clanton, accompanied Dr. Gragg. His professional pride wounded by the expert markmanship of Dr. Gragg, Dr. Lawrence captured a fox while on the hunt.

It was at this banquet that Mr. Oliver announced his intention of making this award to the boy in his district who performed the most outstanding work during the scholastic year.

Popular Clanton Merchant Succumbs To Short Illness Friday

Funeral services for A. N. Minor, 55-year-old Clanton merchant, who died at his home in Clanton last Friday morning of an attack of pneumonia, were held Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Clanton Baptist church, of which he was a member, with Dr. S. J. Ezell officiating.

Mr. Minor was ill only a few days. He began complaining of not feeling well on Saturday before his death the following week. Late in the afternoon, it became necessary for him to be taken home from his business, The Little Fruit Store, on the Mullins corner.

Born and reared in Chilton County, he was a lifelong resident of the county and had been engaged in various mercantile enterprises in Clanton. For some time he had been operating The Little Fruit Store, a fruit and grocery business. For many years he was one of the town's leading grocerymen, operating a store on Main Street, near the present site of the Clanton Cash Store.

Surviving him are his widow; one son, Bill; three daughters, Mrs. L. E. Gentry, Mrs. Lewis Williams, all of Clanton, and Mrs. L. W. Street, of Washington, D. C.; three brothers, Newt, William, and Nicholas; three sisters, Mrs. Nancy Mims, Misses Sarah and Angeline Minor, all of Clanton.

Burial was in the Concord cemetery with Martin & Sons in charge.

POLK BROTHERS SHOWING NEW PLYMOUTH CAR

Attractive Body Lines And Many Other Prominent Improvements

Of sensational interest to those who anticipate the purchase of a new automobile during this year is the news that the new 1935 Plymouth is now on display in the showrooms of the Polk Bros. Motor Company, Inc., in Clanton, according to the company's managers, who declare that this is the greatest automobile that Plymouth has ever built.

"It is the most beautiful car that Plymouth has ever built; it has the finest interior trim, and possesses a new thrilling style that buyers will find irresistible and distinctive," Polk Bros. declared.

This year's models are three inches wider and three inches longer, affording more space and assuring greater comfort, they pointed out. The new car is 189 inches from bumper to bumper and is equipped with an 82 horsepower motor. Improvements on the motor assure 15 to 20 more mileage over last year's models.

"One of the most spectacular features of the Airflow cars was the ride. It gave to motoring an utterly new sensation. It introduced a new principle of chassis design—equalization of front and rear spring action.

"With the tremendous success of the Airflow ride as an example, Plymouth engineers persisted. They worked with steel makers to secure special steel required. They built up test springs of the special steel.

"In the 1935 Plymouth, front and rear springs carry approximately the same weight, having the same frequency, thus assuring greater comfort to the rider. In the new Plymouth is a ride story that would have seemed improbable a year ago."

Polk Bros. Motor Co., Inc., invites the public to come in and see the new Plymouth, to ride in it and drive it and see the great improvements that is offered the purchaser of this automobile.

Toward Better Legal Procedure

The American Bar Association is carrying out a five-point educational program directed both to lawyers and to the general public. The points included are: Enforcement of professional ethics; Criminal law and its enforcement; Legal education and admission to the bar; unauthorized practice of the law; Selection of judges.

As a start, the Association sent letters, pamphlets, questionnaires and informative releases to the 1,400 bar associations of the country, explaining the scope and purposes of the campaign. This was followed by a radio program, designed to give the public a knowledge of the work. The program has been on the air each Saturday night.

The Association believes that the public, at the moment, is particularly receptive to proposals for reforms in criminal law, and this phase of the project has been emphasized. Acting directly, the Association is now co-operating with the International Association of Chiefs of Police in an effort to secure more efficient police personnel, and to improve the standard of departments throughout the country.

Here is a work in which every citizen has a vital interest—it affects his home, his property, the very lives of himself and his family. Strengthening and improving the law, and the practice of the law, is one of the great needs of the tme—and the Bar Association, in pursuing its program, is performing an invaluable patriotic duty.

Confidence Comes First

The most potent force for recovery is confidence on the part of industry, property owners, investors. By the same token, lack of such confidence creates and perpetuates depression.

The San Francisco Call-Bulletin recently observed there are now some ten billion dollars ready to be loaned to business for improvement and expansion—when there is sufficient confidence to justify the risk. The money is now in the banks, but bankers would obviously be unfaithful to their trust if they loaned money without feeling strongly that they can do so in safety.

There are now signs that confidence is returning—that problems are being ironed out, that industrial leaders and public officials are reaching a common ground. If that is true, it will be a blessing for all the people.

The Righ Hand Of Credit

Throughout the history of this nation—during good times and bad, booms and depressions—American business has had an invaluable ally: Fire insurance.

Fire insurance has, aptly, been called the best friend of credit. It is even more than that—without insurance, credit, as we know it today, could not exist. That is true whether the credit is extended for building a railroad or a cottage, whether it entails millions of dollars or hundreds. If the collateral were not underwritten and protected against fire and flood and storm, every man who made a loan would be facing complete and irrevocable loss. That, in turn, would produce two results—either credit would not be given, or interest rates, which are always predicted upon risk, would be so high that no one could afford to borrow except in direst emergency.

Maintenance of credit is perhaps the greatest of all the services provided by fire insurance, and it is a service few of us think of. We all benefit by it. The home-owner, the worker, the factory-builder, the investor—all feel the beneficial effects of credit.

Fire insurance helped develop our country, from pioneering days to the present—it helped to make our farms and our industries and our cities possible.

Behind all enterprise, all fruitful initiative, stands insurance.

Private Capital Coming Back Into Service

As part form putting people to work, increasing buying power and providing needed public improvements in thousands of communities throughout the country, the Public Works Administration has joined the ranks of the various other Roosevelt emergency agencies in bringing private capital back into service.

A few days ago it was revealed by PWA that more than $50,000,000 worth of municipal bonds that PWA had agreed to buy to finance construction of approved non-federal projects had been bought by private investors and bond dealers. To inquiring Washington newspaper correspondents, Administrator Ickes made prompt and not at all reluctant admissions. He first "admitted" that direct buying of municipal securities "eliminated the possibility of the government being able to make a profit on later resale of the bonds," as has been done to a substantial degree with other municipal bonds.

On the contrary, Mr. Ickes explained that PWA encourages such sales because "they are in fulfillment of the public works plan of government financing when private capital fails to function and then returning that duty to the private investment market as that market is able to reassume its duty."

"The more private investors take away from us the better it will be," he said. "PWA finances local public works construction to aid business and national economic conditions by creating employment, especially in the heavy industries where it is most needed, and not to make a profit as bond dealers. When investors and bond dealers buy bonds that we had agreed to buy, PWA changes the allotment immediately from a loan plus a grant to a grant only and reallots the released loan money to create more employment on other needed projects.

"When private buyers pay higher prices for the bonds than we agreed to pay," he continued, "that means that the localities issuing the bonds get their money at a lower interest rate than the 4 per cent charged by PWA and, of lourse, such direct sales to the public by recipients of PWA allotments also reflect improvement in municipal credit. Therefore PWA has been of considerable value in establishment of such credit."

The operation under discussion was the resale to private investors of $20,466,000 worth of municipal bonds covering four non-federal projects, all of which investors and dealers in bonds had refused to buy directly from the cities and towns when the bonds first came on the market. As a result of their waiting, PWA realized a profit of $531,764. The total amount released to additional PWA projects by several hundred such changes of government held securities to private bond buyers to December 1 was $50,241,566.

When President Roosevelt announced his approval of the National Industrial Recovery Act, Title II of which created the PWA, he made the confident prediction that acceptance of municipal bonds by the federal government for needed improvements of a self-liquidating nature, which the communities were not in a position to finance, would "go far" toward rehabilitating the securties markets and pave the way for reduction of local tax rates through re-establishment of municipal credit. The soundness of his judgement, expressed when the credit of American cities and towns was at the lowest ebb since the Civil War, is abundantly proved by the steadily increasing quotations of municipal securities.

Only A Stray Pup

What does a stray pup amount to anyway? What does it matter if such a helpless animal is abused and tortured to make sport for a gang of thoughtless boys? Who cares?

One small boy cared—and because he cared he made a friend—a friend who didn't forget.

Some years ago a kindly man named Jacob Siler walked along the banks of the Mississippi river near St. Louis and came upon a group of boys who were amusing themselves by throwing a stray pup into the river time after time, in spite of the protests of one small companion. Finally the pup's defender engaged the others in fistic combat to save the wretched animal from drowning. He battled so courageously that he won the day and saved the pup.

Mr. Siler commended the boy, whose name was Otto Schmidt, and between the two a lifelong friendship sprang up. Recently Siler died and left $7,500 to the boy, now a man, whose humane instincts and courage had rescued the poor dog and won the admiration of the casual passer-by.

Those who befriend unfortunate animals do not alway obtain material rewards such as came to Otto Schmidt, but they inevitably have the reward of an approving conscience, which is greater still.

Why He Failed

An unusual statement was published some time ago in the News-Gazette, Champaign, Ill., signed by E. L. Murdock, head of a former leading ladies' ready-to-wear store, which had closed its doors to avoid being thrown into bankruptcy.

In this statement the merchant set forth the principal reasons for the store's failure to maintain the prestige and prosperity it had enjoyed in times past. He said:

"Perhaps the greatest contributing cause is the fact that four years ago our firm, because we thought the rate was too high, discontinued all advertising in the News-Gazette. We tried other forms of advertising to supplant the News-Gazette, but found none effective. Our business continued on the down grade. Seemingly our friends had forgotten us. The fault was ours."

In every city and town there are stores which have made the serious mistake to which Mr. Murdock confesses in such a manly fashion.

People look to their newspaper for their store news. No amount of handbills, circulars, sign-boards or other devices can take the place of the newspaper that goes into the home and is read by every member of the family.

MORAL ECHOES

D. W. Haskew

Twenty-seven years after the burial of a bright little lad born of my bone and flesh of my flesh I went back to the lonely grave and with spade and shovel, we went down into the sacred place of the dead. In that length of time there was not left a single part of the little body. We only found the metal plate that bore the name of the one who was buried there, along wth the glass that covered over the casket. All the rest had gone the way of the world. My disappointment was so keen that it seemed that my heart would cave in. I wanted so much something of the little one to place beside his mother in a distant cemetery. That leads me to say that when death claims our bodies, the dust of the earth will soon claim that body. After death our bodies return unto dust, but our souls return unto the God who gave it. Our bodies may disappear in mother earth, but we are retained in the mind and heart of men and of God. As long as memory lasts and as long as love can endure we are not going to be forgotttn.

I stopped at a filling station for fuel and a speed car dashed up. The driver asked, "Am I on the road that goes to Pensacola?" My reply was "No, you have left that road thirty miles behind.' The man wanted to know what he must do, and I informed him that if he wanted to go to Pensacola that there was but one thing that he could do and that was to turn around, retrace his steps and enter the Pensacola road where he left it. This he decided to do. I have often found men and women off the road of right. They are anxious to know what they must do in order to get right again. I never fail to tell them that they must retrace their steps and go back to where they left the road of right and enter it there and proceed. Not only do men get off the right road. but churches, politics and business get on the wrong road very often. At this time we are needing a voice that rings as clear as a Christmas bell telling men, churches, politics and business to turn around and go back to the place where they first went wrong. Go back, all ye speeders toward ruin and get on the right road.

One of our Missionaries returned to his field of labor in China after having spent a year in the United States. On his arrival at his station he was met by a native convert who brought seven other converts with him. The Missionary was rejoiced at the success of this convert during his absence and inquired of the native, "Lou John, what did you use to lead so many souls to Christ in one year?" The native worker was embarrassed and did not know how to reply. Finally, he pointed his finger to his knees as the source of his success. To be sure he had worked and loved and sacrificed during the absence of his leader, but above all that, he had prayed. I love to think of the power of prayer. When the church ceases to use her knees she loses her power. When you cease to use your knees the power of your leadership passes from you. I am not saying that the church should use her brain and her purse less, but I am saying that she should use her knees more. Blessed is that Christian who can literally pray men and women into the kingdom of God.

I was standing on the sidewalk where a stairway led up to the Armory. I saw a perfect specimen of a man enter that stairway, clad in civilian clothes. and climb to the Armory. In a very few moments time he came back down the steps clad in a perfectly fitting soldier's uniform. He had all the regalia that went with a well dressed and well equipped soldier and he was a man of power. He looked more able and more dependable now than he did in civilian clothes. Every child of God should live close to God's Armory. We should all have our closets into which we can enter and pray. Without prayer we are without the power that will give us victory. When a preacher goes into his pulpit from God's Armory, when a member of the church faces the world fresh from God's Armory, victory is in sight.

"Oh, you little simp, it is Christmas and why not take your fling," said a young man to a maid in Alabama Christmas morning. This innocent girl saw the face of her mother, she saw the picture of her church and the face of her pastor came before her and she replied, "You imp of the devil. if you must have your fling you will have it without me," and she ran into her mother's arms.

THE NEW FORD V-8 FOR 1935

NOW ON DISPLAY

A New Ford V·8 That Brings New Beauty, New Safety, and a New Kind of Riding Comfort Within Reach of Millions of People

The New Ford V-8 for 1935 is the biggest and roomiest Ford car ever built. It is a strikingly handsome car, with modern lines and new, luxurious appointments.

But most important of all it is especially designed to give you smooth, easy riding over all kinds of roads—"a front-seat ride for back-seat riders."

This ease of riding is achieved by the use of three basic principles never before combined in a low-price car.

1. Correct distribution of car weight by moving engine and body forward eight and a half inches.

2. New location of seats by which the rear seat is moved forward, toward the center of the car—away from the rear axle and away from the bumps.

3. New spring suspension which permits the use of longer, more flexible springs and increases the springbase to 123 inches.

The result is Center-Poise—which not only gives you a new riding comfort but adds to the stability of the car and its ease of handling. You can take curves with greater safety.

There are many new features in the Ford V-8 for 1935 which make the car still easier to drive. New brakes give more power for stopping quickly with far less foot pressure on the pedal.

A new type of easy-pressure clutch employs centrifugal force to increase efficiency at higher speeds. New steering mechanism makes the car still easier to handle. New, wider, roomier seats.

The New Ford V-8 for 1935 retains the V-8 engine which has demonstrated its dependability and economy in the service of more than a million owners. There are refinements, but no change in basic design. You buy premium performance when you buy this Ford V-8—full 85 horsepower and capable of 80 miles an hour. All Ford V-8 cars for 1935 come equipped with Safety Glass throughout at no additional cost.

We invite you to see this New Ford V-8 for 1935 at the showrooms of Ford dealers. You will want to ride in it—to drive it yourself. You will find it a new experience in motoring.

MRS. N.J. CASTLEBERRY DIED DEC. 18, 1934 AT THE AGE OF 63

Mother joined the Baptist church when she was a small girl and lived her life for Christ. Let us live our lives for Jesus and when we come to die the Angels will come and carry us to our home on high, where we will meet mother in the sweet by and by.

Mother leaves to mourn her loss her husband, Mr. J. S. Castleberry; three boys, J. T. Castleberry, Marbury, Ala., Harvie Castleberry, Mt. Creek, Ala.; Ernest Castleberry, Mt. ROUGH RIDER MYTH

Probably 99 persons out of 100 who have read or heard of the famous Roosevelt Rough Riders of the Spanish-American War believe that those ambitious troopers charged up San Juan Hill on horseback, booted and spurred, sabers waving in the air.

A writer in a recent magazine graphically portrayed their exploit as that of "500 men on horseback standing in their stirrups and galloping along, shouting to one another like polo players."

The truth is that the Rough Riders marched and fought on foot in Cuba, as did other cavalry regiments, their horses having been left behind when they sailed from the United States.

Due to Roosevelt's vivid personality and the large amount of publicity given the regiment by New York newspaper men, the Rough Riders received the lion's share of credit for the victory at Santiago, a share far greater than was their just due.

That they were brave men and good fighters none will deny, but they were in that respect no different from other troops, some of whom received scant attention in the dispatches. The Rough Riders did no riding, rough or other wise, in Cuba.

Adult Schools Serving Important Need In Co.

Percy M. Johnson, visiting teacher with supervision over the 15 adult schools being taught in Chilton County on Federal funds in an effort to remove the stigma of illiteracy from the county and also to give employment to teachers who would otherwise be without employment, stated recently that he is exceptionally well pleased with the work that is being done in the various schools.

The results obtained are even surpassing his wildest hopes for the schools, he said. With fifteen schools in operation much is being accomplished toward giving a much-needed training to an element of our citizenship that heretofore suffered because of lack of this training, he pointed out.

At the office of the superintendent of education are many of the accomplishments on display. At some of the negro schools, an adeptness has been shown for the manufacture of hand-woven rugs and other trinkets that are useful around the home. Several students from the various schools have done splendid work in the preparation of themes and scrap books of specially assigned subjects.

Mr. Johnson attended a conference of all the visiting teachers in the state, which was held in Montgomery this week.

Gulf Refining Company Opens Water Terminal At Birminghamport

As a firm believer in Alabama's navigable streams, Gulf Refining Company has established a water terminal at Birmingport, some twenty-five miles from Birmingham. Assured of a steady improvement in general business and the bright future of the rich mineral lands located throughout this area, Gulf is spending thousands of dollars in new and improved equipment, adding substantially to its already outstanding truck fleet, and expanding its payroll.

The modern barge "Creek" will ply the Alabama and Warrior rivers, making its port of call twice a month, adding to a new burst of activity recently experienced in waterway transportation in the state. A full load is [illegible] possible over the entire year, as the seven Warrior locks keep the stream easily navigable at all seasons.

Redistribution will be made promptly from this water terminal in record time through the use of modern equipment and Gulf trucks, delivering That Good Gulf Gasoline to distributors located at strategic points in that part of the country.

Thirteen bulk plants will be served by this waterway terminal, and expenses have not been spared in increasing the efficiency necessary to meet future demands of consumers in the northern part of Alabama.

PROHIBITION A FAILURE

Editor, Chilton County News.

Will you be so kind as to allow me space in your paper to say a few words in regard to the liquor question as it is going to be a lively issue with the people of Alabama for the next two or three months.

First, I want to say that I am in favor of any change that will give us better morals.

I have been a close observer of the liquor question for 60 years and my honest opinion is that it is doing a thousand times more harm to the youth of our country today than it did 60 years ago, when the churches first began to try to handle the liquor situation.

Today it is blasting and debaunching our children, society and churches. If anyone doubts the above statement just read the following clipping that was clipped from the Birmingham Post in 1931.:

"Montgomery, Nov. 21.—Of 5,475 prisoners placed in Kilby Prison during the fiscal year ending Sept. 30th, almost half, 2,588, are under 25 years of age. Records show, among other facts revealed by the records are that 2,232 of the inmates are Baptists and 822 are Methodists. There is one Mormon and only four Jews.

"A total of 1,725 are serving for violation of the Prohibition Law, while several hundred others are in prison for offenses related to any law violations. Burglary claims 472 convicts.

"The report shows four electrocutons and five commutations.

"The check-up at Kilby for a period of one year, shows that the Baptist and Methodist alone furnish more criminals than all other churches combined, including those who belong to no church."

In the face of the above facts I can't see why the churches and preachers should care to mess with the liquor question any longer and try to justify themselves by the law, knowing that the Bible teaches that if we try to justify ourselves by the law, we are fallen from Grace. I think if our preachers would preach the old time religion, which comes by the Grace of God, and our churches gets in possession of it, it will then take more than the Baptist and Methodists to furnish a majority of criminals for Kilby.

I have wrtten these few lines hoping that they may give a little food for thought.

Sixty Issued Marriage License In December

In a story in last week's issue of the News, listing those to whom marriage licenses had been issued, the name of Cecil D. Traywick and a Miss Grace were linked. This was an error. Licenses were issued to Traywick and Miss Alphia Irene Burnette.

Since last week's writing, marriage licenses have been issued to:

Walter Howard Smith and Miss Lottie Mae Watkins; Clarence D. Murray and Miss Guy Eula Collins; Ralph Pate and Miss Roberta Marcus; Burnie Smith and Miss Vastie Martin; Grady Friday and Miss Pauline Thomas; O. B. Martin and Miss Hazel Killingsworth; Otis Ellison and Miss Minnie Merle Jones; S. A. Keener and Mrs. Ida Short; William Mims and Miss Clara Belle Powell; Otis Wilson and Miss Flossie Williams.

The number of licenses issued during December were more than sixty, according to clerks in the Probate Office.

CHICOHI CHATTER

Ring out, wild bells, to the wild sky
The flying cloud, the frosty light;
The year is dying in the night
Ring out wild bells and let him die.
Ring out the old, ring in the new Ring happy bells across the snow
The year is going, let him go
Ring out the false, ring in the true.
—Tennyson.

I won't attempt to pen an oration on New Year's Resolution and the correct method of starting the year off, because it places me in an embarrassing position due to the fact I never kept a resolution to that effect in my life, but one, which I've forgotten. There is one resolution, however, that no one will go wrong in making, and although oaths have been sworn to some ridiculous and absurd affirmation on the first of the year, here's one that hits the spot—make it your slogan: Be yourself.

Due to the fact that circumstances prevented my writing the usual blankety-blank prior to the Yuletide festivities, I now take the opportunity of wishing you a merry, merry Christmas for December 25, 1935. Please accept my best and sincere wishes, expostulated in my company manners. I thank you.

Dark clouds (of thought?) are hovering over the brows of many of my ~~beloved~~ schoolmates. In reply to my nonchalant query as to the cause, I received a double dirty look and mumblings and mutterings about exams. starting next week. Was I mortified. After getting my head blown off my shoulders, figuratively speaking of course, several more times, I gleaned the startling "info" that they will begin on Wednesday morning and so far far into the week.

I hear rumors of the annual football banquet.

Roberta Cochran, a recent alumnus of Chilton and now a student at Huntingdon College in Montgomery, was a visitor at the school on Monday and Tuesday of this week. Roberta made an admirable record here and from all I can hear, is still keeping up the good work.

The thirst for knowledge is evidently increasing as Mr. Warr recently stated he expected the enrollment of this school to go over 300, in the second semester.

The Sr. I's recently elected their officers of the current year. They are: Pres., Houston Robinson; Vice-Pres., Dan Sanford; Sect., and Treas., Mary Armstrong. The Sr. II's chose as their class leaders: Pres., Jack Gillespie; Vice-Pres., Frank Hogan; Sect. and Treas., Ila Mae Bean.

THANKS PEOPLE FOR KINDNESS

Editor, Chilton County News.

Will you please allow me a little space for a few words.

I wish to say to my friends that I feel so thankful for the nice presents for me and the children. They are so nice.

I also thank the good sisters and brethren for the interest you all have shown in me and my children and especially for your prayers and sweet songs. They are so comforting. May the richest of God's blessings rest upon each and every one of you, is my prayer.

—Mattie Traywick and children.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our many friends and neighbors for their kindness and sympath shown us during the illness and death of ous dear husband and father. We especially thank Dr. V. J. Gragg and J. Mell Martin and sons. May God's richest blessings rest upon each and everyone.

—Mrs. W. T. Hilyer and children.

IN MEMORY OF W. T. HILYER

On Saturday, December 22, at one o'clock p.m., the death angel visited the home of our dear father and took him to a resting place. All was done for him that loving hands could do but God saw fit to take him from us.

We miss him, oh, we miss him. He leaves a vacant place that can never be filled. He was sick five weeks and all that Doctors could do was done. It seems so hard to go back and can't see him.

He leaves to mourn his loss, a loving wife and eleven children and three grandchildren.

—A son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Dock Hilyer.

IN FAVOR OF REPEAL

Editor, Chilton County News.

Just a line or two to let you and your readers know that I am still living and still on the map. I had a very good Xmas with lots of good things to eat and so forth. How was everything with you?

Well, Mr. Editor, we are now entering a new year, with lots of things to think about of the past and of the future. If you will permit I expect to discuss some things through your columns in the near future which I think is of vital importance to me, my family and my country. You can tell them that I will be found in line for Repeal, the New Deal and also a Fair Deal. I wonder if someone will giggle at this. If you do, remember, laughing is catching. I am going to pull for what I think is a better form of government for the farmer and working man, as I believe this class produces most of the wealth of our country.

Do not fall out with me because I do not see things just like you, for Higher Power made any two things just alike. I do not profess to be a christian but if our Savior was reported back on earth I don't know that I would be the first to take to the tall timber. I like hunting, fishing, flowers, children, good music, nice mannerly dancing, once in a while. A drink with a little kick in it, and I vote the Democratic Ticket. Now, will somebody try to make a mountain of a mole hill.

Come to see me some time, you will find me poor but still friendly.

Yours truly,
S. Y. DORMINEY.

dent since Wilson has been forced to bear, will be up again. Passed at the last Congress, it was vetoed by Mr. Roosevelt, then repassed over his veto by the House. He managed to summon sufficient Senatorial support to kill it at last. Many observers now thing, however, that there is sufficient sentiment for it in both branches of Congress to overcome a veto.

Public works and relief expenditures will also cause a tussle. A thorough survey indicates that if Congress is left to its own devices it will appropriate and spend the gigantic total of $15,000,000,000. The President's program calls for an expenditure of less than half of this amount—about $7,000,000,000.

The next Congress will contain many currency inflationists, some of whom according to their speeches, are in favor of turning the presses loose in the Bureau of Printing and Engraving. Mr. Roosevelt has said little concerning inflation—but men close to him are confident he is against it. So another battle looms.

The future of NRA will likewise arise. The chances are that it will be continued, but on a much smaller scale. It will still enforce hours-and-wages conditions—but it will probably drop price-fixing, have less to say about industrial management.

It will be recommended that the subsistence homestead plan be expanded. This is being tried now in a few places. Under it, people are taken from areas where they cannot make a living, are placed in cooperative communities where all work for the common good. Housing Administrator Moffatt believes the plan to be highly successful—wants to see more such homesteads created. There is a good chance that the President will back him—but many members of Congress are sure to oppose it for a variety of reasons.

So it goes, down a long line of topics. Some may wonder why there is any question as to Mr. Roosevelt's control in view of the great Democratic victory last November. The answer to that is that adversity binds men and parties together—they must either cooperate or perish, a position the Republicans are in at this time. Great success, however, which eliminates effective opposition, almost inevitably breeds discords, fights and ruptures within a party. Having nothing to worry about from the established opposition, party members feel free to go off at tangents, refuse to submit to the authority at the top. And that, right now, is the greatest of Mr. Roosevelt's many political problems.

diptheria will be greatly minimized in Chilton County.

Through the efforts of the Clanton Kiwanis Club, the county board of education, the state department of education, the County Medical association, and the county relief unit, this work has been made possible. Serums and other necessary equipment were furnished by the state health department.

Realizing the danger of diptheria and urged to action by the increasing number of cases of this disease in the county, members of the Kiwanis undertook as a project the survey and immunization program. County physicians and members of the relief staff and Supt. Luther E. Little were called into conference and plans were formulated for the drive to lessen the danger of the disease in Chilton County.

Since last October every school in the county has been visited, the treatment being administered to near 1,600 children.

During 1933 fourteen cases of diptheria, resulting in five deaths, were reported in this county, and in 1934 thirty-four cases were reported, but only four deaths resulted. It is believed that both the number of cases and the death total will be greatly lessened next year as a result of the immunization work that has been underway.

with this project I also cultivated three acres of corn in order to produce feed for my hogs. I raised a litter of 16 pigs my first year.

"The second year I took field crops and carried another corn project, continuing with my sow and litter. Again I raised 16 pigs and averaged 40 bushels per acre on my corn. My third year, which was last year, I took over the home orchard project, begun by my brother, and on this orchard produced enough fruit for the home and enough for one other family. To these, I added a poultry project, having now 1,380 chickens. I also cultivated 10 acres of cotton and continued my corn and hog projects.

"This work at Isabella has taught me to really appreciate the farm and farm life. I have learned how to do better farm work and to value my home surroundings.

"I am deeply grateful for the recognition and honor that has been given me in being the recipient of this award. I believe that the interest of Congressman Olver in this work is going to mean much in its future development and influence."

Kiwanis Club Installs New Heads Recently

EARLE THOMAS BECOMES NEW CLUB PRESIDENT

Mack Wyatt, Is Secretary; Dr. C. O. Lawrence Is Vice-President

ANNUAL LADIES' NIGHT WAS HELD LAST WEEK

With every Kiwanian attended by his Kiwanian-ette, and in some instances an additional extra guest or so, the members of the Clanton Club last Thursday evening started off the New Year with the annual festival occasion popularly known as Ladies Night. A total number of forty-five persons composed the group which heartily enjoyed the banquet at the Exchange Hotel.

The business of the evening was confined to installation of new officers for 1935. Luther Little retired as president. and in doing so pinned the president's button on Senator Earle Thomas. As Mr. Thomas received the gavel from Mr. Little, he in turn pinned the past president's button on Mr. Little. Dr. C. O. Lawrence was officially introduced and installed into the office of vice-president.

Guests of the club for the occasion were Cohen and Lillie Stapp, of Selma. In his usual impressive manner, Mr. Stapp made the principal address of the program, outlining a beautiful word picture of Kiwanis ideals and activities.

The whole group engaged in a fun contest directed by Mrs. Luther Little, in which missing words were supplied in a story of an automobile ride by a lad and his lassie. Prizes were awarded to four ladies as winners of the contest.

The Board of Directors of the club for 1935 is composed of John Hollis, Louie Smith, Sam. Ezell, J. W. Fant. J. C. Page, Mell Martin, and J. B. Atkinson. A meeting of the Board was held last Friday afternoon, with important matters outlined for the year's work.

At the Board meeting president Thomas announced chairmen of the different committees for 1935, as follows:

Fant; Underprivileged Child, Vocational Guidance and Boys and Girls Work, John Hollis; Attendance, House and Reception, Mell Martin; Membership and Classification, Sam Ezell; Music and Program, Percy Pitts; Interclub Relations, Luther Little; Kiwanis Education, Lloyd Warr; Publicity, Billy Smith; Business Standards, Finance, Laws and Regulations, John Page.

Commissioners Dispose Of All Old Business

The Court of County Commissioners met in a two-days session Monday and Tuesday of this week, adjourning late Tuesday to reconvene next Monday morning, when it is hoped that all business now pending before the court can be disposed of before two newly-elected members of the court and the probate judge are installed Tuesday morning.

Most of this week's session was spent in the disposition of old business and the hearing of several petitions. Judge L. H. Reynolds, who will be succeeded by J. Lee Smith, declared that it is hoped that all busines that is now pending can be taken care of before the new members of the court assume their duties.

Besides Judge Reynolds, Commissioners Joe Cobb and Henry Robinson will be retired. Succeeding them are Howard Oden, Democrat, and J. P. Bean, Republican.

Several delegations appeared before the court appealing for funds for several schools in the county. These were all passed over to the new court, as was other new business.

WELL KNOWN THORSBY LADY TRAIN VICTIM

Mrs. G. F. Harper Instantly Killed When Struck By Fast Train

Funeral services for Mrs. Mary Louise Harper, 64, wife of G. F. Harper, Thorsby merchant, who was killed Friday morning when she was struck by an L & N passenger train, were held Sunday afternoon from the Thorsby Baptist church. The Rev. J. W. Jones, pastor of the church. and the Rev. W. P. Lowery officiated. Burial was in the Thorsby cemetery with Martin & Sons in charge.

Struck by the engine of No. 1, fast L & N passenger train, at the crossing in Thorsby shortly before 10 o'clock Friday morning, Mrs. Harper was killed instantly. Enroute from her home a short distance from the railroad tracks to her husband's store, the 64-year-old woman apparently walked directly in front of the train without seeing it, according to witnesses.

Just as she made a step on to the track she was struck by the corner of the cowcatcher and her body was hurled 15 feet into the air. As she descended witnesses said that the train again struck her, knocking her body approximately 60 feet down the tracks. Dr. H. G. Franklin, who rushed from his office across the street from the scene of the accident, said that her heart fluttered twice after he reached her, but she showed no other signs of life.

Several persons who saw her said that she apparently did not see the train until the instant she was struck. Just as she stepped on to the tracks, according to Luther Kendrick, mechanic who was standing in front of a garage across the street and saw the accident, Mrs. Harper saw the train bearing down on her and covered her eyes with her hands.

Burt Higgins, station operator at Thorsby, stated that he was only a few feet away from the woman at the time of the accident, and declared that he yelled to warn her but she seemingly did not hear him. He said that she was evidently walking along in a deep study, according to persons who quoted him after the accident.

Both legs were broken by the impact and several other lacerations and bruises were incurred, it was found by an examination at the funeral parlors of Martin & Sons.

Mrs. Harper was a lifelong resident of the Thorsby community. Besides her husband, she is survived by several sisters, all of Florida.

DRY FORCES JOIN HANDS OVER COUNTY

Plan Campaign With Local Citizens Heading Group Fighting Repeal

A county-wide meeting of all the women who are opposed to the Repeal of Alabama's Dry Laws, and the legalizing of Beer, Wine and Liquors in our State, is called to meet at the the county Court House Saturday, January 19, at 1:30, for the purpose of forming a county-wide organization to prevent the Repeal of our dry laws. The liquor forces have already formed their state-wide organization and will soon organize every county in the state. The issue now is Liquor or no Liquor. Our children and our children's children are at stake. We are fighting for our families, our neighbors, for Alabama's million and a half children. Danger, misery, and death lurks in strong drink. It is the mortal enemy to humanity and to civilization. No individual is running for office, and no party is involved. One issue alone is at stake: "Shall Alabama sell your boys and girls to the liquor barons for a little tax." We mean to fight for our children and our country. We call upon all who believe with us to meet us at the court house on the above date. We urge you to pay your poll tax NOW and be ready to help save your homes and your children, and your state. We will need your help—Come.

EARLE THOMAS RESIGNS JOB AS INSTRUCTOR

Joins Solons At Capitol As Senator From Three Counties

Bringing to close a period of ten years service to the Isabella High School and the general cause of education in Chilton County, Earle Thomas, vocational instructor at the institution, recently tendered his resignation to assume his duties as State Senator from this district, composed of Chilton, Shelby and Autauga counties.

J. W. Locke, who has many years in type of work in the State of Mississippi, has succeeded Mr. Thomas at the Isabella institution. Although those who have been acquainted with Mr. Thomas and his work declare that the job of filling his place will be no easy one. Supt. Little and others familiar with the qualifications of Mr. Locke are confident that he will accomplish much at Isabella.

Ten years ago, Earle Thomas came to Chilton County and began his work at Isabella and since that time he has become widely known as a man well versed in his profession. He was the first vocational teacher in Chilton County and his friends declare that his work will stand as a landmark for the progress of the county and especially for the Isabella community.

Senator Thomas was named to represent this district in the recent election and along with Rep. C. B. Cox, of Chilton, will be among those who compose the new Legislature, convening within the next few days.

PROGRAM FOR PUSHING LOCAL HOSPITAL IS AGAIN EXPLAINED

Interview With Outstanding Physician And Surgeon Of Clanton Shows Advantages Of Plan Hoped To Be Carried Out

By Victor Norris

In a land where times and conditions are constantly undergoing change, we are continually faced with the necessity of devising new methods under which to operate our business and professional life. The general mercantile store of fifty or sixty years ago is obsolete. It served a worthy purpose in its day, but in the rush of our modern life it has no place. And only a few decades ago our public school system was unknown. Few persons now over fifty years of age ever had an opportunity to attend a public school. But change of conditions demanded something new in our educational fields.

Today this is just as true of the medical profession as it was of the school system thirty years ago, so says Dr. V. J. Gragg. Clanton surgeon and physician, in a discussion of his hospitalization plans for Chilton County. The people of this county as a whole are not getting the medical attention they deserve, he pointed out, and on the other hand many doctors are having a tough time making ends meet. There must be some remedy which will be helpful to both patients and doctors.

The answer to this situation, Dr. Gragg believes, lies in a plan whereby the people may pay their medical bills while they are enjoying good health and not be faced with the unpleasant task of scuffling up funds for doctor bills when ill. Medical and doctor's bills could be made a part of the household budget instead of a harum-scarum system where we just hope against hope that we won't be ill. As a people we are not very prone to follow the advice of the sage of old and lay up something for the proverbial rainy day, but we have long recognized the advisability of insurances of various forms—and we pay for this protection along with other necessities in our regular budget.

Is this not applicable to a form of health insurance? Would it not be sensible to take care of our medical and hospital needs in a similar manner? Nearly always illness stops or limits the income—and the expenses pile higher and higher.

Dr. Gragg is formulating plans to furnish hospitalization to the people of Chilton County on just such a basis. Membership cards are to be sold for $12 per year, which entitles the holder's entire family to free hospitalization for several weeks. This includes board; nurses, and many other items that would run into large accounts. He also pointed out that this would in no way interfere with the patient's choice of physician, for any physician could be used. Those doctors affiliated with the institution perhaps would issue courtesy cards which would give special consideration to patients of membership families.

Long ago in Europe it was recognized that people could enjoy better health protection under such a system and as a result nearly every country on that continent has some form of health insurance. A Chinese student in this country a few years ago was astonished at the American custom of awaiting until you become ill to pay the doctor. In his land, he pointed out, people pay the doctors when they are well and when they become ill that added expense does not pile up at a time when they are least able to bear it.

In this country the system has proved very satisfactory in the form of health protection furnished by industrial units to their employes. Even in Chilton County the average family spends far more than the amount which will be charged for membership cards for hospitalization. Incorporated in the plans for this organization, which will use the Central Alabama Hospital as a center, special effort is being put forth to devise means to care for the indigent in Chilton County, Dr. Gragg said.

Another feature of the protection proposed by Dr. Gragg's plans will be an educational program to acquaint the people of the county with better practices that will mean much in minimizing diseases. At regular intervals pamphlets will be mailed to members of the organization, acquainting them with precautions to be taken to prevent seasonal ailments and cures for minor indispositions. When epidemics seem likely leaflets will be prepared and mailed in an effort to prevent the spread of the disease.

All in all this is something new to the people of Chilton County, but its possibilities and advantages are easily recognized and its development will likely meet the approval of a great number of people in the county.

The new Standard is now on display and the Master Six will soon be here, ready for the inspection of the people of Chilton County. J. R. Mullins Co. Changes Location

A change in the location of business, outstanding in importance, takes place this week in Clanton when the J. R. Mullins Company moves into the building just north of the Exchange Hotel on the highway. Almost from the beginning of Clanton this firm, formerly known as Mullins & Moore, and located on the corner in the heart of town, has been one of the landmarks of the city. Carrying a full line of general merchandise, fertilizers and farming implements, this concern has made a specialty of catering to the farmers' needs. and through the years has extended its radius of service over a wide territory.

According to Mr. J. R. Mullins, manager, this firm has long ago recognized the important part our farmers play in the growth and development of all phases of business in Chilton County, and for that reason has made a special effort to serve their needs. "We also realize," said Mr. Mullins, "that our farmers are a progressive people, and it is our aim to always keep in step with the times, and our change in location will enable us to give our customers even better service. A modern building, equipped with up-to-date facilities for displaying merchandise, plus a policy of giving honest value for every dollar spent with us, is what we shall offer," he concluded.

FEB. 1ST AND IT WILL BE TOO LATE TO PAY YOUR 1935 POLL TAXES

January 31 is the deadline for the payment of poll taxes. If you have not attended to this important matter, you are urged to do so before it is too late.

Although the big county election is past and there is little liklihood that the residents of the county will be required to vote on local questions during the coming year, still it is of vast importance that poll taxes are kept paid to date.

With the Legislature convening and the installation of new State officials, there will possibly be several important questions in State affairs regarding which the people of this county will want to express an opinion.

4 REPUBLICANS STILL HOLDING COUNTY OFFICES

Democrats To Take Over Offices With Little Ceremonies

ALL PROMISE BEST OF SERVICES TO PEOPLE

On next Tuesday morning the reins of government in Chilton County will be transferred from the hands of the Republican Party to the Democratic Party, when eight of the ten Democratic officials elected in the recent general election assume their duties, breaking an unprecedented record since the county swung into the columns of the Republican Party more than forty years ago.

For the first time since the G.O.P. gained control of the county government in Chilton will there be in power practically a complete retinue of Democratic officials. Only twice during near a half-century reign have the Republicans slipped even so far as to permit a single Democrat to squeeze into a county post. Tweny-four years ago, Judge J. B. Deason was elected probate judge, marking the only successful effort of the Democtats to elect officials in this county until two years ago, when Luther E. Little was named County Superintendent of Education.

Those taking office next Tuesday are: J. Lee Smith, probate judge; J. R. Hardy, sheriff; J.C Pattillo, circuit clerk; Luther E. Little, superintendent of education; C. B. Cox, representative; Howard Oden, commissioner. A. C. Nelson and J. Pope Payne, members of the county board of education were installed several weeks ago. Both T. L. McKee, tax collector, and A. D. Martin, tax assessor, do not assume office for several months.

Clerical aides in the several offices have not been named and it is not known just how many changes in these staffs are anticipated.

In the recent election the victory was due largely to the fact that many former dyed-in-the-wool Republicans, dissatisfied with the leadership in their own ranks, went to the polls and marked their ballots underneath the Rooster. It has been estimated by those well informed in local political circles that at least 500 lifelong Republicans cast their votes in favor of the Democratic candidates, in the belief that it was for the best interest of the people of the county to do so.

The installation of these officials leave four Republican officeholders in the court house. County Commissioner J. P. Bean, the only Republican candidate who was successful in stemming the Democratic tide in the recent election, and Commissioners J. C. Atchison, C. D. Duke, and County Treasurer Mrs. Gertrude Calloway, whose terms of office do not expire for two years more.

Commenting on the situation, several of the officials expressed the opinion that the task of retaining faith in Democratic leadership in this county rests upon the results of their efforts while serving in these capacities. Bearing this in mind, they declared that they will endeavor to render services that will cause no one to regret that they were chosen to administer the affairs of Chilton County.

Early this week no plans had been made for any inauguration ceremonies, and it is believed that the new officials will assume their duties Tuesday morning with little show, however, it is expected that a large crowd will be present to witness the change of party and officials.

So Much And So Little

The most-publicized trial of the century is now in progress. Bruno Richard Haptmann is fighting for life and liberty on a charge of kidnapping and murdering the small son of Col. and Mrs. Charles Lindbergh. A great show is going on in the little Hunterdon County courtroom. Newspaper reporters by the score are there to send out the news play by play. Seating space is at such a premium that entrance may be obtained by pass only.

America has done its most since this ghastly sensational crim—both good and bad. One man, who apparently had no connection with the actual crime, used it as a means of obtaining money from a friend of the Lindberghs. Expressions of sympathy to the family have been interspersed with threats. The President of the United States instructed federal agents to continue the search until the guilty one or ones were apprehended.

Yet, as we get a picture of this father and mother of the slain child, all the publicity, all the thousands of words which are being written daily about the trial only make us realize how impossible it is to do very much. Of course it is important to punish the guilty one. What can America do to ease that wound in Mrs. Lindbergh's heart, what can it do to bring back the spontaneity of that grin on the Lone Eagle's countenance which a nation so recently acclaimed? Let us hope it can mete out justice to the guilty, but if we could pierce the surface of the show going on in that little New Jersey town perhaps we would realize that even though we have done a lot it still is so little—to the parents of the dead child.

Advertising Stimulates Sales

Roger W. Babson, noted business statistician, points out that newspaper advertising for fourteen consecutive months has registered gains over the same month of the previous year and says this means that manufacturers and merchants alike are looking forward to better times.

Mr. Babson calls attention, however, to the habit of businessmen of reducing their advertising appropriations in slumps. He urges them to increase their advertising order to take advantage of one of the most valuable methods of ironing out the bumps in business.

Mr. Babson thinks that busines men temporarily lose faith in advertising when sales slump and thus enter a vicious circle—"decreasing trade brings a decline in advertising budgets; less advertising space brings a further drop in sales; and so on down the toboggan slid."—Troy Messenger.

Scotching The Alimony Racket

A Chicago judge has handed down a sapient ruling that a womanwho earns more money than her husband earns is not entitled to alimony when she divorces him; and the common sense of such a ruling is so obvious that the case would never have been mentioned in the newspapers at all, if it were not for the fact that alimony decisions are often distinguished by a complete absence of common sense.

A man who marries undertakes certain definite responsibilities regarding the woman of his choice. If they have children, he certainly cannot escape the responsibility of providing for them.

But where there are no children; where the woman has no dependents and is quite capable of supporting herself, given an ordinary break in the luck, just as she did before she was married—where, in the name of sanity, is the sense in giving her a perpetual claim on her ex-husband's earnings?

It isn't often that the claim for alimony is quite as unjustified as it was in this Chicago case. It is refreshing to see that at least one judge is ready to keep the alimony racket within some sort of reasonable bounds.—Selma Times-Journal.

College Education

President Arthur T. Hadley of Yale has made a valuable contribution to the current discussion concerning the advisability of trying to make "college men" out of unsuitable material.

It would naturally be supposed that the head of a great university would stress the importance of a college education regardless, but it is an encouraging sign that leading educators are coming to realize that for the vast majority of young people the four years required by a college course is largely a waste of time, money and effort. We quote Dr. Hadley in part:

"People engaged in public instruction are inclined to go too far in thinking that everyone should be encouraged to purpose his schooling to the furtherest possible degree. They lament what seems to them the highly inadequate proportion of elementary school children who go to the high schools and of high school pupils who proceed to college; and they glory in any increase of these proportions. They seem to forget that the classroom is not the only means of education; that a youth may get more intellectual and moral training from practical work that he likes, than from formal lessons that he loathes."

Now, this does not mean to depreciate in the least the value of higher education to those who by intellect, temperament and inclination are capable of acquiring it and putting it to practical use. It simply means that unless a young person has the native ability to work with his brains, he had better be taught to work with his hands.

Negroes An Soviet

From time to time there arise stories of efforts to interest the negroes of the South in communism and frequently communistic literature has been seized in rural sections of Alabama.

The other day the cables carried the story of a Russian farmer who was executed by the soviet government because of sabotage. He had permitted weeds to grow in his cotton and had not kept the crop clean. For that the government took his life.

It is certain that the soviet and communism will not grow in popularity among Southern negroes when they learn that the soviet government shot a cotton farmer for failing to keep the weeds down in his crop. That act also shot down any chance of spreading soviet doctrines in Alabama's cotton fields.—Alabama Journal.

Pioneers---

Right now there are few more pertinent issues before the people of Alabama than those concerning the light and power utilities. The News does not propose an attempt to fight anybody's battles in this matter, but since there are two hydro-electric plants adjoining Chilton County, we do feel impressed to mention one thing which appears to us important:

In the construction of Lay Dam on the Coosa River about the year 1912 Alabama Power Company was distinctly pioneering in this field. This particular plant was the forerunner of numerous other similar plants in this section of the State. These power developments have meant a great deal to the economic growth of our people. They might have been made by some other concern if the Alabama Power Company had not built them. On the other hand they might not, and the progress of our people might have been delayed by several years. Some man might have discovered America in 1493 if Columbus had not made the discovery in 1492. Still we give Columbus the credit, and we believe Alabama Power Company deserves credit for an important piece of pioneering in Alabama.

We, along with other consumers of electricity, want to get as low a rate as possible. We believe the public Service Commission should see that the lowest rates consistent with a fair earning on the investment prevail. Considering the fact that kilowatt-hour prices have been moving downward almost from the beginning of the service it would appear this goal is at least being approached.

The fact that Alabama Power Company pioneered in hydro-electric development does not give it the right to over-charge, but it should assure this company a reasonable degree of consideration comparable with that accorded any other good citizen of the State.

And when we think of Old Captain Lay with a dream of harnessing the power of Coosa River, and Thomas W. Martin, with a vision of a greater industrial Alabama we are inclined to believe that all our people can be served fair and justly without injury of discrimination to consumers or to Alabama's pioneer in the hydro-electric field.

Making Neutrality Safe

As we read of alternate lifting and lowering of war clouds over Europe, Asia and Africa; of the almost invariable disappointment expressed by foreign statesmen as they emerge from, or even as they prepare to fly to, conferences ostensibly called to postpone, if not to preclude, the danger of open hostitities, it is consoling to contemplate that steps of a very definite nature already have been taken by President Roosevelt to keep this country from being drawn into conflicts in which it has no direct interest.

In instructing the Department of State to survey the body of laws and treaties governing neutrality in war time, that was clearly his purpose. And it follows that any possible changes in our neutral policies of the past which the President might recommend to Congress would be directed toward the erection of safeguards against our involvement in future war.

The need for formulation of a policy adaptable to modern conditions has long been recognized. Repeatedly the necessity has been considered but action has been delayed until either we or, as in most cases other nations, were already at war. As far back as in 1780 and again in 1800 the United States, in concert with Russia and other governments, disputed rigid contraband lists by declaring "armed neutrality," a state revived by President Wilson against Germany in February, 1917. Again in the midst of the Civil War we made our own revisions, as a result of which there were high hopes in the South that Washington and London would resort to armed conflict. Twenty years ago found us infinately less prepared for protection against the vagaries and complexities of war waged three thousand miles away.

During that greatest of all wars Great Britain enforced orders in council against neutral shipping in the the name of necessity that were the same regulations the British themselves had previously resisted as a neutral. And Germany forcibly nullified our rights to freedom of the seas, thus inevitably bringing on the declaration of April, 1917, as a natural consequence.

No man is more familiar with our neutrality policies as they were then enunciated and the consequences of our insistence upon their observance than Franklin D. Roosevelt. The nation will follow with deep interest the commendable step he has taken to making neutrality at once safe, yet resolute and dignified.

MORAL ECHOES

—o—

A prominent man in his home town pulled a letter from his pocket and placing it in my hand he said, "Read that." I did so and it was an invitation in due form to attend the opening of a saloon at a prominent hotel in a near by city. The invitation promised whiskey in all forms, dancing and music without charge. Be it remembered that when the wets were ballyhooing for the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment they vowed by everything good and bad that no saloons should ever be opened under the stars and stripes. We were not deceived then and we are not deceived now. There is nothing that whiskey will not do when in the hands of men who care nothing for right standards and true civilization. Will the Christian people sit quietly by and let the glare of the saloon entice our young life?

Christmas was coming and a beautiful young matron sat on the other end of the settee with me and unburdened her heart. She had met with an experience that would break a heart of steel. The young man whom she had loved and married became a heavy drinker and he drank away her heart blood; he drank away the hopes and the joys of a little girl; he drank away his own soul. In her frenzy and in her despair this crushed heart clenched her fist and said, "Pastor, I hate whiskey, oh, my God how I hate it." And yet so-called good citizens are allowing it to run freely and continue to do its dirty work. No wild animal preying on human blood as does the whiskey traffic. would be allowed to live one minute, and yet we are thinking of licensing this wild and wooly demon and releasing him to prey on our boys and girls, on our homes and on our civilization. May the Lord of heaven have mercy on us.

This is no particular case and yet it is being repeated everywhere. The young man finds someone who will sell him rum, or it may be that an enemy will give him a drink (no man who is your friend will give you a drink) and the youngster becomes hilarious and venturesome. He may not be drunk but his common sense has been dethroned and having no judgement and no regard for himself or others, he leaps into a car and with the speed of the wind he dashed down the highway. There is a crash, there are casualties to be charged to the whiskey business. Already 28.000 people have been killed in the United States in the last ten months under the repeal system. About sixty per cent of all auto accidents can be traced directly or indirectly to the whiskey business. What says you to giving whiskey more liberty? It means more auto accidents and more deaths. Many, many more heartaches.

For years I have been reading about auto accidents and how this one and that one were killed and mangled in the crash, but it never came home to me until I was in the wrecked car with my own dying companion in my arms. Then all car accidents came vividly into my own life. I was experiencing what others had felt and the horrors of the hour came home to me. How true that is in all the walks of life. We never know until we go down into the shadow ourselves. Sooner or later these calamities and sorrows about which we read and hear will crash down upon us, and it is then that we will know. We hope to escape but our hopes are in vain. It is the general rule that the same things that crush other people will come down upon us some day.

I knew a man and he was a good man. He loved the church, he loved his family and he loved the Lord, but one night a son came staggering into his home under the influence of whiskey. The father's heart was crushed. He felt something slip within. The next day this father went out upon the streets and he tried to face the folks with his old time courage. The next Sunday this father went into his pulpit and tried to preach with his old time power, but there was something that seemed to push him away from the people for whom he had given his life blood. He felt himself without the contact that once belonged to him. That boy who was the apple of his eye had disgraced his father. A young man should think a thousand times before he brings reproach upon a father who stands for the best. How young people can grieve their parent's hearts and lower their standards is more than I can understand.

Auburn Favors Public Schools

The supreme obligation upon the Governor, and the Legislature, is to make ample provision for at least a minimum term of seven months for our public schools, declares Dr. L. N. Duncan, director of the state extension service and member of the administrative committee of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, Auburn.

He also states that the state departmen of education should be 'maintained on the most adequate and efficient basis possible" the training of efficient teachers" and that "our institutions of higher learning should be enabled to function properly."

"But if we are to build soundly and wisely we must build from the bottom up," Dr. Duncan declared, and then added:

"In these views I am sure that I represent the spirit and attitude of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute."

Remarkable Change In Public Toward Government Agents

"During the prohibition era, a few years ago, the shooting of a Government sleuth was greeted either with public apathy or ill-concealed condonement.

"But today, under the vigorous crime suppression policy of Homer Cummings, the wounding or death in action of these men is a matter of nationwide sympathy.

"From being generally despised enforcers of an unpopular law, Government agents have become heroic destroyers of marauding thugs and outlaws.

"This change in public attitude toward Federal crime detectors is one of the notable achievements of the New Deal. Through it, Attorney General Homer Cummings has done much to rehabilitate the long-bemirched repute of the Department of Justice and its Bureau of Investigation."—Drew Pearson and Robert S. Allen in "Washington Merry-Go-Round."

HIGHLAND

Our Sunday School met Sunday morning at 10:00 o'clock with an attendance of fifty-one on roll, however some were absent on account of sickness. Think everyone made a New Year's resolution to attend Sunday School and church more regularly this year and to study more and learn more about Jesus and His deeds.

We have a wonderful character to study about this quarter. The thing making him so interesting is because he is so human like. We are going to find that he sometimes stepped aside for a bit but as soon as he has time to think his faith is sufficient to draw him back again. We truly hope that everybody will strengthen his faith toward God as we continue to study this great man, Peter.

We meet each Sunday morning at 10:00 o'clock and extend a cordial welcome to everyone to meet and worship with us.

Quite a few people are moving now. We have some new families in our community and we especially invite you to attend our church every Sunday.

CHAS. COOPER EXPRESSES VIEWS ON HOSPITALIZATION

Dear Editor:

For some time past I have been reading articles from people concerning a cooperative hospital for Chilton County. So far no one has gone into the cost and the service that one might expect to receive.

One writer has intimated that a person could pay a certain price that would include partial hospital attention, and that a reduced price would be made on certain operations.

I do not approve of partial medical or hospital services. I am heartily in favor of a cooperative hospital service together with home medical attention.

Most of my life has been spent in building contracting and at this tme I have more jobs than I have had at any one time during the past ten years, my largest job is the Post Office job at Anniston. Since I am accustomed to figuring I decided that I would do a little figuring on ths proposed mutual hospital proposition, and I have come to the following conclusions which I think can be taken as reasonably correct:

First, I figure that with $25,000.00 that we can build a modern fifty room hospital complete with steam heat, hot and cold water, all necessary furnishings including extra machine and everything else that a modern hospital is supposed to have. This would be a one-story brick and wood structure with operating room, reception hall, office and nurses quarters in addition to the fifty rooms for patients.

I also figure that there are at least five thousand families in Chilton County that ought to join a mutual cooperative hospital association.

I estimate that at a cost of $2.50 per month per family, and $1.25 per month for bachelors, old maids, widows and widowers, will, provided all the medical and hospital attention, including dental work, that we would have occasion to need, and would also provide a complete burial in the wind-up.

If five thousand will join we can build and equip the hospital at a cost of five dollars each. My five is now ready.

At the above estimate of $2.50 per month per family, all expenses can be paid and a surplus fund can be created to take care of epidemics or calamities that might befall the people of Chilton County.

If the people of Chilton County are interested in this proposition will say that I am interested enough in it that I am willing to donate one hundred dollars to the surplus fund in addition to the monthly fees and pay the five dollar building fund.

I figure that this proposition should be run without profit to anyone. That four directors should be elected to direct the affairs, one from each commission district, that these directors employ a manager who in turn would employ doctors, nurses, secy-treasurer and all other employees.

The directors should be farmers who possess business qualifications, men like Duncan Manning, Charlie Foshee, Geo. Guy, W. S. Clark and others of similar type.

If you people are interested, suppose we meet at Clanton some Saturday and talk it over.

—Chas. Cooper.

CHICOHI CHATTER

Once more I drive myself to script, comforting myself with the good old adage "The pen is mightier than the sword." But breaking down to you as old friends will do, I confidentially admit I'd rather fight a one-armed battle with a thousand-leg than to write over ten words. But on the other hand, who am I, I as you, to deprive you of the news (the man bit the dog this time) of this unique institution of learning. The question now is, how could one most ordinary brain memorize sixty French proverbs, absort the principles of Socialism, learn the dagger scene from Macbeth and write a string of copy, all at the same time. The answer is this: You just don't know me.

Mr. G. G. Williams, whom we are fortunate to have as a member of our faculty, conducted chapel exercises several days ago. He made a brief talk containing good advice to all wise enough to heed it. Mr. Williams' little lectures are always concise and well organized, points adding to the interest of any talk.

It pleases me to call your attention to the fact that during the month of January, our local theatre has arranged a schedule that seems to be most apt in its coordination with schoolwork. Several pictures, David Copperfield, Treasure Island, Anne of Green Gables. The Little Minister, and others will be offered during the course of the months. These pictures have been taken from books all of which are contained in the school library. These pictures will prove more interesting to one who has read the book. Standard Oil Company introduces last word in motor fuel

Announcement is made here today that there is now available at all Standard Oil Company dealers and service stations, Aerotype Crown Ethyl, the last word in motor gasoline. This is a new gasoline, a great improvement on the well known Crown Ethyl gasoline, but will be sold at the regular Ethyl price.

In his announcement of the introduction of Aerotype Crown Ethyl, President W. E. Smith, of the Standard Oil Company, at Louisville, writes:

"Through our thousands of dealers and service stations in this state, we are offering Aerotype Crown Ethyl, the very last word in gasoline.

"It will be sold at the regular Ethyl price. Aerotype Crown Ethyl has been perfected for the express purpose of starting more quickly, warming up the motor more rapidly, vaporizing more completely, and with the absolute elimination of all knocking, and with an increase of 30% in potential power.

"For the first time, in Aerotype Crown Ethyl, a true aviation gasoline has been converted into automobile use.

"The Standard Oil Company is proud to offer, with its best wishes for the New Year, a new product—Aerotype Crown Ethyl."

Chilton Sends Another Contingent To Forest

Twenty Chilton County youths left Wednesday for Birmingham from where they will be transferred to one of the several reforestration camps in the South, bringing the total enlistment from this county to 110, according to figures available at the office of Miss Kittye Clyde Austin, county relief director.

Composing the last contingent are: Ollie Scarbrough, Clanton; Leonard Henley, Mt. Creek; Thomas Whitworth, Verbena; R. E. Langston, Jemison; Marvin Ellison, Jemison; Arland Glenn, Mt. Creek; Jesse Crews, Joseph Thrailkill, both of Mt. Creek.

James Grant, Robert Morris, Jr., Raymond Burkhalter, Ward Fike, Andrew Weldon, Cecil White, Chester Driver all of Verbena; Grady Maudlin, T. C. Wilson, and Ralph Price, all of Clanton.

Miss Austin stated that Chilton County has reason to be proud of most of the boys who have gone from this county to the various reforestration camps during the past year. Several of these youths now have responsible positions in the business world, and camp officials report that boys from this county have caused less trouble in camps than the average.

Resolve . . . to start the New Year With a Hotpoint ELECTRIC RANGE

SOME families make New Year resolutions. Others do not. But every family—regardless of New Year philosophy—eats three times a day. And this means 1,095 meals for somebody in your home to cook during 1935! ¶ If you prepare your own meals, you will like the ease-of-operation and time-saving features of a Hotpoint Range. If you employ a cook, you will soon realize the dependability and economy which Hotpoint cookery brings. In either case, it will pay you to install a Hotpoint Range in your kitchen. The cost is small—and convenient terms may be arranged. See the 1935 models this week!

IT will cost you less than $10.00 to have a Hotpoint installed in your kitchen. Balance payable in 24 months.

Chevrolet Announces Prices For 1935 Models

Chevrolet's prices for the 1935 New Standard and Master De Luxe models were announced by Williams E. Holler, general sales manager of the Chevrolet Motor Co., just before the opening of the New York automobile show. The prices are as follows:

New Standard models—Coupe, $475; coach, $485; sedan, $550; phaeton, $495; sport roadster, $465; sedan delivery, $580.

The prices on the New Standard coupe, coach and phaeton are $10 under those of the corresponding 1934 models. On the Master De Luxe, prices are exactly the same as in 1934.

Knee-action continues as one of the outstanding features of the Master De Luxe cars, Mr. Holler stated, and is available to any customer on order at slight additional cost. Master De Luxe cars also feature the new Fisher turret top all steel roof construction, and a much larger body with corresponding increase in interior dimensions.

"Chevrolet was able to reduce its Standard model prices and to maintain its price levels on the Master De Luxe series in the face of substantially increased material and manufacturing costs because of the greatly increased volume scheduled for 1935, as indicated by the thousands of orders we now have on hand for the immediate delivery of the 1935 lines of cars from our organization of 10,000 dealers," Mr. Holler said in announcing the prices. "Last year Chevrolet built 870,000 passenger cars and trucks, which made it the leading manufacturer of motor cars in the world for the sixth time in the last eight years. With the establishing of our 1935 prices, we are in a position to secure our share of the low-priced car business this year.

"Both lines of cars are greatly improved. The New Standard is now powered with the Master motor, and has an entirely new X-type frame which is 15 times more rigid than its predecessor. The Master De Luxe is completely new and much larger car than the 1934 Master. To increase the comfort of passengers, and procure more body room, the wheelbase has been increased to 113 inches. This line now features, in addition to the new Fisher turret top all steel roof construction, the latest in 'tear drop' design, with dual windshield, no-draft ventilation, and all the comfort and convenience features found in much higher priced cars."

Cotton Varieties

The new year is here and it is time to begin thinking about crop plans for 1935.

Cotton seed have sold for a good price during the harvest season. Conditions have been such for the past few years that very few farmers felt like making an effort to get seed of better varieties for planting.

This year, with a little more money from our cotton crop last season, and prospects good for still better prices for cotton and seed next fall, your county agent believes that it would be wise for many farmers to get better planting seed for planting this coming Spring.

The county agent is making an effort to secure a supply of planting seed for the cotton farmers.

The following figures will give you some idea of how different varieties stand up under experimental tests:

The five leading varieties with the average yield in pounds of lint cotton per acre, and the average length of staple in 1-32 inches for the three-year period, 1932-34, are as follows:

Wilt Infested Area of Alabama

Variety	av. lint per acre	av. lgth. stpl.-1-32 in.
Cook 1022	391	30.3
Cook 307-92 (Smith)	386	28.2
Clevewilt (C. Rhyne)	383	31.8
Cook 307 (B. Ryne)	375	28.1
Cook 27-54	374	29.5
Areas with no Wilt in Central Alabama
D. P. L. 11	463	32.8
D. P. L. 10	458	31.8
Half and Half	441	25.8
Stoneville 3	430	31.6
Stoneville 2	413	32.8

9_b

Most of the soils in Chilton County are infested with wilt fungi. This makes it advisable for most of the farmers in this county to use wilt-resistant varieties.

The Experiment Station does not recommend that the farmers plant seed of varieties that have a staple of less than 28-32-inch staple. You will note that all these leading varieties except one have a staple length of more than 2832- inches.

Farmers who are interested in good cotton seed for planting this coming spring should make their desires known to the county agent in the near future.

SINGING SCHOOL TEACHERS ORGANIZE AT COURT HOUSE

A group of singing school teachers met at the court house last Saturday evening for a discussion of some plans of vital importance to the music teachers and the people of this county. The meeting was called to order at 2:30 and Prof. O. L. Devaughn was elected chairman, and Prof. Marion W. Easterling was elected secretary of the organization. The following was brought into consideration and adopted by the group:

Tuition prices will be as follows:

Beginners in rudiments, 10c per day each. This means those who have accumulated no knowledge of the rudiments of music. Other rudiment lessons will be 12½ cents per day; primary harmony 15c per day; intermediate harmony 17½ cents per day; advanced harmony 20 cents per day.

Contract prices for school will be $25 net per week, regardless of the length of term or size of school.

All song books and text books handled by any member of this organization will be retailed at the price printed on said books. These prices seem to be within the range of everyone who is the least bit interested in schools, and it is hoped that tuition will be paid promptly.

Those matters are being printed for benefit of the public, and especially those who are planning on having music schools taught.

The meeting was made a permanent affair to meet quarterly, and the next session will be held the first Saturday in April. An invitation is extended to all teachers who were not present to attend these meetings and cooperate with this organization. Other teachers who were present were: Profs. W. M. Devaughn, A. O. Boswell, Emmett Wilson, I. D. Huett, Lee Grant, L. T. Grant, J. M. Williams, Herbert Lowery, and C. M. Billingsley.

Forest Telephone Lines Aid In Fire Protection

Montgomery.—The President's forestry program in Alabama has included the building of many miles of forest telephone lines by the C.C.C. under the direction of the State Commission of Forestry. To date 271 miles of line have been constructed, and some 41 miles additional are partly completed. These telephone lines enable landowners to summon each other's assistance when fires break out and also permit forestry agents, patrolmen and observers to communicate with each other, thus permitting of prompt arrival at the fire front. Fires detected and reached in their early stages are quite easy to suppress.

A total of 9,901 creosoted telephone poles were purchased from creosote plants in Alabama for use in line building. Forty-five wall telephones and twelve portable instruments have been bought and put into service.

The distribution of completed forest telephone line mileage by Counties is as follows: Baldwin 17.3; Clarke, 12.3; Cleburne, 12.1; Covington, 19; Escambia, 22.2; Geneva, 4.9; Mobile, 55.8; Monroe 27; Tuscaloosa, 12.3; and Washington 88.1. PARALYSIS IMMUNITY

Another medical triumph is announced by Dr. William H. Park, head of the New York city laboratories, who declares that a vaccine has been developed which gives immunity to that dreaded disease, infantile paralysis.

The new vaccine is a result of the labors of Dr. Maurice Brodie of New York University, who has devoted many months to study and experiments in his laboratory. As in all such researches, first experiments were made on animals, until it was felt safe to try the new vaccine on human beings.

Recently 25 children have been given the vaccine treatment, with the result that they have been rendered immune to infantile paralysis, as proved by subsequents blood tests. The vaccine is said to have been entirely successful in every case.

Thus another boon to humanity is added to the long list of major achievements to the credit of modern medical science.

MR. DORMINEY DISCUSSES CRIME

Editor, Chilton County News:

Since reading Mr. Jackson's letter in your last week's issue, which contained several interesting facts and figures, I am inspired to write a few lines again this week.

I believe most everything comes about through the power of thought. All inventions, good or bad, government, etc., comes about through the power of thought. This being a fact, then it behoves each and every one to think, to think hard and to think seriously on all governmental affairs.

Huey Long said not long ago that when he runs for President he is going to appeal to the "thinking class." The Atlanta Constitution came back with a reply that he would no doubt be in the minority party.

Well, Mr. Editor, I would like for you and your readers to read, think and ponder over the following figures. Do you realize we are living in a country where 12,000 citizens are murdered every year; 100,000 assaulted; 50,000 robbed and 40,000 homes burglarized. If any of you doubt these figures, you might write J. Edgar Hoover, Washington, D. C. We are lucky not to fall a victim in some way.

Mr. Editor, here is another thought I might do well to mention, in a financial way. Senator Copeland of New York said not long ago that it was taking "twenty-five cents out of every tax dollar" to fight crime. Now, what do you think about that? No wonder taxes and revenue are so high.

Mr. Editor, let me repeat again that there is "cause and effect" to every thing that happens. Now, listen. My honest conviction is our local, state and national law enforcement bodies have been so busy trying to enforce Prohibition that they have let real crime just about run away with our country. To make a long story short, they simply have had too many irons in the fire.

I will not take up any more of your time just now, but don't fail to keep up with me, as I might have something to say later on.

Yours truly,
S. Y. DORMINEY.

Black-Draught Brings Refreshing Relief of Constipation Troubles

Constipation produces many disagreeable sensations, several of which are mentioned by Mr. T. E. I have a tight feeling in my chest when I get bilious. I get dizzy and feel very tired, just don't feel like doing my work. After taking Black-Draught, I feel much better. This is why I continue to use it when needed." . . . Thedford's Black-Draught is a good, purely vegetable laxative, obtainable for 25¢ a package.

YOUTH MOVEMENT

a state-wide plan to provide organized and supervised athletics for the boys. It is sponsored by the Alabama Department of the American Legion and various local posts as a community service and as a contribution to the healthy development of the youth of Alabama. The Alabama Relief Administration and the State Aviation commission are cooperating with the Legion in this work

The program has been made possible by Bernarr Mcfadden, one of the country's leading publishers and internationally famous as a pioneer in physical culture. Mr Mcfadden is financing all expenses of organization, training of leaders, supervision and atheletic equipment. It is being established at no cost to the community or the local Legion post.

In providing for the establishment of this program Mr. Mcfadden is motivated solely by a desire to serve the youth of the country and by personal knowledge of the importance of sytematic physical development.

Alabama has been selected by Mr. Mcfadden for the first comprehensive demonstration of a nation-wide program that he visualizes and hopes to establish. Alabama gained his attention by its airpark plan, which combines recreational facilities and landing field into community center. As a result he felt that Alabama would be the most suitable point for launching such a program.

The atheletic program of the movement is varied and flexible. It is to be adapted to the interests, needs and facilities of each individual town. It is designed to provide activities for boys of all sizes, weights and ages from 10 to 12 years old through high school age. It will be operated from the standpoint of mass participation and recreation rather than individual competition and individual attention to the development of a few outstanding athletes. Atheletic participation will be carefully directed so as to eliminate all hazards. There will be no unequal competition between boys, either individualy or as a group. Included on the program are such atheletes as soccer ball, basketball, volley ball, soft ball, hand wrestling, stick wrestling, boxing, calisthenics, jumping, running, etc.

Leaders to handle the program are being furnished by the Alabama Relief Administration through the State Aviation Commission. The program will be established in 40 towns, providing leaders are available from relief rolls. In each town there will be a leader assigned, and up to three persons from the work reief list to serve as assistant leaders. These leaders are assigned by the county relief director and must come off relief lists.

The program was oranized and established in Clanton this week by an atheletic supervisor furnished by Mr. Mcfadden. This supervisor will arrange all details, instruct the leaders, and place the program in full operation. From time to time hereafter a supervisor will come here to give further instruction and direction of the program.

The program is wholly a project of the American Legion in Alabama, which planned it without limitation or restriction. In each town the Macfadden committee of the local post will supervise the program and direct the work of the leaders. This committee for Clanton is composed of Lloyd Warr, Percy Pitts, Reuben Lowe. and Mack Wyatt. Necessary equipment will be furnished without cost. Present plans provide for the operation of the program to July 1st, and it is expected there will be a further extension at that time if results are satisfactory. The program will be held daily in the afternoons, the location to be selected by the post committee.

This program will not be designed or permitted to conflict in any way with the work of the schools. There will be no intrusion in any way. Parents and school officials may freely welcome it as worthwhile occupation for the idle time of the boys in the afternoons.

In purpose, application and operation the program is one of unselfish service and is a tangible expression of the interest of the Legion in the youth of the State.

BONDS DUE TO CITY COLLECTED BY NEW MAYOR

$12,000.00 In Old Payments Placed To Credit Of The Town's Treasury

Approximately $12,000 worth of old assessments against property owners in Clanton for paving which was completed in 1924-25 have been collected by Mayor C. Fenn Jones since he took over the reins of city government a few weeks ago. according to a statement released by him this week.

These accounts have been pending for eight or ten years, he said, in expressing his appreciation to the property owners for the splendid cooperation given him in clearing up these assessments. Holders of the paving bonds have been urging that the town meet these obligations and Mayor Jones solicited the cooperation of those who had not met their assessments and in the majority of the cases he found splendid cooperation, he said.

One of the largest accounts which has been paid recently was a $4,283.-57 assessment against Chilton County for paving around the county property, which includes the court house, the Potts property where the offices of Superintendent of education and the county agent are now located, and the county jail. Some legal technicality had prevented this being paid before, but it was found that the county had a right to pay this debt under a new ruling from the State attorney-general. The commissioners court voted to pay this obligation at a recent session.

Walter Teel Is Injured In Fourteen Foot Fall

Walter Teel, Clanton carpenter and builder, suffered severe injuries early Monday morning when he fell fourteen feet from a scaffold into the reservoir at the city wells on the highway just north of town.

He is said to have suffered a broken right shoulder, a severe injury to his left wrist and about a two-inch laceration to his scalp. Dr. J. P. Hayes, who treated him, said that he did not think he is dangerously injured. Mr. Teel is now undergoing treatment in a Montgomery hospital, where he was taken by a Martin & Sons ambulance Monday night.

With several other workmen, Mr. Teel was doing some repair work at the city wells, when he suffered the fall. He attempted to walk across the reservoir on a scaffold, when wet mud on his shoes caused him to slip, according to witnesses.

One of the workmen climbed into the reservoir and fastened a rope to him and others hauled him to the scaffold. He was taken to his home by a Spigener ambulance, where he was given medical treatment.

The dream of a new brick city hall for Clanton is another step nearer realization. ALABAMA'S NEW GOVERNOR AND LIEUT.-GOVERNOR ASSUME DUTIES

GOV. BIBB GRAVES

MOST COLORFUL INAUGURATION STATE'S HISTORY GIVEN GRAVES

Thousands Of People From Every Section Of The State Attend Inauguration; Huge Parade With Eleven Bands Was Big Feature Of The Day

By George L. Davis in The Montgomery Advertiser

Bibb Graves became Governor of Alabama yesterday for the second time before a colorful multitude comprising one of the largest crowds in the city's history.

Packed and jammed for the distance of a city block the gigantic throng heard the Governor pledge an administration that would put human welfare first and reaffirm his stand for Democracy and rule by consent of the governed.

The inaugural address was easily heard through an amplified system that extended from the Capitol steps, and the vast Capitol building served as an adequate sounding board so that not one word of the ceremonies was lost to the crowd.

The inauguration address and taking of the oath was one of a series of events of the day. They began with a mammoth parade in which several thousand persons participated, continued through luncheons at the Montgomery Country Club and the Standard Country Club in honoring the Governor and Mrs. Graves, respectively, a beautiful reception at the Capitol early last night and were brought to a climax by the grand inaugural ball at Maxwell Field last night.

Frequently during his address the Governor was applauded, but the vast throng as a whole, true to its traditional nature as shown on other inaugural events and even on the visit of President Roosevelt, was undemonstrative.

Providence Invoked

The Governor invoked the guidance of Providence in the task he was about to assume, pleaded with the people to "have faith in ourselves, faith in one another and faith in our State in its future."

REPEAL FORCES OF STATE MAKE PREPARATIONS FOR CAMPAIGN

Capt. Mullins, Chairman Of The Campaign, Says "Wets" Are Anxious For Question To Be Settled At The Polls At An Early Date

Montgomery, Ala.—Anticipating an early submision of the proposed liquor referendum question, Capt. J. Sanford Mullins, Chairman of the Campaign, has already formed plans for carrying the fight into every nook and corner of the State before election day. it was announced here the first of this week. Capt. Mullins, author of the measure which resulted in the election of delegates to a convention in Montgomery in 1933 which cast Alabama's vote for repeal of the 18th Amendment to the Federal Constitution has adopted the policy of aggressiveness in answering charges by those opposed to changing Alabama's prohibition laws.

The chief development of the past week, however, was the assurance given by Capt. Mullins to Governor Bibb Graves that the League for Prohibition Repeal was just as anxious as any of the "drys" to carry the fight to the polls. This assurance set at rest some rumors that the "wets" would endeavor to thwart the new Governor in his promised plan of a referendum.

It is freely predicted by those who watch events, that the "wets" will accept the statement by the "drys" that "John Barleycorn is Public Enemy No. 1."

"No public enemy should be permitted to roam Alabama at will" say leaders in the organization headed by Capt. Mullins. "John Brleycorn should be incarcerated, or curbed in his activities, as well as contribute to the support of State Government" they declare.

It is pointed out that alcoholic beverages are sold freely throughout the State, while some of the necessities are burdened with taxes. Even carbonated drinks pay something toward supporting the Government, it is asserted. Cigarettes and cigars also contribute to the support of schools and other governmental activities, while gasoline is taxed to build and maintain a public highway system. "Let alcoholic beverages join the ranks of contributors" is the plea of those who would legalize the sale of that which is already obtainable in practically all parts of the State.

In answer to the plea of Gov. Miller refrain from legalizing the sale of these beverages in order to raise funds for education, advocates of the legalized sale point out that it is not fair for all the profits in the liquor business to be used exclusively in educating the children of the liquor dealers. "Let the children of those who patronize the distiller and brewer have a share of the profits in the way of improved education facilities and better school opportunities," they say.

Within the next few days, according to Capt. Mullins, the League for Prohibition Repeal will be actively at work in every County. The question for the voters to decide, leaders say, is not "wet or dry." but temperance with taxation, or sales without taxation.

$30,000.00 Paid To The Farmers Of County

Chilton County cotton farmers have been the recipients of $30,000 in cotton parity payments since Christmas, according to a statement from County Agent J. W. Fant. Five hundred checks, amounting to between $6,000 and $7,000, received last week brought the total to above $30,000, Mr. Fant said.

There is still due farmers in this county approximately $8,000 on these parity payments, and a similar amount on the two-cent option for the 1933 crop, it was explained. These checks, totaling around $15,000, will likely be received within a few days, it is believed.

With the option and parity payments, the rentals from land which was taken out of production upon agreement with the federal government, the price for cotton this year was about 16½ cents per pound, Fant estimated.

BELIEVE CITY LIMITS WILL BE ENLARGED

Mayor C. Fenn Jones Pays Good Will Visits And Reports Progress

Mayor C. Fenn Jones' drive to extend the incorporate limits of the Town of Clanton, bringing its area and population to a figure more comparable with other Alabama cities of its size and importance, is taking on definite shape and purpose.

A Bill has been prepared to be submitted to the members of the State Legislature during its present session, petitioning that body to take the necessary action to extend the city limits of Clanton to certain mentioned points, which almost double the Town's area and will increase its population by approximately one-third its present figure

BIG QUANTITY WHISKEY GETS DUMPED HERE

Former Sheriff Destroys Over $2,000.00 Worth Of Intoxicants

Bringing to a close perhaps the most streneous battle for the enforcement of the prohibition laws that has been known in Chilton County, Sheriff W. H. Gillespie recently destroyed approximately 400 gallons of captured evidence while more than 100 persons stood by and watched the forbidden beverage trickle toward the gutter.

Every conceivable color, mixture and brand of concoctions intended to produce that hilarious effect common to all alcoholic stimulants made up a part of the evidence in hundreds of cases that have served to make the name of Gillespie feared among those who are inclined to tip the bottle, or otherwise violate the liquor regulations.

Eight or ten men were busy for more than an hour lugging the various containers and their contents, which included choice bottle and bond brands to syrup can of hillside moonshine, from the storage room in the county jail out into the alley where the Sheriff and one of his deputies wielded the wrecking equipment. Within little more than sixty minutes only a huge pile of broken glass, jugs and debris from wrecked barrels and kegs—and a strong lingering alcoholic odor remained of more than $2,000 worth of liquor at current prices.

During a four-year term of office as sheriff of this county, Sheriff Gillespie and his deputies have booked approximately 1,500 arrests, and it has been estimated that more than 1,000 of these were for violation of liquor laws.

Spigener Funeral Home was in charge of the services.

OMAR REYNOLDS ELECTED NEW CO. ATTORNEY

Commissioners Hold First Meetings Since New Officials Are In

For the first time in more than forty years the majority of the county officials in Chilton County are Democratic. When the hands of the clock reached the hour of midnight Monday night, the reins of the county government were automatically switched from the hands of the Republican Party into the hands of the Democratic Party.

Several new faces were seen in the court house Tuesday as three of the main offices changed hands. With the opening hour Tuesday morning Probate Judge J. Lee Smith, Sheriff J. R. Hardy, and Circuit Court Clerk J. C. Pattillo calmly took over the duties of their respective offices. No inauguration ceremonies or other demonstrations took place as these offcials quietly began the tasks before them of fulfilling their promises to the people who elected them to these posts of trust.

The Commissioners Court was scheduled to convene in a special session at 10 o'clock a. m., but the session was postponed until afternoon because Commissioners J. C. Atchison and C. D. Duke were in Montgomery and were not able to be present at the appointed hour in the forenoon.

Convening at 1 p. m., the court was in session less than an hour, adjourning because H. R. Oden, newly elected member, had to return to his home because of illness in his family. Little business was taken up at the session. Several applications for jobs and other routine business were passed over until the next regular meeting.

Tension was high among a large group of spectators as the question of electing a new county attorney was being discussed and voted on. When it was declared that nominations were in order for the filling of this capacity, Commissioner J. C. Atchison nominated Omar L. Reynolds and Commissioner Duke named J. Osmond Middleton. A brief discussion ensued before the ballots were cast.

Atchison and Oden voted for Reynolds and Duke and J. P. Bean, newly elected Republican member, cast their votes for Middleton, resulting in a tie. Judge Smith, who is allowed to vote in case of a tie among the commissioners, untied the vote by joining Commissioners Atchison and Oden in their choice of Mr. Reynolds.

An order was passed authorizing the County Board of Registrars to convene in a special five-day session for the purpose of registering voters who are not qualified to vote, before the closing date for the payment of poll taxes February 1.

Judge Smith announced that Mrs. Audelle Miller will continue as chief clerk in the probate office, and Miss Lona Thompson was named to succeed Mrs. Dolly Arant as clerk of the Commissioners Court.

Other places to be filled at the next meeting of the Court are: road overseers in both Mr. Oden's and Mr. Bean's districts, driver for the county gasoline truck, janitor for the court house and several other minor places. Many applications are on file for each of these capacities, it is understood.

Mrs. Beatrice Pratt is assisting Mr. Pattillo in the circuit clerk's office. Sheriff Hardy and Chief-Deputy J. A. Nivens were busy all day getting acquainted with various routine affairs in the county. Sheriff W. H. Gillespie, who is retiring, spent the entire day assisting the new sheriff and his deputies in getting installed and ready for business.

Chilton One Of Nine Counties In Project

Chilton County has been selected as one of the nine counties in which a program of cooperative service for rehabilitation subscribers will be carried on by vocational teachers and the local relief administration.

A joint meeting of the Directors of Relief Directors of Work, Teachers of Vocational Agriculture and Vocational Home Economics in the nine counties was held in Montgomery Saturday. The six Vocational teachers from Chilton County attended the meeting.

At this meeting plans were made to begin a program of instruction for rural rehabilitation subscribers.

The work done by the vocational teachers is volunteer work, and will be done at a time when they are not engaged in their regular work. They will cooperate with the relief workers and the farm foreman in rendering this service to the Rural Subscribers.

Don' t Worry About The Farmer's Future

There is much worry about the American farmer. Many believe that what seems to be his increasing dependence on governmental relief and aid, will weaken his traditional qualities of self-reliance and honest individualism.

A percentage of farmers is willing to depend upon political relief measures—but that percentage is very small. In all sections of the country, groups of farmers have banded together to fight their own battles and win their own victories. They regard relief as being purely temporary—a lift over a particularly bad place in the economic road. They have no intention of depending upon it for their future welfare.

These farmers constitute the memberships of genuine business organizations, which, through expert and experienced management, are applying proven business methods to farm problems. The question of supply and demand, of production and marketing methods, of foreign markets, of tariff walls and embargoes—in brief, everything that affects the frmer—engage their attention. They work with these problems, not for a day or a week or a year, or until another political party comes into power, but continuously, permanently. They are here to stay.

Those who have watched the co-ops grow and develop, have little to fear for the future of the progressive American farmer.

Insurance Cannot Pay For Fire

Many persons take chances with fire and fire hazards because they believe they have complete insurance coverage —that they cannot lose financially in case of fire.

What these people don't realize is that complete fire coverage doesn't exist. It isn't for sale. No company writes such a policy—because none could.

An insurance company can pay for materials destroyed when a blaze damages a home or business. But that side of the destruction is often the least of it. When a factory burns, men are thrown out of work. Their purchasing power is suddenly lowered or destroyed. They are often unable to meet their obligations. They can no longer buy the commodities and services local buisineses sell. While out of work, they cannot maintain their homes properly, or do their part in developing their community.

No policy form could be prepared that would protect a community against those results industry which pays large taxes. With that source of taxation destroyed, taxes on all other property must be increased—and every citizen has to help pay the bill.

In brief, it is the indirect cost of fire, which insurance cannot protect us against, that makes the greatest total Direct loss runs close to half a billion dollars a year—indirect loss is estimated at two or three times that amount. And finally, if even that doesn't convince you that you should make a determined effort to guard your home and property against fire, think of this: Every year, fire takes around 10,000 lives.

Renewal and Clarification Of NRA

When President Roosevelt, in his annual message to Congress, emphasized the "renewal and clarification of the general purposes of the National Industrial Recovery Act" as one of the subjects upon which he would consult the National Legislature in the near future, he again gave voice to a conviction already predominant in the national mind that NRA is to become an integral part of American business life

This assurance from the President will be gratifying to that large and influential body of leaders in business and industry, who from the inauguration of NRA in June 1933, have welcomed the guidance and support which the Recovery Administration has given to private enterprise under codes of fair competition.

In October 1934 the banking fraternity made a new pledge of cooperation to the President to be followed promptly by chambers of commerce and organizations of business men everywhere. In the light of this new atmosphere of cooperation, the National Industrial Recovery Board invited the counsel of all busines men who [illegible] to present views on the future of NRA. The time [illegible] approaching when that future is to be determined [illegible]

[illegible] President Roosevelt in his message at the [illegible] of Congress reserved for future presentation his specific recommendations regarding the renewal of NRA, two paragraphs of the message were not without significance.

"No wise man," said President Roosevelt, "has any intention of destroying what is known as the profit motive. By the profit motive we mean the right by work to earn a decent livelihood for ourselves and for our families.

"We have, however, a clear mandate from the people, that Americans must forswear that conception of the acquisition of wealth which, through excessive profits, creates undue private power over private affairs and, to our misfortune, over public affairs as well. In building toward this end we do not destroy ambition nor do we seek to divide our wealth into equal shares on stated occasions. We continue to recognize the greater ability of some to earn more than others. But we do assert that the ambition of the individual to obtain for him and his a proper security, a reasonable leisure, and a decent living throughout life, is an ambition to be preferred to the appetite for great wealth and great power."

Better Homes Now

What a change Monday morning has undergone in the past decade! Housekeeping has seen a transformation in that period. The old kitchen or basement picture is not recognizable today.

In a comparatively short time the old drudgery has vanished, driven away by an entirely new method that eliminates the hard work a housewife once thought she had to endure.

What has produced this pleasant new condition in the highly important business of housekeeping?

The change was brought with newspaper advertising. New ideas circulate fast because people read advertising. It makes new desires and needs, alters old habits and leads people to fresh and better standards of living.

No merchant has used such advertising consistently, whose business has not been improved thereby. Through it he becomes the means of introducing worthwhile new methods and products to his townspeople, and he is as greatly benefited by promoting them as his customers are by adopting them.

An Honor Code

Many interesting stories are told of the honor code at Washington and Lee University, where it was established by General Robert E. Lee when he became president of the school in 1867.

No supervision of students is exercised during examinations, yet cheating is virtually unknown. Nothing is locked up about the institution; books, articles of clothing and all sorts of property are left anywhere with the assurance that they will not be disturbed.

Several students help to pay their expenses by selling sandwiches, candy, apples and the like, but the sales are made without the presence of clerks. The articles for sale are displayed with price cards, and customers help themselves, placing their money in the cash box. During one football game more than [illegible] worth of lapel buttons were bought and paid for without the supervision of anyone, except that when the box was filled with bills a passing professor placed a weight on them to keep them from blowing away.

New students are thoroughly instructed in the requirements of the honor code and impressed with the importance of rigidly observing it, because, it is explained, this school is built around tradition. And the essence of that tradition is that "it's a pleasure to be a gentleman."

The Final Authority

A few weeks ago eight black-robed figures walked slowly into an ancient chamber in Washington, D. C. They sank down in age-polished leather chairs, while a crier rapped his gavel and announced: "Oyez, oyez, oyez! All persons having business before the Honorable, the Supreme Court of the United States, are admonished to draw near and give their attention—God save the United Sates and this Honorable Court."

These eight men—the ninth was absent for opening day, due to illness—represent the highest power in the land. Theirs is the court of last resort—theirs is the power to settle, finally and for all time, arguments concerning the constitutionality of laws and judgements. Their combined age comes close to 600 years—yet, according to observers, all of them, including famed 88-year old Mr. Justice Brandeis patriarch of the Court since the retirement of the venerated Mr. Justice Holmes, appeared to be in excellent health. Observers also said that, normally, two or three of the oldest Justices would voluntarily retire—but none, apparently, will do that for the present session of the Court promises to be one of the most—and perhaps the most—important in living memory. On its docket are some 400 cases, of which about 300 will probably be eliminated on jurisdictional grounds. Among the hundred remaining are three cases which will destroy or revitalize some of the most extraordinary legislative-judicial acts in American history. Two of these cases involve the power of the Recovery Act to restrict production. The third will test the constitutionality of the law abrogating payment of contracts in gold. In addition, it is possible that other cases, now in lower courts, which involve New Deal legislation, will come before the Justices before the session closes.

It seems that every Washington correspondent is speculating on what the attitude of the Court will be. No one knows—but there are grounds for making guesses. The Supreme Court does not deal with ordinary evidence, as do courts of inferior jurisdiction—it deals only with whether or not a law or ruling is constutional. Four members of the Court have, in the past, shown themselves to be instinctively Conservative: Justices Sutherland, Butler, McReynalds, Van Devanter. Four lean to the Liberal side: Justices Brandeis, Stone, Roberts, Cardozo. The more or less unknown quantity is Mr. Chief Justice Hughes, who has sometimes been with one group, sometimes with the other. Many believe, however, that he is more Liberal than Conservative—and if that is true, New Deal laws are likely to stand the acid test. During recent years more and more Supreme Court decisions have presented five justices on one side, with the other four dissenting—a shift of but a single member could revolutionize the general trend of decisions.

Whatever the results, decisions of the Court will be final—and they will not be questioned. Senators, Congressmen and Governors are damned and reviled: even Presidents are subject to strong criticism. But the Supreme Court—whose members, in the words of Mr. Justice Holmes, "Take the veil," is above such mundane matters. No other institution possesses the almost unqualified admiration, respect and faith of the American people.

Shortly after opening, the Court made a decision which, while it did not affirm or deny constitutionality of any major Administration measure, is of wide interest. It threw out the case of an air-line which held that the government had illegally abrogated air-mail contracts, and refused to review the decisions of lower tribunals.

Not long since I was sitting in the pulpit of a great church in Southeast Alabama and I observed a pencil on the stand that had a large eracer on one end. It occurred to me that the pastor end. It occurred to me that the pastor of that church was a wise man. He knew that much of his sermon should be eraced before it was delivered, and he was prepared for the job. If the deacons and the stewards of the most of our churches would provide an eracer for their pulpits and then require their pastors to use it, many of our preachers would be better preachers and their sermons would have better results. Blessed is the preacher who carries an eracer with him into the pulpit and then uses it.

Tamerlane, a warrior of Egyptian fame. asked his generals for one hundred and sixty thousand human skulls out of which to build a Pyramid to his fame and honor. His armies went out to battle and secured the skulls, and then the king built the pyramid. There is another king in our day who has issued another call and his call is for human skulls that he may also build a pyramid to his fame and dishonor and that is "King Alcohol." This king has ordered an army of brewers, bootleggers and saloon keepers to go out for the skulls. The army of King Alcohol is now abroad in the land, and his soldiers are gathering up the skulls at the rate of forty thousand a year. He has already gathered many times as many skulls as gathered by Tamerline, but he is more greedy for skulls than ever before. Today he is en larging his army that they may gather more skulls. When shall we awake to the traffic of this awful king and put a stop to his deadly work?

I was walking along with a stock man. We were out in his pasture taking a look at his cattle. I observed a stack of hay that had been placed about a pole that was sunk into the ground. The cows has feasted on the hay in the winter months until they had eaten it all away near the ground. A large bundle of the hay was still clinging to the pole but it was too high for the cattle to reach. The man with me asked that I wait long enough for him to climb the stack of hay and push it down to where the cattle could reach it. He did this and the cows gathered from all directions to feast on the hay that was within rtach. Many a time have I heard a sermon that put the fodder too high for the man in the pew. I have thought of how people would flock to any church where the fodder is within reach. Thrice blessed is the preacher who keeps his fodder within reach of his people Tell your pastor to keep the hay shoved down so that you can reach it.

A man paused in front of the home of a village doctor and asked of a child that was playing in the yard: "Sonny, is the doctor at home?" "No," replied the boy, "He is away." "Where do you think that I could find him?" the man on the mule asked. "I will be hanged if I know," replied the boy. "But if you want him, you had just as well hunt where people are in need of him." That doctor was to be found where people were sick, or hurt or where they needed a sympathetic helper. When people lose track of you can it be said that you are where people are in need? We all know some folks who are always to be found where there is an aching body or an aching heart. They are where people are sick, or hurt or something of that kind.

I was in the woods with a troop of Scouts and we were preparing for the camp fire. I asked that fuel be brought into camp. One little lad ran out and was back in a moment with one long stick of wood. Suppose that I had tried to start the camp fire with just one piece of wood. Other lads brought in more fuel and when I put all the sticks together and kindled the blaze the fire did burn. On every hand we hear people saying that it is not necessary for them to join a church. I am not saying that a man can not be a christian when he is not a member of the church, but I am saying that he will have just about as hard time of it as a man who has to start a fire with one stick. It takes more than one stick to build a blazing fire. To be in the church with other burning hearts will help tremendously in setting the spirit on fire. Every man needs the fire of every one else to help in keeping his soul all ablaze for God.

Many Brier Patches Make Good Pastures

Auburn, Ala. Thousands of acres of Alabama land now covered with bushes and briers would make profitable pastures, advises J. C. Lowery, extension agronomist, who says that "a good pasture furnishes cheaper feed than any other crop on the farm."

"Fertility and moisture are the two chief requirements of a pasture soil. Dry, poor upland soils are not suitable for pasture," he warns.

LEAGUE URGES FULL SUPPORT OF JUDGE AND OF OFFICIALS

Newly Organided League For Better Government Express Views For A Better Administration For The People

Officials of the League For Better Government issed a proclamation this week, urging complete cooperation with newly installed Democratic administration. Declaring that the League For Better Government wil lcontinue to function as an organization, ever safeguarding the rights of the people of the county. The proclamation urged the members of the Commissioners Court to forget political differences that may have existed in the past and lend their cooperation for a successful administration of county affairs that the tax payers of the county would not suffer.

With a membership estimated at more than 700, the League is recognized as weilding a powerful influence in political affairs of the county.

We believe we are justified in the expression of pride in the fact that Chilton County has, in past years, enjoyed the many benefits of a good government, administered by officials and leaders who had as their supreme purpose and guiding motives the best service to the people of the county. This, we believe, is proven by the fact that Chilton County has, for many years, been recognized as among the first counties of Alabama in point of efficient, sound, and financially secure condition.

We further believe we are justified in saying that in more recent years our county has suffered because of the fact that some officials apparently did not have uppermost in their minds their duty and obligation to render the best service to all the people. This, we think, was proven by the verdict of our people in the recent election.

It is, therefore, apparent to all that the people of Chilton County want to continue good government, economically administered to the general welfare of all, and further, that they are willing determined, and independent enough to go a long way in order to make sure they will have the kind of government they want and that they deserve.

We, who compose this League for Better Government, are proud of the part we have had in past years in supporting men and measures that have contributed to the high standing of Chilton County as a County well-governed. We face the future with confidence in the integrity and good purpose of our people. We abide in the hope that whatever of differences may have developed among our people may be savored with the supreme importance of exercising our calm, sensible and patriotic duty to continue to devote ourselves to our duty as citizens, first of all, committed always and forever to the support of those things which mean the perpetuation of a government safe, secure, and satisfactory to the largest number of our people, with friendliness for all and malice toward none.

Now, therefore, be is resolved by the League for Better Government in Chilton County, that we do here and now pronounce our stand for a continued sound, economical and progressive government by the officials whose duty it will be to administer our public affairs in the future.

We favor, advocate and urge, that, as far as possible the public works in our county be given to citizens of our county and that money so spent in carrying on the business of the county for public works be kept within the county.

Our people have said whom they wanted to manage county affairs in the future. Politically, some of the officers are Democrats and some are Republicans. We hope that all of those officials will assume an attitude of friendliness and cooperation for the best and most equitable discharge of their duties in the most wholesome interest of all our people. Those who would build political prestige must know that, first of all, they must lay the foundation of satisfactory, adequate, efficient and universal service to those who are their fellow citizens.

We regard the spirit of harmony, friendliness and cooperation among county officials as the paramount requirements for efficiency and the full recognition of the rights of all our people. We hope those in places of official responsibility will recognize it as such, and put that disposition into actual practice.

We favor the principle of keeping in office those who have been elected by the people. But we regard above that the duty of those elected to render the unselfish public service and good government which they were chosen to give. There is no reason why those who were elected to serve can not do so in full satisfaction to the people of our county. We hope it will not be necessary to resort to legislative measures in order to safeguard the rights of our people for a good government. But the rights of our people must be safeguarded and preserved at all cost.

Lastly, we would recognize that the future is potent with possibilities opportunities, and dangers. Judge Smith wants to serve the people of this county with credit to the Democratic party which he represents. Republican ~~mem-~~ members of the Commissioners Court want to serve the people in a manner cerditable to the party which they represent. Political ambition is to be reckoned with in future. The rights and privileges of the people of our county as a whole regardless of politics, are the paramount consideration. When an official or a politician neglects or refuses to recognize the interests of the people, there is a remedy; and it is already apparent that the people of Chilton County know that remedy.

WHEREAS, the League For Better Government has adopted for its policy economy and efficiency in county affairs and we believe one of the best ways to promote this is by unity and cooperation of those officials charged with the duty of administering the affairs of the County, the Executive Committee of the League For Better Government does, therefore, resolve as follows:

1. It has been rumored that certain persons who were defeated or whose policies were repudiated in the last election are seeking to persuade certain members of the Court of County Commissioners to band together so as to embarrass or defeat the administration assuming office on next Tuesday, and believing that unity and cooperation are essential to the proper administration of the county's affairs, and is necessary for economy and the efficient handling of the same, we call upon and urge that the Members of the Court of County Commissioners, present and elect, work in harmony and united for the common good of Chilton County.

2. It is the spirit of the law of Alabama that no relative or a member of the Court of County Commissioners shall be employed by said Court and it has been the practice of certain members of said Court heretofore to retire so that the remaining members of the Court may employ a person related to the member so retiring. thereby evading the law and doing indirectly what could not be done directly. The League For Better Government believes that such practices should be abandoned and we respectfully call upon each member of said Court to refrain from such practices in the future and to replace relatives of members of the Court in positions of responsibility and authority appointed and selected by such means.

3. We stand for the economical administration of the county's affairs. We believe men should be employed by the officials of the County according to their qualifications to do the work for which they are employed. Employees are paid out of the people's tax money and all taxpayers should have an equal chance in employment. We believe that when any official is elected by the people of the County that it is the duty of any good citizen to cooperate and assist such official in the discharge of his duties and that such official is entitled to this support until he has proven unworthy by his acts and conduct.

We, therefore, urge that the Members of the Court of County Commissioners cooperate with the incoming administration to the end that the affairs of the County may be administered in an economical and efficient manner.

We, the Executive Committee for the League For Better Government in session this the 9th day of January, 1935, make the following resolutions:

First: We stand for an economical administration of the county affairs.

Second: We believe that men ought to be employed by the officials of the county according to their qualifications for the work which they are employed to do. Employees are paid out of the people's tax money and all tax payers and voters ought to have an equal chance in the work of the county.

Third: We believe it is a bad policy for commissioners to hire their kin folks to work under their supervision, at least, it is our opinion that is has proven bad in this county.

Fourth: We believe that the tax payers money ought to be spent as far as practical with the people of the county alway having due regard for the best interest of the tax payers.

Fifth: We believe that when any officer is elected by the people of the county that it is the duty of any good citizen who stands for the best interest of their county to cooperate, aid and assist said officer in the discharge of his duties and that any officer elected by the people is entitled to this support until he has proven unworthy by his conduct and acts:

We, therefore, urge the Commissioners of this county to cooperate with Judge Lee Smith and assist him in every way that they can to make the new administration a success and we condemn any action on the part of any commissioner to try to play politics with the people's money and at the expense of the tax payers.

It has been reported that two commissioners have said that they would only hire a certain faction of the people to work for the county. If this is true we urge these commissioners to not play politics but to hire efficient men to work for the county regardless of their politics.

It is being talked all over the county that the Commissioners Court might be abolished by the present Legislature. We hope that our commissioners will act and represent the best interest of the people of this county and that it will not be necessary for the Court to be abolished. But as the last resort and it is the only way that the people's interest of this county can be taken care of and if the commissioners will not take care of the tax payers money and will not cooperate with the present Probate Judge in trying to give the people of the county an economical administration we urge Senator Thomas and Representative Cox to give us legislative relief.

YOUR CHILDREN AND YOUR CROPS

are pretty much alike!

● Strange as it may seem, your own children and your own crops aren't so different. When a child eats too large a proportion of artificially refined foods, there is danger of lack in vitamin B, so essential to growth and health. If he doesn't get vitamin A, he "catches" infectious diseases. Too little vitamin C, and other diseases result.

And with your crops, the so-called impurities are like vitamins for children—absolutely necessary to healthy growth and normal development.

People And Plants Need Similar Diet

Research Reveals That So-Called Impurities in Fertilizers are As Important As Vitamins in Human Food

Close similarity between the food requirements of children and the food requirements of plants—cotton and corn for example—is being pointed out in a new series of interesting advertisements especially prepared for this newspaper by the Chilean Nitrate Educational Bureau

And these advertisements, agricultural scientists agree. are right in line with the most advanced research and knowledge, for they are based primarily upon the vital impurities or rare elements which, because of its natural origin, Chilean Nitrate of Soda contains.

Recent study has revealed that these impurities in plant diet are as important as the vitamins in the diet of human beings. The impurities give health and growth to plants. When they are lacking in the soil—even one of them—growth is retarded, general health is ruined, death of the plant often results. Just as Vitamin A in children's food protects against infection and "catching" diseases. so the impurities—rare elements such as iodine, boron, magnesium. strontium, calcium, lithium, sodium, etc., protect plants against diseases and give them the health that produces robust growth and fine yield.

These impurities in Chilean Natural Nitrate are Natura-given. Therefore. they are present in this nitrate in Nature's own balance and proportion. As soil scientists study this subject it becomes increasingly apparent that nitrogen, phosphate and potash are only a part of a plant's requirements. More and more importance is attribuated to the impurities in the production of profitable crops.

Alabama Consumers Need Better Corn

Thousands of bushels of corn are shipped into Birmingham each year from the West. 'due to the fact that the Birmingham mills are unable to procure their requirements of graded corn from Alabama," reports Dr. M. F. Jackson, farm produce agent, Birmingham.

"If the farmers of Alabama will exercise more care in selecting their seed, growing either yellow or white corn and not allowing the varieties to become mixed, they will realize a better price for their product," he says.

"I hope that every farmer who contemplates growing corn for the market this year will consult his county agent as to the best variety to grow. The agent will also give instructions as to the prevention of weevil infestation."

Dr. Jackson also advises that "there is also a splendid market in our larger cities for California black-eye peas, provided they are free of weevils. Many thousands of bushels are shipped into our larger consuming centers each year from far distant states that could be grown on our farms in Alabama."

'Just a word about the SERVICE at the MOLTON HOTEL

FIFTH AVENUE AND TWENTIETH STREET

THERE'S a pleasant, friendly atmosphere about the Hotel Molton—a delightful informality and unobtrusively efficient service that appeals to discriminating guests. While Molton service is punctilious, it is entirely lacking in that stiff formality one often finds in larger metropolitan hotels. That's why the guests who stop here once, feel like they're coming home when they return to see us.

IN MEMORY OF MOOD McGEE

I regret very much that I have not already expressed through the papers my deepest gratitude and thanks for the many things people did for us when our dear husband and father was killed. This delay was caused by sickness of my little girl.

Mood was killed Christmas Day in an automobile wreck

Mood was a member of the Pleasant Grove Baptist church. He is survived by his wife, Pearl, and little girl, Helen. father and mother, Jim McGee and Mrs. Dollie McGee, also four brothers, Lewis Clint R. C., and Preston McGee.

Chevrolet Emphasizes Beauty And Style

Master De Luxe models, strongly emphasizing beauty and style, and New Standard models, featuring high-powered performance with economy, are announced today by Chevrolet.

Master De Luxe body models include sedan, coach, business coupe with luggage compartment, sport coupe with rumble seat, sport sedan, and town sedan. In addition to the coach, business coupe, phaeton, and sport roadster, which comprised the Standard line last year, the 1935 New Standard line includes a full sized four-door sedan and a sedan delivery car for light commercial uses.

The 1935 New Standard has been given virtually the same performance ability as the Master De Luxe which, however, departs distinctly from previous Chevrolets in striking advances in design of body and trim. The engines, incorporating many improvements over the 1934 Master motor, are of the same size and design in both models, while in the chassis the chief difference is the presence in the Master De Luxe of Chevrolet enclosed knee-action suspension, now entering its second year improved in construction and operation.

Mechanically, the two models have in common numerous important improvements in construction and design. Both engines have an original system of high pressure jets supplying oil to connecting rod bearings, and electro-plated pistons, heavier crankshafts, and other new features that contribute to better performance, smoothness, and economy. In both chassis, newly designed clutches more effective braking systems, stifter frames, and other advances in design give greater ease of operation, increased durability, and a better ride.

He reassured them that the "things that must be done are on the way and I believe in due time they will be done," and called upon them for a spirit of cooperation and team work.

Applause greeted his plea in which he declared: "I not only ask your cooperation, but I pledge you my best efforts to deserve that cooperation."

Again he was applauded when he deplored the tendency to concentrate power in the hands of a few and at great distance from the people and made a pledge to the "millions who must be ever absent and must trust and pray" that he would be their companion.

God's Children Next

The new deal and what it had done for humanity, reference to Roosevelt and his policies as "the foundation of America and the hope of the world, and a plea to place "God's children right next to God" and "make human welfare our chief concern," also won a heavy response from the throng.

But the climax of his speech came when he turned to the queenly little woman seated nearest him and proclaimed his devotion and gratitude for the "aid and comfort of my life's mate."

For the taking of the oath the Governor left the inaugural platform to stand upon the spot where Jefferson Davis stood to take the oath as President of the Confederate States of America. The same Bible which was used for the Jefferson Davis ceremony was used on this occasion by John C. Anderson, chief justice of the Alabama Supreme Court.

Preceding the Governor's address Lieut. Gov. Thomas E. Knight took the oath to support the Constitution of the United Staes and the State of Alabama and to discharge faithfully the duties of his office. His little daughter, Leila, stood with him as his father, Thomas E. Knight Sr., associate justice of the Supreme Court, administered the oath.

The parade was the most colorful feature of the inauguration. Organized in 10 sections and with 11 bands the parade moved promptly at 11 a. m. with between 2,000 and 3,000 persons participating, and required nearly 40 minutes to pass the reviewing stand.

Gov. Graves and Gov. Miller, seated in a car driven by "Dixie" Howell, Alabama football star, were in the first section riding behind the colors of Col. Graves' regiment in the World War. Howell received a good hand as he drove from the reviewing stand. Col. T. D. Nettles was the Governor's escort.

ed of brick and wood combination will be located on the lot lying between the office of Dr. Arthur Johnson and the Woco Pep Service Station directly across the street from the court house. With a 70 foot front and extending 75 feet, the building will practically cover this lot.

Housing all the city offices, including the mayor's office, city clerk's office, court room, jail, locker and lounging room for members of the fire department, storage room for fire fighting equipment, city attorney's office, library, and auditorium. The building is expected to be one of the best small town city halls in the state.

Contract for the installation of an approximate two-mile extension of the town's watermains was let to the W. H. O'Tool Construction, of Monroe, La., for the sum of $8,664.25. It is not known when work will get underway on this project.

Workmen for both jobs will be supplied by the National Re-employment office here. M. C. Slaughter, manager of the office, stated that only local labor will be used where qualified men are available.

Hookworm Survey Now Underway In Chilton

An extensive survey for the elimination of hookworm dangers in Chilton County has been underway for the past ten days under the direction of the State Health Department and the Chilton County Medical Society. Cooperating with these organizations in the conduction of this survey is the county educational system.

During the past week several schools have been visited and movies tracing in detail the development of the disease and the dangers that may result from neglecting the prevention and cure of the malady are being shown at the various schools. Dr. L. G. Cole, of the State Health Department, is supervising the survey in this county. He stated this week that he expects to be in the county for eight or ten weeks.

Dr. Cole issued the following statement regarding the hookworm ailment and its treatment:

"Hookworms are blood sucking worms. They are worms that depend on human beings for their continuation of life and for their food. They do not multiply in the bowels of those that are infested. But the females lay many thousands of eggs per day. Each egg has the power to develop into a hookworm providing the proper food and conditions exist. These eggs are laid in the bowels and passed out in the waste from the body. Each egg hatches into a tiny worm. These tiny worms must be able to get in contact with human skin in order to reach. in their round about way, the intestines. It is in the intestines that they grow and mature.

"In order to prevent the spread of hookworms it is necessary that the waste from the body be deposited in pits in the ground. These pits are so constructed that even if the eggs do hatch there is no danger of the tiny worms ever being able to get in contact with human beings. These pits are part of a structure called a sanitary toilet. The taking of worm medicine will get rid of the hookworms, but it will not prevent one from becoming re-infested within 5-6 weeks. The building of sanitary toilets and the wearing of shoes will prevent the spread of hookworms.

"Hookworm disease can be prevented and hookworms can be eradicated from any community. But prevention and eradication are only accomplished when the individuals of the community work together in unison and as one group."

B. L. JONES SERIOUSLY ILL IN SOUTH HIGHLAND INFIRMARY

CITY LIMITS

according to estimates by Mayor Jones.

For some time the Mayor has been interested in formulating this program, declaring that he has found since he took over the reins of the city government several weeks ago that many people living on the outskirts of the city limits are anxious to become a part of the Town. Too, he believes that Clanton has long been confined in too small an area, hampering recognition in other sections of the country where figures on the area and population indicate the town does not hold a place of significance which it really deserves.

For several weeks Mayor Jones conducted a goodwill survey of the sections to be effected by the proposed extension of the incorporate limits in an effort to determine the wishes of the people of these sections regarding the proposal. Almost unamiously, he stated, he found that they are heartily in favor of the proposition. With this assurance of cooperation from the territories to be annexed, Mayor Jones has taken definite steps to have the Bill introduced during this session of the Legislature.

Unless unforeseen objectons arise to thwart the passage of the Bill, Mayor Jones feels that it is just a matter of formality and time until Clanton will take its place along with other Alabama towns in population. With this annexation it is believed that Clanton's population will be above 3,000 and possibly near 3,500.

The proposed extension will place the city limits approximately as follows:

On the north to the Willis Tourist Camp, and including the Alabama Mill village; on the west to the Candler Terrace subdivision; on the south to the J. N. Dennis home; on the east to Dr. W. L. Parrish's residence; and on the Lay Dam road to Dudley Collins' home.

Relief Load Is To Be Further Reduced

Thad Holt, director of the Alabama Relief Administration, has notifed all local relief administrators that effective February 1st unemployables will no longer be eligible for relief from Federal funds in Alabama.

The care of unemployables has never been a proper charge against emergency relief funds which were created to care for unemployed persons whose unemployment was due to the great economic depresion. Previous to the economic depression these chronic dependents were cared for from local funds, either private, public or a combination of private and public. It is the attitude of the Federal Government that continued care for these dependents should come from local sources.

Since last March Chilton County has cared for a large number of unemployable families but a recent survey showed there were still 36 unemployable cases in the County receiving relief from Federal Funds.

During the remainder of the month of January the very best effort will be made by the local relief staff to establish resources for the care of these unemployables within their own family. It is believed that in several cases, relatives who are able will assume responsibility for these persons. No case will be turned over to the local governments until every other possible resource has been exhausted.

DOINGS AT THE STATE CAPITOL

By Billy Smith

It is a lot of fun to visit the State capitol while the Legislature is in session, and if one is not in a hurry some good time can be spent visiting around down there.

Chilton County has two mighty good men representing it in this Legislature and Senate. Senator Earle Thomas, who is a good country boy and doesn't deny it, is on the lookout for everything that will go to help our government along. Visited with him the other day at the Capitol and he undoubtedly has been moving the stones since he went down there, and they all know Senator Thomas from Chilton, or have heard about him and take pride in saying they are acquainted with the likable gentleman from Chilton.

Representative Charlie Cox, (or had we better say C. B. Cox?). It's no use to say C. B. Cox, because Charley Cox is too well known and everybody down at the Capitol knows Charlie Cox from Chilton. A glance down the list of important Legislative Committees of the State will show the name of "Cox from Chilton" in many places. The important committees he is on include the Rules Committee, Committee on Seaports, Forestry and Conservation, Municipal Organization and Public Printing. The Rules Committee is perhaps one of the most important committees of the Legislature.

Yes sir, with Charlie Cox and Earle Thomas representing Chilton County at the Capitol, you can bet that folks will know about things and hear from Chilton.

Actions of Governor Graves in many of the appointments have his friends and supporters, as well as others, guessing plenty these days. They are recalling one of the Governor's promises that William F. Feagin would not be connected with the State under the Graves Administration. The guessing comes now since Mr. Feagin is still at the helm of the State Board of Administration, temporarily, so the Governor says.

Hamp Draper has countless friends over the State who don't quite understand this, and it is generally known that even the Governor's closest friends cannot explain it. Hamp Draper is slated to head the Convict Department, which is the same position he held under the first Graves administration.

Close political observers are not uneasy, or are a bit uneasy, depending on which side they lean. Rumors have it that the Governor knows exactly what he is doing and the whole mix-up will work out for the best. That opinion is more entertaining than any other so far.

Our Representative Charlie Cox proposes to introduce a Bill striking at what he considers graft in the buying of materials by some county commissioners in counties over the State. He says that some commissioners add about 15 per cent to the price they pay for supplies and get it refunded to them personally by the sellers. Not a bad idea, we say Mr. Cox.

Weekly newspaper men of Alabama raised up on their eyebrows last week when a Bill went through the House and was labeled "To Provide for a Uniform System of Accounting And Reporting." The ire of the newspaper men and printers of the state was irked because included in this apparently well disguised Bill was a Section providing for all printing, stationery, and supplies for the counties under the new system must be purchased through the office of the State Comptroller. Whoever drew up that Bill and introduced it seemed to forget that the little weekly newspapers of Alabama are a part of the backbone of the State and that they were just about to "cook their goose" if that Bill was passed. It would have been the very thing for the big printing concerns out of the State. The Bill is not yet dead, nor passed. It is a direct hit at the small newspapers and printers, even tho they do fight to bring better things to their communities and state. Here's hoping the Bill dies a very quiet death tonight at the Committee hearing.

Seth P. Storrs, who has been Commissioner of Agriculture, is now Assistant Commissioner of Agriculture.

The Capitol has lost a lot of familiar faces and still retains some. It is a pleasure to know that you can walk in the office of the Secretary of State and there find Howell Turner, that likable chap who served as private secreary to former Gov. Miller.

People of Chilton County who have occasion to visit the Governor's office will be greeted by J. Graves Duncan of Prattville, who has served us well as our former Senator. Mr. Duncan now occupies the chair of Recording Secretary to Governor Graves and he still knows how to grasp your hand with a warm feeling of welcome.

But before you can get into the Governor's private office, you must see Pitts Tyson Maner, one of the State's widely known young Democrats and a fine fellow of the best sort.

PLANS FOR NEW POST OFFICE IN CLANT'N READY

Building Will Be One Of The Most Attractive In Entire Section

Plans and specifications for the new post office building for Clanton have been received, according to Acting Postmaster Billy Smith this week. Bids from contractors for the erection of the building are to be opened February 11.

The plans of the new building show the front facing North on Second Avenue with a wide entrance to the building. The exterior will be constructed of limestone and brick, the limestone to be light grey or light buff.

The building will be steam heated with a large basement housing the boiler room and large storage rooms. The lobby will be most attractive with a tile floor effect and panelled walls. Five windows for the various services include stamps, money orders, postal savings, parcel post and registered mails, with each department occupying a separate space.

Added comforts and conveniences for employees include a private office for the postmaster, drinking fountains, wash rooms and rest rooms.

When completed, this building will be one of the most attractive and beautiful buildings between Birmingham and Montgomery and something to be proud of.

Mrs. Jimmie Taylor was carried to the South Highlands Infirmary last Sunday for treatment. Latest reports state she is doing well.

ACTIVITIES AT COURTHOUSE MOVING ALONG NICELY WITH NEW OFFICIALS

New Office Holders Get Quick Experience

Business at the court house seemed this week to be going along in much the same smooth manner which has been its custom. The three new Democratic officials, who asusmed office last week, declared they are making out fine.

Probate Judge J. Lee Smith asserted that he is fast becoming accustomed to the duties of his office, and with the expert help he has in chief clerk, Mrs. Audelle Miller, and other clerks, he said that he feels sure that the office will continue to render the same high class service that it has in the past. He paid tribute to Judge L.H. Reynolds, declaring that everything in the probate office was left in the most business-like condition which made it much easier to take up his duties where Judge Reynolds had left off when he retired from office.

Although both he and his deputies have suffered an attack of flu since taking office, Sheriff J. R. Hardy seems to have things well in hand. He reported that four arrests have been made by him and the new deputies. These were: one for burglary and larceny; one for violation of the prohibition laws; one for using abusive and obscene language, and one on a warrant from Jefferson County.

Circuit Clerk J. C. Pattillo got in a bit of real practice in the art of conducting his office last Thursday afternoon, when Circuit Judge Arthur Glover held court in the clerk's office and sentenced three to the penitentiary on pleas of guilty.

Dixie Spigener, negro, charged with assault and battery, and sentenced to 75 days hard labor. and John Blankenship, convicted of violation of the prohibition laws, and given a sentence of 95 days, were taken to Kilby Prison Tuesday morning to begin their sentences. Walter Raspberry, the third of the trio, sentenced to 79 days for violation of the prohibition laws. was not taken because he was ill.

Your County Officials

A Brief History of Newly Elected Officers

Hon. J. Lee Smith, Probate Judge

When informed that we wanted to "write him up," Probate Judge J. Lee Smith was just as agreeable as could be expected of a man so recently risen to the rank of the most important post in the county government, but he averred that he didn't know much to tell about himself.

Although he was born in Coosa County, "near the line of Alabama," Chilton County's new probate judge declared that he has every right to consider himself a native of this county. For at the early age of three, his parents removed to Chilton County, and of course he came along, settling at Cooper, where his father, J. W. Smith, began the operation of a general mercantile business.

No doubt it was in this little store and others like in Sylacauga, Clanton and Bristol, Okla., that J. Lee Smith received the training that one day would make him one of the county's leading merchandisers.

The Smith family only lived at Cooper a short time, removing to Sylacauga, where the elder Smith continued in the mercantile business. At the age of seven, Judge Smith accompanied his father to Oklahoma. It was in the Bristol, Okla., High School that he received most of his academic education.

Not only has Judge Smith demonstrated himself a good merchant, he, too, has some claim to being a politician of no mean repute. Three times he has offered himself for public office—and three times the voters have given their o. k. Twice he was elected Mayor of Clanton—and recently Probate Judge of Chilton County.

Returning to Alabama—and Chilton County—in 1914, he entered the mercantile business with his father, operating a retail grocery and feed store. The style of this firm was Smith Grocery Company. This establishment a few years later became the J. W. Smith & Son Wholesale Company. Ill health caused the elder Smith to retire in a short time, selling his interest to J. B. Downs and a few years later J. Lee opened a wholesale firm. of which he was sole owner and operator. This he continued to manage until 1930, when he retired from active business.

In 1917, he took another important step in the business of being a successful citizen. He was married to Miss Lillian Connell, of Clanton, who has played an important role in the business and public life of J. Lee Smith. They have two children, J. Lee, Jr., and Lillian.

An appointment to serve the unexpired term of W. T. Baker, member of the city council, initiated him into public life. That was in 1930. Serving in this capacity little more than six months, his friends persuaded him to make the race for mayor. He agreed and was succesful. During two terms in this office, more than $30,000 of old debts were liquidated and the town was placed not only on a basis of living within its income, but was shown to be netting a substantial sum above its expenses. This record had its influence in the recent race for probate judge.

Soon work will be begun on a new city hall here, results of the efforts of former Mayor J. Lee Smith, and his friends over the county are confident that as Probate Judge he will be equally successful in the operation of the business affairs of Chilton County.

Two Outstanding Motion Pictures Coming To Clanton Under Auspices Baptist Circle 1

Two of the outstanding motion picture dramas of the season are being presented at the Wadesonian Theatre sponsored by Circle No. One of the Clanton Baptist church. These pictures, "Hide-Out" and "Our Daily Bread" have been nationally acclaimed as hits of the season and can be seen here Wednesday and Thursday January 30-31.

Starring Robert Montgomery and Maureen O'Sullivan "Hide-Out", which will be presented Wednesday night, January 30, is the story of a jovial playboy racketeer who believes that he has everything that youth could desire—plenty of money without earning it, pleasure and romance

But it is not until he is driven into the sheltering bosom of a simple farmer's fmily. that he really discovers life and love.

"Our Daily Bread," which brings to you Karen Morley, Tom Keene and Barbara Pepper, is the first offering of King Vidor as an independent producer. Written and directed, as well as produced, by the brilliant director who was responsible for "Street Scene," "The Crowd," "Hallelujah," and "The Champ," and other outstanding achievements of cineema history, "Our Daily Bread" tells in highly dramatice fashion the vivid, human story of a group of disinherited people from all walks of life and who find their way to an abandoned farm which offers them another go at happines.

This interesting bit of drama will be one of the most interesting motion pictures ever seen in Clanton, according to those in charge of the selection of these pictures for the circle. "Our Daily Bread" will be shown on Thursday night January 31.

BUSINESS ON UPGRADE SAYS LOCAL BANKER

Cites Figures Of Bank Here And Coming New Projects In County

At a recent meeting of the stockholders and directors of the First National Bank, of Clanton. figures were cited which definitely indicate that business in this section is on the upward climb.

J. C. Page, cashier, declared that the bank has enjoyed the best business since the 1929 slump. Deposits were higher during last year than at any time since the depression first hit the country, he said, and he feels sure that this year will bring even greater improvement, not only to the banking business but to all other types of business throughout the country.

Believing that the banking business is a definite barometer to all other types of business endeavor, Mr. Page said that he thinks that the people

NOT ABLE TO EXEMPT TAXES SAYS REP. COX

Slight Conflict Met With In Proposed Extension Of City Limits

Difficulty has arisen in plans that were being manipulated in connection with the proposed extension of the city limits of Clanton. An effort was underway on the part of Rep. C. B. Cox to make provisions to exempt all farm lands in the proposed incorporate limits, where five or more acres were in cultivation, but an investigation revealed that this would be in conflict with the State Constitution.

In Clanton during the week end from his duties in Montgomery, Mr. Cox stated that several people who will be affected by the extension conferred with him and made objection to the Bill as it has been drawn and advertised. Representative Cox held a conference with Mayor C. Fenn Jones and members of the town council and it was decided that tax exemption would be granted those properties where five or more acres were in cultivation.

However, Monday morning an investigation was made into the legal phase of the proposition and it was found that such exemption would be in direct conflict with the State Constitution and could not be effected. Mr. Cox stated.

It is understood that several owners of farm properties on the outskirts of the present city limits. and within the proposed extension, have registered protests against being incorporated.

O. O. WELDON MOVES TO LOCATION ON MAIN STREET

He was formerly located directly behind the old Mullins & Moore building on the highway. Mr. Weldon extends an invitation to his friends and customers to visit his new store where they will find his usual line of goods.

The President's Birthday Celebration

On January 30, 1935, the American people will honor their President on his birthday with an unusual celebration. It will be the second of its kind in the history of the world. Franklin Delano Roosevelt is one of the most popular presidents the United States has ever had, and no doubt his constituents would gladly honor him on this occasion in almost any manner he chose.

The choice he has made also typifies the reasons for his popularity. His administration has largely been one effort after another to aid the unfortunate. The man without a job, bankrupt farmers, people on the verge of losing their homes, all these and others have won a glorious audience before the President. Therefore, it is only natural that he asks his people to make of this gala event a means of aiding unfortunate children. Pushing himself to the background he calls to our attention little children hobbling along on crutches, helpless in the grip of infantile paralysis, and says, "Honor me by helping them."

The appeal is so typical of the man, it strikes so close to the best in every person that it's no wonder last year's celebration was such a success, and this one gives every indication of being even better.

Attend the celebration at Maxwell Field Wednesday night, January 30th. It will cost one dollar a couple. A wonderful program is in store for you. Seventy cents of your dollar will be spent in your own geographical area, and a big time is assured all.

A Worthwhile Government Program

The recent proposal that railroad grade-crossing elimination be made a part of federal relief work during the current year is finding increasing support.

It is supported by safety authorities, who know that such a program would do much to reduce and eventually eliminate the great loss of life due to crossing accidents. It is supported by railroad men, who know that it would expedite and improve service. It is supported by state governments, which realize the need for crossing elimination but have no funds to devote to it. And it is supported by the general public and the business man who knows that no form of public works could do more to take up the slack in employment and stimulate heavy industries while at the same time not interfering with any private endeavors.

This last phase of the proposal is not especially important, inasmuch as federal funds are disbursed with the principal stress laid on getting maximum employment for each dollar spent and encouraging private enterprise. In grade-crossing elimination, the greatest part of the money would go to workers, both on the job and in factories supplying cement, steel and other materials. And the revivifying effect of this would give impetus to employment.

Safety, employment and public welfare will all be advanced if the government accepts the proposal. There are some 30,000 grade crossings which have no protection —and each year thousands of lives are unnecessarily wasted because of accidents occurring at them. Here the government has an opportunity to be of the utmost service to all the pople.

Success Through Cooperation

An interesting example of what agricultural cooperatives can achieve. when well managed and loyally supported. is presented by the Dairymen's League Cooperative Association of New York, a pioneer in the Easter field.

Due to the aggressive, constructive work of the organization, milk prices did not tumble in the League's area until about a year after the values of other farm products had slumped heavily. And when, under the pressure of great economic forces, the milk price structure did crumble, the League didn't take time out for a "crying party," but at once went to work to remedy conditions. The result of that is found in the fact that, according to November reports, the milk price average is practically back to the level of November, 1931, before the [illegible] of the depression hit the milk shed.

This doesn't mean that the troubles are over for League members. The League will continue to work toward effecting a better balance between the cost of milk and other costs. In the light of past experience, it is not too much to forecast that these efforts will likewise succeed.

Other farm co-ops, dealing in all manner of commodities, have shown similar records. This is not due to luck—it is the consequence of knowledge, of enthusiasm, of hard work, and of faith in the cooperatives by members. When all work together for the common good, better times result.

The Silver Lining

Those who predicted a few months ago that the United States would shortly be flooded with silver, due to the Treasury's purchasing program, will have to revise their views, according to Rene Leon, the well-known monetary expert. According to Mr. Leon, little silver is available anywhere on earth today. The result is that demand must soon exceed supply—with rising silver prices following.

The outlook, consequently, for renewed activity in the mining industry is better. Stimulated demand for silver, at a profitable price, will put men to work, cause heavy capital investments, and lead to general industrial expansion.

Neighbor Trade Increases

Although statistics showing steadily increased exports and imports give graphic evidence of the progress toward recovery that occurred in the country's foreign trade in 1934, the value of exports in 11 months having gained 32 per cent, the New York Times remarks that "the picture remains incomplete unless consideration is given to the problems which bulked large with exporters and importers last January but have since been entirely eliminated or reduced very considerably in importance."

In commenting upon the results obtained under the Roosevelt administration, in the face of discouragements that previously had seemed to Washington to be insurmountable, the Times continues:

"Importers who a year ago were certain that no substantial gains in business were possible for them because of unsettled currency conditions here, the 'threat of embargoes' and other import restrictions authorized under Section 3 (e) of the National Industrial Recovery Act, are now optimistic about selling a still further increased volume of goods in 1935. The closing months of 1934 saw many previously dormant lines regain lost ground and the situation has become much better than importers had hoped.

"Exporters likewise have been most agreeably surprised by the solution of many of their former worries. Sales to many markets had been at a stand-still because of exchange difficulties. Since then exchange relations in practically all the South American countries have been liberalized. Money on current business is coming through and funds frozen for three years are gradually being relaxed."

Apparently as a direct consequence of President Roosevelt's good neighbor policy with the 20 Latin American republics, our trade with all of them was greatly revived last year. Material progress is being made with Great Britian and all British dominions and France and several other continental countries in the gradual removal of trade barriers that were erected in self-defense as well as pique over the enactment of our ill-timed Hawley-Smoot tariff act. It is a slow and tedious process. Deep-seated prejudices must be overcome. But the work of negotiating reciprocal trade agreements is going forward and advantages to American produce are being obtained.

Merryle Rukeyser, foreign trade specialist of the Hearst publications, assigns as a substantial if strange reason for our improved foreign trade the fact that American business men for the first time have reliable statistical data of world commerce, finance and exchange. It a copyrighted financial editorial, he says:

"The business man clings to his familiar theories when discussing public affairs, but he is more realistic when he makes decisions affecting his own enterprise. Then he asks for the data and, fortunately, the quality of the figures available has improved greatly in the last year.

"One of President Roosevelt's lasting achievements will be the introduction of better bookkeeping methods for the United States. Under George N. Peek, special foreign trade adviser to the President, substantial steps have been taken to keep books on economic relations with the outside world in general and with individual foreign countries in particular.

"It is regrettable that similar data were not on the desks of our great private banking houses when, before the depression, our private investors were playing the fanciful game of financial imperialism, giving the sinews of peace to alien governments and corporations."

These casual tributes from recognized New York financial authorities speak volumes for the progress gained last year under the Roosevelt administration toward the recovery of the country's commerce and industry.

The Small Stores

Pessimists have long predicted the gradual extinction of the small stores and their absorption by the national chains. One observer of the trend toward the dominance of combinations of capital in the retail trade wrote:

"It is not pleasant to the small merchant to be dragged behind the counter as a salaried employee; a little spoke in a big wheel."

But it happens that this doleful prediction is not of recent origin. It was written and published in the Springfield Republican in 1895—40 years ago. At that time the big department stores were just getting under way. Since then we have seen added menaces to the small retailer in the form of mail order houses and chain stores. Yet thousands of small town stores have survived, many of them becoming big stores. Naturally those which have succeeded are the ones which have kept abreast of the times, adopting new methods and policies as occasion demanded to meet the keener competition presented by the larger enterprises. And a most important factor which has contributed to the success of retailers large and small has been intelligent, persistent and adequate advertising.

The Interest Rate

The bill to make the legal interest rate in Alabama 6 instead of 8 per cent, which has passed the Senate, will meet with strong public approval in the state. Of course, what's one man's meat is another's poision. Money lenders are going to protest.

Alabama has the highest rate of interest allowed by law in any state. There are six other states which have made 8 per cent the legal rate, but none higher than this figure. There are 31 states that have the 6 per cent rate, three that allow only 5 and the others 7 per cent.

There is a distinction between the rate sanctioned by law, and the maximum rate which may be stipulated by contract. Fortunately in the bill now pending the 6 per cent rate applies to both types of loans.

It has been said by competent students of our economic system that no community can ever reach a permanent basis of prosperity under excessive interest charges for money. There is a well-entrenched opinion that 8 per cent is excessive.—Selma Times-Journal.

After dismissing his congregation on the Sabbath I saw the preacher coming down the steps of his church with a saw and a hammer in one hand and his hat in the other hand. I asked this preacher if he was carrying his pulpit tools home with him. He said "Yes, I have been sawing right and left and I have been beating them up and down and now I am making my escape with my hat in my hand." I had listened in on the service and I was of the opinion that when a man used a saw and a hammer in the pulpit it was about time for him to make his escape under double quick and that it was best for all parties concerned that the minister carry his tools home with him. Blessed is that preacher who uses hammers and saws only where hammers and saws are to be used. They are out of place in the pulpit.

One cold morning in January I entered a drug store in Montgomery and stood for a few minutes at the heater. While standing there I observed that five young women entered the store for refreshments and that each one drank and smoked a cigarette while sitting at the tables. During the same time five young men entered for drinks. They quietly drank their glass of Coca Cola and left the drug store and not one of them smoked a cigarette in sight. I did not say that the young men did not smoke, but I do say that they seemed so disgusted and ashamed at the actions of the girls until they passed out without smoking. I may be old fashioned but I have never seen the woman who was made more beautiful and more lady-like by holding a cigarette between her lips.

Pat had a neighbor who always said on hearing bad news "That is mighty bad but it could be worse." He heard this so many times until one day he decided to relate to him a dream that was too bad for his neighbor to reply with his old statement. Said Pat to his neighbor: "I had an awful dream last night." You did," replied the neighbor, "and what did you dream?" "I dreamed that I died," said Pat. "Well,' replied his neighbor', that was mighty bad but it could have been worse." But," said Pat, "that was not all of the dream. I dreamed that I only died but that I went to hell." The neighbor thought for a moment and then replied, "That was mighty bad but it could have been worse." Pat was rather indignant as he inquired, "What could have been worse than for me to dream that I died and then went to hell? Why, my man, nothing could be worse than that." "Yes," replied his neighbor, "it could have been true and then it would have been worse." Many bad things happen to all of us and yet they could be worse.

In the early morning I went out to my car and found that ice had collected on the hood and on the windshield during the night. I tried hard to wipe the ice from the glass but it refused to be removed. I tried hard to clear the hood of the ice that covered it over, but it would not let go. Then I decided to start the engine and see if it could help me. The machinery had not been running for more than two minutes before I saw the ice was beginning to melt. In a little while the ice was all gone. It fought hard against the heat but it lost in the struggle. Ice will not collect on the hood of your car when the machinery is running. I have seen many a church all coverd over with coldness and on examination I have discovered that the machinery was idle. The best way in this world to melt the ice that gathers about church life is to set the church machinery into action. When church machinery is idle, church life will freeze over.

I saw a little girl two and a half years of age enter a room where were many toys and play things of all kinds. No sooner had she entered than she took possession. A little late another little girl entered and she, too, wanted to possess and play, but the first girl to enter set up her objections in cries and pushes. "Det back," said she, "all these things are mine." How like that little child do we find many grown up folks today. We see things and we claim them and then say. "They are mine." We are not prone to give room and to share toys with the rest of the world. There is no better for the human race until we learn the lesson of sharing. What can we do when everyone pushes and slashes to have and to hold. "It is mine," says young and old.

LOCAL MEN VISIT CROSLEY SHOW HELD IN BIRMINGHAM

W. H. Klinner and O. C. Bennett spent Tuesday and Wednesday of last [illegible] Hotel in Birmingham attending the Crosley Corporation's annual exposition of new models, with especial emphasis on their 1935 Crosley radios and the famous Shelvador electric refrigerators.

Mr. Bennett, who is salesman for the E. L. Klinner Furniture Co., here declares that these new models are outstanding in the development of convenient features. The radio carries five bands of reception, getting everything from airplane broadcasts to amateur stations, in all wave lengths.

Both Mr. Klinner and Mr. Bennett were enthusiastic about the new Crosley Shelvador refrigerator, declaring that in beauty, utility and convenience it is the finest thing they have yet seen. They are convinced that when their stock of Shelvadors arrive this spring and these improved features are seen by Chilton County housewives they will meet with an enthusiastic reception.

STUDY CLUB SPONSORS "BLIND MADE GOODS" SALE JANUARY 31

The Clanton Study Club will hold a sale of "blind made goods" on the last Thursday in January. This is quite an urgent work, and a mute appeal to those of us more fortunate.

The sale of these goods will make it possible to give twenty-seven blind seamstresses regular work.

The products are standard in quality, price and workmanship. All above the actual cost of the material goes to the blind worker.

The sale of articles will be held at the Taylor Dry Goods Company, January 31. Those who help make it a success will remember there was another

"Who of old didst love His hand to help and lay
On the dull vacant eyes that craved for light."

Kept Taking Cardui
Until She Got Rid of the Severe Pains

When Mrs. Ida Hege, of Edinburg, Ind., was in a painful, run-down condition, she took Cardui, with the results she describes below: "I had just been what one might say dragging around, feeling miserable and all out of sorts. I remembered how Cardui helped my aunt. I sent for six bottles of Cardui and when I had taken them, I was much better and stronger. I did not suffer so much pain. I continued taking Cardui until I had taken nine bottles. I do not have the severe pains." . . . Thousands of women testify Cardui benefited them. If it does not benefit YOU, consult a physician.

L & N TO HAVE SAFETY RALLY FRIDAY, JAN. 25

Dan Hogan Will Act As The Chairman For This Interesting Occasion

Railroad employes of Clanton, Ala., and vicinity will hold a safety rally at the court house starting at 8:00 p. m.. Friday evening, January 25, according to Dan Hogan, who is chairman for the occasion. An outstanding feature of the meeting will be the reception by radio of addresses by two railroad presidents, James B. Hill of the Louisville & Nashville and Fitzgerald Hall of the Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis. The addresses which are to be broadcast at 8:00 p. m., will be interspersed with musical numbers.

Last year a similar broadcast was made and letters were received from listeners in all parts of the United States and Canada, voicing approval of the program. The railroaders are inviting their families and friends to tune in on WSM (650 kilocycles) at 8:00 p. m., January 25, to enjoy this year's program with them.

Reduction of injuries to railroad employes is the primary purpose of the broadcast. Last year, Mr. Hill, then president of the N. C. & St. L. Railway. challengtd the Louisville & Nashville to a contest in 1934 to determine which road could reduce employe injuries by the greater per centage. The N. C. & St. L. Railway won the contest by having reduced injuries to employes by 51.4 per cent.

A Prophecy Fulfilled

Fifty years ago Bell prophesied that telephone lines would some day interconnect the cities of America. Today, the whole world is at your fingertips by telephone.

This remarkable achievement did not just happen. It was brought about through years of research and invention by a large group of Bell laboratory workers, scientists and others, aided by the army of 270,000 Bell System telephone workers and the 800,000 investors who supplied the money.

It is the united effort and support of these million or more people that makes possible a telephone service international in scope and unsurpassed in quality, dependability and low cost. And telephone service in America is low in cost. For example, in the evening after 8:30 you can make most station-to-station calls over a distance of 75 miles for about 35c; 150 miles, 50c; 275 miles, 75c; and the farther you talk the lower the cost per mile.

That more than twenty-five billion local and long distance calls are made every year by the American people is proof of the value and importance of the service in the every-day social and business life of the nation. Such wide-spread and general use is evidence also that the Bell System is rendering a service satisfactory to the public in quality and cost. This is in keeping with the Bell System policy of furnishing the most and the best service possible at the least possible cost.

CHICOHI CHATTER

It seems that Spring saw his, her, its, shadow and the groundhog got cold feet or some such conundrum.

Frankly, I don't know why I made that remark, because I really intended writing a very uplifting paragrph on "My Hobby," which only goes to show that no one knows his own mind. Well, so much for that. I should have been a lawyer anyway; I think in such straight lines.

Finally, back to my subject, it really is a great thing to indulge in a --- hobby. Say, for instance, one has a knack at taking snapshots. He enjoys this so much that he becomes an expert in the field of cameratics, (or what have you). This not only affords a great deal of pleasure for this particular individual but may result in his life's work. Often, a hobby has been commercialized and good old greenbacks equal an important result, thus turning one's work into play. This much is the lucky day we've heard so much about.

But that is not the most important reason for maintaining one particular pastime. The real motive in doing so lies within the fact that it occupies leisure time, profitably. Economists, busily spinning our future lives (nice of them), believe that in the future years, leisure will occupy the majority of our waking hours. (The machine doth loom upon us). Thus we must have something to do with our thumbs besides twiddle them.

So, as I am of a kindly nature, I decided to suggest one's forming interest in a hobby as to ocupy the gray matter, all because I once read in a book that "an idle brain is the devil's workshop, etc. Who knows. I may have saved some sad soul from a life of crime. Well, figure it out for yourself.

Monday morning a program was presented to us in chapel, of which I can truthfully state, nothing of its kind has 'mine eyes' ever before, witnessed in our auditorium.

Mr. John Hollis of Mitchell Dam was kind enough to demonstrate, with the aid of several of his employees, the intricate and hazardous steps in the work of the river-bed worker, the diver. The appartus used in his awe-inspiring demonstration included the diver's suit; a pair of metal shoes, which we were informed, weighed a nere 50 pounds each; a steel helmet; and an air-pump used in supplying the worker with air. while submerged. He also had with him various weights and lines used by the diver for signals to his tender. Mr. Hollis carefully explained the operations ensuing this dangerous occupation. He told several interesting incidents which he personally experienced while working under water. The program was made more realistic by his going through the operations of rigging up in the entire oufit and receiving air from the pump.

An interesting item lies in the fact that it is necessary to soap the hands in order to slide them through the necessarily tight wrist bands of the suit.

I thing anybody, however adventurous, aspiring to the art of deep-sea diving, will be wise in raising ducks or writing love lyrics after witnessing this hair-raisng demonstraton.

Friday of last week was a scene of tongues of fire, minute-thinking and hot debating at 'Chicohi.' Six representatives of the Jr. III Class were the debators. The question for discussion was "Unemployment Insurance." The affirmative was supported by Guy Alred and Pearl Bennett; the negative speakers were Geraldine Hollis and Clive Aldridge. The speakers were judged not only for quality points but for posture. enunciation and diction as well. The decision by the judges was made in favor of the negative side, Geraldine Hollis being declared the best speaker.

Comments from daily papers and magazines tend favorably toward higher education for the masses in the U. S.

One well known Satirist once said of our country: "Who reads an American book or goes to an American play?" I think the people are proving this more untrue every day in that more attention is being given to the finer arts and less to monetary values.

Lately, Alabama has been fortunate in being ble to offer her citizens. from the foot-lights of the larger cities, grand opera, Shakesperian plays, the cast enveloping well known and some of the greatest actors and actresses.

"Green Pastures," by Marc Connelly, which is said to be the nearest approach to real American opera is to be presented in Birmingham and Montgomery at an early date. The play was adopted from the book "Old Man Adam and His Chillun."

The Jr. III Class seems to have become quite interested in oratory. They have now organized in a most worthy cause, debating. The following officers were elected:

President, Geraldine Hollis; Vice-President. Marshall Lee Ware; Secretary, Pearl Bennett.

Each month different subjects will be selected for discussion pro and con.

Members selected for debating for the month of January are Clive Aldridge, Guy Alred, Pearl Bennett and Wendall Bean, Willie Connatser being chairman. The topic for debate for January has not yet been selected. The club holds a meeting every other Tuesday.

Thanks,

Clanton's Day Policeman In New Uniform

Visitors to Clanton these days sit up and take notice of the metropolitan air that is being exhibited. Standing out like a sentinel is the town's day policeman, John Browder, all bedecked in full police uniform. Officer Browder was the cynosure of all eyes Tuesday morning as he took his stand at the intersection of Main Street and the highway, where he is kept busily engaged directing traffic.

Commenting on the idea of putting the day marshall in uniform, Mayor Jones said that in his opinion it lends a dignity to the town and served as a convenience to the traveling public, who might wish to make inquiries of the town's officers and be unable to locate them if they are dressed in plain clothes. The night men will not be in uniform, however, he said.

Here's how Black-Draught fills the needs of a family laxative in the home of Mrs. J. S. Stoker, Fort Worth, Texas: "The grown-ups in my family," she writes, "have always taken powdered Thedford's Black-Draught for biliousness, headaches and other ailments (due to constipation) and found it a reliable remedy. They needed something to cleanse their systems and Syrup of Black-Draught acted well." . . . Your druggist sells this reliable laxative in both forms. "Children like the Syrup."

Universal Credit Company Extends Ford Financing Service

New Local Office Opens In Birmingham Alabama

These are days of service to the buying public. With a view to further extending the convenient and economical UCC financing service to purchasers of Ford cars on time. the Universal Credit Company will open another office in this sales area of Ford Motor Company. Birmingham is the location of this fifty-second office of UCC, which is the exclusively Ford Credit Company, presenting the only Authorized Ford Finance Plans.

During recent months much has been written about the need for the expansion of credit in certain basic industries. This need for more credit is based on the fact that the public must be placed in a position enabling them to buy, which in turn creates jobs and by increasing employment, more buyers are developed who, in turn. further increase employment through necessary purchases.

The motor industry has been a shining example of progressiveness. There has been no need for expansion of credit in the automobile trade, because that industry had created within inself a complete credit service for the use of the motor car Dealer and consumer. Paying for transportation as it is used and enjoyed has met with public approval.

It is interesting to know that 3 out of every 5 purchases of all makes of cars are made on a convenient budget or time-payment basis. This buying out of income means that factories can build three times as many cars as would be possible if all sales were restricted to cash transactions. This larger production results in greater values for the public. The importance of consumer credit in motor car sales and what it means to general prosperity is further emphasized when we know that 1 out of every 10 persons employed is connected directly or indirectly with the automobile business.

Thus everybody benefits a large volume sales create lower prices with better values, and buying out of income again contributes to family contentment, wider employment, opportunities to travel together. to see things at first hand, to gain knowledge, and to live in the healthy open spaces away from the congested centers.

Universal Credit Company was organized six years ago to serve the time sales requirements of Ford Dealers and Ford purchasers exclusively. Through UCC Plans the customers of Ford Dealers are assured of a courteous financing service at low cost.

The Birmingham office of Universal Credit Company will be located in the Martin Building, 2308 4th Avenue, North, Telephone Number 7-8149. Mr. J. E. Seals, a man of long credit experience, and with a knowledge of modern motor car merchandising, will be in charge of the Birmingham activities of UCC.

Letters To The Editor

DORMINEY DISCUSSES GRAVES' INAUGURAL ADDRESS

Editor, Chilton County News:

I have been a constant reader of your paper for quite a while. Your one motto seems to be "Hear All and Hold Fast to That Which is Good." Your one great Democratic principle seems to be "Equal Rights to All and Special Privilege To None," and then your one grand policy seems to be "Let the People Rule." As long as you cherish this motto, this principle and this policy, I believe you and your paper will continue to grow and prosper. Your paper is a welcome visitor to my box every Thursday which I gladly accept and read.

Well, Mr. Editor, if you don't mind, I would like for you to reprint part of Gov. Graves' speech he delivered to a crowd estimated to be 50,000. I consider it well worth the space and all the ground it covers, and it covers plenty.

Let everybody switch on now and listen; he said:

"For a long time there has been a trend to take the powers of the government away from the people and put those powers in some far-off places, or far-off hands, so far away that the average citizen can have no touch with them. Now, let's get the consent of the people, those that are governed, on such things as liquor legislation. Let them say if they want to keep their old fee system; let them say whether or not they want to have the power to recall their officers. Let them determine the kind of government they want for their counties and for their cities. To put it in a nutshell, 'Let's let the people rule'."

Mr. Editor, as liquor legislation and prohibition seem to be the first thing on docket, we will try to discuss it first. I want it understood in the outset that I do not question the theory of Prohibition, but, I do reserve the right to go after it with all the earnestness of my soul in its practice.

We will now try to outline some things about it we do not cherish very much. In its enforcement some seem to worship the "Fee System," which is nothing short of graft, which is bound to bring corruption. In the second place it calls for a fine and other costs which is very commonly called "Legalized Robbery," and in the end it brands it victims as criminals, which to my mind in many instances no crime has been committed. Mr. Editor, under Prohibition I figure we either profit or we loose. Pray tell me which side the general public is on, and then I want you to tell me "where and when" it has helped our churches, our schools, our morals, society, or even our government. Don't you honestly believe it has caused disrespect for other more valuable laws. To illustrate: if a "cheap man" is found murdered with the odor of liquor on him sentiment goes against the first crime and overlooks the latter and last but not least it gives the strong a chance and a right to prey upon the poor, the weak, the ignorant and the helpless. Slavery might have been alright in theory but it was somewhat wrong in practice. A Republican Administration freed the slaves, let us hope that this Democratice Administration will free us from under the bondage of Prohibition.

I am hereby calling on all loyal citizens that see as I do to help me fight to condemn, to kill and to bury Prohibition on Tuesday, February the 26th. 1935.

Yours very truly,
S. Y. DORMINEY.

PROTESTS AGAINST EXPANSION OF CITY LIMITS

Editor Chilton County News:

I wish to make a protest against the extension of the city limits to include a lot of farmers without giving them a voice in the matter.

There is no justice whatsoever in taking in a lot of farms near the city limits. It will not add the least bit to their productiveness. Mr. Fenn Jones says he is getting hearty support in the matter. Now I think if he will look into the issue a little closer he will find that almost 100 per cent of his support originated in and is confined to the present city limits. The city of Clanton already owes considerable money and is planning to create an additional debt of about $40,000.00 and it is only natural that citizens of Clanton would like to have some help to carry the heavy load. We have not heard of any plan to give us any benefits in the near future or at any future time.

I am against the proposition unless everyone is exempted from city tax until such time as the city gives him some service in the way of water and sewer extensions etc., commensurate with [illegible]

Mr. Jones claims—he has to follow the land lines and that makes it hard to avoid taking in some farms. Now I do not believe the law compels him to follow the land lines, but if it does, he should treat all alike and not zigzag around some of the best farms surrounding Clanton.

Now, in conclusion. I wish to invite Mr. Jones to come across the creek on the north side and see if he can find any of that hearty support he speaks of. I have canvassed the situation thoroughly over here and I have only been able to find but one man, a Mr. Bean, in the northwest corner of the proposed limits, who is in favor of the plan, and he has only a small patch of nut grass that got too tough for him and he ran off and left it. You are welcome to it and we will help you move it over to Clanton if you will let our cotton farmers alone.

—G. W. WILLIS.

Eulogy on the Dog

(By Senator Geo. G. Vest of Missouri)

Gentlemen of the Jury: The best friend a man has in this world may turn against him and become his enemy. His son or daughter that he has reared with loving care may prove ungrateful. Those who are nearest and dearest to us, those whom we trust with our happiness and our good name, may become traitors to their faith. The money that a man has, he may lose. It flies away from him, perhaps when he needs it most. A man's reputation may be sacrificed in a moment of ill-considered action * * * The people who are prone to fall upon their knees to do us honor when success is with us may be the first to throw the stone of malice when failure settles its cloud upon our head * * * The one, absolute, unselfish friend that a man can have in this selfish world is his dog.

Gentlemen of the Jury: A man's dog stands by him in prosperity and in poverty, in health and in sickness. He will sleep on the cold ground when the wintry winds blow and the snow drives fiercely, if only he can be near his master's side. He will kiss the hand that has no food to offer; he will lick the wounds and sores that come in encounter with the roughness of the world. He guards the sleep of his pauper master as if he were a prince. When all other friends desert, he remains. When riches take wings and reputation falls to pieces, he is constant in his love as the sun in its journey through the heavens. If fortune drives his master forth an outcast in the world, friendless and homeless, the faithful dog asks no higher privilege than that of accompanying him to guard against danger, to fight against his enemies; and when the last scene of all comes, and death takes the master in its embrace and his body is laid away in the cold ground, no matter if all other friends pursue their way, there by the graveside will the noble dog be found, his head between his paws, his eyes sad, but open in alert watchfulness, faithful and true even to death.

Walter Teel At Home; Condition Is Improved

Walter Teel, who has been undergoing treatment at a Montgomery hospital for injuries suffered when he fell 14 feet while doing repair work at the city wells, was brought to his home in Clanton Sunday afternoon by a Martin & Sons ambulance. His condition is said to be much improved and although it will likely be several weeks before he will be able to return to his work, it is believed that his condition will steadily improve now.

He was injured several days ago when he fell 14 feet from a scaffold into the city reservoir. While working on the scaffold his foot is said to have slipped from underneath him when he attempted to walk from one side of the reservoir to the opposite side on the scaffold.

MOTHER OF "PUD" WALKER DIED LAST MONDAY NIGHT

Mrs. Sallie Walker, age 64, died last Monday night at the county almshouse following a lingering illness. She was well known in Clanton, being the mother of "Pud" Walker, who is perhaps one of Clanton's most familiar figures. "Pud's" friends extend deepest sympathy. Burial took place at Mt. Pisgah.

BUSINESS UP

of Chilton County have every right to march ahead with assurance that 1935 holds much for them. For 15 years the First National Bank has been serving the people of this section and its stockholders and directors are proud that every year has brought assurance of continued faith in its policies. A constant substantial increase in the institution's business is indicative of the regard in which it is held by those who patronize it, Mr. Page pointed out.

Every member of the board of directors were re-elected and the bank will continue its service with the same staff of officials, it was announced. A substantial dividend was paid to the stockholders, Mr. Page said.

With the several PWA projects that are expected to get underway in this county within the next few weeks, there is every reason to look forward with renewed hope for better business conditions during 1935, is the expressed opinion of several of the county's leading citizens. Within a few weeks work will be begun on the new city hall in Clanton, which will give employment to near 100 men for several months; the contract for the erection of a new $55,000 post office building here will be awarded in next month, and the paving of another two mile section of the Clanton-Selma highway is now getting underway.

WANTED
1000 Lbs. BUTTERFAT

A few weeks ago we advertised for 500 pounds Butterfat, and thought that would be as much as we could expect to get out of Chilton County, but last Saturday we got over 900 pounds, and want to make it 1000 pounds for next Saturday. Our price of cream for last Saturday was 27c and prices today show that cream is STEADY and will probably hold good for some time. We are increasing our force this wek in order to get your money out to you as quickly as possible. Help us to make this a BANNER cream day for Chilton County — REMEMBER, WE WANT 1000 POUNDS BUTTERFAT, for which we will pay the market price.

Chilton To Participate In President's Anniversary

On Wednesday evening, January 30, the people of Montgomery and surrounding counties including Chilton, will celebrate the birthday of our great President, Franklin D. Roosevelt, at a ball at Maxwell Field. 30 per cent of the proceeds of this Ball will be presented to the President as a birthday gift to be used in research work and study of infantile paralysis, the dread disease which has taken such a heavy toll in the lives of American people and which our great President is so anxious to have stamped out. 70 per cent of the proceeds of the Ball will remain in Montgomery District to be used in providing treatment and appliances for cripples suffering as a result of infantile paralysis.

Through the cooperation of the Kiwanis and Pilot clubs of Clanton it has been made possible for Chilton County to share in this celebration at Maxwell Field. A special program of entertainment and fun is being planned from 8:00 to 9:00 for guests of the Ball who do not wish to remain for the Ball proper which begins at nine o'clock. Tickets for the ball will be sold in Chilton County at $1.00 per couple. The following committee has been selected to sell tickets in Chilton County:

Miss Nolan Meroney, Chairman.
Mr. J. Mell Martin.
Mr. Mack Wyatt, Clanton.
Mrs. T. B. Deramus, Verbena.
Miss Sarh Hollis, Mitchell Dam.
Mrs. Ethel M. Lecroy, Lay Dam.
Mrs. Edith Villadsen, Thorsby.
Miss Josephine Adams, Jemison.
Miss Boots Potts, Maplesville.

In case one of the above does not see you within the next few days you can obtain your ticket from the office of either the Chilton County News or the Union-Banner. Any member of the Pilot Club can supply you with a ticket so do not wait for a member of the Committee to hunt you up but arrange to get your ticket as soon as it is convenient.

The 70 per cent of the proceeds of this Ball which is to remain in Montgomery District will be spent through the Rehabilitation Service under the management of Mr. E. H. Gentry of Montgomery. Mr. Gentry and the local Child Welfare Workers will decide on cases in each county to receive help from this fund. Due to an epidemic of infantile paralysis some years ago, Chilton County has more cripples suffering from infantile paralysis than any other county in the district, therefore, Chilton County will receive more than 70 per cent of the proceeds of the ticket sales actually made in the County.

May we show our appreciation of this great opportunity by patronizing the Ball? If you do not care to attend the Ball you can find no better way to spend $1.00 than by purchasing a ticket and thus helping to restore some crippled child who has no other means of being restored to health and happiness. See one of the Committee Members or go to the office of one of the local papers and purchase your ticket within the next few days. Remember, every ticket sold means 70c to be spent in restoring to health some child already suffering from Infantile Paralysis and 30c to be spent in studying the causes and planning means whereby the disease may be eradicated so that future generations will be spared the suffering that is the lot of so many helpless victims of the disease now.

MY PERSONAL COLUMN

Billy Smith

Again the urge to "write something" other than the more serious thoughts expressed in editorials has befallen the author of this column and readers of the News are the victims.

News at the State Capitol has been going on so rapidly that it was useless for me to attempt to keep up with it and try to tell it on paper. Was there for a short while last week and found that our two representatives were right on the job as usual.

We all have heard the more or less popular song "Get Along Little Dogey" and those who passed through Calera in Shelby County last Saturday night early were no doubt singing that song, but in no jubilant spirit. One of Shelby County's pet calves took his stand in the center of the highway in town and was doing his best to direct traffic —and a good job he was doing.

The News has a quantity of good syrup on hand which needs to be disposed of. Somebody come around and make us an offer. And of course we have plenty of sweet potatoes to go along with the molasses.

Henry T. Pipes is having a mighty good time these days visiting around the courthouse when he is able to be away from his official duties as supervisor at the railroad. Mr. Pipes is a dandy and his laughter is good cure for many ills.

The extension of the city limits of Clanton is creating considerable interest and rightly so. Personally, I am very much in favor of the idea. We must realize that Clanton is no longer the little community it has been but is now gasping for more room for growth and is fast becoming a good sized town. Failure to extend the limits of the city will hinder its future growth and prosperity.

A fast worker came to our town last week with an advertising scheme which he attempted to sell by means of using the telephone. I understand that he did sell some, but in most cases was turned down flat. My advice to advertisers is to ask your local newspapers before you say "yes" to these fly-by-nighters.

That Clanton is growing is evidenced by the tremendous pick-up in postal receipts at the local post office in the past several months and by the added number of persons now receiving their mail through this office.

Stopped by to see John Howard in Varbena the other day at his new service station on the highway. John has a mighty nice place there now and is making many friends. Adjoining his place is a repair shop with our old friend Fred Calloway as the head man.

The Alabama Press Association convened in the Capital City last week and got off to a flying start with new officers. Our good friend Bruce Shelton, editor of the Tuscaloosa News will serve as president and it looks like the press association is going places this year.

A Bill known as the Calhoun Bill has been introduced in the Legislature and with approval will go through, protecting newspapers and newspapermen in keeping to themselves information as to their sources of news and information which is published. That Bill received the unamious approval of every newspaperman in Alabama. It not only protects them but is also a protection for the public in general.

I have always been told that there is nothing like having one's wife as a partner in business and I'm beginning to believe it more and more. I note with a great deal of satisfaction that Judge Lee Smith has the same opinion. Yes, Mrs. Smith, you will find the people are glad to see you helping to look after our county's business. You folks over the county who have never met Mrs. Smith should drop in the Judge's office and get acquainted with a charming lady. May we say "The First Lady Of The County."

Several Hurt In Wreck Near Here Sun. Night

Eight negroes suffered injuries Sunday night when the two cars in which they were riding collided on the Clanton-Birmingham highway at the Collins Store, just north of the Reynolds Swimming Pool.

According to Sam Cope, of the Spigener Funeral Home, and Samuel Martin, of Martin & Sons, who brought the injured to the hospital, the cars evidently collided headon.

Raymond Johnson, Montgomery negro, was believed to be more seriously injured than any of the others. He is thought to have suffered a fractured skull and perhaps internal injuries. He is being treated at the Central Alabama Hospital.

Others injured were: Joe Carmichael, shoulder injury; Mary Carmichael, bad gash on forehead; Sarah Johnson, minor injuries, and two small children suffered lacerations and bruises.

RELIEF WORK GOES UNDER A NEW PROCESS

Commissioners Will Aid In Placing Of Workers Over County

A system has been devised by State relief authorities and county governments through which it will be an easy matter to determine whether or not persons who have been receiving help from the government through its relief channels are really worthy of this assistance.

Floyd Smith, director of work in Chilton County, turned over a list of more than 125 names to the Commissioners Court at a special meeting Monday of persons who have been advanced food and other necessities during recent months. He explained that the county may work these people on county roads, or any other projects. in repayment of their indebtedness to the Alabama Relief Administration. The county, however, is required to pay each person as much as two dollars in cash

NEW GROCERY STORE WILL BE OPENED SOON

Wade's Will Operate New Place; Opening Will Be Announced Later

Announcement is forthcoming this week that the new grocery store, which will be operated under the style—Sanitary Grocery & Market, located on Main Street, next door to the Clanton Junior Department Store, will be open and ready for business.

Operated under the same management as the Wade Grocery & Market, which has been serving the people of this trade territory for near two years. this new store is expected to be a worthwhile addition to the list of Clanton's business firms.

The management of this new establishment has announced that it will be equipped with the most modern, scientific methods of food preservation, and will be sanitary in practice as well as name. It is expected that this store will be ready for the public's inspection and patropage within the next ten days.

Housed in a completely renovated building, where no effort has been spared in the installation of every possible convenience and protection for the customer, few stores in Chilton County can offer the housewife more attractive merchandise, is the opinion of the management.

Arthur Broadhead, who is well known as an expert groceryman and market man, Urschel Mims, and Alvin Parrish will be employed at the new store and will be ready to serve the needs of its patrons.

Buford Lawrence Opens New Insurance Business In Upchurch Building In Clanton

Among the most recently established business enterprises in Clanton is the B. Lawrence Insurance Agency. With headquarters in the Upchurch Building, Mr. Lawrence has announced that the firm is now ready for business with most any type of insurance that may be desired, including life, fire, storm, health and accident, burglary, automobile, and others. In fact, he explained, if it is insurance the B. Lawrence Agency can supply it.

Representing several of the leading insurance companies of the country and familiar with all types of insurance policies and the protections offered, Mr. Lawrence declared that he believes he is in position to give many outstanding advantages to those who are in the market for insurance. During the next twelve months an advertisement, telling much about the advantages of insurance that may be had from the B. Lawrence Agency, will appear in the Chilton County News alternating weekly.

"I am firmly convinced that I am selling to the people of this section the most worthwhile product that their money can buy, protection for themselves and their families, protection for their loved ones when they can no longer be here to give their support. Insurance is thrift and upon thrift is built the progress of our people and our nation," Mr. Lawrence explained.

Retiring from the office of county superintendent of education two years ago, Mr. Lawrence established himself in the insurance business and since that time has won recognition as one of the outstanding men in his county.

Associated with him is J. L. Hayes, who has lived most of his life in Chilton County. Although his experience in the insurance business now is the time for insurance field is limited, he is recognized as one of the county's leading salesmen.

"In selling insurance, I know that I am offering the public the most valuable commodity that their money can purchase and I am facinated with the idea that I am encouraging the people of my county to be thrifty and be prepared to leave their loved ones protected," Mr. Hayes stated.

COTTON COMMITTEE FOR COUNTY HELD IMPORTANT MEETING HERE

Organization For Handling Of 1935 Crop Formed At Meeting With Every Section Of County Represented; Growers Show Spirit Of Optimism

The organization for the handling of Chilton County's cotton crop during 1935 has been formed. according to County Agent J. W. Fant, who declared that he is optimistic regarding the outlook for the farmers of this county.

At a meeting of the Beat Committeemen in Clanton Monday afternoon, the County Committee, whose duty it will be to supervise the production and marketing of the 1935 crop, was chosen. These three men, constituting this committee, were elected by popular vote of the Beat Committeemen present at Monday's meeting.

They are: O. H. McDowell, Clanton route 1, chairman; J. B. Hicks, Maplesville, and O. L. Devaughn, Clanton route 2. Walter Allen, Jemison route 1, was named alternate member of the committee, and will serve should one of the other members be prevented from giving his services.

Every section of the county was represented at the meeting. Beat committees, elected of the county was represented at the meeting. Beat Committees, elected last Thursday in the various communities of the county by the voice of the farmers at large, composed the major portion of the audience. Mr. Fant said that more than 4,000 farmers were represented through these committees, and as the members of the County Committee were chosen from Beat Committees, every farmer in the county had been given an opportunity to exercise his choice in the selection of the men to supervise the administration of the Bankhead Cotton Control regulations on his and his neighbor's farm.

Meetings for the purpose of electing members of the Beat Committees were held last Thursday at the following places in the county:

Chilton County High School. Clanton; Jemison; Thorsby school; court house; Verbena; Vermont, and Maplesville. Each committee represents at least 500 farmers, it was explained.

F. A. Boswell Named Asst. Warden At Kilby

Frank A. Boswell, Jr., well known to thousands of persons in this section as operator of the Boswell Tourist Camp, south of Clanton, has been officially named assistant warden at Kilby Prison.

Combining the offices of prison inspector and warden at Kilby, Dr. F. G. Camp has been appointed to that position. The combination of these posts is a phase of Gov. Graves' economy program. Dr. Camp was named prison inspector several days ago, but his appointment as Kilby warden was not made known until Monday.

Boswell has been accorded recognition as one of the most capable prison officials ever employed by Alabama. He served in the same capacity during the former administration of Governor Graves and during that period is said to have been considered outstanding not only in the performance of his duties, but as a sympathetic advisor to those serving terms in the prison.

Clanton Wins From Wetumpka By 21-20

One of the fastest games of the season was played Monday night at Wetumpka. Clanton won by a score of one point, and this was made in the last ten seconds of the game.

Wetumpka is to return the game Friday night of this week, and if you want to see a real basket ball game come to this one. Boys and girls.

We now have a heater in the gymnasium and you can stay comfortable.

Extending an invitation to the public to attend this convention Mr. Webb made a plea for full attendance from the membership of the Liberty Hill church.

WALKER NAMED AS EDUCATOR IN C.C.C. CAMP AT FORT PAYNE

T. H. Walker, former instructor and coach in the Chilton County High School, has been appointed Educational Advisor for Civilian Conservation Camp at Fort Payne, Ala., where he is now stationed. Mr. Walker resigned at the high school here little more than a year ago to assume duties in connection with C.C.C. work in this state.

AN ERROR

In a notice of an election appearing in this issue of the News, an error was made. The notice, which appears elsewhere in this paper, cites Section 447 of the Code of Alabama 1923 as authority for its publication. This should read Section 534.

Your County Officials

A Brief History of Newly Elected Officers

Hon. J. C. Pattillo, Circuit Clerk

Characteristic of that attitude which has been responsible for J. C. Pattillo gaining recognition as one of the deepest thinkers in this section of the state, we found Chilton County's new Circuit Clerk in his office at the court house, deeply absorbed in some musty treatise of legal technicalities.

That's typical of the man who is perhaps the most widely read scholar in Chilton County. Never will he be satisfied to sit on the sidelines and merely record the happenings in the courts of this circuit, but he will spend many hours, busy hours, wading through uninteresting volumes on the "whys and wherefores" of it all.

Despite the fact that he was born in Autauga County, J. C. Pattillo is a native of Chilton and has spent most of his years within its boundaries. The son of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Pattillo, long years residents of the Shady Grove community, east of Verbena, which is where Cato spent his early boyhood, the fact that he made his debut into the world within the confines of Autauga County is accounted for in that his mother had gone to the home of his grandmother to be with her at the time her baby was born.

When he wasn't too busy plowing on the hillsides of his father's farm, young Pattillo attended the Corinth school in that community, where he received his early education. Later he attended the Verbena schools, and for two years he studied at Oxford, Ala. After completing his academic education, he spent some time in Nashville where he studied bookkeeping and commercial law at the Draughan Business College.

Shortly after completing his studies, he began work for the C. A. Pattillo Mercantile Company, Billingsley. He continued there in the capacity of bookkeeper and general office man for six years. Then he became connected with the Estate of D. I. Derams in Verbena, remaining in this position for 17 years.

Besides the time spent in office work, Mr. Pattillo has been engaged in the sawmill and ginning business. Eight years ago he was elected as justice of the peace at Verbena and served in that capacity until he assumed his present duties as Clerk of the Circuit Court.

For more than 15 years he has taught the Adult Bible Class in the Verbena Methodist church Sunday School, and is considered one of the best informed Bible students in the county. Always a deep thinker, he measures the probable outcome of all events with which he is acquainted. A conversation with a stranger will likely leave the impression of years of study in college, possibly of instruction, but this unusual knowledge of events, both historical and current is a result of an inward urge to know what is happening, and long hours of reading and remembering what he read.

He is the father of three daughters, all teachers. Becoming a member of the Masonic Order in 1915, he has served the Verbena lodge since 1918 as secretary and takes a deep interest in the affairs of the fraternity.

Friday Is Deadline On Payment Of Poll Tax

With several important matters being presented to a vote of the people of the State of Alabama during the coming months of this year, the voters of Chilton County are again urged to make sure that their poll taxes are paid and that they are qualified to express by ballot their opinions and wishes regarding these important matters of government.

Friday of this week, Feb. 1, is the final day on which poll taxes can be paid. If you have not taken care of yours and qualified yourself to vote, you are urged to do so at once. Another important reason why all good citizens should not neglect the payment of poll taxes is that the entirety of this tax goes into the public school fund of your county. Neglect to pay poll tax is an injury to the schools as well as the voter, and the country at large.

PRESIDENT WILL LOOK FOR NEW COTTON OUTL'TS

World - Wide Survey Will Aid In Disposing Of All Surplus Cotton

Washington, Jan. 27—A world-wide survey designed to investigate every possibility for the use of America's surplus cotton has been undertaken by the State Department at the direction of President Roosevelt.

Francis B. Sayre, assistant secretary of State, has immediate charge of the attempt to get rid of some of the heaped up store of the staple.

Oscar Johnston. manager of the AAA cotton pool, has held several conferences with Sayre and the executive policy committee—comprising trade experts from the Department of Agriculture, commerce, treasury and other governmental divisions—devoted their Friday session to a discussion of the problem that has claimed Mr. Roosevelt's attention.

MAY INSTALL BEACON LIGHT NEAR CLANTON

Light Is Necessary At Local Airport To Secure Place On Air Route

Continued evidence is seen that the Clanton airport will in the future play an important role in the development of aviation in Alabama and in this section of the country. Located on the proposod air route connecting the southern section of the country with the north and east, this field stands a favorable chance, in the opinions of airmen, to become one of the emergency landing sites.

Dr. V. J. Gragg, who is a member of the State Aviation Committee, recently had a letter from Hayden Brooks, chairman of the committee, that effort is now under way to have beacon lights installed at the local field, and also at Columbiana. Both these locations are ideal, he explained, for emergency fields in the route from Montgomery to Birmingham, which is likely to be opened within a few months.

Before the government agencies on aviation will approve a route it is necessary to have qualified emergency landing fields along the proposed route to serve in case of unforseen troubles that might arise. Mr Hayden declared that the Clanton field is ideally situated to serve in this capacity. Besides the lighting effect, there will likely be other appropriations should this field be chosen.

The matter is being taken up with the aviation department of the Fera now, he stated and further information will probably be available within a few days.

CHILTON ASKED TO SHARE IN FEDERAL MONEY

Mayor Jones and Judge Smith Are Asked To Map Out Worthwhile Proiects

Already plans are being formulated whereby Chilton County hopes to share liberally in the $4,886,000, recently appropriated by Congress for the purpose of continuing President Roosevelt's nation wide recovery program by giving work to the unemployed of the land.

Paul S. Haley, a representative of the National Resources Board. recently called on Mayor C. Fenn Jones and Probate Judge J. Lee Smith, asking them to outline worthwhile projects that might be undertaken in Chilton County through the work relief channels. Both of these officials outlined what they considered advantageous programs that Clanton and Chilton County would profit by, and would furnish employment for many of the county's unemployed.

Although Judge Smith declared that he could give no definite information

H. F. DOWNS RECOMMENDED FOR POSTMASTER HERE

Dr. Hosea F. Downs will in all probability be Clanton's new postmaster. An Associated Press dispatch from Washington, appearing in Wednesday's Birmingham Age-Herald, gave information that Congressman W. B. Oliver had recommended the appoinment of Dr. Downs as postmaster at Clanton. The appointment is effective March 1, if approved by President Roosevelt.

When called early Wednesday regarding the appointment here, Dr Downs declared that he had not received any official notice of his appointment, but expressed hope that it is authentic.

Asked to make a statement, he declared that "You can tell 'em that I'm hoping that the newspaper story is true and that I will soon be down there, handing out mail."

Acting Postmaster Billy Smith had requested several days ago that he be relieved of his duties on March 1.

Crowson In Favor Of Extending Limits

Editor, Chilton County News:

I was at first displeased with the idea of extending the city limits of Clanton, and felt that the town was large enough. Especially was I opposed to it because it would cost me a few more dolalrs taxes.

But since I have reconsidered the matter and talked with some of my neighbors I have changed my mind. I thought about the time my home burned and how the town sent the fire force out to my place, and [illegible] all they could to save my house. They did not wait to see if I was paying city tax or not; neither did they ask me to pay for their services, although it did cost the town money.

Now, I realize someone has got to pay the expenses of the town, and I never liked the idea of being a free rider. I always feel better if I am paying my part.

I have watched Clanton grow for the past thirteen years. I remember when the sidewalks and streets were paved, how some people kicked and growled; but the town went ahead, and everyone has enjoyed having the good sidewalks, and like to go to town since the streets have been fixed to keep down the dust and mud.

We would not have the town back like it was fifteen years ago for anything in the way of improvements the town has done for the past five years that we would want to change.

Now, I think our councilmen have done well, and I have very reason to believe they will continue their good work. If they want to extend the city limits and build a city hall, I have no kick coming. So let's get behind the burden and do our part. It will make it light for all if everyone helps.

Yours for better times and a better town.

W. A. CROWSON.

Vocational And Home Economics Teachers Asked To Aid In New Progress Campaign

Aiming at the organization of a cooperative program for the purpose of aiding rural subscribers in the rehabilitation program to improve their farm and home life, the county vocational insturctors, home economic teachers, relief workers and others interested in the success of the endeavor, met last Friday in the office of the local director of relief, Miss Kittye Clyde Austin.

The meeting was opened with an informal discussion by Miss Austin, who explained briefly the purpose and hopes of the conference. She invited others present to offer suggestions that they believed might be helpful in formulating plans whereby permanent aid may be offered those on relief rolls by the introduction of an educational note into the rural rehabilitation administration programs.

Soliciting the cooperation of all agencies in the county that are interested in the promotion of an ever improved citizenship, Miss Austin declared that the primary aim of the relief programs is to help those who have suffered by the depression and other circumstances to regain a foothold in the economic world, to aid them in again building a place for themselves in society whereby it will be possible to earn their own way without the supervision of government agencies.

Glenn Sessions, farm foreman, made a suggestion that night lectures be held in the various communities for the purpose of educating those on relief to higher standards of living, pointing out that through the relief workers it would be possible to interest subscribers and encourage them to attend.

Real Help For The Buyer!

Another one of the good effects of the NRA program, as we see it, will be brought about in the canning industry if proposals which are now under way and approved by the government. The proposal of the canning industry in relation to its code is for the establishment of a system of descriptive labeling, whereby the buyer or consumer of the product will be given, in common ordinary terms, full information concerning the product which she purchases.

The slogan which the canning industry is using in connection with the development of this campaign is—

"Let the label be the window of the can; tell the housewife just what is in the can; tell her so accurately in simple words she uses every day that she can judge its contents as easily as though she were looking at the fruit or vegetable counter in the local store."

The descriptive labeling program to us seems to be a practical one which the average buyer of canned foods will welcome as an aid in the solution of buying problems. We believe it much more practical than a system of grade labeling which would only have a tendency to classify canned foods into three or four generalized groups without giving the housewife the ordinary detailed information she wants about the food she is buying. We hope the government will get behind the canning industry in their proposals of this descriptive labeling system which is practical because it has been based upon actual experience within the inlustry.—Daily Record, Bristow, Okla.

Federal Housing Benefits

The two campaigns now being carried on by the Federal Housing Administration are entirely distinct but both are designed to stimulate employment and badly needed activity in the building and home equipment trades and both are worthy of the careful consideration of actual and prospective home owners. The modernization campaign provides for repair and installation of conveniences in millions of existing dwellings long neglected because of the depression. The insured mortgage plan enables the acquisition of homes under the most favorable conditions consistent with business principles.

During the five months of the modernization campaign it has created more than $200,000,000 worth of work and opened up for labor, building materials, heavy goods and industry generally what Housing Administrator Moffett reports as "the greatest business opportunities known in the history of this or any other country." Its remarkable effectiveness in hundreds of cities and towns is attributed by local committees he says, to its simplicity.

The following examples, taken at random from one day's reports to Washington, indicate the widespread interest displayed: On January 1, 1934, ninety per cent of the plumbers in Baltimore were idle but on January 2, 1935, ninety-eight per cent of all registered plumbers in that city were employed. House-to-house canvasses by local committees reported pledges from property owners to spend $1,675,000 of modernization work in Wilmington, Deleware; $1,260,000 in Camden, N. J.; $9,000,000 in St. Louis; $6,200,000 in New Orleans; $12,000,000 in San Francisco. According to all official and private construction reporting agencies, this campaign has reversed the seasonal Winter downward trend of building activity for the first time since such reports have been kept.

But modernization, for which any owner of a home or business property can get a loan up to $2,000 from any approved lending institution, repayable in convenient monthly installments over a period of three years, is only a part of the benefits flowing from the act.

The second and greater campaign is predicted upon the insured mortgage plan. It is a long-range and permanent proposition, a debenture or long-term bond covering up to 80 per cent of the appraised value of the property and representing a face value up to $16,000. All items, including taxes and insurance are included, so there is no second mortgage and no fancy charges. Upon maturity the home is owned free and clear.

Bookkeeping On The Farm

Most urban residents probably still think of the American farmer as an easy-going fellow, with little knowledge of or interest in business practices and methods, who lives from the land and doesn't involve himself in financial statements or bookkeeping systems.

That picture is rapidly losing verisimilitude. The Farm Credit Administration recently announced that over a million farmers, during the past year and a half, turned in complete financial statements when applying for loans. And, according to the Dairymen's League News, at least a million more farmers kept such records for other reasons. Business methods are as much a part of the operation of a modern farm as of a factory.

This is representative of a great evolutionary period in agricultural history, which began ten or fifteen years ago and is gathering momentum still. The up-to-date farmer realizes that economics, finance, monetary problems, tariff legislation and similar matters exert a vital influence on his own personal affairs. He is studying and learning, and he is keeping books. Where his father may have gone for years without knowing whether he was making money or losing it, he knows precisely how his farm is going.

The influence of cooperative associations has been particularly potent in developing farm management along these lines. The co-ops, by bringing specialized knowledge and sound methods to the administration of farm problems, have made great progress—and individual farmers are following the lead.

Wholesale Slaughter Permitted

A few months ago a great passenger liner burned at sea, with a loss of life totaling about 150. Recently a crack Canadian passenger train tore into a siding and telescoped a "holiday special." A score of people died.

Each of these tragic incidents was headlined in newspapers throughout the civilzed world. Millions of people were literally horror-stricken. Public and private bodies immediately starated inquiries in an effort to fix the blame and punish those who were guilty. The whole force of public opinion. backed by the authority of the law, determined that everything be done to make certain that there would be no more similar accidents.

Yet those killings, horrible as they were, were infinitesimal compared with a form of accident which the public accepts with complete indifference—the automobile killings. Last year, incompentent, reckless or careless drivers and pedestrians accounted for a killing every 15 minutes, and an injury every 31 seconds. The year showed a record killing in the United States of 36,000 and an injury total of 1,000,000. What would the public have done if the railroads and steamships had killed 36,000 persons in one year?

Practically every accident, whether it results in killings or only in scratched fenders, is the result of the human element. Ninety per cent of automobile drivers are safe, careful and competent. Ten per cent are reckless, careless or incompetent. And that ten per cent menaces the lives, health and property of us all.

If one steamship accident or a bad railroad accident, killing comparatively few people, causes revolutionary legislation to protect the public, what should be the safety program resulting from 36,000 automobile killings in one year?

A Man Without Hate

There has been published the interesting autobiography of H. Rider Haggard, the English novelist whose vivid tales have entertained and charmed millions of readers throughout the world. This autobiography was written several years ago, but Haggard stipulated that it should not be published until after his death, which occurred in 1926.

The author of "King Solomon's Mines," "She," and forty-odd other stories reveals a versatile and kindly personality and recounts his adventures in various parts of the world. Perhaps his most striking passage is that in which he says: "I have known many emotions, all of them, I think, except that of hate."

What a fine thing it was to be able to say that! How many of us have known all he emotions except hate?

Mining In 1935

Spokesmen for the mining industry forecast that 1935 will witness a substantial upturn in the production of all metals, base and precious.

If that happens, it will be a "Happy New Year" indeed for the people of half a dozen states and, indirectly, for the entire country. The jobs, payrolls and purchasing power that mining provides in normal times, are vitally needed—revival of the industry would take up much of the slack that has resulted from depression.

Furthermore, the maintenance of a progressive, prosperous mining industry is essential to any great power, both in times of peace and times of war. New life in the mines would be one of the best auguries for the future we could have.

Advertising

Advertising, like all other things, is subject to discussion. It often fails, but more often succeeds. When a merchant or a manufacturer spends money for publicity, he wants results. If the business world did not get results the habit of advertising would pass out overnight.

To the public advertising is a great convenience. It educates. It informs. It acquaints. If wisely used advertising is worth what it costs. Like other expenditures, however; it must not be foolish and it must not be expected to be miraculous.—Wiregrass Journal.

Novel Peace Method

Balked in past efforts to bring about peace between Bolivia and Paraguay, the League of Nations has instituted a course which in unique in peace methods.

The plan consists in further restricting the export of arms to Paraguay and in removing the restrictions on exports to Bolivia. The reason for the discrimination against Parguay is the failure of that country to accept the League proposals for arbitration.

Such an experiment is indeed unique, and not only the League's wisdom, but its effectiveness as well will be at stake.

Paraguay from all reports has the upper hand in the fighting at present. In the past, wars have ended only when one side had overcome the other. If the League is successful it will be because of a method whereby both sides are made equal.

The final outcome will depend to a great extent on the cooperation of the United States and Brazil and whether they are willing to clamp down on exports of arms to Paraguay and at the same time send more supplies to Bolovia.—Montgomery Advertiser.

D. W. Haskew

The day after Chirstmas we left Jack, a sventy-five pound bulldog, in his master's home to look after the house in our absence. He was given free access to every room in the building. Nothing was left for the poor dog's dinner. When we were many miles away we thought about leaving the Christmas turkey on the table in easy reach of the dog, but his owner was confident that Jack would not touch all that Christmas food. Late in the afternoon we returned to the home to find that Jack had done without his dinner and that he had not touched the turkey and all because he was sure that he had no right to pilfer on his master's table. He had rather suffer hunger in the reach of turkey and comply with the wishes of his master, than to offend his master by pilfering where he did not belong. How I do wish that some of the qualities of the dumb dog would find a place in the hearts of human beings. What care we for God's laws. We are less loyal to our Father in heaven than a bulldog is to his master.

Late in the afternoon of Christmas day I took Jack, the bulldog, and strolled away in search of a rabbit. I observed that Jack would circle a briar patch barking as if the rabbit was within. but I could never get him to leap from his hiding place. On relating this to Jack's owner I learned that Jack was only trying to get me to go through the briars and locate the rabbit, should he behiding there. Jack did not want to get his skin scratched with the thorns of the briers. Like a lot of human beings he would stay out of danger himself and all the time urge some other dog to enter the place where the skin would be torn. He was anxious to jump a rabbit, but he was unwilling to enter a brier patch. His idea, so human. was to urge the other fellow bare his skin to the thorns, while he saved himself for the open run. Honest, do you not bark around the brier patch?

I stood on the shore of St. Andrew's Bay. The tide was out and a strong wind was blowing from inland. Much of the grass and vegetation that covered the sand along the shore was exposed and had fallen flat on the soil, formless and flabby. The sea weeds had no support and they fell flat on the sand. Later I observed that the tide had come in and the grass and the sea weeds stood upright and waved to and fro as if they were in the breezes that blew. This is what takes place in our soul life when we are not filled with the Spirit. When the Spirit's power is at low tide in our soul, we wither and fall, but when the waves of the Spirit come over our souls we arise in our strength and wave to and fro in the winds that blow. It is the presence of the Spirit that makes a Chris tian to stand upright.

Not long since a notorious criminal was shot down on the streets of a distant city. Before the brain of that criminal had time to cool there were physicians there to secure his brain that they might give it to a scientific test to see if they could not locate the source of his criminality. After much investigation the doctors had to announce that they found his brain to be normal. To be sure he was a criminal but the source of his criminality was not to be found in his brain. It was not his brain but it was his heart that produced his depraved nature. It is not what goes into a man that corrupts him, but it is what comes out of his heart. When the heart is wrong, a crash of any kind and nature can come. "Keep thine heart with all diligence for out of it are the issues of life."

How foolish Naman would have been if he had called that little Jewish girl every day and insisted upon her telling him over and over about the prophet in Israel, and had never gone to claim the blessing of healing. Doubtless he would have been pleased to hear that he could be healed, but just hearing of the healing power would not have done him any good. Yet, that is what we behold day after day in the case of sinners. He is hearing about the great Physician, the one who can heal. To hear brings comfort but it does not bring the blessing of sins forgiven. When Naman heard he moved out to claim the blessing promised. When we hear about Christ being able to save we should move out in search of that salvation. It does no good to hear and not heed. When you hear that Jesus can forgive, then claim that blessing.

IN MEMORY OF MRS. MATTIE FREEMAN

On December 8th God called from us a dear friends whom we all loved. She was kind and good to all. She lived with her daughter, Mrs. Otha Maddox. She leaves three sons and three daughters, a host of grandchildren and friends to follow after her.

God said to Aunt Mattie. Your work on earth is done, your singing has begun around the Great White Throne. A place is vacant in her home that no one else can fill; a place for love in all our hearts that no one else can enter. We hear her steps on earth no more, but up in heaven we hear her singing around God's Throne.

Weep not for her, dear chidren for our loss is heaven's gain. She was laid to rest at Pleasant Grove. The Rev. Maurice Hodgens conducted the services.

Black-Draught For Dizziness, Headache Due To Constipation

"I have used Thedford's Black-Draught several years and find it splendid," writes Mr. G. W. Holley, of St. Paul, Va. "I take it for dizziness or headache (due to constipation). I have never found anything better. A short while ago, we began giving our children Syrup of Black-Draught as a laxative for colds and little stomach ailments, and have found it very satisfactory." . . . Millions of packages of Thedford's Black-Draught are required to satisfy the demand for this popular, old reliable, purely vegetable laxative. 25¢ a package. 'Children like the Syrup."

FAIRVIEW DEM. CLUB

The Fairview Demonstration Club met at the home of Mrs. E. E. Edwards on January 15, at 2 o'clock. There being so many sick, only 12 members were present. We hope all will be able to attend next month.

Our subject was early spring gardening. Miss Pardue gave an interesting talk on how to prepare and plant an early garden, after which we adjourned to meet at the home of Mrs. Minnie Williams on February 19, at 2 o'clock. We urge all members to be present as our next demonstration will be on spring clothing.

Enterprise School News

We are trying to get a sanitary water supply out here. I think it is very necesary because someone may have colds, small pox, and other contagious diseases and go drink out of the well bucket or dipper. Some of the germs may get into the bucket. then when it goes back into the well the germs will get into the water and other children may catch the disease.

The people should take a great interest in this plan because it will be a benefit to their children.

Enterprise boys won a victory over Cooper Jr. High School Friday, January 17, with a score of 18-6.

The Enterprise boys have been successful in winning seven consecutive games this year.

Eleven Years Of Rural Service

36,750 Rural Customers Now On Company Lines

December 31st, 1934 your company completed the eleventh year of its rural electrification program, initiated for the purpose of making the conveniences of electric service more generally available to residents of rural areas in Alabama and to further the development of our state's agriculture.

In 1934 when your company began this work, the only facts available were that rural people wanted electric lights in their homes and that the company wanted to make the service available. However, it was found that use of lights [illegible] would not make the service economical either to customers or to the company.

Therefore the first problem was to obtain information as to what farm uses electricity could be adapted satisfactorily and economically. This was done through co-operative experimental and research work with the State Agricultural Experiment station, State Agricultural Extension Service, Farm Bureau Federation and farmers throughout Alabama.

Information was obtained with reference to more than 100 different uses of electricity in rural homes and on farms. With this at hand the program was begun and carried on aggressively.

As a result of this work, electric service has been extended to more than 24,000 customers in small rural communities and along more than 2,000 miles of state highways. These customers were entirely without electric service prior to the extension of our lines. They would still be lacking in electrical conveniences except for the company's activity in behalf of rural electrification.

Today your company is servicing rural customers in 64 of Alabama's 67 counties. There is no community of 500 or more in this area which does not enjoy the conveniences of electricity. Outside of urban areas, as defined by the Federal Bureau of Census, your company is now serving 36,750 customers.

At the outset of the rural program average use of electricity by rural customers was 400 KWH a year. Despite the fact that many of the best rural lines have been transferred from the rural rate classification, present average use on the remaining lines is 973 KWH a year, or two and one half times the use in 1924.

Although expansion has been continuously to a lower density of customers per mile of line and the company has borne the entire investment of the lines, there has been a continuous reduction in rural rates. At present rural lines are serving less than 4 customers per mile of line. In November 1934, the average rate per KWH paid by the 8.329 customers was less than 5 cents per KWH.

Children Need More Light In February

February, the [illegible] often [illegible] Many days are [illegible] long evenings must be spent indoors.

As any mother knows, [illegible] close confinement is very difficult for children. They must be amused. They must be kept busy And this means playing with toys on the floor, looking at picture books, drawing, coloring, and the like.

What a tax on little eyes—if the lighting is not ample for easy, restful seeing!

In many homes children play in the "danger zone" of poorly lighted living rooms—try to read or look at books far from a lighting fixture — strain their eyes needlessly in many other ways.

Children do not know this danger. But you, as a mother or father, should take immediate steps to prevent it.

A few extra lamps in the living room, a new outlet or so in the nursery, another table lamp — these things means so much to your children.

Let us tell you how little they cost.

245 New Industries

During the past decade, under the leadership of Thomas W. Martin, the Alabama Power Company has aided directly and indirectly in the location of 245 new industries in this state, manufacturing 105 different products with approximate capital investments of $73,000,000; a total of 27,319 employees, receiving over $23 000,000 in salaries and wages annually.

New Use For Southern Pine

Added to the recent discovery that a first class quality of newsprint can be made from Southern pine, comes the announcement that a synthetic silken yarn can be produced from the same source, and it, like the newsprint comes from the experimental laboratory of Dr. Charles H. Herty, at Savannah. With great newsprint and rayon industries based on Southern pine and furnishing a new source of income for this section, in the future when the South recounts its benefactors, Dr. Herty will stand out prominently among those who lead the list.

Highlights Of 1934

Taxes of Alabama Power Company amounted to over $2,000,000.

Salaries and wages paid totaled approximately $2,900,000.

Persons employed numbered about 1,900.

Customers served numbered 105,000.

Supplies and materials bought, chiefly from Alabama industries and firms, cost approximately $1,500,000.

Amos & Andy In Person At Birmingham Soon

They'll be here in person, Amos 'n' Andy! That inimitable pair, who have been outstanding attraction to radio fans all over the continent, will meet Birmingham theatre-goers at the Alabama Theatre, where they will appear for one day only.

Amos 'n' Andy come in keeping with the Alabama Theatre's policy of presenting the biggest and best stage attractions obtainable.

Despite their fame as Amos 'n' Anday, the two men named Freeman F. Gosden (Amos) and Charles J. Correll (Andy) are little known. Here are a few facts which we were able to learn prior to their arrival in Birmingham.

Not only do Correll and Mr. Gosden write every word of their nightly radio dialogues themselves, but they portray all of the characters in their sketches. The two boys are sometimes called upon to take the part of a half dozen persons in a single program. They have created 166 characters—the "supporting cast" for Amos 'n' Andy. During the hectic court session when Madame Queen was suing Andy for breach of promise, the boys impersonated thirteen characters in a single broadcast.

The pair never address each other as "Amos" or "Andy," but always as Freeman and Charlie. Nothing seems to worry them—not even the failure of newspapermen and the public to distinguish between one and the other.

Contrary to popular belief, they were not stage performers before their radio careers began. Stage appearances followed their success on the air. "Before going on the networks," relates Amos, "we directed amateur productions, but never took part in them."

The boys promise to furnish amusement to their audiences at the Alabama Theatre and to show their friends how "Amos 'n' Andy" programs are broadcast. And they promise that you will not be disillusioned, because they say, the next time you hear them on the air, you will picture exactly the the same characters you always have visualized.

Thorsby Institute News

The Helen Keller Literary Society had an open meeting on Saturday evening January 26. Two one-act plays were presented by members of the society under the direction of Mr. Maddox. The first play, "The Diabolical Circle," was a scene from the home life of Cotton Mather, and presented to the audience a picture of the humorous side of early American life, which is so often overlooked. The second play, "The Lost Silk Hat," was also a comedy.

A week from Saturday at three o'clock there will be given in the Institute auditorium a music recital by the pupils of Miss Mabel Allen. The Glee Club will also sing. Everyone is invited. No admission will be charged.

MRS. KANIE LOWERY DIED SATURDAY, JANUARY 19TH

It was on last Saturday. January 19, that God sent a death angel to the home of Mr. Kanie Lowery and bore away our loving wife and mother, Flora Mae. She was only 19 years of age just in the bud of life, like a rose that blooms but soon fades away.

Flora Mae joined the church when quite a young lady and until her death she lived a concentrated life—a life which other people might follow in her footsteps.

She leaves to mourn her death a husband, Kanie Lowery, a little daughter, Francis Virginia, a father mother, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Peaters; five sisters; five brothers and a host of broken-hearted friends.

Her body was laid to rest at Arches Chapel cemetery with the Rev. Ocie Payton officiating.

We miss thee from our home, dear mother. We miss thee from thy place A shadow over our life is cast. We miss the sunshine from thy face. We miss the kind and willing hands, thy fond and ernest care. Our home is dark without thee. We miss thee every where.

—Kanie Lowery.

During the whole of her life which she spent on a farm 15 miles from Ottawa, Ill., Miss Elizabeth Brown, 79, never left her home. She died recently.

Cottonseed Meal Good For Horses, Mules, Oxen, Cows

Auburn, Ala.—Cottonseed meal, mixed with other ingredients, makes a good feed for horses, mules. oxen, and dairy cows, reports J. C. Grimes of the animal husbandry department of the Alabama Experiment Station.

By feeding cottonseed meal, farmers of the state will not only make use of a home-grown product but will avoid paying the transportation costs on thousands of tons of feed shipped into the state each year, it is pointed out.

It has been generally known throughout the state for many years that cottonseed meal was a good feed for dairy cows but now Mr. Grimes announces that "cottonseed meal is a good feed for horses and mules" and that "money can be saved by feeding this class of animals the proper kind and the correct amount of feed to maintain the desired condition and to provide for the necessary power demanded during the different seasons of the year."

Suggested rations for feeding horses, mules, oxen, and dairy cows may be obtained free by seeing the county agent or by writing Mr. Grimes at the Experiment Station. Auburn.

"As cottonseed meal is a very rich and concentrated feed, in starting the mules on feed, use one-fourth of a pound daily and increase the quality of the meal gradually," he advises farmers.

DR. BAKER STRESSES GREAT NEED FOR TOXICOLOGICAL SERVICE IN ALABAMA

Declaring the present set-up in Alabama for toxicological and other scientific criminal investigation is inadequate and not fully organized, Dr. J. N. Baker, in a statement issued yesterday, stressing the need for an efficient toxicological service. revealed that reports in this State has increased very materially during the past five years. One instance, in Choctaw County, is cited in which a prompt investigation would have saved 15 people from calcium arsenate poisoning.

No adequate provision is now made in Alabama for the determination of causes of death or injury in criminal cases or other cases that are subject to review by the courts, the State health officer says; may cases of suspected poisoning and deaths from unknown causes are not investigated—and that many cases called drowning, acute indigestion and heart failure "might reveal startling facts if the cause of death had been accurately determined."

The text of his statement follows:

TOXICOLOGY AND MEDICO-LEGAL PROCEDURES.

At present, Alabama makes no adequate provision for the determination of the causes of death or injury in criminal cases. or other cases that are subject to review in courts of law.

The coroner system prevails in this State and most of the counties have laymen serving this office.

Most toxicological or scientific criminal investigations made in this State are done on the fee basis except for the chemical analysis of dead bodies suspected of containing poison. The present law requires that the official chemist for the department of agriculture and industries, known as the State chemist, shall do this analytical work, but the actual analysis constitutes only a part of a thorough investigtion of a death by poison.

The State makes no provision for the visit by an expert to the scene of death or a suspected crime for the purpose of securing clues or competent evidence. There is no adequate provision for the examination of foods, beverages, drugs, etc., that may contain poisons or substances of harmful character, nor for the examination of bloodstains or other stains, or other materials that have legal significance. There is no provision for the examination of the bodies of domestic animals, nor of animal feedstuffs suspected of containing poison. There is no provision for the furnishing of information to the citizens of the State regarding poisons, poisonous plants, etc.

A fee system for this work is very unsatisfactory. Those who are poor can not, or will not, afford the service. Most of the people and the counties of Alabama are poor. Those who are able to pay, call on various agencies in and out of the State, who may or may not be qualified to render efficient service. Many court decisions, some of which involve human life and welfare, are dependent on scientific information and opinions. It is imperative that such information be accurate and authoritative.

Many of the investigations of poisoning that are made are so delayed that human and animal lives are unnecessarily jeopardized. To illustrate: In July, 1934, an entire family in Choctaw County was stricken with arsenic poisoning from eating food containing calcium arsenate. A second, then a third group, suffered the same experience over a period of three days, all eating of the same food until 22 people were poisoned. A prompt investigation of the poisoning of the first group would have saved 15 others from arsenic poisoning, and also would have saved the lives of several domestic animals which were fed some of this food.

Many cases of suspected poisoning and deaths from unknown causes are not investigated. Many cases called drowning, acute indigestion, heart failure, etc., might reveal startling facts if the cause of death had been accurately determined.

Sometimes the laboratory may be called on to examine for poison specimens from bodies who have been dead for weeks and months. Some poisons do not remain in the dead body that long.

Many of the specimens may have lost their legal authenticity through improper handling and transportation. One specimen received of a human stomach for examination in a homicide case had passed through the hands of 11 people before being received. It was delivered unsealed.

The usual procedure in cases of suspected homicide by poison in Alabama, is the taking of only the stomach or the stomach contents from the dead body, this specimen placed in a metal or glass container, not sealed, and shipped. The stomach is not the only organ necessary in an examination to prove the presence of poison in the body. In fact, that part of a poison usually remaining in the stomach has played no part in the death. That part of the poison that has been absorbed into the body and not contained in the stomach is responsible for the death.

In many cases accurate and complete information as to history and symptoms is not available. Such information is very helpful and sometimes necessary in determining the actual cause of death. Disease or other injuries may have been the cause or contributing factors. In one instance in this State in which poison was found in the dead body it was proved to have been administered after death. That body had been buried several months before the death was investigated.

The present setup in the State for toxicological and other scientific criminal investigation is inadequate and not fully organized. The departments of justice, public health, and animal industry are without facilities for solving many of their problems of this nature. The number of poison cases, as indicated by reports, has increased very considerably during the past five years. An organized and efficient toxilogical service would prove very valuable to the State as a whole. The cost would be small compared with the value of the service and many other progressive States have already similar steps. Alabama may well profit by their examples.

A Personal Message From the Royster Family

THE YEAR 1935 marks the Golden Anniversary of the F. S. Royster Guano Company—fifty years of making fertilizers—a half century of sticking hard and fast to the original Royster creed of making the best fertilizers it is humanly possible to make.

This half century has been a period of wonderful progress in agriculture—and during this time Royster has never stopped studying growing plants and plant food needs, carrying on exhaustive research work, testing every new source of plant food—all in an effort to improve Royster Fertilizer year after year.

During these fifty years the Company has confined its efforts to the manufacture of fertilizers—and nothing else. The ownership of the Company has remained in the hands of the Royster family, and is being handed down from one generation to the next. And, we take pride in the fact that the men who own and control the Company today are the men who actually run the business.

On this, the occasion of our Fiftieth Anniversary, we take pleasure in paying tribute to the thousands of loyal Royster customers who have helped to make our success possible—and to whom we renew our pledge of continued service.

Catholics Of County Are To Organize

Rev. Father Cazalas has called a meeting which will be held at the home of Mrs. Hugh Jones on Friday afternoon, February 1. 1935 at three o'clock for the purpose of organizing an Altar Society. The object of this organization is very dear to the heart of all Catholics, and those in the surrounding communities are to be affiliated with the Clanton Parrish. This opportunity is taken not only to interest them in such an organization, but to cordially invite them to be present at the organization meeting Friday. Catholics in the surrounding communities are especially urged to attend.

Rev. Francis J. Foley, D. D., of Boston will be the guest speaker. Father Foley is a most pleasing speaker and it is a distinct compliment to have him with us at this time, only his deep zeal makes this at all possible.

"Blind-Made" Goods Are On Sale Today

The sale of "blind-made" goods to be conducted by the Clanton Study Club at Taylor Dry Goods Store on Thursday will be on display from 9 a. m. to 4:30 p. m. Members are urged to make this sale a complete success. As stated last week it enables at least twenty-seven blind women to become self-sustaining. Surely it is not a small thing to foster such an ambition and prove an inspiration to the "dull vacant eyes that crave for light."

The slogan chosen by the State Federation is: "Every club woman in Alabama own an article made by a "blind worker."

Buyers Of Chevrolets Specify Knee-Action

Approximately ninety per cent of the orders from Chevrolet dealers for the new 1935 Master De Luxe line of cars specify knee-action, which is offered this year as optional equipment on this series at $20 additional cost, according to information released in Detroit by William E. Holler, general sales manager of Chevrolet Motor Company.

"Not only are the advance orders from dealers for delivery from the factory showing this high percentage of knee action cars, specified," said Mr. Holler. "but orders for retail delivery to customers are showing approximately the same ratio.

"These advance orders and projections from our dealers bear out the statement, made when we announced knee-action as optional equipment on the Master De Luxe series earlier in January, that knee-action had proved so popular on our cars during 1934, and was considered such an important feature by the public, that nearly all Master De Luxe sales in 1935 would be cars with knee-action.

"Public acceptance of both lines of Chevrolets is more enthusiastic than ever before, according to telegraphic reports from hundreds of our larger dealers.

"This fact was quite apparent to visitors in the Chevrolet exhibit at the New York and Detroit automobile shows. Three things registered themselves with auto show guests—first, the new beauty of exterior and interior appearance, together with the wealth of comfort and convenience features of the new Master De Luxe cars; second, the spirited performance of the New Standard Six; and third, that despite the host of new features and obvious high quality of both new Chevrolets, 1935 prices are at the same level as 1934 on the Master De Luxe and lower on the Standard line."

CHILTON CIRCUIT QUARTERLY CONFERENCE MEETS FEB 2

The First Quarterly Conference of Chilton Circuit will convene with Pleasant Grove church, seven miles southwest of Clanton, on the second day of February, 1935. Our beloved President, Rev. J. S. Eddings will be with us. Everybody is invited. We urge all the official members to be present.

Judson College Member National Music Assn.

Marion, Ala., Jan. 28—Judson College has been granted full membership in the National Association of Schools of Music under a new classification for schools offering a music major with the bachelor of arts degree, according to advice from Burnet C. Tuthill, secretary of the association. William S. Naylor is director of the Judson music department.

The first college to request membership in the association on the new basis, Judson was one of three admitted at the recent Milwaukee convention of the group. Though Judson has for some time held provisional membership in the National Association of Schools of Music as a college offering the bachelor of music degree, the old degree has been dropped as unsuitable to the needs of the average non-professional musician.

The new degree involves considerably wider study in liberal arts fields than with the bachelor of music but retains intensive study of technique and theory in music. Heretofore only a few Eastern colleges offered the course.

In announcing election of the college to full membership in the association, Dr. L. G. Cleverdon, president of Judson, expressed satisfaction that Judson was instrumental in establishing the new basis of recognition and was one of the three colleges accepted at the first meeting of the association since the new field was recognized.

The music department at Judson consists of William S. Naylor, director; Miss Beverly Hester, assistant professor of piano and organ; Harold M. Griffin, assistant professor of voice, and Miss Beatrice Moser, instructor in stringed instruments and theory.

A new shoe repair shop has been opened at the former location of the Clanton Mattress Factory, north of the Tiffin-Klinner Furniture Company and is now ready for business. Equipped with first class, modern machinery this establishment promises to be a worthwhile addition to Clanton's business firms.

This new establishment will be operated by John Schmith, of various places. Mr. Schmith says that he was born in Switzerland, removed to France at the age of four and there learned the shoemaking trade, and since his early teens he declares that he has been many places.

CONNELL INFANT DIED SUNDAY NIGHT, JANUARY 20TH

On Sunday night, January 20, a beautiful little baby girl was bron to Mr. and Mrs. Tony Connell. which passed on to that heavenly home. It seems so hard to give it up, but the Lord's will must be done.

We should not grieve, dear loved ones, for it is only a little Angel at rest. She leaves to mourn her loss a broken hearted father, mother and one small brother.

Funeral services were conducted Monday evening, January 21, at the family home by the Rev. W. E. Robinson. Burial was in the Mountain Springs cemetery. Weep not, loved ones, for our loss is heaven's gain.

PLYMOUTH SHIPS 11,730 UNITS FOR A NEW RECORD

Detroit, Jan. 18.—The Plymouth Motor Corporation shipped 11,730 new 1935 cars to dealers in the United States during the week ending Jan. 12, to establish a new all time record for a week's domestic shipments, D. S. Eddins, president of the corporation announced today.

Eddins said that the previous peak week for Plymouth shipments was the week ending June 30 of last year, when the corporation shipped 11,490 units.

"Plymouth sales also climbed to record heights for this time of the year," he said. "Our dealers delivered a total of 5,017 new cars at retail during the week. This was more than three times the number delivered during the corresponding week a year ago."

Eddins revealed that Plymouth sales for the first two weeks in January this year totaled 8,993 units, compared with 3,317 units in the same period of 1934.

"Plymouth already has received orders for nearly 100,000 new cars," he said, "and the plant is operating at capacity to meet the demand."

LEADERSHIP SCHOOL HELD LAST SATURD'Y

Representatives Of All The 4-H Clubs Of County Attend Meeting

With representatives from all the 4-H clubs in the county present, a County-Wide Leadership School was held at the court house in Clanton last Saturday, when extensive clothing demonstrations were given. Miss Dorothy Dean, clothing specialist from Auburn, was principal speaker. She gave an interesting lecture and demonstration on the "Alteration of Plain Patterns and Fitting a Plain Pattern."

The leaders will give a repetition of these demonstrations in their clubs in the various communities in the county during February and March, according to an announcement by Miss Ruth Pardue, county home demonstration agent.

Lunch was served to those present, 42 leaders and 10 visitors, by Misses Frances Kendrick, Willie Nell Owen, Inez McKee and Myrtle Pierce.

"Whether you are interested in making your garments, in buying them ready-made, or in having a dressmaker make them for you, it is important for you to study clothing construction. The housewife should plan wisely and buy economically. Serious problems develop in selecting, altering and fitting garments. These demonstrations will help in solving these problems," Miss Pardue stated.

to the South, the President feels that much of the administration's foreign trade program may depend on clearing blocked channels for the nation's principal export product.

Some of the proposals under construction and some moves already made include:

Secretary Hull has instructed the American embassy in London to "sound out" Great Britain on plans for an international agreement on cotton production, would be similar to the international wheat limitation pact. Great Britain in this instance, represents not only its great manufacturing interests, but India and Egypt, two of the great cotton producing countries.

Although a proposed 500,000 bale deal with Germany failed, other plans for the sale of raw cotton abroad are being considered.

The AAA within the past few weeks has shown its determination to restrict cotton production until some of the plans become operative for an increased outlet for the staple.

The trade agreements committee, assisting in the negotiation of new reciprocal trade agreements with 16 countries is endeavoring to help cotton exportation through the pacts.

Despite the breakdown in the previous attempt to affect a barter deal with Germany, the State Department had included that country on the list for prospective cotton sales.

RELIEF WORK

during the month of February.

The list is comprised of the names of persons who formerly constituted the number 2 classification of the rural rehabilitation farmers, and former plans was for these men to farm on a cooperative basis under direct supervision of the relief authorities. After it was found that this plan was not practical in this county, the county was offered the opportunity of letting these men work out their indebtedness to the relief administration on the county roads.

Mr. Smith explained that the plan is as much a matter of a test of the workers as anything else. Anyone refusing, or failing to report for work to pay these obligations will be immediately stricken from the relief rolls and will not be subject to further help at any time.

During February the relief department will continue to furnish the regular sustenance that has been available. The county will be required to pay these workers two dollars in cash and allow them one dollar per day for the time which they work.

Members of the Commissioners court voted unamiously to adopt the plan and Mr. Smith stated that he will send letters this week, notifying these men to report for work.

L&N WORKERS HEAR SPEAKERS AT RALLY HERE

Local Speakers Address The Gathering Here Stressing Safety At Work

"Great strides have been made in making railroad operation safe both for employes and patrons during the last few years, and the worst records now are better than the best ten years ago," said James B. Hill, president of the Louisville & Nashville Railroad, in a radio address before several thousand railroad employes at Nashville, Tenn., Friday evening. "In the period of the past eight years personal injuries to employes have been reduced on the Louisville & Nashville Railroad from 2,715 in 1927 to about 293 in 1934," he pointed out.

Mr. Hill's address was included in the program of a huge safety first rally broadcast from Station WSM and to which thousands of employes of the L&N and NC&StL railroads listened by means of radio receivers installed in meeting places in hundreds of cities and towns on both lines. President Fitzgerald Hall of the Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis Railway represented his road on the program.

Railroad employes of Clanton, Ala., met at the Court House and held a local safety meeting preceding the broadcast. Addresses were made by Mayor C. Fenn Jones and L. E. Diefenderfer. D. Hogan, acted as chairman for the occasion.

Progress Campaign

Miss Simpson, voiced the opinion that much help might be given by the home economic teachers of the county by offering suggestions on the preparation of food and the wise expenditure of help given by the administration.

Diversification of farming was also mentioned as one of the most helpful phases of farm life that could be promoted. Many of those on relief are willing and have at their finger tips the materials from which to wrest a living, if only they were educated to their uses. It was decided that it would be wise to zone the county and let each vocational and home economic teacher be responsible for reaching those within a given radius.

Those attending the meeting were: Miss Kittye Clyde Austin, director of relief; Floyd Smith, works director; Mr. Lock and Miss Heflin, Isabella vocational and home economics teachers; Mr. Montgomery and Miss Newell, Jemison vocational and home economic teachers; Miss Simpson, assistant supervisor of home economics; farm foremen; relief visitors, and others.

consulting the members of the Commissioners Court, he assured Mr. Haley that the county government will lend its cooperation in guaranteeing the furtherance of any work relief program which may be instituted in this county. He assured Mr. Haley that the matter will be taken up with the court and said that he believed that they will cooperate in furnishing an outline of probable projects in this county.

Mayor Jones mapped out a six-phase program that he declared that he believed would be one of the most advantageous that could be formulated for Clanton. 1. Extension of the city limits. 2. New streets and the extension of streets into new sections of the town. 3. Widening of present streets. 4. Extension of the water-mains into the proposed new territories to be incorporated. 5. Completion of the drainage projects, which has been underway for some time. 6. Repairing of the old Clanton Grammar School building.

Mayor Jones said that Mr. Haley declared that all these suggestions are directly in line with the President's program. Although it was not possible for him to give definite assurance regarding the possibilities of securing funds for these purposes, both Mayor Jones and Judge Smith are optimistic regarding Chilton County's chances in sharing in this allocation.

Questionaires were sent both officials, urging them to fill in certain specific information regarding work in this county and forward [illegible] to Washington immediately. MY PERSONAL COLUMN

Billy Smith

My appeal for someone to come make us an offer on syrup and potatoes last week certainly met with response. The News was beginning to get loaded up with these two commodities and now we have only a few gallons of the syrup left. No potatoes.

Was delighted with a visit from one of those fellows I call "one of my old-timers" in the person of J. T. Marlar who was in the News office Tuesday.

There is still some speculation as to what type of building will be erected on the corner now covered by the old Mullins & Moore building on main street. The old reliable grapevine has a rumor running along it that Clanton may get a building there to be proud of.

Since Mr. W. H. Sartor has retired from active business in his stand "The Fair" there is a possibility of newcomers to Clanton, or a new firm, if rumors are correct. However, it may be that Mr. Sartor is only retired temporarily. We hope so anyway, since he is one of our town's pioneer merchants and citizens and a man who has always been progressive.

* * *

Mrs. Renfroe Mullins should be awarded the diamond studded water pitcher for her initiative and originality. The window she decorated at the new J. R. Mullins & Sons store is one of the most original and unique we have ever seen. One can lok at it for hours and see many interesting features.

We were mighty glad to see our friend Frank Boswell appointed as Warden at Kilby Prison. Frank is certainly a square dealer and Gov. Graves could not have done better in his selection of a dependable, sympathetic yet firm, man to handle this job.

Congratulations are extended to Hosea Downs on his recent appointment as Acting Postmaster at Clanton. Mr. Downs is to take charge of the office on March 1st, and with it goes the best wishes, heartiest congratulations, and warmest sympathy of "yours Truly."

* * *

Once a printer, always a printer, so the saying goes. And the smell of printer's ink and paper is like so much delightful perfume to my nostrils; the noise of the printing presses and machines is like so much sweet music to my ears; the creative art of printing and the assembling of type is like softest down to my fingers and the call of the struggles through which every newspaperman goes daily is growing loud to me. So, back to my first love I will go and the public will find itself victims of my whims put in print again and again and again I will be writing things about you I should and shouldn't But the presses must turn.

The News office deserves a little special mention this week even if I do say so myself. A fresh coat of paint has been smeared from front to rear, and carpenters are now busy working on the front of the building doing a little remodeling and repairing. Perhaps I shouldn't have used the word "smeared" in refering to the paint because Posey Marcus and Earle Marcus did the work and they don't smear it. Our good friend W. C. Robinson of the Cooper Lumber Company is responsible in a large degree for this improvement on the News building and our hat is off to him.

I especially want to call your atten- ion to the large number of special rgain offers carried in this issue of he News by local merchants and business houses. The News this week is rammed full of good news on every ge. Do your shopping at home, and op at your own home through the dvertisements in the News.

Relief Rolls In County To Be Further Reduced

Those in charge of the local reilef offices have been advised that later this month funds will not be available for any types of relief in this county excepting those who are on the rehabilitation projects. Only one-third the regular amounts are available this month, Miss Austin stated.

This curtailment will effect 103 families, she said. The majority of the workers effected are women, who are engaged in sewing and other light projects.

Nearly all persons on direct relief were taken off several weeks ago. Just what changes will be brought about by the expenditure of the recent appropriations can not be determined at this time.

F. A. BOSWELL IS APPOINTED KILBY WARDEN

Moved Up From Assistant Warden To Warden In A Few Days

Frank A. Boswell, Jr., of Clanton, was appointed yesterday by Governor Graves,, warden of Kilby Prison to succeed George P. Walls, of Prattville. Mr. Boswell, who was deputy warden at Kilby during the first administration of Gov. Graves, is rated as one of the most competent and efficient prison executives in Alabama.

For a time the Chief Executive had considered the merging of the office of warden at Kilby with that of chief physician-inspector of State prisons, a position to which he appointed some time ago Dr. W. C. Camp, of Jasper. He decided, however, not to combine the two positions.

Announcement was also made by the Governor of the following additional appointments: C. S. Kelley, of Evergreen, warden at Atmore Prison, to succeed J. W. Brown; Henry Jones, of Scottsboro, warden at the Wetumpka State Prison, succeeding J. E. Brock; Dr. C. S. Cousins, of Wetumpka, physician for the same prison, succeeding Dr. J. F. Sewell, also of Wetumpka.

COLLINS CHAPEL SCHOOL HOUSE IS DESTROYED

Fire Of Undetermined Origin Destroys Fine Junior High School Building

Fire of undetermined origin completely destroyed the Collins Chapel Junior High School building early Monday morning, leaving the recently completed structure lying in ruins within less than two hours after the flames were discovered by Woodfin Littleton and Lee Smith who live near the school.

Figures available at the office of Supt. Luther E. Little place the damages at approximately $14,000, which is partially covered by insurance. The origin of the fire was undetermined Mr. Little stated. There had been no fires in the building since Friday afternoon when school was closed for the week end, and as is the building was not wired for electric lights, defective wiring could not have been responsible for the ignition.

Mr. Littleton, caretaker at the County Alms House, was the first to discover the blaze. When he arose to begin his work he noticed the flames. Arousing Mr. Smith, who also lives nearby, they rushed to the building, but the flames had already enveloped the entire structure they reported. Bursting a lock off the recently completed auditorium, they managed to remove the seats before the roof began falling. Both Mr. Littleton and Mr. Smith placed the time of their discovery at shortly after 5 o'clock.

This is the second school building to be burned in the county within a few weeks. The Isabella High School buildings were destroyed by a fire of undetermined origin only a few weeks ago, incurring a $33,000 loss.

In both instances the buildings had recently been completed. Both schools had new auditoriums erected during the CWA work program in the county. At Collins Chapel, the addition, which included the auditorium, was estimated to have cost approximately $7000.

CLANTON GIRL HONORED RECENTY BY STUDENTS AT BIRMINGHAM COLLEGE

MISS MARALYN HARDY

Miss Hardy, a graduate of Chilton County High School, and one of Clanton's most popular and charming young ladies, was recently honored by the Freshman Class of Howard College where she is a student. She is the daughter of Sheriff J. R. Hardy.

Unique Display Window Attracts Attent'n

All roads lead to the big Mullins Department Store in Clanton, according to road signs in a miniature landscape depiction of this trade territory which has been placed in the display windows of the Clanton firm.

Arranged by Mrs. Renfro Mullins, the decorations of this window is one of the most unique imaginable and shows much artistic ability.

With a miniature of the Mullins store as a concensus for the rest of the illustration, no detail of life in rural Chilton County has been overlooked. Dotted here and there along roads, all of which lead to the Mullins store, are homes, so natural in their arrangement that one forgets that he is seeing only playhouses and not an airview.

No effort was spared in striking the note of reality. In the yards of the homes are seen alert watchdogs, or lazy hounds peacefully sleeping in the sunshine; shrubbery adds a touch of home life; cows browse in green pasature fields are seen sma'l bage of fer- and throughout the freshly turned miniatured fields are seen small bags of fertilizer, one of the principal products sold by the Mu'lins firm.

All in all this is one of the most attractive windows ever seen in a Clanton business establishment.

Mazar's Store Changes Managers This Week

A change in the management of the Mazar's Store in Clanton was announced this week with I. S. Levine, of Birmingham, succeeding E. A. Lewis as manager.

Mr. Levine, who has wide experience in ready-to-wear lines for both men and women, arrived in Clanton several days ago and assumed the managership of the store on last Monday.

Having traveled in this territory for several years as representative of a large eastern clothing firm, Mr. Levine is well known to Clanton busines men, and declared that he has long been partial to Clanton and Chilton County.

"I have all intentions of becoming a citizen of this county and am ready to cooperate in any way for the advancement of both the town and county," he declared. "Although I am new to most of the people of Chilton County, I am acquainted with several of the good citizens here, having traveled in this territory for eleven years. It is my ambition to also make a good citizen," he continued.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis who have been here since the store was opened, left for Atlanta Tuesday morning.

Mr. Levine stated that his wife and baby will join him within a few weeks.

Your County Officials

A Brief History of Newly Elected Officers

J. R. Hardy, Sheriff

Law violators in Chilton County will soon find out that the county's new law enforcement officer perhaps won't be quite so lenient as some may have dreamed. Sheriff Hardy recently declared that some people have gone to a lot of trouble to leave the impression over the county that law violators will have an easy time during his administration.

This is far from true as he expects to demonstrate just as soon as his deputies regain their "running wind" and are thoroughly over attacks of the flu, from which they have all suffered since going into office.

The business of enforcing the law is not new to J. R. Hardy. For four years he served his native Coosa County as sheriff, and while in office in that county demonstrated that he is fearless. Once he captured a murderer within less than a minute after his gun had mowed down his victim. The smoking pistol still in the killer's hand he rushed through the crowd at an all-day singing in an effort to make a get-away, but as Fate would have it he made the mistake of passing within reach of Sheriff Hardy, who collared him and rushed him off to jail.

During his first year in office as sheriff of Coosa, he captured 36 whiskey stills and arrested most of their operators.

As sheriff of Chilton County, he intends to enforce all the laws, to the best of his ability. Although it is not his aim to try to fill all the State's penitentiaries with Chilton Countians, he will preserve the peace and dignity of the county or know the reason why.

Born and reared in Coosa County, he removed to Chilton in 1922. It was in the public schools of Coosa County that he received his early education. Later he attended the Fourth District Agricultural School, Sylacauga.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hardy, much of his boyhood was spent in plowing on his father's farm near Nixburg. He continued to follow this pursuit until the voters of Coosa chose him for sheriff in 1914.

Since coming to Chilton County, Sheriff Hardy was engaged in the horse and mule business for several years, operated a store in West End, Clanton, and for the past two years has served Clanton as its chief of police.

Entering the race for sheriff in the Democratic primaries at the request of both his Democratic and Republican friends, he led the victorious Democratic ticket, with a majority of 613 over his opponent.

The mother of his five children died a few years ago and he was married a second time recently to Mrs. Roberta Bean Childress, who, too, is well known and admired in every section of the county.

Big Ad Tells Of Values At Opening Of Store

The management of The Sanitary Grocery & Market, located on Main Street, announce its formal opening next Friday and Saturday when the public is cordially invited to visit this store and pass judgement upon its arrangement and array of bargains.

Housed in a completely renovated building and equipped with the most modern facilities for serving the food trade of this territory, this store promises to add much to Clanton's many up-to-date business establishments.

In this issue of the News will be found a large advertisement, listing many of the values that can be had during the opening days of this new store. The buying public is urged to read this message closely and visit this store and take advantage of these bargains.

WELL KNOWN YOUNG FARMER BEING SOUGHT

Parents And Family Of Jesse Patterson Ask For Help In Their Search

Members of his family are staging a frantic search for Jesse Patterson, farmer of the Enterprise community, who has been missing since the afternoon of Monday, January 28, when he climbed down from the roof of a building, on which he and his brother, Charlie, were working, in Clanton and said, "I'm going down town a few minutes."

He never came back, nor has any word been heard of him since that afternoon. His father, T. F. Patterson, said that his son suffers from amnesia and he fears that he was overcome with an attack. Since he returned from service during the World War he has never been mentally right, his father stated.

At the time he left his job, he was dressed in overalls and a brown coat. He was wearing a leather cap. He is small of statue, being five feet and six inches tall and weighing 125 pounds.

BRIDGE OVER COOSA TO GET NEW THOUGHT

Representative Cox Is Very Optimistic On Subject Of New Bridge

Anticipating that Chilton County will share to the extent of approximately $1,000,000 in the $4,800'000,000 recently appropriated by the Federal Government to be used for the purpose of creating work for jobless American workmen, local leaders are busy formulating a program which they hope will exhibit to the National Government an intention of cooperation and a desire to see this money expended on projects that will serve the two-fold purpose of furnishing employment and accomplishing improvements that will be lasting and worthwhile.

Appearing before the Commissioners Court in special session last Monday, Rep. C. B. Cox asked the cooperation of the court in outlining work in Chilton County that will be of real benefit, work programs that will show to those men in Washington who are in charge of spending this money that Chilton County wants to spend her part wisely.

Eighty-eight millions of dollars will be Alabama's share in the program, according to tabulations that have been made since the appropriation. With this figure covering the State, Mr. Cox said that he would estimate that Chilton County should share to the extent of approximately $1,000,000 if the leaders of the county will show that they have the ambition to spend these

COMMISSIONERS NAME TWO MEN ON COUNTY JOBS

J. J. Johnson Will Succeed Johnny Easterling As Gas Truck Driver

The new county administration completed the appointment of employes to various county posts at a special session of the Commissioners Count Monday afternoon, when J. J. Johnson was named to succeed Johnny Easterling as driver of the county supply truck, and M. T. Littlefield was re-appointed as janitor at the court house. These completed a rather long list of positions with the county government which are considered subject to change with the installation of new administrations

Considerable speculation relative to the naming of the driver of the count supply truck has been current since the election in November. Only two nominations were made for janitor. Oden nominated M. T. Littlefield and Duke placed in nomination Columbus Johnson. Oden and Atchison voted for Littlefield, Duke and Bean for Johnson. Again Judge Smith broke the tie by casting a vote for Littlefield.

Most of the remainder of the session was spent in auditing and passing claims against the county. The body will meet in regular session next Monday.

SUPT. LITTLE BACK AT OFFICE AFTER ATTACK OF INFLUENZA

Supt. Luther E. Little, who has been confined to his home for the past two weeks because of an attack of flu, has greatly improved and is able to be in his office again this week.

Work at the superintendent's office has piled up during Mr. Little's absence. Mrs. Jewel Smith, his efficient secretary, has also suffered an influenza attack and was unable to be in the office two days.

Monday morning when Mr. Little returned to his office he faced the necessity of helping to improvise teaching quarters for the pupils and teachers of the Collins Chapel Junior High School, which was burned early Monday morning.

Maplesville Boy Hit By Bandits Near Cemetery

Vester Hayes, 10, of Maplesville, today was nursing head injuries inflicted on him Saturday night by a pair of 'ghost' bandits.

As he was going to the home of his brother W. T. Hayes, at 221 12th-av., n, Hayes passed near the Jewish Cemetery.

Suddenly two figures stepped from the darkness and struck him on the head When he regained consciousness he found his pocketbook and $2 gone.

Young Hayes then went back to the street car line and rode to the downtown store where his brother is employed. The brother took him to West End Baptist Hospital where he was treated for a deep scalp cut.

Police are looking for the "ghost bandits" on a description furnished them by the victim.

"Register Your Baby"

This admonition is the slogan of the campaign being conducted in every county in the state by the Alabama State Board of Health, with the co-operation of the Alabama Relief Administration and the federal Bureau of the Census, in an effort to secure a complete record of every baby born in the state during the past twelve months.

State laws require that every doctor or midwife who attends a mother at a birth promptly make a report of such birth to the health department, and this is usually done. On occasions, however, there is a failure to make the proper report, with the result that there is no permanent record of the birth, and no birth certificate is later available. Many times, during the life of the average man, it becomes important, even vital, to establish his age.

Early in February the Bureau of the Census, with the aid of the Postoffice Department, will distribute to every family in the State a card on which a few simple facts are to be filled in, and the card dropped, without postage, in a mail box. The principal effort is to get all parents to whom babies have been born within the past year to fill in these cards and mail them. The simple act makes sure that the child reported is then properly recorded and a certificate of birth, the newcomer's first citizenship papers, will be easy to secure. A complete response to the call is sought by Dr. J. N. Baker, State Health Officer, who is anxious that Alabama make the best possible showing with other states conducting a similar campaign.—Evergreen Courant.

Transportation Problems Considered

A report on railroad passenger traffic made public January 21 by Joseph B. Eastman, federal coordinator of transportation, will attract especial attention in view of a statement in President Roosevelt's message to Congress on the state of the Union that "among the subjects immediately before us" is "consolidation of Federal regulatory administration over all forms of transportation, on land, on water and in the air."

The report, covering the calendar year 1933, discloses that air lines broke even; bus lines earned a slight margin above cost but an inadequate investment return and the railways expended 200 million dollars more for service than their revenues of 500 millions. Railway travel was no greater in 1933 than in 1900 and, measured by per capita expenditure, it was less than any year since 1871. Travel between cities in private automobiles was ten times as great as in trains and aggregate travel per capita by all means of transport was four times as great as prior to the automobile era.

"The increase in travel as a whole," says the report, "indicates that at least three-fourths of those who now travel do so from desire rather than necessity, which emphasizes the need for carriers to improve service and reduce fares. Carrier passenger service, even when traffic volume is as low as in 1933, can be made profitable by modernization of equipment and methods. Recent advances in metallurgy make possible large reductions in weight of cars and analysis reveals that passenger deficits were in large part caused by oversized trains. Average occupancy of railway coaches with capacity of 77 passengers was 14; of highway buses with capacity of 28 was 16. Pullman cars averaged 8 passengers per car.

Attributing 75 million dollars of the 200 million deficit to "wasteful duplication of limited trains" and a minimum of six millions to "the unnecessary practice of farming out sleeping and parlor car services to the Pullman Company," the report lays particular stress on providing comforts and conveniences to the traveling public.

"Carriers should make it possible," it says, "for travelers to arrange for journeys by telephone and upon request should deliver tickets, arrange for cab service, collect and deliver luggage and transport the traveler's automobile for use at destination. Ticket routines and handling should be simplified and delays and annoyance avoided. Carrier service, in short, should be humanized, made hospitable and travelers should be welcomed as guests."

Express, baggage and merchandise freight traffic, now requiring 2½ billion car miles per annum, the report states can be handled in the one-half billion car miles now devoted to express and baggage alone. As the greatest volumeof passenger traffic lies in journeys of less than 100 miles, a fare of 1½ cents per mile is recommended for that classification, and vesting entirely in the Association of American Railroads all pricing and sales functions, "now competitively exercised by 89 duplicate departments confronting one another." That association, it concludes, "should modernize and simplify tariffs and prescribe passenger service, routes, rates and divisions."

The garvity of the problems which have confronted the railroads in recent years has received the earnest consideration of the President and it may be confidently expected that he will submit to the Congres very definite recommendations for their prompt and definite solution.

The Depression Teaches Lessons

The problem of how to make your earnings of today work for you in old age is tremendously personal.

The problem has been described as getting old men's dollars out of young men's incomes.

Even in normal times, poverty-stricken old age constitutes one of our gravest social difficulties. Only a small percentage of persons past seventy are self-sufficient financially—the rest must depend on relatives or private or public relief.

There are grounds for forecasting that the present depression will be the means of lessening this old age problem, and if it does that, hard times will have been worth their cost. More and more men and women are investing money wisely and safely, with an eye to security and steady earnings rather than possible profits. They are investing it in life insurance, annuities and trust funds. They are determined that when their earning period has passed, they will spend their declining years in comfort provided by their own thrift and foresight when young.

Preventing Fire Aids Business Recovery

Will 1935 bring an epidemic of destructive factory fires? It may if the managers of industrial plants neglect to make careful checks for fire hazards that urgently need correcting, and if they fail to put equipment that has not been operated for some time, into proper working condition before stepping up production. It is an invitation to fire to rush a factory into production when inactivity has ruled during depression!

As factory operations increase, as they eventually must, there is apt to be a great rush for materials and an unprecedented effort to produce finished merchandise in large volume. A fre at such a tme would be disastrous to most concerns. Multiplied a thousand fold, such fires would slow up business recovery. The very eagerness for a speedy swing into the pre-depression stride might defeat its own purpose.

There is one simple yet effective plan for exposing fire hazards so that they may be corrected; that is, make a detailed inspection of the plant. In many instances inspecting may be done by the management itself, a group of competent employes or a committee of both, provided a correct guide is followed in the work. Such a guide is available in the form of a self-inspection blank, which will be furnished on request by the National Board of Fire Underwriters, 85 John St., New York City. Inspections should be thorough and periodic and all essential data should be put in written form. It is evident that inspections will be worthless, however, unless the fire hazards disclosed are corrected at once.

Fire is one of the chief enemies of industry. Business men can spare themselves much loss and worry by devoting sufficient time to a thoughtful study of how to prevent fire on their own premises, and by inaugurating an adequate system of inspections.

D. W. Haskew

With a friend I entered the undertaker's establishment and we looked over his stock. Before us were caskets and shrouds in abundance. My attention was directed with keen interest toward the shrouds. They were made of all kinds and colors of fabrics and were indeed beautiful to behold. I observed that while they were beautiful yet not one of the number carried pockets. The shrouds for men were without pockets and I saw no purses and handbags for the women. How suggestive all that was to me. We brought nothing into this world and it is certain that we are going to carry nothing out. There is a time coming when we will have no need for all those things for which we are striving today. Wealth is good if we transfer it into values that will be recorded on high. We can send our treasures on before us, but we can not carry them with us. Shrouds have no pockets.

In the early days an Indian brave was being pursued by his enemies and came to the Niagara river just above the Falls. He entered his canoe and pushed out into the river. Being exhausted he reclined upon the bottom of his boat to rest and to be safe from the arrows that might come toward him. Soon he was fast asleep and drifted down towards the falls. His boat lurched forward and he awoke and discovered that he was too far down stream to save himself. He saw that there was no hope and he sat down in his canoe, folded his arms across his breast and in a stoic manner he rode on to his horrid plunge and death. Hope is the mainspring of human life. Science has never discovered any medicine so powerful as hope. Today many a man has lost hope, has folded his arms and is drifting. As a watch can not keep time without a mainspring, so a man can not move correctly and in an upward way when hope is dead.

Near Ponce De Leon Florida there is a spring that boils up from the depths below and a small river runs away from this beautiful, boiling water. When there is no back wash in the basin of this spring, a dime can be seen resting on the bottom eighty feet below. This stream of clear, cool water does not find its source in the sand plains that surround the spring. That water is melted snow from some mountain peaks far to the north, and it finds its way in an underneath channel and then comes to the surface in the swamps of Choctahatchee. Its source is high up among the hills and mountains, and its water is as clear as a crystal. My friends, much depends on the source of your life elements. If your character is made up from the streams that flow through this world, you need not expect anything but mud and mire, but if your life flows down from God, if it comes down to you from the Everlasting Hills, you will have purity and beauty. It was the Psalmist who said: "All of my springs are in Thee, O Lord."

A ship wrecked near the shore and a husband and a father started to swimming toward the shore, carrying his wife and his little boy. The father's strength was almost gone and he saw that he could not make it to the shore with his burden and that he must leave his wife or his boy behind. He had to make choice as to which one should live. He had to decide which one should be flung clear of his strength. God can save us all. He does not have to make a choice. He wills that all shall be saved. We decide.

Economic Highlights

According to the old saying, "The mil's of the gods grind slowly—but they grind exceedingly fine."

That adage can be accurately applied to the present Congress, as it considers the President's new recovery and relief program. It is moving slowly, it is talking a good deal, and it is gradually grinding out legislation toward the two principal projects of the White House—social security, and an unprecedentedly vast public works program, designed to eliminate the dole.

The public works program is of the most immediate interest. It will cost $4,000,000,000—the largest draft ever drawn against the United States Treasury for any single purpose. It will put about 3,500,000 men to work directly. And, if the President's hopes materialize, it will put another 3,500,000 to work indirectly, in jobs created by the spending power of the first 3,500,000.

Equally important are the promised principles upon which the program is predicted. All work is to be useful, in that it will either permanently improve living conditions or create new wealth. Pay for workers will be above the present "dole" level—but will be low enough so that the men employed will still keep an eye out for jobs in private business. Projects will be selected so as to use the largest possible amount of labor for the money spent. The money will be allocated on the basis of the greatest need—that is, a state which has 20 per cent of its people on relief will get more than a state which has but ten per cent on relief. It is said the public works program will avoid competition with private enterprise, which is justifiably jittery about government activities in the industrial field.

The list of possible public works has not been completed, but a number are known. Public buildings will be one. Bridge building will be another. Soil conservation and sanitation will come in for their share, as will tunnels, flood dams and forest conservation. Road building will naturally be near the head of the list.

There was considerable dissatisfaction in Congress over the fact that the President wants the public works money under his control—Congressmen wanted to distribute it themselves. However, this idea seems to be definitely out—allocation of funds will be in the jurisdiction of the White House, through a board appointed by the President.

So far as the social security program is concerned, it is finding rather hard going. It seems that every Congressman has his own idea as to how the ill, the aged and the unemployed should be aided—there is much argument, many words and little agreement. By the time this is read, the so-called Townsend Plan, whereby every person over 60 would be given $200 a month by the government, will probably been introduced in the lower house—proponents of the plan claim enough supporters to get it through. The President's influence, however, will be thrown aggressively against it, and in favor of a much more moderate policy.

Business reports are encouraging. The country is experiencing gradual improvement in about every line of endeavor.

Trade, according to Dun & Bradstreet, is rising above the levels of 1930 and 1931. Where, at the beginning of 1932, that company's business activity index stood at 50.1, it now touches 74—a gain of 45 per cent. This increase is largely due to retail distribution gains, which are 5 per cent above last year in New England, 8 to 12 per cent up on the Pacific Coast, and 20 to 30 per cent improved in the Middle West, with the balance of the country showing rises of from 12 to 15 per cent. Reports from grain and livestock markets are also encouraging.

Steel production is at 44 per cent of capacity—a gain over recent levels. It is still advancing. Electric power production shows some gains. The construction industry, long dormant, is showing signs of recovery, due principally to the activities of the Housing Administration which, after a slow start, seems to be gathering momentum in its drive to make people build and renovize their homes.

A recent Annalist statement, sent out over the financial wires, said, in effect, that all matters of interest to business are overshadowed by the possibilities inherent in the Supreme Court's forthcoming decision on the gold seizure act. It seems sure, however, that quick remedial action will be taken if the Court holds against the government—Congress is prepared for an adverse decision, and bills are already drafted in case it again becomes necessary to revamp our money system.

Dr. Hayes To Be Nominated For "Tall Story" Club

Having little knowledge of the fundamentals of the "Tall Story Club," often alluded to in the writings of the "Man in the Moon," this writer is a bit hesitant to relate this sory. But believing it will be of vast interest to the officials and members of this organization, we have decided to risk criticism for what may seemingly be an intrusion, and make a suggestion to be remembered at the next annual election of officers.

We would not dare be so bold as to nominate a man for president of this great organization, being an outsider. but we do want to relate this little story to be remembered by those whose charter membership will entitle them to remember it until election time.

Dr. J. P. Hayes lays claim to owning the best bird dog in the county, and he qualifies this claim with the following illustration of his dog's prowness. A few days ago, he was hunting he said, when "Joe," that's the dog, exhibited signs that he knew the whereabouts of a bird. A bit of urging and "Joe" nosed the feathered prey into the air. A crack from Doc's gun brought the bird to earth a few yards away but on opposite side of a creek. Like the good dog that he claims "Joe" to be. he leaped into the water and recovered the bird.

However, just as he reached shore on the return trip, bird in mouth, he suddenly stiffened. Judging his symptoms from long and experienced diagnosis, Doctor Hayes informed his companion that "Joe" had found another bird. Closer investigation verified this. The bird took to wing. Again Doc's gun cracked and the victim took a dive earthward.

When a search failed to disclose the bird's whereabouts, it was noticed that "Joe" stood peering into the stream, but the transparent water revealed only a huge catfish. Without much ado, the fish was brought to land. Still the dog held himself poised. Knowing his dog, Doctor Hayes took knife from pocket and ripped the fish's abdomen asunder.

There rested the reason for "Joe's" keen interest in the acquatic. The bird fluttered away, but of course he could not escape "the best dog in the county," Dr. Hayes explained.

Cotton Varieties

The new year is here and it is time to begin thinking about crop plans for 1935.

Cotton seed have sold for a good price during the harvest season. Conditions have been such for the past few years that very few farmers felt like making an effort to get seed of better varieties for planting.

This year, with a little more money from our cotton crop last season, and prospects good for still better prices for cotton and seed next fall, your county agent believes that it would be wise for many farmers to get better planting seed for planting this coming Spring.

The county agent is making an effort to secure a supply of planting seed for the cotton farmers.

The following figures will give you some idea of how different varieties stand up under experimental tests:

The five leading varieties with the average yield in pounds of lint cotton per acre, and the average length of staple in 1-32 inches for the three-year period, 1932-34, are as follows:

Wilt Infested Area of Alabama

Variety	av. lint per acre	av. lgth. stpl.-1-32 in.
Cook 1022	391	30.3
Cook 307-92 (Smith)	386	28.2
Clevewilt (C. Rhyne)	383	31.8
Cook 307 (B. Ryne)	375	28.1
Cook 27-54	374	29.5
Areas with no Wilt in Central Alabama
D. P. L. 11	463	32.8
D. P. L. 10	458	31.8
Half and Half	441	25.8
Stoneville 3	430	31.6
Stoneville 2	413	32.8

Most of the soils in Chilton County are infested with wilt fungi. This makes it advisable for most of the farmers in this county to use wilt-resistant varieties.

The Experiment Station does not recommend that the farmers plant seed of varieties that have a staple of less than 28-32-inch staple. You will note that all these leading varieties except one have a staple length of more than 2832- inches.

Farmers who are interested in good cotton seed for planting this coming spring should make their desires known to the county agent in the near future.

Work Relief In 6 Months On Work Relief In Key West

"Six months of New Deal work relief administration in this island city has paid dividends," [illegible] Associated Press [illegible] West, Fla. John F. [illegible] administrator, said [illegible] measured by the [illegible] business, has been a success."

For a decade Key West slipped steadily from its position as a thriving city, until July 2, 1934, officials of both the city and Monroe county petitioned the governor of Florida to take over their affairs. Eighty per cent of the population were on relief.

Gov. Dave Sholtz requested Stone to act as his agent and the FERA administrator took over Key West and set to work. The local government and its citizens could not contribute money but they gladly gave their time and labor. The first job was a general cleaning. Stone said if all the trash cleaned out were placed on a city lot 50 by 150 feet, the pile would be as high as a 17-story office building.

After the public cleanup came renovating of buildings and residences and general beautification. The harbor was improved; work was begun on completion of the overseas highway linking the island with the mainland and eliminating ferries. Tourist attractions were added; an official marine band, a girls' orchestra, a municipl band, a city hospitality league to greet and assist tourist and other organizations were formed.

The objective, Stone said, is to get private capital interested and attract tourist and both purposes are being accomplished sooner than expected.

'ONE OF ALABAMA'S GREATEST WOMEN FOR 1934' WILL BE HONORED FRIDAY

Greenville, Ala., Feb. 4.—For the first time in Alabama's history a little woman with no claim to greatness other than her triumph over adversity and possible starvation will be honored here Friday as "One of Alabama's greatest women for 1934."

The little woman is Mrs. Irene Davis, a widow, who early last year spurned relief, begged for a chance to earn her own living on a farm about 10 miles below here and at the close of the year faced the world with plenty of food stored for the Winter and clear of all debt.

With her three children she will be honored as a symbol of courage and achievement by the women of Alabama during the country's most devastating depression..

The event will take place at 6 p. m. Friday under the joint auspices of the Greenville Lions Club and The Greenville Advocate. and as a part of the program for the district meeting of Lions clubs in Greenvile from throughout this section of the State.

Mrs. Davis will be presented a handsome loving cup bearing an inscription honoring her as one of Alabama's greatest women to brighten the cheerless cabin in which she lives and to serve as a reminder to her children through the years to come of a mother's courage and love.

The cup is the contribution of The Greenville Advocate. one of Alabama's most enterprising weeklies and the presentation will be made by Donald Come, Birmingham industrialist.

President Jeff Beeland, of the Grenville Lions Club, will preside. The ceremony will take place in the Greenville Community House.

Advised that she was to be honored for her work, Mrs. Davis, a high school graduate and with two years of normal training, modestly demurred and insisted there were many women more deserving of the honor than she. She had only tried to make a living for herself and children, she said, and wanted only the chance of making herself and family independent of a Federal dole.

She attributed much of her success in achieving her goal to the help of her three children who aided her in attending the eight acres that surrounded the place she called "home" last year. Her 14-year-old son did the plowing, the mule having been borrowed from a neighbor. For each day the mule worked in her field, Mrs. Davis hoed or did other work in the field of her neighbor. Her children also were kept in school. One is in the ninth grade, another in the eighth and the third in the fifth grade.

She was advanced funds for the purchase of seed, feed, fertilizer, groceries and clothing by the Rural Rehabilitation division of the Alabama Relief Administration, and was enrolled in the Rehabilitation program only upon her insistence to be granted an opportunity to make her own way. She has repaid all obligations to the Rehabilitation division and now the people who know of the heroic struggle and hardships endured to avoid the dole are about to pay a tribute to human courage and endeavor that has never before been bestowed in Alabama.

CATHOLIC LADIES GUILD ORGANIZED IN CLANTON FRIDAY

Our Ladies' Guild met at the home of Mrs. Hugh Jones on Friday afternoon. This was the initial meeting and its organization was most successfully carried out. Ten charter members were enrolled, including members from Marbury and Thorsby.

Rev. Father Cazalas. pastor of the Clanton Parrish, opened the meeting with prayer, invoking Divine Guidance upon the work.

Mrs. Hugh Jones was made temporary chairman, Miss Margaret Daniels of Marbury acted as Secretary and read the call of the meeting.

Father Cazalas gave a short and most inspiring talk as he introduced the speaker for the afternoon: Rev. Frances J. Foley of Boston.

Father Foley's address was most pleasingly given. The central theme of his topic was Catholic action. This he outlined briefly in a learned review, explaining it to be as old as the church itself, the driving power which makes the principles of Christ prevail through Catholic activity in the scores of social movements now sweeping through the Catholic world. The laity participating with the hierarchy. The offering of self to Christ as His lay apostle. Father Foley closed his beautiful appeal with his good wishes as bendiction upon the Guild.

May its success be equal to that of The History Club of Frederick Ozanam. pioneer of Catholic Action.

After the usual routine of organization the following officers were elected: Rev. Father Cazalas, spiritual adviser; Mrs. Hugh Jones, chairman; Mrs. C. F. Hofer, Marbury. vice-chairman; Mrs. James Parr, Sec.-Treas.

Mrs. John Browder and Mrs. Hofer assisted the hostess in serving refreshments.

The Guild will holds its next meeting with Mrs. John Browder.

CHICOHI CHATTER

The Jr. One students certainly convinced all that "mite makes right." Personally, I haven't been so highly entertained since Johnny was a boy. I suppose by now the backbone of the nation's curiousity is fanned to a white heat so I'll play safe, and tell all.

Every afternoon after school one might hear the weirdest sounds imaginable, (you know the kind you're accustomed to on hallowe'en night in a country church yard), resounding from the auditorium. I just got curiouser 'n curiouser. It was with great difficulty I assure you Mary Edith, that I restrained my all but bursting imagination from these wells wherein I keep brain. Due to my superlative exercise of will power I finally found myself in a fever of excitement at chapel period.

There a program not entirely composed of weird sounds ensued.

The usual devotional was carried out by Annie Cordelia Smith. Several piano selections were given and different groups of Jr. Ones offered vocal entertainment entitled "The Old Mill Stream." and "The Road to Mandalay." A unique feature of their program was the fact that they supplied their own pianist, Grace Ezell. Several readings were also given. These various chapel programs have given new life to the usual exercises and announcements.

The Plane Geometry class has started the school with something entirely new in the line of art. With the aid of an instrument unknown to all but he who delves into the midst of the geometrical world, which I will call ox(it's just another angle to me), they succeeded in copying on the board almost exactly but on a larger scale a new sport model de luxe Chevrolet coupe. It wasn't told to me, I only heard, that Gertiwyl Vinson and Dollie Belle Harris shared honors in adding to its pulcharitude by adorning it with colored chalk.

The Chicohi basketball teams hold a rather enviable record in that the girls team has kept the upper hand in all combats where the boys have suffered but few losses.

Anybody, boy or girl, is to be commended for entering into this sport. Not only they maintain streneous practice but also forego sweets. My kingdom for a Hershey! And I'm not an advertising man, either.

Seniors, what will you do next? The great question. This time it's interviews. Each studink (there I go again), was requested, commanded ,entreated, or what have you, to arrive one bright and happy? Monday morning bearing a well-written personal interview by yours trooly. The targets for the aims (interview, my child), were successful women. Immediately a searching party was organized and in less than three days ten successful women were dug up and the interviews written per as ordered. That, my lads and lassies is how it's done.

Among the people keeping the Seniors in this interesting project countered Misses Kitty Clyde Austin, Margaret Kendrick, Beverly Hester, and Birtie Teel.

The interviews were experiences never to be fortotten by the interviewer and of great interest to all who heard by ear or otherwise.

Pyroil Going Strong Says Dief's Station

Dief's Service Station has recently been appointed representative, or handling agency for Chilton, Autauga, and Shelby counties for the Pyroil Company manufacturers of the fast growins "Pyroil."

Mr. Diefenderfer stated that this product is going strong here with car owners and calls are had every day from tourists for this oil which is mixed with the oil in the car's motor and is highly recommended to mix a small amount in gasoline for cars.

The large number of unsolicited letters from airplane companies and others who use "Pyroil" attest to its importance in automobile operation, Mr. Diefenderfer says they will be glad to explain its use to anyone.

A. B. DEASON DIED TUESDAY, JANUARY 22

It was on last Tuesday, January 22, that God sent a death angel to bear away our loving son, Andrew. His death came as a shock, although he had been in failing health for some time.

All was done for him that earthly physicians could do. to restore his health, but God in his wisdom saw fit to call him away. The Lord giveth and the Lord taketh—blessed be the name of the Lord.

His going has saddened our hearts, but we have the comfort of knowing that we did all we could for him while he was with us.

God transplanted his wife to his Kingdom seven years prior to his going asd his little girl several years before, but we feel that our loss is heaven's gain.

Besides his father and mother, three brothers and three sisters, he is survived by four sons, Lafayette and A.W., of Eufaula, Ala., Alvin of Quantico, Va., and Woodie, of Ashville. N. C. All of his sons attended his funeral with a beautiful floral offering.

His body was laid to rest in Sardis cemetery with Martin in charge.

We thank our friends and neighbors for their kindness. The following friends acted as pallbearers: John Minor, Dud Headley, Jim Fisher, Vernon Klinner and Arthur Carter.

—Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Deason.

Edwin Sullivan of Peoria, Ill., 14 years old, confessed that he had trained his dog to stand guard while he robbed stores.

The Enterprise boys won over our team again last Friday by the count of 15 to 10. Both teams were more or less off form, for many crip-shots were missed which should have been converted into points. The Enterprise boys gave our team a sound lacing on December 14, by the score of 37 to 9, but they met this time a team whose defense has tightened and they were compelled to forego a run-a-way count as they previously had registered. The Enterprise girls were due to play our girls' team, but on account of several being vaccinated the game was postponed. Both of our teams will play Maplesville, there, Wednesday night of this week. Results will be given in next week's News.

The community girls, outside of school, have been visiting us recently, affording our girls basketball practice.

The Jr. Three girls gave a banquet last Saturday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Scott, honoring both the boys and girls Atheletic Clubs. Various games were in the offing which was followed by refreshments of cake and hot chocolate.

The Extra Bolls Are The Profit

YOU have got to produce a certain amount of cotton to pay for the labor, fertilizer and other incidental expenses. If you produce only the number of bolls necessary to pay these expenses, you will have no profit left. It is from the extra bolls on each stalk that your profit comes. Therefore, it is only natural that what you are looking for is a fertilizer that will put these extra bolls on every stalk.

For fifty years Royster has done nothing but study plant foods for various crops—cotton in particular. It has been our life work to produce an early-maturing, heavy-producing cotton plant, and we feel that our efforts have met with success. It stands to reason that one who has spent a life-time at one job must succeed.

Be sure you get the extra bolls that mean profit. See your Royster agent and let him know how many tons of Royster Field Tested Cotton Fertilizer you will need.

Jemison Students To Enter Essay Contest

Quite a few boys in the agricultural classes of the Jemison High School, have decided to enter an essay contest now being conducted in the vocational high schools throughout the State.

Sponsored by the Alabama Future Farmers Chapters in cooperation with the Chilean Nitrate Educational Bureau, Inc., the contest, like last years, is intended to develop interest in and encouraged study of the rare elements in crop production and animal nutrition.

Last year eleven boys in this state won prizes for their essays. Two of those prizes were won by Jemison students. This is encouraging to the boys and some splendid essays should be written for this year's contest.

Most farmers know that plants need phosphorous nitrogen, and potassium and for that reason purchase commercial fertilizers. However, a number of experiment stations are finding that additional amounts of other elements are often needed on some soils and with indifferent crops. These elements are called "Rare Elements" and include magnesium,, boron, calcium, iodine copper and zinc. A contest of this kind inspires study on this very worthwhile subject. "The Value of the Rarer Elements on Plant Growth and Animal Nutrition."

We have again been called to genuise sorrow by the recent passing of brother C. F. Messer, of Berbena. Alabama. He was a devout Christian, friend and neighbor.

Brother Messer was born in Coosa County, fifty three-years ago. He was a devout member of his church, and all who knew him was impressed with his love for God, and the things that are pleasing to his Heavenly Father. He was also a devout husband and father. He leaves a sweet memory to his loved ones.

His friends were many, to know him was to love him. He has gone from this world, but we are happy that we can feel sure that he is with his Lord in peace and fellowship.

He leaves to mourn his passing, mother, his wife, several children and a host of relatives and friends. May God bless his loved ones who are left with the sweet memory of his Christian life.

Advertising Gained 10.6 Percent In 1934

New York—During 1934, advertisers spent about $490,000,000 for space in American daily newspapers, according to an estimate made from returns from 52 cities, appearing in Editor and Publisher, a newspaper and advertising publication.

The linage figures for the year showed a gain of 10.6 percent over 1933, and 1.2 percent over 1932. They were 37.9 percent below 1929, the peak year in newspaper advertising. For the last 15 months, according to the article, each month's linage has been greater than that for the corresponding month of the previous year.

The Editor and Publisher's linage index shows that advertising volume mounted steadily for the first 6 months last year. Then it dropped and wavered within a narrow range until October, when it rose from 88.4 to 94.4 in November, and 97.1 in December.

Farmers Advised To Spray Fruit Trees

To protect apple and peach trees from destruction by San Jose Scale, farmers should immediately spray them with a dormant spray, advises Prof. J. M. Robinson, entomologist of the Alabama Experiment Station.

Lubricating oil emulsion is now regarded as the most satisfactory insecticide for the control of San Jose Scale and is also the cheapest says Prof. Robinson. The dosage recommended is three per cent [illegible]

For controlling scale and curl leaf at the same time, a concentrated lime sulphur solution should be used.

Information on preparing the sprays may be obtained free from county agents or from Prof. Robinson at Auburn

Letters To The Editor

IS GLAD OF REFRENDUM

Editor, Chilton County News:

Will you please give me a small space to say a few words.

As we are to have a chance to vote on the prohibition question soon, I really rejoice to see the people have this chance which has been kept from the people by the dry class. But we should be thankful that we have people at the head of our government that are willing to let the people speak for themselves.

I truly thank God for such people. I don't believe in such unjust and oppressive laws. It's without Bible authority. Neither do I believe that the people of Alabama do. And when they get a shot at it I predict that they will kill it 2 to 1.

I'm surprised to see the church people make such a desperate fight to retain the present prohibition law. It makes me think of the 23rd ch., 35th verse of Matthew which says: "That upon you may come all the righteous bloodshed upon the earth, from the blood of righteous Abel unto the blood of Zacharias, son of Barachias, whom ye slew between the temple and the altar." The Bible does not justify the present prohibition law. It should be repealed and place the penalty where it belongs. The people will do this when they get a chance to do so. ,

Now. we know that wine or strong drinks are the same when it comes to getting drunk. We all must admit that it is bad to be deceived and overcome by wine., but the prohibition law forbids any person possessing anything that looks like, tastes like or smells like intoxicant liquors.

Now if a person possesses any of the above mentioned he is a criminal according to the prohibition law, and is subject to the penalty which ranges from fifty dollars to a year in the penitentiary, which is the lowest fine, this is not for drunkenness, but for possessing.

Listen, brother, did you know that wine is the most sacred symbol used between the lids of the Bible? Jesus, in speaking of this wine says: "For this is my blood of the New Testament which is shed for many." Now brother, how can you abuse this drink and put heavy penalties on your fellowman for possessing this symbol; and how can you drink it in remembrance of your Redeemer and then put a penalty on someone else for possessing the same?

Would you call this class preference? Can you support laws like that and believe that this blood was shed for you. Think these things over when you vote.

Well, says one, it was not wine they used at the Lord's Supper, and we use the same raw juice. Well, let's read the 11th ch. of 1st Cor., where Paul warned the brethren not to come together to be drunken at the Lord's Supper. This proves that it was intoxicating wine. Personally the drink question does not worry me, but I hate to see my fellowman punished by a law that is without Bible authority.

Pardon me, I believe in the day of Judgment that the class who supports such laws as the present prohibition law will be judged as greater criminals than those who violate it.

Yours for repeal and place penalties on real crime and let God's Word be the judge as to what is a crime.

J. H. JACKSON.

Former Judge Reynolds Looks Back On Political Career Filled With Action

When the hands of the clock reached midnight on January 14, sounded the gong that brought to a close the political career of former Probate Judge L. H. Reynolds, and without doubt the most interesting political figure ever produced by Chilton County retired from the limelight of public office into the oblivion of private life.

In his new quarters, much quieter, in the offices with his sons, Reynolds & Reynolds, he can sit and let his mind wander back to those days when he was in the forefront, fighting the battles of his Party and people. For a few weeks the novelty of change will suffice to fill the natural void created in his heart by the lack of hurley-burley of public life—and after that he intends to spend considerable time traveling, seeing different parts of the country.

Regardless of how certain political factions may feel, Judge Reynolds believes that he has earned a good, long rest and he intends to begin taking it during the coming summer months. Only when a battle to make continued vision possible as he rounds out the last years of a busy life made it necessary for him to spend ten days in a Montgomery hospital, has he had a vacation from the duties of his and the public's business in near a half century. In this particular instance it seems that the old adage that "all work and no play makes Jack a dull boy" has failed to conform. For Judge Reynolds insists that it has been pretty much "all work," and it is very doubtful if even his most bitter political foe ever referred to him as being dull.

Born and reared on a farm in Dry Valley, in the northern section of the county, Judge L. H. Reynolds began his life as a public servant in 1892 when he left the farm and removed to Jemison. There he managed a general mercantile firm for the Farmers' Alliance, later purchasing the store and going in business for himself.

In 1896, a group of his friends recognized his ability and persuaded him to make the race for membership in the State Legislature, he served in that capacity for three terms. In 1901 he was elected to the Constitutional Convention; and in 1904 Chilton County chose him for its probate judge, and with the exception of one six-year term, he has spent most of his days behind a desk in the court house.

Throughout the forty-odd years he has been in public life Judge Reynolds declares that his sympathy has always been with the farmers of our county. And with their interest paramount he has staged many fights for lower taxes. The oldest of nine children, he necessarily had to begin work at an early age, and he says that his entire schooling was not over two and a half months. But he has always been an ardent supporter of education and recognizing the vast advantages it opens to one he has spent most of his leisure hours reading.

To the older politicians of the State, the name Reynolds suggests a fight. Judge Reynolds declares he has perhaps engaged in more public debates than any other man in the State, never refusing to meet any man on the stump or platform in a discussion of any public question.

The Judge is proud of his record in a race for the United States Senate in 1902 against Alabama's beloved Oscar W. Underwood. In that election he led the Republican ticket in the State with a vote of 78,333. In the recent gubernatorial election, the Republican candidate for governor received 22,000 votes.

Most of his 70 years have been busy ones, from plowboy to one of the most outstanding political figures in the State is a long stride. Judge Reynolds has been affiliated with three political parties during his career, although most of his life he has voted the straight Republican ticket. He helped to organize the Independent Party, which soon became the Alliance Party. Both these factions he was instrumental in cementing into the Republican Party, which he headed for more than forty years.

Now he believes that he has earned a rest.

Eight Chevrolets Are Official Autos For Elks

To carry a message of good-will and an invitation to Elks throughout the country to attend the national convention at Columbus, Ohio, the week of July 15, eight Master De Luxe Chevrolets have been selected by the Elks as the official cars for the 1935 Good-Will Tour.

The purple and white fleet, carrying the good-will ambassadors, will visit Elks' Lodges throughout the United States, traversing the country via four transcontinental routes. Two cars will set out from Boston, two from Tallahassee, Fla., and four from Sacramento, Cal. The two cars from Boston will visit the Lodges of New England and the eastern Atlantic states. The cars from Florida's capital will renew acquaintances with members of the Elks of the southern and midwestern states. Two of the cars from Sacramento will journey northward along the Pacific coast as far as Seattle and then swing east to visit points in the northwest and midwest; the other two cars from California wil journey south as far as San Diego and then head east through Texas and southwestern states. All eight cars will end their journey's prior to the opening of the Grand Lodge convention at Columbus, Ohio.

Each car will be accompanied by a professional entertainer of repute whose talent will be used to assist in entertainment programs which mark the welcoming ceremonies on the arrival of the cars in the hundreds of cities scheduled to be visited.

Elk's officials in charge of the tour stated that the importance of the event warranted the use of cars having the essential qualities needed to endure the wear and tear of a transcontinental journey. In addition to these requirements, they stated, the nature of the tour merited the use of cars which would reflect the latest in engineering and design. The accessibility of Chevrolet dealerships throughout the country, facilitating daily inspection and grooming of the tour cars, was a factor in the selection of Chevrolets as the official cars for 1935, Elks' officials also pointed out.

Kudzu Serves As Three-Way Crop

Auburn, Ala.—Farmers plannning to set Kudzu crowns this year are advised to do so between February 15 and the middle of March.

In emphasizing the importance of farmers planting Kudzu, J. C. Lowery, extension agronomist, says that the plant is a three-way crop being good for hay production, livestock grazing and for soil erosion control. Many farmers have found it valuable for setting along banks to stop land slides and serious washings," he asserts

In obtaining crowns, farmers are advised to get those which are 3 years old or older as experience has proved they are best.

Big Crop Contest Announced By Fertilizer Distributor

ANNOUNCEMENT has been made locally of a $5,000 crop contest, open to all farmers. This contest, which is sponsored by the Agricultural Development Bureau of a large distributor of American nitrate of soda, provides for 338 cash prizes. These awards range from the substantial first prize of $1,000 to $5.00.

An interesting feature of the contest is the calibre of the men who are to act as honorary judges. They are: Senator Ellison D. Smith, Chairman of the Senate Committee on Agriculture; the Hon. Allen J. Ellender, Speaker of the Louisiana House; and Dr. B. W. Kilgore of Raleigh, N. C., former director of the North Carolina Experiment Station and Extension Service.

SENATOR ELLISON D. SMITH
One of the honorary judges in the $5,000 Crop Contest.

Since the prizes are to be based on the answers to five simple questions, with spelling and grammar not counting, the sponsors of the contest feel that every farmer who follows the rules will have an equal chance, regardless of the size of his farm or the fertility of his land. Special prizes are provided for 4-H Club and Future Farmer chapters and fertilizer suppliers who help their customers win will also be rewarded.

Practically all fertilizer manufacturers and suppliers are active in the contest and can furnish an entry blank to farmers. The only requirement for entering is that the farmer buy at least 100 lbs. of the American product sold by the firm sponsoring the contest.

Chevrolet Leads Low Price Field In Sales

Illustrating that Chevrolet holds first place in the hearts of automobile drivers, Hayes Chevrolet Company released figures this week which indicate that Chevrolet leads the field in sales of all low priced cars during 1934. Nosing out its closest competitor with a lead of 33,634 sales; the management of Hayes believes that this is just a fair illustration of the regard in which this automobile is held by the public.

In the passenger car field the 1934 sales took a definite trend toward the lower price brackets, with Chevrolet leading with 534,906. Its closest rival was 530,528 according to figures compiled by the Automotive Daily News.

This year Chevrolet dealers over the country firmly believe that last years record will be bested as more people are awakened to Chevrolet values.

Two Good Pictures At Wadesonian Soon

The management of the Wadesonian Theater announces that theater-goers of this section have two special treats in view for next week, with the presensation of "Anne of Green Gables," and "Straight Is the Way."

Both of these pictures are said to be among the really outstanding screen attractions of the season. Starring Anne Shirley in "Anne of Green Gables." this individaul story woven about the difficulties of an old family feud and their solutions provide a type of entertainment that is rarely available in the form of motion picture dramas, according to Mr. Wade.

Beginning with Ann's life as she is taken from an orphan asylum and following it throughout until she is safely and securely wedded to her childhood sweetheart, "Anne of Green Gables," showing at the Wadesonian next Monday and Tuesday will be a trip back into bygone days for father and mother and a sweet revelation of the trials, fancied and real, of childhood for those who are younger.

"Straight Is the Way," starring Franchot Tone and Karen Morley, will be shown here Thursday, February 14. This is a story of gangdom and the reformation of one of its principal characters. Although woven from a rather over-worked plot this picture still is said to be one of the season's hits and is well worth seeing.

The drama reaches its height with a duel between two rivals, in love, of the underworld. One is killed, the other sees the girl he thought he loved in her true light and when he is exonorated of a charge of murder returns to the girl who has been kind to his mother while he served a term in prison.

"Straight is the Way," will hold your interest throughout and the expert acting lends a charm to a theme that has been recently used in film stories.

It was suggested that some transient may have broken into the building and left a fire in the stove in one of the rooms. A man whose name was not learned is said to have reported that he passed the school with a load of furniture earlier in the morning and saw a light in the auditorium. He thought it was a lamp, he stated.

Plans are being formulated for the five teachers and the 184 students to use the Collins Chapel and New Salem Baptist churches until further arrangements can be made.

Slightly stooped, has blue eyes and light brown hair, with regular features. His teeth are false.

Patterson, who lives four miles west of Verbena, had been boarding at the home of Tom Pyron while working in Clanton. His family was unaware of his absence for three or four days until they discovered that he had not been to his boarding place at all last week.

Mr. Patterson, father of Jesse, said that his son had been in a highly nervous condition for several days, having suffered from a slight attack of influenza. For some time Jesse had expressed the belief that the Florida climate might be helpful to him, and his father thinks there is liklihood that he may have gone to Miami, or to some point in southeast Texas.

He said that he had no reason to fear foul play, but rather believes that his son is suffering from an attack of amnesia of which he has been a victim for several years. Jesse is 35, but looks much younger.

Anyone knowing of his whereabouts, or any information which might lead to his discovery, are urged to get in touch with T. F. Patterson, or Mrs. Jesse Patterson, Verbena, Ala.

S. J. Ezell Gives Some Reasons For 3 "Noes"

One of the greatest moral and economic issues ever presented to Alabama voters to decide will be settled by you on February 26th. In the interest of helpless children, our entire citizenship, our homes, our churches, and civilization itself, I shall vote three noes February 26th, for the following reasons:

1. Because I have children and want them to grow up sober and useful citizens. Every parent should protect the environment under which his children grow up. No good parent would want his children to grow up among rattlesnakes.

2. Because other parents have children I want to see protected from the hurtful and debauching influence of strong drink. I must cast my vote against anything that hurts innocent and helples children, and protect their bread and clothes from the brewer and liquor vendor.

3. Because I want to protect the suffering hearts of wives, fathers, mothers from drunken husbands and sons. Fathers, Mothers wives and children must pay the price of strong drink in suffering and shame.

4. Then I vote three noes for the sake of thousands of drunkards who hate strong drink, and who themselves vote it out of their way every chance they get. It is our duty to put strong drink as far away from these as we can, and make it just as easy as we can for them to do right.

5. Then I will vote three noes for the sake of sober men. women, boys and girls, lest many of them be tempted and fall into the slavery of strong drink.

6. Because the liquor business is wholly wrong from every standpoint. We do not need repeal, but enforcement.

7. Because if Alabama spends her part of the three billion dollar national drink bill, it will take seventy million dollars away from our grocery, clothing, drug, hardware, and other stores. It is an indisputable fact that money spent for strong drink can not be spent for other things. If repeal will bring prosperity it will be to the brewers and the sellers at the expense of all other forms of legitimate business.

8. Because repeal will not promote temperance. When prohibition went into effect there were 177000 saloons in this country. Today, after two years of repeal we have 7,000,000 saloons. This looks like promoting temperance, with a three billion dollar national drink bill in 1934.

"BOUND TO MARRY" TO BE SEEN AT VERMONT SCHOOL FEB. 19

ROCKFORD BRIDGE

funds wisely, and not wastefully.

"We have too much really, worthwhile work that should be done in this county not to get together and outline a program of work that will be of lasting benefit to the entire citizenship of Chilton," Mr. Cox stated. A representative of the Fera recently called on Probate Judge J. Lee Smith and Mayor C. Fenn Jones, soliciting their cooperation in suggesting projects in this county that will be worthwhile.

Mr. Cox expressed the opinion that it will be possible to secure a bridge across the Coosa river at Log Cabin Beach, linking Chilton and Coosa Counties. He said that he had talked with H. H. Houk. chief State Highway department engineer, regarding the project. Mr. Houk, he said, estimated that a concrete bridge spanning the river a short distance above the present crossing can be erected for approximately $150,000.

In all likilihood, he continued, the remainder of the Clanton-Selma highway will be paved during this administration. Too, now is an appropriate time for the completion of the Clanton airport and the Clanton drainage projects. These are both worth much to the county and much work has already been done on them.

The bridge spanning the coosa river would be approximately 1100 feet long. connecting the bluffs on each side of the river. The State Highway Department and the Alabama Relief Department have worked out a plan whereby they estimate that it will be possible to hard-surface State roads for about $6,000 per mile. It was also suggested at the Commissioners Court meeting Monday that perhaps it will be possible under this plan to pave the Rockford Ferry road. The erection of a bridge over the river and paving this piece of road would do much to lessen the traffic on the Birmingham-Montgomery highway south of Clanton. Likewise the paving of the Clanton-Selma road will have the same effect.

Another project which the State Highway Department is interesting itself in is the elimination of dangerous railroad crossings. In the United States during last year, 36,000 persons were killed and injured at railroad crossings. according to statistics.

Mr. Cox declared that if the people here will help him to show that the county has need for this money, he is sure that Chilton can share liberally and in a beneficial manner.

TAX COLLECTOR CULP ISSUES WARNING TO ALL TAXPAYERS

Tax Collector Will Culp this week issued a warning to the taxpayers of Chilton County that they can not expect to have as much extension of time in the payment of taxes this year as they have had in recent years.

Explaining the situation further, Mr. Culp said: "The law under which extension of time for payment of taxes has been made for the past two years has expired. It was a special act of the legislature which was made for only two years duration.

"The collection of taxes now goes back under the regulations of the old law which was in operation before the special law was enacted.

"Under the provisions of the old law, which will apply this year, about April the first will be as long as extension of time can be granted. Therefore, all taxes not paid before that time will have to become subject to the penalties and extra costs provided by law.

"All taxpayers are given this notice in order that they may know of the regulations to be imposed and have an opportunity to take care of their taxes without having the extra costs and penalties of delinquency applied to them.

"I will give every favor I can under the law, but it is not possible for me to make extensions as I have done in the past two years."

To Master Jack Elmore, son of Mr. and Mrs. V. J. Elmore, my hat is off for one of the best cracks I've heard in a long time. Jack, who is still just a little chap, overheard his mother say something about Jack Frost killing some flowers at their home when the weather was at freezing. So, he very nonchalantly remarked that he knew how to prevent such an occurrance. "Put up a sign, mother, that says Jack Frost Detour," little Jack explained. And the Baby Mine editor of The Birmingham News thought it so good that it occupied a position under that heading recently.

Was in Birmingham the other day and in looking over a menu of a popular eating place there, noted they had strawberries with cream priced at 40 cents. Of course being from Chilton County, 40 cents worth of strawberries seemed like a lot of strawberries for one person to eat, so I inquired if they were served in a dish or did that mean enough for six persons.* I was informed the berries were served in a small dish. I took the liberty of inviting those cafe owners down to see us sometime so we could show them some real strawberries for 40 cents. Nope, I didn't order the berries with cream.

To Dr. J. P. Hayes' deceased and well-bred dog "Doc" we extend apologies this week. We don't find any query with the dog, the bird or the fish, but Dr. Hayes sticks to his story despite the many questions he has had to answer about it.

The last time we saw our Representative Charley Cox in Montgomery he was strutting toward the capitol with one of the most elaborately decorated canes (walking sticks to some of you) we have seen in a long time. He informed us he was looking for Col. Hamp Draper to tell him that he would have to move over now since Charley had a brilliant cane, too. Mr. Draper is rapidly becoming known throughout the width and length of the state as the possessor of the most distinctive cane. This cane was presented to him by a group of prisoners and is handmade of brilliant colors with his initials handsomely cut near the top.

SUBJECT OF HEALTH UNIT FOR COUNTY WILL BE PRESENTED

Matter Of Keen Interest Will Go Before Court Of County Commissioners; Chilton Should Not Be Without Unit Any Longer Is View Of Many

By Victor Norris

Repeatedly for a great many years several of Chilton County's physicians and other leading citizens, interested in the health and general progress of the county, have sought to have maintained here a full-time health unit. So far these efforts have been unsuccessful, but it is understood that the battle crys are again echoing and that the mater will be taken up with the Commissioners Court at an early meeting, the cooperation of its membership sought, and perhaps ere long Chilton will take its place along with 52 other counties in Alabama that are taking this precaution for the protection of its citizenship.

It is not known for certain whether the matter will be submitted to the commissioners at their next regular meeting, but several interested in the proposition have expressed the belief that the members of this court will be in favor of the installation of a unit here and think that the time is now ripe for its discussion.

Since Chilton is one of only 15 counties in the State which does not maintain a regular health unit, those who favor the installation of one lament that we should be so backward in the protection of the health of the county, especially the youth—when this county ranks near the top in many other respects. Few things could be of so great importance to the whole county as the health of its citizenship, they point out, and it is lamenable that this matter should be neglected longer.

Your County Officials

A Brief History of Newly Elected Officers

Earle Thomas, Senator, and C. B. Cox, Representative

All eyes are centered on Chilton County's team in the Alabama Legislature. Senator Earle Thomas and Rep. Charlie Cox are expected by their hundreds of friends in Chilton County and throughout the State to do big things in Montgomery during their terms.

Although most the recent session was spent in passing "pet masures" for Gov. Bibb Graves, who was leaving no stone unturned in getting necessary legislation passed to assure the national government of Alabama's desire to cooperate, and thus secure her share of the federal appropriations to the South.

Both Senator Thomas and Representative Cox declared at the close of this session that they will sponsor a few bills, which they believe will be beneficial to this county and to the State at large, during the next session.

Senator Thomas has a few ideas up his sleeve that he thinks will be of great importance to the educational system, and Mr. Cox, true to his profession, has an idea for spending the public's money more wisely in building and maintaining roads. All in all these men promise to make a worthwhile team.

Born and reared in Butler County, Senator Thomas came to Chilton County about ten years ago as instructor High School, and he has made an enviable record in this capacity. He is the first member of his family to ever become involved in politics.

Returning from an almost three years service in the World's War, 12 months in France, Senator Thomas began work in a steel mill in Chicago, but soon decided to return to his native Alabama. Shortly after reaching home, he entered school at Troy Normal, later going to the University of Alabama as a pre-medical student. But the training of a childhood on the farm was too strong and he left the University and enrolled at Auburn, where he was graduated in 1925.

Unlike Mr. Thomas, Representative Cox was born and reared in Chilton County, and although he has built roads in practically every county in the State and in 15 other states, he has never removed his citizenship from this county.

Born and reared in the Macedonia community, the son of the Rev. and Mrs. W. S. Cox, Charlie spent his youth plowing and going to the public schools of the county. However, he maintains that bankers and contractors gave him most of his education.

He was married on January 1, 1901, to Miss Mary Young, who is also well known throughout the State. They have

WILL BE NEW AND UP TO-DATE

Work Will Begin Within Thirty Days Says C.W. Wade, Owner

Along with several other building projects that promise to do much to bring back prosperity for Chilton County during 1935, Clanton will be the recipient of still another improvement in this classification, according to C. W. Wade, Sr., operator of the Wadesonian theatres, who recently made known his intentions of erecting a new, modern building to house his shows in Clanton.

The lot located between the D[illegible] Cafe and the Alabama Harness & S[illegible] Shop, on the highway, has been purchased by Mr. Wade from [illegible] Gowan and will be the site of the new theatre.

Work on the erection of the new building will begin within the next 30 days, Mr. Wade said. This is to be one of the most modern theatres in any small city in the State, he announced, and will have a seating ca-

CHILTON BOYS MAKE RECORD CROP ON REHABILITATION FARM

When Sam Mims, of Chilton County, became afflicted his two young sons, Cecil and Elwood Mims, took over the responsibility of making a crop and supporting the family. Their Rehabilitation crop was outstanding last year. On 20 acres they made 200 bushels of corn, 100 bushels of sweet potatoes, 20 bushels peas and 100 gallons of sorghum syrup. They paid back advances of the Rehabilitation division by working on roads in Chilton County. Mr. Mims said he was "downright proud of his sons." The Rehabilitation Corporation and Uncle Sam are proud of them, too.

McKEE-TEEL WEDDING IS SOLEMNIZED LAST THURS.

The marriage of Miss Evelyn McKee to Mr. J. L. Teel, both of Clanton, was quietly solemnized last Thursday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. L. McKee, the bride's parents, in Clanton. The Rev. W. S. Cox read the ceremony.

Following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Teel left for their new home in Clanton, which had just been completed. They are both well known [illegible] of persons in Clanton and Chilton County. Mrs. Teel is the [illegible] daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. L. McKee and Mr. Teel is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Teel, and a well known young Clanton business man.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Teel are former students of the Chilton County High School, in Clanton, and are known to hundreds of persons in all sections of the county.

O. M. Webb Assistant Mgr. Of Elmore Stores

Because of the rapid expansion of the business of the V. J. Elmore chain of 5c, 10c and $1 Stores, which has grown from a single store in Clanton a few years ago to more than a dozen stores that are spotted throughout the entire state, O. M. Webb, former district manager of the north Alabama territory, has been promoted to assistant-general manager of the chain and is now stationed in the Clanton office.

Mr. Webb, a native of this county, has been connected with the Elmore firm almost since its organization. He was one of the first managers, beginning work in the Clanton store in 1926 when he completed his studies at the Chilton County High School.

Since leaving Clanton, he has been stationed in north Alabama, and for some time has been in charge of the activities of the stores in that section. Increased work in the Clanton office necessitated the naming of an assistant to Mr. Elmore, it was explained, and Mr. Webb was chosen for his outstanding ability and long years of service with the firm.

Webb is the son of S. J. M. Webb, chairman of the Chilton County Board of Education, and is widely known throughout this section. He has removed his family to Clanton where he will make his home.

It Pays To Trade In Clanton

Every buyer of merchandise wants to get as much as possible for his money. Sometimes a far pasture looks greener, and he goes away to spend the money he earned at home. Circumstances being what they are in Chilton County, we believe that without exception, it is poor economy to send money that was earned in Chilton County away without making at least a sincere effort to obtain desired goods close by.

People of this county are creators of wealth. Agricuture is the basic industry. We have been wonderfully blessed with fertile soil and other natural resources. These things will furnish the economic needs of the people if wisely used. But they are not being wisely used when the returns are promptly sent away to some other community as quickly as made. Dollars like that are not serving Chilton County, even though produced here, but are contributing to the well being of some distant community.

Money earned here should serve not only the original producer, but many others. It is an absolute necessity in order to maintain our prosperity. If we expect to keep our markets here, if payrolls are to be met, if the ordinary functions of business are to grow, we must make the money produced locally, do, not alone one job, but DOZENS before it eventually goes to some other community.

This is not a matter in which only one class of citizens is concerned. Every individual in Chilton County who earns a dollar to spend has a solemn duty to make that dollar do something for the community which gave him the opportunity of earning that dollar. It's not a question of doing a favor for your home merchant or business man—it's a question in which the spender is as vitally concerned as anyone. You can't keep on producing cotton and corn on your farm without putting something back into that farm. Not one bit more can you keep on having the opportunity of earning money in a county or community without putting something into it in return.

Almost every conceivable kind of merchandise can be had locally. Merchants in Clanton and other towns of Chilton County carry everything from seeds to tractors, clothes of every description, foods and groceries of every kind. There is no need to buy merchandise away from home. It can be had here. The prices are no higher—the service is immediate. You don't have to make a long trip, or wait several days. You see what you are getting. It means satisfaction. It means that the opportunity you have of earning money will be perpetuated for you and your children, and their children. There is no good reason why every person should not trade with his own folks. IT PAYS! And it will keep on paying for generations yet to come.

Don't send your money away when you can make it serve you as well at home. The distant bargain has a false glitter. You are killing the goose that lays your eggs!

A Call On Our Churches

If wars are to cease on earth it should be by the efforts of the churches. It will be by the constant day in and day out preaching of the churches of the world showing not only its evils and its horrors but its uselessness, its failures.

It is a tremendous undertaking to change the mental outlook of the millions of peoples of the world on the subject of war, to show that reason finally wins when war eventually fails. But the truth will in the end succeed. Its expansion will gather momentum and gain in speed as the churches gradually see the light.

The trouble has been heretofore that the churches themselves have not been peace minded. But that is changing and when that is accomplished the mind of the world will follow.—Haleyville Advertiser-Journal.

Collective Action Means Progress

Farmers, when they organize farm co-operatives, are not trying unproven experiments. They are simply following an old and sound precedent.

A great measure of America's industrial progress can be laid to cooperation. The corporation form of business, for example, is pure cooperation—it makes it possible to pool the resources and abilities of many persons in an effort to develop and sell a product or a service to the benefit of all.

Labor, through unions, embraces co-operative activity, which has done much to raise wages, shorten working hours and better conditions.

In the past, only agriculture has lagged behind the trend. The result was disorganization in the best of times—and chaos in times of depression. There was no adequate check on production. There was no successful way of adapting supply to demand. distribution was wasteful and inefficient. And farm progress and prosperity suffered accordingly.

Great agricultural cooperatives, such as the Dairymen's League Cooperative Association of New York, have taken the guess-work out of dairying—they are putting it on a sound, scientific basis. They base their activities on proven business principles—and demonstrate that collective action means the farmer's economic salvation. They are sounding the death knell to the old laissex-faire days on the farm—and the modern farmer, who works with and for his co-ops, is going forward.

Practical Old-Age Insurance

One of the most important phases of the life insurance business during the past decade has been a drop in the percentage of life insurance funds going to the beneficiaries of dead policyholders, accompanied by a rise in the percentage going to living policyholders. Where, twenty years ago, a majority of payments were for death claims, the majority is now for annuity payments, matured endowments, dividends and disabilty benefits which are collected by the person who bought the policy in the first place and whose thrift and foresight kept it in force.

During 1934, for example, United States life insurance companies distributed the gigantic sum of $2,700,000,000 to policyholders and beneficiaries. Of this total, $1,800,000,000 went to living policyholders, and but $900,000,000 to beneficiaries.

This accentuates the changed aspect of life insurance—the people no longer regard it as being merely a way of protecting dependents in case of the wage-earner's death. They regard it as being a definite investment, as a means of protectng themselves in old age. They use it to educate children, to build estates, to guard against business reverses, and for a multitude of other necessary purposes.

The upshot of this change is the gradual building up of an economic bulwark that will be a great protection against unknown exigencies of the future.

Virtue Of Patience

One of the greatest aids to worthwhile accomplishment is the quality of patience. This applies to laying the foundation for a successful career in any profession or business. The person who depends upon short cuts and quick-action devices frequently meets with bitter disappointment, if not disgrace.

This is particularly true with respect to the accumulation of wealth, as many misguided individuals now behind prison bars can regretfully testify. Many men who go wrong through speculation with other people's money do not set out deliberately to be criminals, but they think they see an opportunity to make a "killing" and take the chance. They intend to replace the appropriated funds if they win, but they usually lose in the end. Some instances are related by a recent writer on thrift:

One man used money not his own in what he considered a sure-thing real estate deal. The venture failed and one more was added to the suicide roll. Another lost in playing the market, he stole from his firm, lost again and went to prison. Innumerable cases like these might be cited.

On the other hand, the patient plodder, who builds upon a sound and honest foundation, frequently achieves success which is denied to the spectular plunger. In fact, patience is generally one of the surest aids in the accomplishment of any worthy purpose.

I was hurrying toward the home of mychildhood in a blinding rain and ran into right angles with the old Line road. I knew that one end of the road went toward home and the other end went in the opposite direction. I had not traveled this road in thirty years and now the sun was hid and I had no sense of direction. I stopped my car and studied the directions as best I could and then pushed ahead. I could recognize nothing along the way and after traveling a distance of two miles I stopped at a farm house and made inquiry. To my chargin I found that I was going in the opposite direction intended. Did I continue my journey? No. On finding out my mistake I turned around and went back in the right direction. Many a time along the way of life we come face to face with the difficulty of knowing the right direction from the wrong direction, and many times we find that we have made a mistake. What we thought to be right is not right. What shall we do about it? Many express regret for the mistake made and then drive on. When you find that you have made a mistake, turn around and travel in the right direction. That is the only way that leads up to home and heaven.

With a companion I was climbing the mountain side and far up on the tallest crest we saw a camp house. We wanted to reach that house and set out to find the path that would lead us to it. We sought much but there was no beaten path leading up to the camp. Not finding the object of our search we set out over an untrodden path and climbed to the top of the crest. We have a disposition to lift our ideals high. We place them far up the hill of life and look toward them with a passion to climb up there and camp with our ideals. We must climb to them over paths untrod by any one, and many times we must climb over boulders in order to reach the city of our ideals. There are no paved highways that lead up to our ideals. When a man strikes camp with his ideals he has climbed hard.

A friend of mine related to me what he saw in a large chain factory. He said that he observed the men at work and noticed carefully the making of links and the welding of the chain. Over in one corner of the shop he saw a large machine that he knew had nothing to do with the making of chains and ventured to ask the purpose of this machine. He was told that this was the testing machine. When a chain was completed it was put in this machine to test out its strength and to locate any defect. Should an inferior link get into the chain that link would snap under the test of the machine. There was a famous boiler maker who was asked the question, "Have any of the boilers that you have made ever bursted?" "No," replied the man, "but I have wished that one would burst, if no one would be hurt, so that I might know their weak places." Have you ever tested yourself out to locate the weak places in your life? I have seen men with a weakness for drink or some other sin, and yet they would risk themselves on hunting trips and wild parties. If they had been half wise concerning their weak places they would have known that they would have snapped under test. The Christian religion is the best machine on earth to test out and to reveal our weak places. Foolish indeed is that man who knows his weak places and then makes no effort to repair that weakness.

I went into a sick room and the suffering patient made an open confession of his condition. Said he: "I am a mighty sick man. Every bone in my body is hurting and I am suffering from my head to my foot. Oh, doctor, I am a mighty sick man." He kept up that confession as long as I was in the room. While I was with him the nurse came in with his medicine and he sent her out of the room and refused all efforts in his behalf. He confessed that he was a mighty sick man but he refused every remedy and every effort that was offered for relief. In my travels as a preacher I have found many a sinner confessing that he is a sinner. They say to me, "Doctor, I am a sinner. I am in a bad way for this life and the next life." Confession is not enough. It matters not how honestly a sinner may confess, if he refuses to use the remedy there is no hope. Take God's medicine if you want cure.

Enterprise School News

It has been some time since you all have heard from this school but there has been so much sickness and deaths in the community until no one has had time to think about writing to the paper.

There has been two school houses burned in this county in the last few weeks, but here we are hoping our school house won't burn. When a school house burns it is very unfortunate for the children, parents, teachers and in fact the whole state, so from now on let's be more particular with our fire.

* * *

The opportunity school being taught at this place by Miss Thelma Pierce should take the attention of more people than it really does. I know there are more people in this community who need to attend. So people, let's stop, look, and listen and get some pep started and start to school next Monday night. Don't enroll and just come one night or two and stop, but come until the school expires. Let's not only think of helping ourselves but our community and teacher.

Our boys went to Vermont last Friday week and defeated them by a score of 15-10. We are very proud to know we have such sportsmanship at good ole Enterprise. We have won eight games this season and are hoping to win some more, which we are glad indeed to say. Our boys really have the team work and pep.

There was a school meeting at this place last Friday night for the parents and teachers. It was especially important for the parents. All the parents of the school should have been present and heard the business of the school discussed. But on account of a death in the community it was not attended as it should have been. But we are hoping to have better attendance next time. We are still greatly in need of a water system in the building. So, if any individual has a penny, nickel, dime or anything you would like to donate toward it, get in touch with one of the trustees. They are Mr John Devaughn, Mr. A. L. Bearden and Mr. Lloyd Martin

Hoping to see you all again soon.

SYMPATHY

The death angel visited the home of Mr and Mrs. Hugie Williams and took away their precious little son, Jerome who was loved by all who knew him. Our loss is heaven's gain. Think of Jerome not as dead but as living on. For here, there is no abiding stay. Look to the future where the sundered ties of earth are reunited.

Into each life some rain must fall,
Some grief provoke a tear;
But through the parting clouds at last
The rainbow will appear.
So may the sunshine filter through
The clouds that overshadow you.

May God's richest blessings abide with the bereaved ones.

"Pains Gone," Says Lady, After She Had Taken CARDUI

In describing how her health improved after she had taken Cardui, Mrs. Ralph R. Courtney, of Wytheville, Va., said: "I was run-down and suffered from pain in my side. I wanted to feel well and get rid of the pain in my side, so I sent for Cardui and began taking it. By the time I had taken three bottles of Cardui, I was feeling much better. The pains had gone. I am very glad to recommend Cardui to other young women." . . . Thousands of women testify Cardui benefited them. If it does not benefit YOU, consult a physician.

FAVORS REPEAL

Editor, Chilton County News:

Will you give space in your paper to say a few words in favor of repea?

God made whiskey when he made everything else, and said it was good. Jesus made wine and used it. The last communion that Jesus had with his disciples He used wine, and told them to use it until he came again. The people that make and use wine are followers of Jesus.

Jesus never advocated a law that would imprison anybody. The devil has always had laws that would imprison Jesus and his followers.

The prohibition law sends Jesus to the pen every day. "As much as ye did it unto one of the least of these, my little ones, ye did unto me." Under such pretense the churches are going to peaces and morality has collapsed, but whiskey is going in high. It is being made in every swamp, sold in every town, and on every road. Boys and girls go out nights riding and buy whiskey at every stop. It trains boys and girls to tell lies and swear lies to protect the people that sell the whiskey. It would take a page of your paper to tell what whiskey is doing in dry Alabama. but I must close.

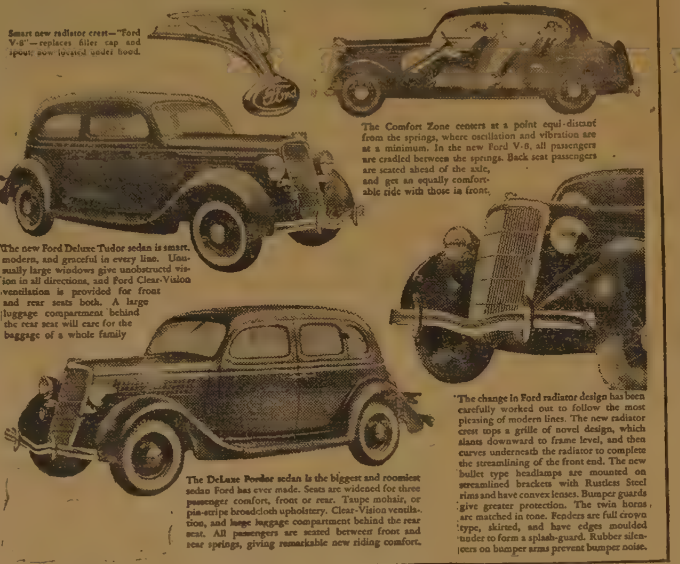
NEW 1935 FORD V-8 FEATURES BEAUTY, COMFORT
—SAFETY GLASS ALL AROUND



Smart new radiator crest—"Ford V-8"—replaces filler cap and spout; now located under hood.

The Comfort Zone centers at a point equi-distant from the springs, where oscillation and vibration are at a minimum. In the new Ford V-8, all passengers are cradled between the springs. Back seat passengers are seated ahead of the axle, and get an equally comfortable ride with those in front.

The new Ford Deluxe Tudor sedan is smart, modern, and graceful in every line. Unusually large windows give unobstructed vision in all directions, and Ford Clear-Vision ventilation is provided for front and rear seats both. A large luggage compartment behind the rear seat will care for the baggage of a whole family

The change in Ford radiator design has been carefully worked out to follow the most pleasing of modern lines. The new radiator crest tops a grille of novel design, which slants downward to frame level, and then curves underneath the radiator to complete the streamlining of the front end. The new bullet type headlamps are mounted on streamlined brackets with Rustless Steel rims and have convex lenses. Bumper guards give greater protection. The twin horns are matched in tone. Fenders are full crown type, skirted, and have edges moulded under to form a splash-guard. Rubber silencers on bumper arms prevent bumper noise.

The DeLuxe Fordor sedan is the biggest and roomiest sedan Ford has ever made. Seats are widened for three passenger comfort, front or rear. Taupe mohair, or pin-stripe broadcloth upholstery. Clear-Vision ventilation, and large luggage compartment behind the rear seat. All passengers are seated between front and rear springs, giving remarkable new riding comfort.

A Ride Will Convince You That Ford Still Leads

Whether it is Beauty to make your car stand out from the crowd, Safety to give you peace of mind in the crowded traffic of busy streets, first cost or economy of operation, the New Ford V-8 of 1935 will convince you of its superiority when put to the test of actual performance. Let us demonstrate these facts to you in any one of the several passenger car models, light pick-up or rugged truck—they are on display at our show rooms ready for you to put them through their paces. Now Is Good Time To Cull Your Chickens

Most every farmer keeps some poultry, and most of you are feeding some cull hens. At this time of the year when the price of eggs is breaking and the price of hens is up you should be thinking about culling out and selling a few of the low and non-producing hens.

Culling is a simple operation if we follow a few simple rules as follows: 1. Cull hens that are molting now. 2. If the hen's comb is pale, shrunken, and scaly, take her out. 3. Pullets that have yellow legs and beak now will probably never pay for the feed it will take to get them into production. 4. If the vent is yellow and puckered, the hen is not laying. 5. If the breast and pelvic bones are close together the hen is not laying.

Clean up your poultry house, spray with old crankcase oil to control mites, and put clean litter on the floor. It is much easier to prevent mites getting into the house than it is to get them out after the house is infested. Just a few warm days now and mites will be bad.

A little sodium flouride dusted on the old setting hen will help control lice, and prevent the death of lots of baby chicks. Do this before the eggs hatch.

The Chilton County Exchange ran a cooperative poultry car last week and bought 17,249 pounds of poultry, paying 424 farmers of the County $2,172.55 in cash.

At different points in the county the following amounts of poultry were purchased:

Maplesville, 1,075 pounds; Verbena, 2.892 pounds; Clanton, 8,898 pounds; Jemison, 4,384 pounds.

This carload of poultry returned to the county a nice sum of money, and too, loading poultry on a car and shipping it clear out of the district will have tendency to hold the local price up. When it is necessary to sell a few hens and fryers during the summer farmers will get a better price.

ISABELLA HOME DEM. CLUB

—o—

Mrs. Earle Thomas was hostess to the Isabella Home Demonstration club Thursday afternoon. February 7th, at her home.

There were nine members present and three visitors. Mrs. Thomas, the president of the club, had charge of the business part of the meeting, after which Miss Pardue took charge, giving a demonstration on Individual Measures, Altering and Fitting a Plain Pattern.

The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. W. T. White. A dress will be cut and fitted on one of the club members. This will be a very interesting demonstration. All members are urged to be present. It was decided to meet Friday, March 15th, instead of the seventh as Miss Pardue is plannning to be away at that time.

After the meeting refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. J. W. Locke.

Chilton Dry Forces Rally Fri. 10 A. M.

—o—

All the dry forces in Chilton County are asked to come to Clanton Friday morning at ten o'clock for a rally in the fight for children, women, good government, soberiety, safeness, business and morality. Mrs. Lamar Smith. President Alabama Womans Crhistian Temperance Union will make a brief address followed by Mrs. Mary Ogden Armour, National Lecturer on Temperance. Mrs. Armour is rightfully called "The Georgia Cyclone" in that with undisputable facts sweeps away every excuse to Repeal Alabama dry laws. This is an opportunity that every citizen should grasp to hear these two nationally known figures. Indifference upon the part of the good citizens of this county may lead to the Repeal of our state dry laws and turn this state over to the element who would debauch its men, women, children for personal gain or for a pittance of revenue promised schools.

Let Friday morning show where we stand on this vital matter.

If the Telephone were Not There!

MANY TIMES each day you reach for the telephone on your desk at the office or in its familiar spot at home. It is an old and trusted friend. You scarcely give a thought to what it means to a busy day.

Yet suppose the telephone were not there! Suppose —for a week—or a month—you could not call anybody by telephone and nobody could call you! The whole machinery of business and the home would be thrown out of gear. Orders would be lost—efficiency and profits reduced. You would be out of touch with your world.

America needs quick, reliable telephone service to get things done in the brisk, crisp American manner. And it enjoys the best service in the world. America leads in telephone service. In relation to population there are six times as many telephones in this country as in Europe and the telephone is used nine times as much.

Greater progress has been made in this country because of the Bell System's one policy, one system and universal service.

CHICOHI CHATTER

This Thursday falls on Cupid's day, February 14. Valentine! So be sure to wrap your heart in cellophane if you wish to escape the perilous darts from the love master's bow. Broken hearts, cracked hearts, pieces of hearts and sweethearts are all flying thru the air! Beware! It's Cupid's Day!

The name Valentine was given to several saints and martyrs of the Christian church of whom the most celebrated of the two are two martyrs whose festivals fall on February 14. The traditional anniversary of their birth has long been observed as a lover's festival and has become known as St. Valentine Day.

On Thursday night of last week, the auditorium of the high school was a scene of pomp and importance, of gayety and festivity. These empty seats of the study hall, the littered tables of the "libe" looked in on the goings on and doin's of the annual Football Banquet. The program was carried out in an unusual order, the entire procedure been labeled the "Score Board," and action resembling that of a football game. Capt. Cecil Jones acted as toast-master and the program was divided into quarters and I'm rather uncertain about the scuffles ensuing, but I heard they had pickled peaches. The proverbial whistle of the game served as the toast-master's usual gavel.

Being so near that season of festivity the beauty of the table was enhanced by Valentine decorations. Favors in the form of paper corsages, blooming with red gumdrops were presented to each lady of each gridiron star.

The welcome address given by the toastmaster was suitably entitled the "Kick-Off." He made haste to welcome all guests, old and new, and dwelt on the importance of the event, and thanked all for the support from the side-lines during the football season, and in conclusion our captain added, "Particularly do I welcome tonight our dates, our lovely ladies, our Betty co-eds, our Valentines." The game ensuing was as follows:

From the Sidelines, Elizabeth Williams.
Toast to the Campus Heroes, Sarah Hollis.
Response, Sydney Reynolds.
Toast to Coach, Osmond Glenn.
Response, Mr. Searcey.
End of first quarter.
"The Cheer Leaders," a dance, Sara Elizabeth Venable, Myrtle Pitts.
Toast to the Faculty, Margaret Davis.
Toast to the Captain, Willis Baker.
Response, Cecil Jones.
Reading, Elizabeth Hogan.
From the Sidelines, Phillip Nelson, Grace Plyler, Wade Alford.
Song, Myrtle Pitts, Sara Elizabeth Venable.
Song, "You've Got to be a Football Hero."
Team Record, Coach Searcey.
End of third quarter.
Awarding of Letters.
Election of Captain.
The School Song.

Frank Hogan was elected captain of the team of 1935, Jack Gillespie being alternate captain. Here, by way of truth, a good time was had by all and so several of the fairer sex have their eyes on gridiron stars. So soon?

Rev. Paul B. Dansby Leaving For Holy Land

The Rev. Paul B. Dansby, young Methodist minister of Crestview, Fla., was in Montgomery Friday for a short visit with his brother, W. T. Dansby, en route to New York City where he will embark on the Italian liner, Conte di Savoia, for a tour of the Holy Land. Mr. Dansby expects to reach Gibraltar on February 19, whence he will go by automobile into Spain. His schedule calls for one day along the French Riveria, after which he will go to Nazareth, Jerusalem, Palestine, Mt. Carmel, the Dead Sea, Egypt, and several other points of interest.

The young minister who is a native of Verbena, will return home about the middle of March. He is a graduate of Birmingham-Southern College and Emory University in Atlanta.

J. E. CONNELL DIES AT HOME IN COOPERS LAST MONDAY

Funeral services for Joheph Edward Connell, 49, who died Tuesday morning at his home in Coopers, were held Wednesday morning at 11 a. m., from the Chestnut Creek Baptist church. The Rev. J. W. Jones, pastor of the church, officiated. Burial was in the churchyard cemetery with Martin & Sons in charge of the services.

Mr. Connell is survived by his widow, five sons, Tloyd, Dalton, Kermit, Herman and Romalus all of Coopers; three brothers and one sister.

Tch! tch!

Friday is looked forward to eagerly anticipated and a red letter day in every schoolmates' life! But it has become even more so, due to the programs representative of a specific class each week. I heard various comments to the effect that the Jr. II Class had surpassed all others in programs for chapel, anyway, that makes me so mad!

The devotional was conducted by Theda Wyatt. Several tap numbers and songs were offered by Sara Elizabeth Venable and Myrtle Pitts. Also the original prairie yodelers, Buster Popwell and Bernice Powell appeared in person. What a day and whatta program.

This is not exactly a poem, but I do hope you'll enjoy reading it as much as I did scribblin.

A Schule-day

Willie Sleeps 'til 7:45, deaf to the pleas of his mother, brother, sister, cook. Gets up, jumps thru some clothes and grabs a hot cakt on his way to schule. It burns him—how strange. Gets to schule one minute and forty seconds after the bell; gotta stay in—too bad. Goes to study hall—sleeps. Goes to class—yawns. Attends chapel—coughs. Goes to 'nother study hall—sleeps but back hurts, not due to precarious position but hardness of bench. Home to lunch, and back to play ring 'round the rosie until the bell, which this time is four minutes late. Why couldn't itive been this morning—against the law. Struggles thru three more classes. stays in. Goes home, eats supper, does homework —and so to bed. It all comes under the heading of being alive.

4-H CLUBS GET TASTE OF CLOTH MANUFACTUR'G

Students See Cotton Leave Fields And Later Made Into Articles

During the past two weeks more than 600 boys and girls of Chilton County have been given a practical lesson in the use of cotton, tracing it from the time it has left the farm until it has been made into cloth.

Through the cooperation of officials of the local Alabama Mills, practically every 4-H club boy and girl in the county were taken on a tour through the mill and a detailed explanation was given on the various stages of processing the product, from the time it is hauled into the mills in the form of baled cotton until it leaves in the form of baled cloth.

From February 5th through the 13th more than 600 boys and girls, all members of the 4-H clubs and students in the county schools were conducted through the mills. In nearly all cases it was a revelation to the students, since only two of the number had ever been inside a cotton mill, although all are familiar with the production of the staple.

Both Mr. J. W. Fant and Miss Ruth Pardue, county farm and home demonstration agents, expressed deep appreciation to the officials of the Alabama Mills for their cooperation.

Groups from the following schools and under the following teachers composed the number:

Maplesville, J. E. Daniel; Thorsby, Mrs. Katie Cobern Williams; Thomas Jr., Miss Clara Vines and G. C. Weldon, Jr.; Mt. Pleasant, J. L. Wilson and Mrs. Dody Wells Browns; Stanton, Howard Boockholdt; Union Grove, Mrs. Nettie Glasscock and G. C. White; Collins Chapel, H. G. Daniel and Samuel Mims; Concord, W. T. Bean and Edward Glasscock; Cooper, H. A. Harris; Vermont, R. B. Johnson.

Routine Duties Occupy Commiss'rs This Week

Most of the regular session of the Commissioners Court, Monday and Tuesday of this week, was devoted to the auditing of claims against the county and other routine business. Few matters of great importance came before the court at this session, which adjourned late Tuesday afternoon until the next regular session, Monday, March 4.

A grant of $200 was voted for the Maplesville High School, on petition, for the purchase of a heating system for the school. Mr. Atchison, who made the motion to give this help, explained that many other schools in the county have received aid from the county since Maplesville has made application, and he declared that it is his understanding that the school is badly in need of a more modern and efficient heating system.

Discussing numerous requests for relief that has become a regular part of the court's business, Judge J. Lee Smith warned the court that the county's overhead must be cut down. He said, however, that he is unable to say just where the knife should be applied, but realized that the treasury is gradually shrinking and something must be done.

Mill Magnate Speaks On Refrendum Feb. 26

Donald Comer, son of Ex-Governor Comer, and Alabama Mill magnate, in an appeal last Sunday to keep the repeal referendum free from personal animosities and bitterness voiced his opposition to Repeal and the licensing of strong drink in Alabama in strong words that should make every business man, and every good citizen think carefully about how he votes.

Mr. Comer said:

"The Legislature of Alabama has provided the machinery that is to permit the citizens of this state to express their wishes on the continuation or not, of our present dry laws," said Mr. Comer. "The campaign is going to be short, and I hope it will be free from those things which tend to stir up personal animosity and bitterness.

"In discussing this matter hertofore, I have always recognized that friends may, and do differ as to the best way to handle this question. The argument that has least appealed to me, however, has been that of license and tax money to flow into government treasuries for the privilege of making, distributing and selling intoxicating beverages. It always has appeared to me inconsistent to speak of educating against the harm of alcohol, when at the same time the state is, for dollars, licensing the traffic in that very thing.

"I will always vote against legalizing for dollars, the making and selling of beverages that intoxicate and brutalize. I shall always vote against the state making this traffic respectable by license, and I am perfectly willing to bear my share of any additional taxes that may come because of this position."

Baker Jr. School News

The Liberty Hill Quartet program was a success Friday night. It was enjoyed by everyone present. If any more schools are wanting some kind of an entertainment for their school they certainly would not make a mistake in getting the Liberty Hill Quartet to prepare them a program.

The Cedar Chest was given away according to promise. The prizes were given to the following persons: First prize (cedar chest) Miss Minnie Baker; Second prize (bedspread) Mrs. Lloyd Patterson; Third prize (laundry and shoe bag) Miss Annie Lee Bates; Fourth prize (nest of pillows) Miss Willie Merle Lockhart; Fifth prize (table cloth and napkins), Mr. Ted Littlejohn.

This contest was spoosored by the P.-T. A. They realized a nice little sum of money. The P.-T. A. members wish to thank everyone who participated in his contest. We wish to assure you that your interest in our school is appreciated very much.

Vote No! No! No! On February 26th

Think for yourself, if a wet promise that if we repeal our liquor laws there will be no saloons. In every state in this nation where the liquor laws have been repealed the old fashioned saloon has come back.

The United States Department of Justice shows that there were 177,000 saloons when prohibition was ushered in. The Internal Revenue Department of the Government shows that on June 30, 1934, there were over 700,000 saloons, or four times as many as there were in pre-prohibition days. In addition to the open saloon, it can be bought in most any public place, as hotels, cafes, and filling stations, etc.

The state liquor control system is now being tried in Virginia. The first four months intoxication has increased on an average of 71.1 per cent in thirteen principal cities, and driving while drunk has increased an average of 53.3 per cent. Bristol, Pulaski, and York counties have already voted to dispense with the state control system.

Vote "No" on all three of the propositions because it is wrong to encourage in any way any business that destroys or impairs physical, mental, or moral health, happiness and prosperity of a people.

Vote "No" because the liquor business is wrong in principle and practice; that is it is wrong both morally and economically.

Vote "No" because it is wrong for the state to license a wrong, or go into the liquor business, or seek to finance its affairs with liquor money.

Vote "No" because it is poor economy to get a dollar for revenue, and pay out two dollars in costs.

Vote "No" because the ones you have heard talking on the other side either drink it, or want to drink it, or hope to make money out of the ones who do drink it.

Vote "No" because the church is against it.

Vote "No" as it should be made hard for the person who does wrong, and easy for them that do right.

Vote "No" because it is better to do right, than be popular with liquor folks.

Vote "No" because you live with your conscience, look folks in the eye, and stand before God in the last.

Vote "No" because the Blessed Book says, "Woe unto him that giveth his neighbor drink, that puttest the bottle to him, and makest him drunken (Hebrew 2:15) "Look not upon wine when it is red. At last it biteth like a serpent and stingeth like an adder (Proverb 23, 31, and 32). "Abhor that which is evil; cleave to that which is good." (Romans 12:19. The above words written centuries before there was such a think as distilled liquor. What would the inspired writers say about it today?

Seed Store Makes Nice Improvement

To visitors at the Clanton store of the Southern Seed & Plant Company, many changes greet the eyes. The building has recently been renovated and the complete line of seeds and plants that form the regular stock of the institution are displayed in a manner that appeals to those who are in the market for farm necessities.

Rows of shelves, lining each side of the building have been installed, and many varieties of seeds formerly kept in bulk in various storage capacities are now exhibited on these shelves in glass containers.

Many other features of improvement have been installed, all of which contribute to a more thorough service to the firm's patronage, according to Evan Parrish, manager.

Complete Diet Is Needed By Plants

Experts Say Your Crops Require Rarer Elements Just As Children And Stock Demand Vitamins

As a result of incessant experiment over the past several years, soil scientists and others interested in better crops for Southern farmers, are pointing out today that crops are just as needful of a completely balanced ration as children.

It has long been known that a plant is unable to make healthy growth on nitrogen alone. There must be potash. There must be phosphate. Now it is being shown by the authorities that these three factors, considered all-important in the past, must be supplemented by a large number of the rarer elements—the so-called impurities such as iodine, calcium, magnesium, strontium, boron, lithium, sodium and many others.

Emphasizing the importance of the impurities, the well-known publication Scientific American, which deals with scientific discoveries and advancements, declared, "a pure food and drug act for plants would be a death warrant to all living creatures." Chilean Nitrate of Soda advertising which appears regularly in this newspaper, dwells upon the vital impurities which, because of its natural origin, this old original soda contains. The importance of these impurities, in the growth and development of plants, is compared with that of the various vitamins in the growth and development of people and animals.

are pretty much alike!

● Strange as it may seem, your own children and your own crops aren't so different. When a child eats too large a proportion of artificially refined foods, there is danger of lack in vitamin B, so essential to growth and health. If he doesn't get vitamin A, he "catches" infectious diseases. Too little vitamin C, and other diseases result.

And with your crops, the so-called impurities are like vitamins for children—absolutely necessary to healthy growth and normal development.

Chilean Natural Nitrate supplies the vital impurities—in Nature's own balance and proportion. Calcium, iodine, strontium, boron, potassium, sodium, lithium—they're all there, to make your crops healthy and profitable.

Protect yourself by saying "Chilean" when you order your nitrate. Two kinds—Champion (granulated) and Old Style. Both are genuine. Both are Chilean, and both have the vital impurities.

Mt. Pleasant School News

Mt. Pleasant basketball boys won another game Friday from Calera Jr. High with the score of 29 to 11. This makes the 11th victory for them without defeat thus far.

Coach J. C. Glasscock has done an excellent job of coaching this season. Taking only one regular player from last year's squad, he has been successful in building a winning team from otherwise inexperienced material.

Mt. Pleasant does not have any outstanding star this year, because each player has been a star in his own position. The team is very evenly matched. The following make up the squad: Earl Melton, George Chambers, forwards; Julius Traywick, guard and center; Chester Jones, Wilton Massey, Hubert Duke, guards. Since mid-term exams, Vernon Collins, last year's center, has been eligible to play.

Following is their commendable record for this season: At Mt. Pleasant, 15, Jemison Town team 11; Mt. Pleasant 25, at Coopers Jr. High, 5; Mt. Pleasant, 29, at Union Grove Jr. High, 18; at Mt. Pleasant, 32, Cooper, 2; Mt. Pleasant, 32, at Billingsley High, 29; at Mt. Pleasant, 38, Vermont Jr., 5; Mt. Pleasant, 25, at Collins Chapel, 12; at Mt. Pleasant, 25, Billingsley High, 14; at Mt. Pleasant, 20, Thomas Jr. High, 7; Mt. Pleasant, 8, at Calera Jr. High 5; at Mt. Pleasant, 29, Calera Jr. High, 11.

Cotton Program Will Start Soon

Auburn, Ala.,—The 1935 cotton adjustment program which will net Alabama farmers over $10,000,000 in rental and benefit payments during the year, will be launched in Alabama within the next few days. advises Dr. L. N. Duncan, director of the state extension service.

Farmers in every county of the state have already elected their cotton committeemen to serve during the year. County agents also have been furnished rules and regulations which they will pass on to the committeemen within a short time. The county and community committeemen will then carry the program directly to the other cotton farmers.

Dr. Duncan urges all county agents, committeemen and others to take all necessary steps to effectively and efficiently carry the benefits of the program to every cotton farmer during the year.

HEALTH UNIT

may be derived from this service, is practically impossible since they are so many. One of the most outstanding perhaps, is prevention of communicable diseases. Protection to the general health of school children by regular examinations, too, can not be overvalued. In the majority of cases, these children will never receive a thorough physical examination, unless collapse with some dread disease makes it necessary. Often dangerous ailments could be prevented with early discovery and treatment.

A better check can be kept of all statistical information that would be valuable in the treatment of diseases in the county. In counties where no health unit is maintained, it is never possible to accurately determine the extent to which its people are suffering from maladies. and without the protection of quarantine these diseases spread throughout whole sections when otherwise they could be checked with the first few cases.

Dr. J. N. Baker, State health officer, recently stated that before 1914, when the present health organization was first begun, much preventable illness and many premature deaths were caused by hookworm infestations, malaria, typhoid fever and other intestinal infections. In counties where health units are maintained there has been a rapid decrease in these diseases, he said.

The health unit is usually composed of a full-time county health officer, who must be a qualified physician; one full-time nurse, whose duty it is to carry on such part of the work as is best suitable to her training and ability; a full-time sanitation inspector, who is concerned with both urban and rural sanitation, and an office secretary.

Maintenance of this type of organization costs from $7,000 to $9,000 annually, which is shared between the State Health Department and the local governmental agencies. It is understood that the towns in the county will be asked to lend their cooperation in securing this service.

A very well defined program of activities is followed in an effort to obtain the maximum benefit at a minimum cost. Embraced in this program are the following major activities:

"1. The control of the soil pollution diseases—typhoid fever, dysentery and hookworm. The campaign against these robbers of Alabama's coffers embraces the installation of proper sanitary conveniences, the protection of water supplies, and the administration of typhoid vaccine.

"2. The control of the acute communicable diseases—smallpox, scarlet fever, measles, mumps, whooping cough, and diptheria—by vaccination inoculation, and isolation: the control of malaria by screening, draining of mosquito breeding places, oiling where drainage or like procedures are impossible; and the administration of quinine lastly, the suppression of the social disease. That this last group may be eventually eradicated from Alabama is the hope that forms the foundation of the venereal clinics that have been instituted in many towns and cities in every county of the State.

"3. Second in importance only to the control of the soil pollution diseases is the measure of protection offered mothers in the hygiene of maternity and infancy through the ministrations of kind and sympathetic nurses; the regular and systematic examination of school children; the inculcation of proper health habits; and the medical examination of adults.

"4. That these major activities may yield the results one has just right to expect, a program of education and publicity is conducted that the benefits of health protection may be known to all."

When his father, who gave chase trying to stop the mule. reached his son the life had been completely battered from his body. He was badly mangled and it is believed that he was dead before he was shaken free of the traces.

. The youth had been plowing a short distance from his home, but when he unhitched the mule from the plow he attempted to mount its back to ride to the barn. He slipped and fell, becoming entangled in the chain traces which had been thrown over the animal's back.

Besides his parents he is survived by one brother, one sister, and two half-brothers, all of the Samaria community.

eight children—five girls and three boys.

During his career as a construction engineer and contractor, Mr. Cox has perhaps built more road in this State than any other one man. His work has carried him into every county in Alabama and into fifteen other states. He is said to know more people than any other man in the State.

During Governor Graves' former administration. Mr. Cox served as construction supervisor of convict road construction, and is one of the Governor's closest friends.

Senator Thomas is also married and is the father of four children—three girls and one boy. Before their marriage, Mrs. Thomas was Miss Hattye Laney, of Tallapoosa County.

These men form an interesting team, which in all probability will do much progressive work for the entire State of Alabama and also for their county of Chilton.

pacity of 600 (about double that of the Wadesonian) and will be equipped with all modern conveniences for the patrons, including an attractive lobby with tile floors, lounging rooms for both men and women that will be attractively furnished, and many other improvements.

Discussing the project, Mr. Wade said that he is building for the future, and does not expect to spare expense in giving the people of Clanton a theatre that they will have every reason to be proud of and will enjoy attending.

Under the present management, C. W. Wade, Sr., and C. W. Wade, Jr., this promises to be a worthwhile improvement to Clanton and Chilton County. During recent months it has not been possible to comfortably accomodate the crowds that are patrons regularly of the Wadesonian.

Although Mr. Wade explained that the plans for the new building have not been completed, it will be a brick structure and will be equipped with every modern convenience that can be desired in a theatre in Clanton. Better seats. with leather upholstery, will be installed, assuring patrons of the greatest comfort while enjoying the screen or stage entertainment.

Purchasing pictures from seven leading production companies, the Wadesonian has long been giving the theatre-going public of Chilton County much for their money. Often outstanding pictures are seen in Clanton before they are brought to larger cities in the State. This interest in the public's entertainment will still be maintained in the new location.

With work beginning at an early date, Mr. Wade said that he expects to have the building completed and ready for a formal opening by mid-summer. More detailed plans will be released as soon as they are available, he said.

INTEREST NOT HEATED OVER REFERENDUM

Small Concern Is Noted On Coming Election For Vote On Whiskey

As the date draws nearer for the people of Alabama to express their desires regarding the legalization of intoxicating beverages, within the borders of this state, the forces on both sides of the question are perfecting their organizations and sounding the battle cries.

A minimum amount of interest has been manifested in the proposition in Chilton County, though the drys seemed to have the edge on the wets in carrying forward the fight. However, several who favor Repeal have come into the limelight this week and expressed their opinions.

The drys have perfected a strong organization in this county and are confident that on February 26th, Chilton County will line up with the dry columns. Several speakers have visited the county and spoke against Repeal in any form.

Last Saturday, Mrs. Mary Smith Armour, "the Georgia Cyclone," spoke at the court house, urging the less than 100 persons who attended "not to give an inch to the liquor traffic" and to vote three noes on Febrhary 26.

Mrs. Armour was presented by Mrs. Lamar Smith, president of the Alabama W.M.U., who in turn was introduced by Dr. S. J. Ezell, pastor of the Clanton Baptist church.

Mrs. Armour, who said that she has covered 29 counties in Alabama within the past three weeks, declared that there can be no half-way measures in [illegible] liquor business. One must either [illegible] wet or dry, she said, terming "modi[illegible]ation" a mere smoke screen which [illegible] wets hope to use to fool the good [illegible]ple of this state into voting for [illegible] return of whiskey with all its de[illegible]achery.

The opinion on the street seems about equally divided. The drys aver [illegible] Chilton County will never go wet, [illegible] those who favor a change in the [illegible] laws declare that the wets are [illegible] sitting still and will do their talk[illegible] on election day.

CHECK IS MADE ON BOOKS OF SUPERINTEND'T

Auditors Praise System Of Bookkeeping Used By Luther Little

The outlook for Chilton County sharing liberally during the coming months in future federal aid allocations seems favorable. Federal auditors recently made a thorough investigation of the condition of the educational system in this county with the purpose of determining the immediate needs of the department.

No definite information is available as to what extent the Chilton County school system will share in new federal allocations, but Supt. Luther F. Little is highly enthsiastic regarding the outlook. He declared that he is confident that schools will be run for a full length term and believes that he will be able to announce the terms under which they will be run within the next few days.

The auditors paid high tribute to the bookkeeping system that is used by the county superintendent's office, declaring that it is one of the best systems they have found in the State.

1935 PROGRAM COTTON PLAN IS UNDERWAY

County Agent Gives Out Information Regarding This Year's Crop

The first steps for putting into effect the 1935 cotton program in Chilton County, under the provisions of the Bankhead Cotton Control Act, were taken Tuesday of this week, when organization meetings were held throughout the county, according to an announcement from County Agent J. W. Fant.

Beginning Tuesday and continuing as long as seems necessary. meetings would be held in every community in the county, giving all old contract signers an opportunity to renew their agreements with the government and permit new growers to share in the benefits of the program.

Several weeks ago the committeemen whose duty it will be to supervise the program in the county, were named and preparations are being made to have the organization perfected and in working order at an earlier date than last year.

Revision in the Act will permit growers in the county to increase their crop from 5 to 10 per cent, according to Mr. Fant, who explained that the county's quota will be about 14.000 bales this year instead of 12,550 for last year. Chilton County reduced its crop, based on the five-year period, 39 per cent.

During the past two years, since the government first took steps to protect the cotton farmer by paying him to reduce his crop more than $300,000 have been paid to farmers in this county, In 1933 the rentals and parities amounted to above $150,000, and last year the farmers of Chilton received $156,604,-96 all of which has been paid with the exception of approximately $5,000 in parities, which is due now.

The same rental rates will be paid this year as last, but parity payments will be 1¼ cents per pound, instead of 1 cent per pound. Those who grew cotton in 1933 or 1934, who could not sign contracts because of the lack of a cotton history, will be permitted to share in the program this year, Mr. Fant explained.

The program will prove even more beneficial this year than during either of the two previous years in the opinion of Mr. Fant, who declared that the farmers of this section are in much better condition than in many years.

THORSBY WORK STARTED

ONE OF OLDEST LANDMARKS OF CLANTON BOWS TO PROGRESS

Wrecking Of Mullins Building To Make Way For Modern Structure Causes Many Old Timers To Recall Stirring Events Of Days Gone By

One of the oldest landmarks in Chilton County, and certainly the oldest in Clanton, is making its bow to progress. Workmen began Tuesday tearing away the old Mullins Building on the corner of Main Street and the Montgomery-Birmingham highway, where it has stood for more than a half-century—a sober reminder of the earlier history of this section.

In its place will soon be seen a modern brick structure, according to J. Watts Moore, former member of the partnership of Mullins & Moore, who said that plans which are still incomplete call for the erection of a modern brick store building on this prominent corner. He said that it has not been definitely decided whether the new building will be one or two stories.

As the work of wrecking this old sentinel got underway Tuesday morning, many oldtimers lined the sidewalks and recounted memories of days when the old frame building was one of the most modern business houses in this section of the country. They swapped yarns of their youth many of which centered around this cornerstone of what is modern Clanton.

Erected more than fifty years ago to house the firm of Earhman General Mercantile Company, it has stood unchanged down through the years, while all around it Clanton has marched in tune with the rapid progress that has made it one of Alabama's best little cities.

More than 40 years ago, the late W. I. Mullins purchased the site and began the operation of the business which has made the name Mullins a household word throughout Chilton County.

As time past, his son-in-law, J. Watts Moore, and son, J. Renfroe Mullins, became connected with the operation of the business. Eighteen years ago the firm became Mullins & Moore, under which name it was operated until a few months ago, when Mr. Moore retired, selling his interest to J. R. Mullins.

Little information regarding the building that will replace the old frame structure is available at this time, Mr. Moore explained. However. he stated that the brick building to be erected will be approximately 85 by 40 feet He was unable to say whether it will be one or two stories. The property is owned by Mrs. J. Watts Moore, W. K. Mullins and Frank Mullins. The permit for the tearing away of the old building and the erection of the new one was issued to Frank Mullins and others, according to records at the office of the city clerk.

The work of wrecking the building is being done by J. B. Farley, well-known carpenter and builder of Clanton.

GRAND JURY RETURNED 20 TRUE BILLS HERE

One First Degree Murder Indictment Is Included In Charges

Members of the Chilton County Grand Jury returned to their homes last Friday night, after having been in session for five days. During that time they investigated 28 cases and returned 20 true bills; 100 witnesses were examined and an inspection of all county properties were made.

Among the 20 true bills returned were one first degree murder and two manslaughter indictments.

Daniel Webster Lockhart. 38, charged with the knife-slaying of his cousin, C. A. Johnson, on a lonely road near Billingsley last October 20, will not likely face trial during this term of court, it is understood.

Bernice Barnes, who was being held on a $300 bond charged with the hammer slaying of Joe Reynolds last October, was freed when the grand jury failed to return a true bill, as was Ezra Moten, negro, charged with the slaying of Walter Williams, negro.

These and others against whom true bills were returned will likely face trial during the next term of court, which will convene Monday, February 25.

Chimney Climbing Not Half Good, Even If The Law Is Hot On Your Heels, Report

Cecil Willis, 25. of Clanton, has no desire to again try to emulate Santa Claus, although that jovial old fellow is perhaps the most admired personage known to the youth of half-dozen nations.

What Cecil particular objects to is the part that calls for entrance and exit via the chimney. Though he has no knowledge of entering a house by descending the chimney, one lesson in exiting in that manner has sufficed to cure all desire to follow up the idea.

For sometime a warrant for Cecil's arrest has been in the hands of the officers of the law of Chilton County. Last Saturday it was learned by Sheriff J. R. Hardy that Willis was at the home of his parents in Clanton. He gathered together his deputies and Officer John Browder, of the Clanton police force. and paid a visit to the Willis home.

The shades were all drawn. The house seemed empty. But soon a furtive glance from a shaded window revealed that someone was home. The men surrounded the house, Sheriff Hardy knocked on the door.

No response—a second, and louder knocking still brought no one to the door, but a scrambling noise was heard in the building. Finally Mrs. Willis, mother of the youth. opened the door, but replied in the negative to inquiries if Cecil was at home.

The officers pushed into the room. The search was carried into every room in the house by Sheriff Hardy and Policeman Browder, while Deputies J. A. Nivens and Smith kept vigil on the outside. In a bedroom one of the officers chanced to lay a suspicious hand on the bed, which in all appearances had been freshly made.

A closer examination revealed that Cecil had ripped open the mattress and crawled inside; the bed being spread up, entirely concealing him. When he was brought into the light. it was at first thought that he had been making preparations for a part in a blackface minstrel for he looked as if he had been dragged up the cnimney and that is just what had happened.

Looking for a place to hide, the youth had rushed up the chimney, but apparently decided that he couldn't remain suspended there while the officers searched the house and had climbed down and next chosen the interior of the bed mattress.

Both the officers and Willis had a good laugh over the incident as they came to jail, where Willis found soap and water and proceeded to rid himself of all traces of his experience.

LEGION HELD FINE MEETING FRIDAY NIGHT

Outstanding Speakers Are Heard By Members Of Local Post

The World War Veterans of Chilton County enjoyed a get-together rally at the court house last Friday night, when a number of prominent American Legion officials delivered addresses upon subjects of much concern to the veterans.

The principal speaker was Col. Pritchard, of Birmingham, Commander of the Alabama Department. He discussed the Bonus question, outlining the stand of the Legion in requesting the government to make immediate and full settlement of the adjusted service certificates. Col. Pritchard expressed the opinion that the Bonus question will be settled, and payment of the certificates authorized in the enactment of a bill now before Congress.

Department Adjutant, D. Trotter Jones, of Montgomery, was one of the visitors, and made a short talk to the veterans. He introduced Commander Pritchard, and presented him for the main address.

Arthur Greenwood, of Birmingham, prominent Legionnaire, and proprietor of Greenwood's Cafe, accompanied Col. Pritchard on his visit to Clanton. Mr. Greenwood addressed the gathering, and stressed the importance of every ex-soldier being a member of the Legion. He made the veterans a proposition whereby they can join by the hen route or the tater route, as he expressed it. "Send me three dollars worth of hens or taters, or anything I can use in Greenwood's Cafe, and I will pay your dues for you." he said.

YOUTH SEEKS REVENGE FOR BEING IN JAIL

Idea Seems Not Profitable As Sentence Is Increased After Escapade

The idea of "getting revenge on the law" didn't prove so profitable for Houston Cleckler here last week. On being returned to jail after he had been given a sentence of from two to three years on a plea of guilty on a charge burglary and larceny Cleckler conceived the idea of wreaking vengeance by destroying the plumbing facilities in the jail.

But when he again was carried before Judge Arthur Glover, an explanation given of his conduct in jail, his sentence was changed to two and one-half years to four years, and he was warned by the court that if he misbehaved further that he would be given the limit.

Sheriff J. R. Hardy estimated the damages done by Cleckler at between $250 and $300. He said that blankets were ripped into strips and flushed into the sewerage, the inside fixtures torn from their mountings, and the shower bath piping ripped from the wall.

One of the prisoners told Sheriff Hardy that Cleckler had bidden a piece of the piping in his cell and said that he intended to knock out the deputy-sheriff when he came to feed him and make his escape.

Roland Morrison, 24, who was sentenced along with Cleckler, declared that he had nothing to do with the "vengeance plan." He was not given additional time. Both men pleaded guilty to charges of breaking into and burlarizing the home of Mrs. Jim Blankenship, in Clanton, recently. They were arrested by Sheriff Hardy and his forces shortly after the alleged crime was committed and have been held in jail since.

Business Continues Upward Trend

The continued trend of business upward is the subject of optimistic observation by Merryle Stanley Rukeyser, well-known economic authority, writing for Universal Service. Mr Rukeyser traces the continued favorable business trend to the rise in farm income and points out that existing farm prices could sustain a national income of 60 billion dollars compared with an actual realized income in 1932 of only 38 billion dollars.

"The impetus for the improvement," writes Mr. Rukeyser, "springs from the improved balanced relationship among the incomes of the various social and economic groups.

"The lift came primarily from the further rise in farm income, which followed the drought.

"If industry and employment continued on the present level, a beneficient spiral will tend to improve the market for a wide variety of farm commodities, such as the products of truck gardening and dairying, which are purely domestic in character, and not subject to international competition, to which wheat, corn, cotton, and to some extent livestock are subjected

"Accordingly, to attain a recovery of farm gross income to the pre-depression level of 12 billion dollars, on which crop economic balance on a high level of national prosperity could be restored, at least half of the 4 billion dollars or more increment needed could come through natural processes from the purely domestic crops, not subject to governmental price-fixing policies.

"The present business improvement, like the gains between March and July 1933 has demonstrated that rising farm prices, which improve economic balance, have the capacity to return idle men to work in the cities. Then fuller employment, creating a beneficient circle for the circulation of goods and services, improves the market for farm products.

"Even existing farm prices, it has been estimated, could sustain a national income of 60 billion dollars compared with an actual realized income in 1928 of 84 billion dollars and a national income produced in 1932 of only 38 billion dollars."

"Thou Shalt Not Kill"

That command is one of the fundamentals of civilization, and yet in the year 1934 the slaughter went merrily on to the tune of 36,000 persons in the United States. Speed, speed, speed has been the motorists' refrain, and let nothing stop the mad race, is the motto—not even a trail literally covered with the dead and dying. Nearly a million, 954,000 to be exact, persons were injured last year in a total of 882,000 motor vehicle accidents, and the total deaths mounted to 36,000. The cold figures stand out stark and vivid against a speeding world grown careless!

Stricter laws should be passed and enforced against the reckless driver. But the greatest remedy must come from the individual motorist's resolve to drive more carefully. It's a strange manner of reasoning that so many drivers, knowing that accidents do happen—fatal accidents—will still believe that by some queer twist of providence, it will not happen to them—until it is too late.

We inoculate our babies against diseases, we keep our children out of water too deep for them, we protect their bodies from bad weather, and then take them out in a car with bad brakes or other defects, speed down the crowded highway at top speed, exposing them and ourselves to a danger which annually takes more lives than we lost in the World War! We are thoughtful!

Washington's Critics

As we in 1935 celebrate the 203rd birthday of George Washington, mindful of his inestimable services to the great Republic of which he is truly called the father, it seems almost incredible that he should have been subjected during his lifetime to the most bitter and violent attacks by military and civil opponents.

Yet such was the case. Perhaps no worthy man in the history of our country was ever so viciously assailed as was Washington, both during the Revolutionary War and throughout his subsequent career as President.

The famous and infamous "Conway cabal," composed of disgruntled officers of the Continental Army, sought to have Washington removed from his position of commander-in-chief in favor of General Gates. The plan failed, but the intrigue of his enemies made Washington's difficult task much harder at a critical time of the war.

Even when he had finished his public life, after serving eight years as President, in fact, upon the very day of his leaving that high office, an editorial appeared in a Philadelphia newspaper containing the following:

"This ought to be a day of jubilee in the United States. If ever a nation was debauched by a man the American nation has been debauched by Washington. Let his conduct be an example to future ages; let the history of the Federal government instruct mankind that the mask of patriotism may be worn to conceal the foulest design against the liberties of the people."

Washington's conduct has been indeed "an example to future ages," but not the horrible example which the Philadelphia scribbler had in mind. In spite of all criticism and abuse, the name and fame of George Washngton have come down to us as an imperishable national heritage.

He was human—he was not a saint—but what he accomplished so far outweighs any minor shortcomngs that his gratful countrymen have written his faults upon the sand and his virtues upon their hearts.

The Referendum

On February 26, 1935, citizens of Alabama will be called upon to pass verdict upon three questions. We venture to say that upon these questions there is not one single voter who isn't reasonably familiar with the problems involved. If there has ever been a matter upon which the voters are competent to decide, this must be it. We do not presume to advise you. You KNOW what YOU think is best. Go to the polls and vote like that is our only admonition. But be sure that you DO go to the polls and cast your ballot. Your responsibility as a good citizen demands that much.

The Unknown Scout

The recent celebration of the 25th anniversary of the Boy Scout movement in America makes it timely to again relate the incident which caused the introduction of scouting into this country. This, briefly, is the story:

A little more than a quarter of a century ago, William D. Boyce, a Chicago publisher, on a European trip, lost his way in a London fog. A young English lad observing the stranger's embarrassment, approached him, and briskly saluting said: "May I be of service to you?"

Mr. Boyce inquired the way to his destination, and the lad accompanied him there, whereupon the publisher offered his young guide a shilling for his service, but the boy said: "I am a Scout, and Scouts do not accept tips for courtesies."

Mr. Boyce was interested and impressed. He asked about the Scouts. His young friend took him to the office of Sir Robert Baden-Powell, founder of the movement, and as a result when Mr. Boyce later sailed for home he brought a trunk full of literature pertaining to scouting. Then he started the Boy Scout movement in America, with the aid of others who recognized the value of such training as it affords.

A medal awarded to "The Unknown Scout," who befriended Mr. Boyce and thus caused the spread of scouting to America, was presented to the International Scout Bureau in London, where it will be kept as a permanent memorial. It is inscribed as follows:

"To the Unknown Scout, whose faithfulness in the performance of the daily good turn brought the Scout movement to the United States of America."

Perhaps never has a simple act of kindness brought forth greater or more beneficial results than that performed by this unknown London Boy Scout.

D. W. Haskew

I was spending the night in the home of a friend and during our conversation he referred to an alley that was back of his house as "The Blind Alley." I became curious to know what he meant and early the next morning I walked down back of the building and turned in at this alley. I strolled on studying for myself the meaning of the man. It was not hard to see his meaning for the alley was closed in on every side. The fences and the shrubbery on either side kept me from looking to the right or the left, while the interlocking limbs kept me from seeing above. Far down the way the alley made a curve and so there was nothing that could be seen ahead. To be sure it was "A Blind Alley." Friend, are you walking in this "blind alley?" If earthly things hide out your vision ahead, on each side and above, you may be certain that you are traveling in a "blind alley." The sinner man is walking down the "blind alley" to everlasting night.

There was a little lad in our home twenty years ago, but that lad is a tall manly man. Should I have the privilege of repeating any half-hour in that boy's life I would have him to stand at my desk on one foot as he stood at one time and ask me, "Daddy, you say that I am not a member of the church and I have always thought that I was born into the church. Now, Daddy, tell me what I must do to be a member of the church. I want to be in the church with you and Mama." My arms went about that little lad and as I held him close to my heart I told him all that I knew to satisfy his mind and to lead him into the kingdom of God. Crowded into the growing days of that boy were many precious moments when life was full, but the fullest period of all was when his little heart was reaching up that he might find God. Yes, life would be worth repeating just to have that lad to stand on one foot and ask "What must I do to be saved."

That little granddaughter of mine has strong impulses toward a devout life. At the age of two years she will pray and she will repent and shed tears of sorrow over what she thinks will hurt those who love her. But she is brim full of human nature. The other day she was placed in her chair at the table and when all was silent she bowed her head reverently. The words of grace were a bit long and she waited until she thought that gratitude could be expressed, then she threw her head back and shook her head and shouted, "Let's go." Already the young lady has caught the modern spirit. Those of us who are a bit older than Rose Mary do not appreciate long drawn out devotions. We listen in on prayers and sermons often when the statement "lets go" would be in order.

I read of an accident that was full of thought. In a shop there was a metal cutting wheel. The required speed of the wheel was three thousand revolutions per minute. Some belts broke that was pulling other wheels and turned a tremendous amount of power to pulling this metal cutting wheel. Before the current could be snapped off the wheel went to pieces. The strain was too great for the inner power of the wheel and it "let go" and was hurled like cannon balls over the area of the shop. So it is with the lives of many people today. They are shattered by the outward pull that overbalances whatever inner unity they have achieved. Our age is increasing in speed. This is true in almost every view of human life. Men and nations are bound to fly apart when there is too much speed. Fast living is subject to much of the outward pull and who can resist?

I was in a home where the young man was griping over restraints. He wanted the liberty of the night and the license of bad company. His parents were trying to hold him under restraint. The youngster thought that he was being imposed upon and his liberties were being taken from him. As young people and as older men and women, we need to learn that liberty by way of license always defeats itself. We need to learn that if we use the world for our pleasure that it will ultimately make us its slave. We may have the impulse to set aside law in our passion for liberty, but a broken law will bring to us its penalty. The man who jumps out of a window in defiance of the law of gravitation will soon know what it is to break a law.

IN MEMORY OF REV. LIMBRICK

On Thursday. February 7, about 11:30 one of the saddest tragedies occurred that has ever happened in our neighborhood, when a train was nearing the Davis Crossing near Billingsley struck the car in which the Rev. J. H. Limbrick was riding on his way home, killing him almost instantly.

Chilton and Autauga Counties have lost one of their most noted and beloved citizens. His home was not far from the county line and his work as a minister included churches in both counties. Brother Limbrick will be missed by all who knew him for to know him was to love him. Our loss is heaven's gain.

A precious one from us in gone. A voice we loved is stilled. A place is vacant which never can be filled. His precious work is finished. A gentle voice said "Come.". He, with farewells unspoken, calmly entered home.

—Written by a friend, Inez McKee.

A very unusual happening was the death of Mr. and Mrs. Fletcher Nelson of Columbiana, Ala., grandparents of Philip and Sidney Nelson of Clanton, Ala. Two sons-in law, Stacy Johnson and White Moore, also were pallbearers.

LITTLE JESIA KNIGHT DIED

Last Thursday evening about five o'clock little Jesia Knight met his fatal doom, as he started to ride his mule to the house from the field where he was plowing, and got his foot hung in the trace chain, and it drug him one mile. He was twelve years old He was the son of John Knight, of Clanton. And since it is God's holy will we must be parted for a while in sweet submission. All as one we said goodbye for a little while, but we didn't say goodbye forever.

Weep not, loved ones, for our loss is heaven's gain. He leaves to mourn his loss his father, mother, sisters and brothers and a host of relatives and friends. Written by his aunt Myrtle Knight.

"Now I'm the Picture of Health," Says Lady After Taking CARDUI

Here is how Cardui helped an Alabama lady. . . . "I suffered from pains in my back and sides," writes Mrs. A. G. Gray, of Cusseta, Ala. "I was so thin and weak, I read of Cardui and decided to take it. I noticed at once it was helping me. I kept taking Cardui until I had finished five bottles. I gained. My health was much better. Now I am the picture of health. My color is good and my weight increased." . . . Thousands of women testify Cardui benefited them. If it does not benefit YOU, consult a physician.

THE BREWERS OR THE CHILDREN

Alabama has 1,500,000 children—850,000 of school age. These are soon to take our places as citizens. Philanthropic Brewers offer to give us $1,300,000 taxes to educate our children. But they do not tell you they will give you this if you will give them $27,000,000 for their liquor—an amount [illegible] government at present. If we need more money for our schools it would be foolish to give the brewers $27,000,000 for a little return of $1,300,000—our 1,500,000 school children are worth more than $.86 2|3 cents each.

The personnel of the teaching force of Alabama do not want our children sold to the brewers so cheaply. Dr. H. G. Dowling, president of The Alabama Educational Association says in a letter of February 12. "February 26 can be a very serious time—in fact, fatal day in Alabama history so far as many citizens are concerned. Unless [illegible] leaders work actively it is my fear that old sour smelliing producing saloon, or its equivalent under some name worse, will be back this summer. Teachers and school workers are dry—95 per cent, I believe. For years it has been my hope that my three children—and the 850,000 others whom you and I try to serve might never have to look at this ancient and devilish institution."

Mr. Citizen, we ask you to join our teachers of Alabama, and remember these 1,500,000 children and not to put a stumbling block in their way to cause them to stumble. "Woe unto the world because of occasions of stumbling" said Jesus. The brewers are ready to sell it to children. A recent convention of wholesale liquor dealers in New York authorized a fund of $19,000,000 for advertising in 1935. Do you see why the big dailies are wet?

Mr. Citizen, Senator Borah warns Alabama in these words: "Much worse than the saloons has returned, a legalized dive, a potential rendezvous of crime. Bootlegging is growing, the budget is unbalanced, and crashes and deaths are mounting—36,000 from wrecks and 1,000,000 crippled." Dr Raymond Moley, the trusted advisor of our President, says: "At no time under prohibition were so many federal agents at work and at no time were bootleggers so happy and prosperous."

Vote as you would if your boy and girl should say: "Dad, I will drink my part of the revenue." Vote "No," "No," "No," three times.

—District Committee Against Repeal.

Thorsby Institute News

On Saturday night the Helen Keller Literary Society held its annual Valentine party at the Dining Hall. The hall was decorated in red and white crepe paper streamers and with red paper hearts. On the walls the colors of the two clubs, branches of the Literary Society, were placed in the form of shields. Blanche Morgan, Louise Mims and Lois Rister were the decorating committee.

Various group games were played, some of them being particularly appropriate to a Valentine party. Valentines were also given each one by Valentine girls—Mae Pearl Sorrell and Mary Christ. After the games which had been planned by Miss Ford, Miss Allen, Helen Kendrick, Ruth Higgins and Hoyt Burnham, a short program was given under the direction of Mr. Sutlive. The origin of Valentine's Day was told by Mary Maude Knight. After that music was played by H. L. Collins on the harmonica and guitar and Fredrick Dunlap on the guitar. Ruth Foss read an interesting Valentine story.

At the end of the program refreshments, planned by Miss Leech, were served. They were heart-shaped cookies and ice cream with red hearts on top. The party closed with the singing of the Alma Mater.

Next Saturday night at seven-thirty the Annual Declamatory Contest will take place in the auditorium. The four girls who are to take part give their readings first. The Miss Allen will play a piano solo. This will be followed with readings by four boys. After this the judges' decision will be given and the prizes awarded. A prize of five dollars goes to the winner of the girls and five dollars to the winner of the boys. These prizes have been given for the Institute by an interested Illinois friend. Everyone is invited and admission will be ten cents.

A week from Saturday on March second, school will be in session also the last Saturday in March.

Black-Draught Brings Refreshing Relief of Constipation Troubles

Constipation produces many disagreeable sensations, several of which are mentioned by Mr. T. E. Stith, of Boonville, Ind., who writes: "I have used Thedford's Black-Draught many years when needed for biliousness and other minor ills when a laxative was needed. I have a tight feeling in my chest when I get bilious. I get dizzy and feel very tired, just don't feel like doing my work. After taking Black-Draught, I feel much better. This is why I continue to use it when needed." . . . Thedford's Black-Draught is a good, purely vegetable laxative, obtainable for 25¢ a package.

An Honest Word From Virginia Read!

A letter from J. M. Rowland, editor Richmond Christian Advocate, to Rev. Paul Gilbreath, showing the unbearable debauchery repeal has brought to Virginia

"We have over four thousand legal liquor shops in the State, far more than we had in the old days of the old fashioned sa'oon. And in spite of our high powered "Control" Board with its expensive machinery and political officers drawing big salaries everybody admits the bootlegger is flourishing more than ever.

"The courts have just exposed the worst liquor scandal in our history and over forty high citizens and political office holders have been arrested for conspiracy to defraud the Liquor Laws. All the county officers and others seem to be involved and were running a big racket with all of them getting boodle out of it.

"Several of the judges have become alarmed over the marked increase in drunken-driving and wrecks caused therefrom and are lecturing the courts and people. The newspapers are conducting safety campaigns for safety in driving. The increase is admitted to be over twenty per cent in fatal accidents the first year.

"In social society the matter is so serious with increased drinking among young people that a movement has been started in the society circles to open "Milk Bars" at the parties and try to wean the drinkers from the liquor bottle to the milk bottle.

"In seven local option elections we have had since Repeal six of the towns have voted dry by big majorities.

"I travel about twenty-five thousand miles a year and last year saw more evidence of public drinking than in ten years before. I see empty bottles in the parks and along the streets and roadways and I never saw one in months before. The State Capital Park we have to go through several times a day is a rendevous for them when the weather permits. The young lady in the office said the other day she had gotten afraid to go through it on account of menacing bums who drink and then sober up and start out begging.

"Two of the elite clubs raided last week and lots of liquor confiscated. Both running bootlegging on a big scale.

"I have challenged the two papers in this city to deny they are receiving at least seventy-five thousand dollars a year for liquor ads and they will not answer. They run as high as three hundred inches daily

"Notwithstanding the Control Board promised not to advertise, extensive advertising is done on radio, bill boards and in newspapers and magazines. They wiggle out of it because they say they are not advertising but all the ads read 'For sale at all the State Liquor Stores.'

"We are being run over ruthlessly, have been sold out soul and body by our State politicians and I have lost the last lingering tinge of respect for them.

"I consider conditions here far worse than in the old days and I was here in this town then and know. I had rather have the old dirty stinking disreputable joints we used to have so we could warn our boys and girls against them than to have these socially prominent places where we have barmaids waiting on customers and Church officials runnning the business. It is getting tangled up in the churches in a way that spel's ruin to our spiritual progress if we don't do something about it and many preachers are puzzled and speechless and many laymen and women have given up.

"Tell the people of Alabama not to be blinded and mislead by the biggest lying propaganda ever enacted on a civilized people and use this in anyway you see fit. I take full responsibility for every line of it."

The above letter proves the following statement of Joseph H. Choate, Jr., the leading wet of the nation and director of the Federal Alcohol Control Administration, in which he condemns the state control system the wets are trying to adopt in Alabama. This statement of Mr. Choate which should completely discredit the wet leaders in Alabama as to the virtue of the State control system, is as follows:

"But if you want to know whether I am for that system I will say that I view it with some doubt. Unless you provide exactly what the customers want—the bootlegger will be patronized. Naturally such stores open a new door for graft and corruption. The state monopoly makes possible the building of a political machine. Its hard to get enough honest employees or pay them enough to eliminate dishonesty of even the best state administration. I say its a bad system because it is fraught with that danger."

Every control system in America has broken down and crime, drunkenness, driving while drunk and bootlegging have resulted. Don't be fooled by the false doctrine. Vote dry and save the people of our great State from this shame and distress.

ALTON CULP DISCUSSES PRO HIBITION AND TEMPERANCE

Editor. Chilton County News:

Will you please allow me a small space in your paper to say a few words in regard to the prohibition refrendum which is to come before the voters of Alabama on February 26th?

It seems that some have the impression that this election is to decide if Alabama is wet or dry. If people will only look around a little, and see how prosperous the liquor business seems to be, it will not be any trouble for them to see if Alabama is wet or dry. Personally, I have no desire for, and cannot see much use for liquor, but it seems that a large per cent of the people are finding some use for it. If this liquor business is going to continue, and it seems likely that it will, it should be forced to pay it's part in the support of our government.

Temperance is a thing that must begin with the individual; and it is impossible to enforce a law that a majority of the people are not in sympathy with. In making this sale of liquor a legal and legitimate business it will not make any mor drunkards because everyone who want to get drunk is doing it nyway. Many people are in our prisons today for being caught with a pint of liquor and their wives and children are paying the price by doing without food, clothing. fuel, and other necessities of life, because their only means of securing these things has been taken away.

It is true that much harm is being done through the excessive use of liquor, but it would look much more sensible to me to punish the man who is doing the harm and not the man who happens to possess a little. Much harm is being done through the excessive or improper use of firearms but only a fool would suggest that they be exterminated just because some people use them in the wrong way. If the law enforcement officers used the time they now use in trying to catch someone with whiskey, in trying to catch and punish the man who is doing harm with it, Alabama would be a much better place in which to live in more ways than one.

If a majority of the voters of Alabama vote "yes" on February 26 it will not mean that we will have open saloons. It just simply means that everyone who wants liquor can legally get it, and the tax payers will no longer have to pay thousands of enforcement officers to run around and arrest everyone who happens to have some whiskey in their possession. They will only have to pay a few officers to arrest and punish the man who excessively uses liquor and thereby becomes a menace to society.

In conclusion let me say to the voters: Don't let the one-sided and unreasonable arguments that some Anti-Repeal supporters are using influence your vote, but look back and think of the things we have had under the prohibition law; form your own opinion, and vote in the way that you think is best for yourself and the citizens of Alabama at large.

Sincerely,

ALTON CULP.

POWER ORDER ON RATE REDUCTION ISSUED IN STATE

'Objective' Toll To Be Open To All When 85 Per Cent Mark Is Reached

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Feb. 11.—(AP)—The Alabama Public Service Commission today issue an order to the Alabama Power Company directing that when 85 per cent of its customers were billed in any one month after August on the low "objective rate," all customers would be entitled to come under the rate.

In addition, the commission ordered that five per cent reductions were to be made in the objective rate base every six months, instead of every year as under its order of October, 1933, when the objective rate was put into operation. The first new reduction was ordered April 1.

The order affects only customers of the Alabama Power Company.

$600,000 Savings

In establishing the objective, the commission estimated it would result in a $600,000 per year saving when it became fully effective on all residential customers.

"Today's order moves that full saving date up three months at least," said Hugh White, Commission president. "If 85 per cent go on in any month after August it will be effective immediately."

"But for thirteen years (ah, unlucky me!) I've been on the downward path, and it seems that the lower I get, the more some folks kick me around, despite the fact that I'm the cheapest thing they buy . . . and that I'm the only thing that isn't on a higher price sky rocket and that I've done much to make Alabama the foremost industrial State in the South.

"However, while I may be down I'm not downcast, because life for me has a bright side too . . . many of the customers of my Company know how cheap I am and know too that the more work I do, the cheaper I work for them. And that being so unusual in these days of skyrocketing prices, they

"THE HOODOOED COON" TO BE AT MAPLESVILLE FEBRUARY 28

The Junior Class of Maplesville High School presents "The Hoodooed Coon" February 28, at eight o'clock. A real laugh from beginning until end is this play. The leading part is played by that funny A. B. Wilder. He plays the part of a negro and he really has the trouble.

The scene of the play is in Slabtown, Missouri. Act one is jazz-time wedding with Ed. Hayes and Helen Nix, also a grouchy old millionaire 93 years old. Act two a bomb explodes and Paula on the trail. Act three—Sh-sh-sh—not so loud. It ends with a roar.

The cast is as follows: Misery Moon, the Hoodooed Coon, by A. B. Wilder; Gideon Blair, the millionaire. Douglas Hayes; Hiram Tutt, an awful nut, Tommie Williams; Patrick Keller, a ticket seller, Ed. Hayes; Tom Rissle, as slick as a whistle, Frank Brown; Samantha Salde, a poor old maid, Juanita Fuller; Rosebud Reese, a charming niece, Ruby Lee Chism; Paula Maleek, a Bolsheviek Sara McAfee; Lula Pearl, a ragtime girl, Helen Nix.

Admission will be only 15 and 20 cents, so come and bring the family and enjoy an evening of real fun. If you have seen it come anyway as it is entirely different and funnier. Put this date on your memory pad so you won't forget.

J. H. JACKSON WRITES ON REFERENDUM FEB. 26TH

Editor, Chilton County News:

Will you please spare me a little space to take my final shot at that unjust Prohibition law before it passes away?

Alabama has never voted dry in any referendum and there is no reason to believe she will this time.

The Eigthteenth Amendment was ratified by a Legislature traitorious to the mandate of the people or the State never would have endorsed prohibition.

I believe in temperance. I believe in it as the Bible teaches it. But temperance and prohibition are different in its teachings. Prohibition prohibits from drinking any at all—temperance teaches drinking in a temperate way. I take Christs' teachings in the Bible as he teaches temperance and not prohibition. He taught temperance not only in drinking but also in eating. Christ warned against the drunkard and glutton. He condemned them both.

Christ was no prohibitionist. All informed Bible readers know that he made wine and also drank wine. That is why some of those old-time prohibitionists accused him of being a winebiber. If he were here today and do as he did when he was here he would be classed as a criminal according to the Prohibition law.

I think that the temperance union should be called the Prohibition Union as it does not harmonize with the teachings of temperance. We should not make criminals out of people who drink in a temperate way, or for possessing the same. It is wrong to do so and the day will come when we will be judged for this wrong. We have enough crime to encounter with without inventing more.

If a man gets out on the roads drunk and endangers his and other's lives, I think he should be punished. I think the Bible will justify such law. I think people who pretend to be a leader and to take the Bible for their guide should take the whole truth as the Bible teaches it or get off of the job, especially those that are on a salary.

Now, friend, if you want to shoulder the responsibility for the Prohibition law, vote No! No! No, then the blood that this unjust law has caused to be shed including much innocent blood, is on your shoulders and not mine. Saying nothing of those that have been imprisoned and have labored to pay the price of a criminal with their wife and little ones left alone to root hog or starve. in some instances with their little homes broken up.

I hear some say that they don't want liquor turned loose with our boys and girls. We have tried prohibition for more than a decade, and there has never been a time in the history of Alabama when it was more plentiful with our young people than today. Yes, our leaders said, give us prohibition and we will empty our jails and penitentiaries. What happened?

It reminds me of what the Prophet Isaiah says: "Therefore hell hath enlarged herself." It had to be enlarged to hold the criminals. We find in Psalms, 104 chapter and the 14th and 15th verse where David said that God causeth the grass to grow for the cattle, and here for the service of man, that he may bring forth food out of the earth, and wine that maketh glad the heart of man. Now all that believes that David lied about this vote No! No! No!

Yours for liberty as the Bible teaches it, and penalty where penalty is due.

J. H. JACKSON.

ties, or performing the work for Chilton County shall retain said written order and when the claimant desires to make claim to the Commissioners Court, that he shall attach said written order to his claim, and in this way the Commissioners will always be assured that the work was properly authorized, and that the County received the [illegible] Said Commissioners or Judge of Probate also has a duplicate copy of said written order which he shall have at the session of said Commissioners Court passing the claim, to verify the same.

However, the Court provided that the provision of said order did not apply to any contracts made by the Court while in session or to any materials or other claims passed while in session and that the same did not apply to laborers or road hands or to any salaried officials or to other claims directed by law to be paid by the County.

Said order further provided that the Commissioners can refuse to pay any claims of the classification stated herein, unless the written order is attached to the claim as herein set forth.

Very often claims have come before the Court for materials or supplies that certain persons have purchsed of which the Commissioners or Judge of Probate was not advised of and also very often work was done for the County and not authorized by the Commissioners Court and the Court felt that the adoption of this plan would prevent material or supplies being bought or work being done when the same is not needed and often times materials being duplicated and also they felt that the County could buy much more economically by observing the above system and by this system, also the Commissioners will always know by whose authority the work and labor was done or materials and supplies purchased.

As stated, therefore, whenever any person desires to make purchases for Chilton County, we want to urge all garages and other people doing work or selling supplies to the County to be sure and have the person who is seeking to purchase supplies or have work done to present a written order from either the Commissioners or Probate Judge, and this will save the delay of passing on your claims, as the Court is authorized to refuse any claim unless a written order accompanies the same.

HOSPITAL PLAN IS FAVORED BY SENATOR BLACK

In Letter To Dr. Gragg Alabama Statesman States Advantages Of Idea

In a letter to Dr. Gragg Senator Hugo Black speaks very favorably of Dr Gragg's idea of group hospitalization, and quotes from a recent speech of his the following enlightening facts: "Of those American citizens examined for service in the World's War, 30 per cent were rejected for physical disability.

"The National Committee on the cost of medical care reported to Mr. Hoover as follows: Physicians on the whole are unoccupied between one third and one half of their time; thousands of nurses seek employment; but in vain; meanwhile millions suffer, and tens of thousands die from ailments which might be cured or alleviated by medical aid.

"This committee, after five years study, found that two out of every five people received no medical care of any kind.

"The committee also reported that adequate medical treatment would require 174,000 physicians and we had 144,000; 219,000 dentists and we had 68,000; 270,000 nurses and we had 137,000; 1,422,000 hospital beds and we had 956,000.

"No one need to look further than his own city or county to see a part of this picture of inadequate medical and hospital treatment. The wages or salary of the average man is not sufficient to enable him to face a medical, dental or hospital bill for even a short period without a feeling of desperation. The result is that few people obtain proper hospital, medical or dental care. The result is wasteful and unnecessary suffering and physical weakness and infirmities.

With tens of thousands of people in need of nurses and hospital treatment, hundreds of thousands of hospital beds have been empty, and thousands of nurses have gone to breadlines and relief.

"A study of the income of doctors throughout the nation has disclosed that a distressingly large number of them have received incomes below the amount found indispensable for a decent living. Thus, we have on this social economic front—medicine, doctors, dentists, nurses and hospitals, sufficient to give relief to the ills and pains of millions who need it if they could but buy it.

"Throughout many years, the physicians of America have rendered wonderful service to our people. Most of them respond to the calls of the sick and the afflicted with or without any assurance of pay. Millions and millions of sick and suffering people have received the kind and gentle care of physicians who neither asked nor expected any money reward. Some whom I have personally known have given their lives in traveling over rough and rocky roads, day and night, to treat the suffering and the diseased.

"History records no martyrs who have given their lives to a more sacred cause than some physicians whose sole object in life was human service."

1935 COTTON REGULATIONS ARE EXPLAINED

County Agent Fant Talks To Large Group Of Chilton County Farmers

Approximately 300 persons attended a meeting at the Wadesonian Theatre Monday afternoon, when County Agent J. W. Fant discussed with the farmers of this county the new regulations governing the 1935 cotton control.

For several days meetings have been held throughout the county. The meeting in Clanton Monday was first scheduled to be held at the court house, but since court was in session it was necessary to use the theatre.

Mr. Fant declared that he believes that the farmers of this section will reap an even greater benefit from the curtailment program this year than during either of the past two years, because most farmers in Chilton County are better provided to begin a crop than in many years, he explained.

Below is given fundamental provisions of the program:

"If you signed a contract in 1934, it will be necessary for you to see your committeemen in your beat and tell him what percent of your base acreage you want to rent to the Secretary in 1935.

"If you failed to sign a contract in 1934, but want a contract in 1935, get the cotton history of the place, 1928 through 1934, you are living on in 1935 and give it to your committeeman.

"The program for 1935 is about the same as it was in 1934 except you may rent only 25-35 percent. of your base acreage.

"The new applicants for 1935 contracts will establish the base in the same way 1934 signers established their base.

"I believe that it will be to the advantage of each cotton producer to rent 35 percent. of his base acres and receive the maximum rental benefit."

Mr. C. A. Cobb, Chief, Cotton Section, made the following statement February 18, 1935:

"It will be to the advantage of individual producers to plant in 1935 only 65 percent. of their base acreage because in no case will the bases used in making allotments of tax-exemption certificates be more than 65 percent. of a producer's base production. Producers should therefore be cautioned against planting more than 65 percent. of their base acreage with the anticipation of buying surplus exemption certificates at reduced prices in 1935. It will be our recommendation that provisions be made which will prevent surplus exemption certificates being sold below the full amount of the tax. We will also recommend that the tax be kept adjusted at 50 percent. of the price."

Bring your cntract and the weights af the bales of cotton produced on the farm on which you are now living, to the place nearest you in your BEAT, on the date listed below. Your committeemen will be there to help you fix your paper.

"There will be no farm to farm canvass this year. It will be necessary for you to see your committeeman to get your old contract fixed up or to make

WORK ON ROAD IS EXPECTED TO GET UNDERWAY

Two More Miles Will Be Hard-Surfaced Toward Selma, Maplesville

Work was expected to get underway Wednesday morning on clearing the right-of-way for the paving of an additional two miles of the Clanton-Selma highway, according to information from the local National Re-employment office. Grover C. Harris, manager of the office, stated that he had received orders for 12 men to begin work Wednesday.

If the weather is not too rough to permit work, he expressed the opinion that at least 30 men will be given employment on this project within a week.

Contractors for the job are Hardaway Construction Company, Columbus, Ga., who recently completed the hard-surfacing of approximately two miles of this road. Several months will be required for the completion of this piece of paving, it is understood, and it is believed by several leading citizens in this and Dallas County that more funds will be available by that time for another appropriation for work on this road.

When this stretch is completed, the road will be hard-surfaced from the intersection of the Clanton-Birmingham highway to a short distance west of the Baker Junior High School.

COX GETS JOB OF INSPECTING STATE ROADS

Governor Asks Chilton County Representative To Study Highways

Rep. C. B. Cox has been delegate by Gov. Bibb Graves, upon recommendation of the State Highway Department, to make an inspection of all State roads and equipment for both maintainance and construction for the purpose of making rcommendations for their improvement.

Mr. Cox will make a tour of the State during the next 60 days and study the roads and the needs of the highway department and will be ready to submit his report at the next session of the legislature. He was chosen by the governor and officials of the department because of his vast knowledge and experience in the construction and maintainance of roads.

During the former administration of Governor Graves Mr. Cox supervised the building of more than 500 miles of roads in this State and is said to be one of the best qualified road builders in the South. It is believed that his suggestions will mean much in the elimination of unnecessary expenses and in mapping a road program to be put into effect during the next four years.

Dan Smith Wins Loving Cup In Debate

Dan C. Smith, son of Mrs. Mamie C. Smith of Clanton, Freshman at Auburn this year, was declared winner in the Freshman Debating Tournament last Wednesday night at Auburn. This Tournament has been in progress since last November, and Dan has had a part in three debates. His partner in the finals was A. A. Rick, Jr., of Foley, Ala.

The Auburn chapter president presented the cup to the two winners. The subject of the debate was: Resolved: That Federal Aid Should Be Granted for the Equalization of Educational Opportunity.

Results In Election Are Still Doubtful

Extremely Small Vote Shown Over Entire State; Chilton Goes "Dry" By Good Margin As Unofficial Counts Come In

With few more than half of the ballot boxes heard from in the State, there is grave doubt as to what the people's verdict will be in regard to the modification of Alabama's "bone dry" laws.

Reports from over the State late Tuesday night gave the wets a slight lead of 6,438 with returns in from 1,259 out of 2,156 ballot boxes. Although only about half of the ballot boxes have been heard from it is believed that approximately two-thirds of the total vote is in.

The vote for modification was 77,616 and against 71,178, a lead for the wets of 6,438; on the legalization of beer and wine, the vote was 77,516 for and 69,131 against, while the hard liquor legalization stood at 76,329 for and 71,047 against.

Chilton County apparently will return a vote of approximately three to one in favor of retaining the present dry laws. Early Wednesday morning 19 out of 27 boxes gave the drys 1,433 to 591 votes, a lead of 842. The unofficial returns from these 19 boxes gave the wets only three boxes in Chilton County. Less than 500 votes have not been heard from in this county, assuring the drys of a more than two to one victory.

In this county little thought was given to the fact that three propositions were being voted on, judging from the reports from the various precincts. The reports indicated that the people considered it either a wet or dry proposition, and this seems largely true throughout the State.

Chilton's unofficial vote as reported by the returning officers in the 19 boxes heard from is:

Beat 3—wets 13, drys 57; 4-3 —wets, 43, drys 79; 6-1—wets 7, drys 38; 15-2—wets 5, drys 45; Beat 13—wets 23, drys 13; 4-4—wets 53, drys 127; 4-1—wets 69, drys 172; 4-2—wets 65, drys 135; Beat 10—wets 52, drys 95; 5-1—wets 62, drys 96; 9-2—wets 22, drys 56; 9-1—wets 39, drys 113; 15-1—wets 24, drys 50; 6-2—wets 6, drys 73; Beat 14—wets 2, drys 32; Beat 1—wets 16, drys 10; 7-1—wets 33, drys 43; 7-2—wets 18, drys 12; 2-1—wets 35, drys 109; Beat 8—wets 6, drys 60; and Absentees—wet 18, drys 22.

This leaves eight boxes not heard from, but it is believed that the ratio of votes will remain about the same in these boxes. Less than a fifty per cent vote was registered in the county and indications are that the final vote will be approximately 1,700 for retaining the dry laws and 700 for modification.

Whether or not Alabama will legalize the sale and manufacture of alcoholic beverages will remain in doubt, in all probability, until after the official count in the 67 counties Friday.

County Is Aided Greatly By Brief Health Work

Unit Would Place Chilton County Far In Lead Over Other Counties Of State; Urgent Need Of Program Stressed

In urging the installation of an all-time county health unit here, Supt. Luther E. Little and others interested in the proposition cited figures o show that the county has benefitted more than $13,000 during the past three months as a result of health work that has been carried on under the supervision of the State Health Department and the Alabama Relief Administration.

During this time, figures compiled by Mr. Little and two relief nurses, Mrs. Sarah Crim and Mrs. Thelma Pasley, show that 2,304 school children in the County have been given diptheria toxoid; 130 examined and treated for vincents angina; 116 vaccinated to prevent smallpox; 163 given typhoid vaccine; 46 examined for tuberculosis; 6,000 examined for hookworms—2,000 found positive and treated; and considerable other health benefits administered.

This work would have cost these people a total of approximately $13,591 at regular charges made by local physicians, according to those in charge of the surveys. Consequently much of it would never have been done and many children's health would have been endangered as a result of continued suffering and exposure to these ailments.

In quoting these figures, Superintendent Little and local physicians who are intensely interested in securing for Chilton County an all-time health unit, stated that this work is just a fair example of what would be a part of the routine duties of the unit.

The maintaining of this protection to its citizens would cost Chilton County $2,500 per year, which may be paid by appropriations from the county government, municipal governments in the County, and any other organization that may wish to lend its cooperation. A like sum will be appropriated by the State Health Department, it was explained.

At the regular meeting of the Commissioners Court next Monday, a group of citizens interested in the promotion of this service to the people of this county will appear before the members of the court and solicit their cooperation.

Your County Officials

A Brief History of Newly Elected Officers

Luther E. Little, County Superintendent of Education

Luther E. Little, superintendent of education of Chilton County, has the distinction of being the youngest and one of the most progressive county superintendents in Alabama. Only recently he was appointed on a committee to study and formulate plans for a retirement insurance for teachers, to be presented to the State Legislature at its next meeting.

During the 18 months which he has held office, he has accomplised much for education in Chilton County. When he took office it was a gloomy time for schools, not only in this county, but throughout the State. The year before it had been necessary to stop the schools at mid-term, depriving the students of the opportunity to complete a grade—and depriving the teachers of a chance to earn a living.

One of the first things he did was to take steps to assure all elementary the same length terms, giving the rural child an equal chance with its urban neighbor. Schools ran full length terms, and the possibilities seem favorable for regular seven and nine months terms again this year. When federal auditors recently examined the records in his office, he pronounced them the best kept in the State.

Born and reared in Coosa County, Luther Little deserves much credit for the progress he has made. Most of it through sheer determination and hard work. His family was an ordinary farm family and funds for college were not available, but hard work through both school terms and vacations made it possible. He received his early education in the public schools of Coosa. Moriah and Flint Hill. In 1918 the Little family moved to Chilton County, settling near Cooper. Luther entered the Chilton County High School at Clanton, later completing his high school work at Ensley-Howard High, Birmingham. Entering Howard College in September, 1924, he was graduated in August, 1927, majoring in political economy.

Before entering college he worked at various commercial enterprises throughout South Alabama. For some time he was engaged as bookkeeper by Gulledge Bros., Verbena, and also with firms at Prattville and Castleberry, Ala.

Since leaving school he has taught, much of the time in this county, at Collins Chapel and Clanton. He was engaged as a teacher at the Chilton County High School, here, when his friends persuaded him to enter the race for superintendent of education in a special election in 1933. He was the first Democratic candidate to be elected in this county in more than 20 years.

November 27, 1930, he was married to Miss Laura Burks, of Rockford. She is a graduate of the Coosa County High School, Rockford, and of Birmingham-Southern College.

"My one desire while serving the people of Chilton County as superintendent of their schools is to do the most possible for the welfare of the greatest number of children and to lend my whole support to professionalizing the teaching vocation," he said.

Clanton Hospital Undergoes Renovation

The air around the Central Alabama Hospital, Clanton, is pungent with the odor of fresh paint. For several days workmen have been busy renovating and painting the interior and equipment of the building. Practically all of the second story has been completed and the painters are now busy on the first floor.

Dr. V. J. Gragg, staff physician and surgeon, expects the work to be completed within the next week. He said that practically every piece of equipment is being subjected to a thorough renovating. Beds in all the rooms are being painted and new interior decorations are being installed.

TEACHERS OF COUNTY WILL GATHER TODAY

To Attend Meeting Here And Discuss Use Of Federal Money In County

All public schools in the county will be closed at noon Thursday (today) to permit teachers to attend a meeting at the Chilton County High School, Clanton, for the purpose of discussing use of federal monies in continuing schools to their normal length, according to an annoucement by Supt. Luther E. Little.

Mr. Little will outline provisions under which federal funds may be secured for the continuance of schools in this county and requirements which will have to be met by teachers to qualify for employment. There is much that teachers should be acquainted with before public announcement is made regarding the plans under which the schools may operate, he said.

Truck drivers will report at noon to transport the pupils to their homes and all teachers are requested to attend this assemble, Mr. Little stated.

DR. HINKLE IS PLACED AT HEAD OF STATE DEPT.

States That He Will Make Home In Montgomery In Near Future

Dr. P. T. Hinkle, popular Chilton County veternarian and ardent supporter of Gov. Bibb Graves, was recently appointed supervisor of sanitation for all of the State prisons. Dr. Hinkle, who was notified of his appointment the latter part of last week has already assumed his duties.

Mrs. Hinkle stated that she is making final preparations for the family's removal to Montgomery. Although present plans call for only a temporary absence of this popular couple from Chilton County, their many friends here will learn with regret of their departure.

For many years, both Dr. and Mrs. Hinkle have been greatly interested in both state and county governmental affairs. Twice Dr. Hinkle has been a candidate for probate judge of this county, receiving an outstanding vote on both occasions. He has long been considered a leader in the Democratic Party, and in the recent elections his support of Governor Graves was greatly instrumental in the "little Colonel's" overwhelming victory in this county.

During recent months, he has been a constant advisor of the governor and has traveled over much of the state, aiding him in shaping his policies for this administration.

The Hinkles expect to move to Montgomery within about three weeks, Mrs. Hinkle stated Tuesday night.

CORN HOG PROGRAM

The Corn-Hog program under the Agricultural Adjustment Administration will be continued in 1935.

Twenty Chilton County farmers signed Corn-Hog contracts in 1934 and received approximately $2,000.00 in benefit payments.

The program is open to all farmers who raise hogs for sale during 1933.

All farmers who are interested in this program should get in touch with the county agent.

HAMP DRAPER IMPROVING DEFINITELY OUT OF DANGER

The physician attending Hamp Draper head of the State Convict Department, who has been seriously ill at his home in Wetumpka, with pneumonia which followed an attack of influenza, said yesterday that Mr. Draper is definitely "out of danger," but it will take him some time to regain his strength sufficiently to be able to resume his official duties at the Capitol. The head of the Convict Department was taken sick February 15, and his condition had been critical for nearly a week, until a change for the better occurred last Saturday.

CIRCUIT COURT IN SESSION HERE DURING WEEK

Twelve Cases Disposed Of In The First Two Days Of Criminal Docket

Disposition of 12 cases was made in the first two days of criminal court which is in session in Chilton County this week. Most of these were of minor importance, being for liquor violations and similar offenses.

Dewey Lewis, who was under indictment for second degree manslaughter in connection with the "hit-and-run" accident, which cost Will R. Vinsant his life early in 1933, entered a plea of guilty to a charge of driving while intoxicated and the manslaughter charge was nol prossed upon recommendation of the State. Lewis was fined $100 and cost on the driving while intoxicated charge.

A case against V. B. Champion, charging driving a motor vehicle while intoxicated, was nol prossed upon recommendation of the State

Edgar D. Darling and Kellet Campbell, both under indictment for violation of prohibition laws [illegible] when the State took a nol pross.

Amos Oden, negro, was convicted by a jury for V.P.L. and fined $50 and court cost. His attorney, J. B. Atkinson, gave notice of appeal.

Arlin Taunton was fined $50 and cost for violating the prohibition laws; and Joe Delaney, charged with the same offense, was acquitted.

Court will continue throughout the week. Judge Arthur Glover recessed court until 11:00 o'clock Tuesday to permit jurors and others attending court to go to the polls and cast their votes in the election to determine whether Alabama will retain its present "bone dry" laws.

The Meaning Of 'Americanism'

It might point the way to a happier destiny were all persons who use the term "Americanism" to ponder carefully the significance of the word. There are too many interpretations of its meaning, with many of them wholly erroneous.

Many construe "Americanism" to mean "nationalism," and thereby fall into error, for between these terms there is a difference as wide as the seas.

Properly understood, Americanism means to stand for and promote those things which make for the highest welfare of the American people and the government which they have set up to foster and safeguard their interests.

And since the highest welfare of the American people may best be promoted by living upon friendly terms with the balance of the world, the term has its international as well as its national flavor. Those who wear most becomingly the badge of Americanism do not flaunt it as a token of world superiority but as an emblem of pride in ideals that are worthy of emulation by all peoples everywhere, and as a token of willingness to share these ideals and to be helpful if possible in the promotion of those forms of internationalism that make for peace and happiness in the world.

Properly understood, "Americanism" is just another name for fine spiritual qualities which the American people hope to be preserved upon this continent, and which they hope to see reflected in the ideals and activities of their government, and it is beautiful only as it is kept free from selfishness and arrogance.—Tuscaloosa News.

The Tragic Fate Of Cotton

By Walter Parker

It is entirely possible for the A.A.A. to adequately help the cotton produces, and to do it in such a way as to encourage sales for export, thus holding the world's markets available to the raw cotton producers of the United States and not, as it has been doing, in such a way as to handicap sales for export, thus causing the hoarding of cotton in the United States.

During many years the cotton South has been a victim of the high protective tariff policy of the United States, which compelled the South to sell sixty per cent of its cotton in an open, unprotectable world market, while the producers were compelled to buy all their supplies in a high tariff protected domestic market.

Then the United States was a world debtor and annually paid huge sums abroad by exporting cotton and other commodities.

Now, the United States is a world creditor nation. Most of the other nations owe the United States huge sums. So long as the high tariff on imports continues, foreign cotton consumers must find dollars with which to pay for United States cotton by swapping gold for them, since the tariff prevents the United States from buying enough commodities abroad to supply the credit required to swap for dollars.

On top of these handicaps, the A.A.A. has loaned more money on cotton than cotton can be sold for in the world markets.

Hence the rapid decline in the export trade in cotton, and the increasing hoarding of cotton in the United States.

Congress is now in session. Unless Congress opens up the channels of trade, the cotton South will continue to lose its export markets, and in the end the cotton producers will have only a relatively small domestic market in which to sell their cotton.

What then will the majority of the 2,000,000 cotton farm families do for a cash crop?

The time to think about this is before it is too late.

The time to demand that Congress act wisely and promptly in safeguarding the markets for the United States produced cotton is now.

Cooperatives Aid Consumers

There is one phase of the agricultural cooperative movement that has received less notice than it deserves—the effect the co-ops have on the consumer.

Those who believe that the aim of cooperative marketing is to force prices sky high, are mistaken. It seeks to bring the farmer a fair share of the final selling price of his product—it does not seek to sting the unprotected consumer. Good cooperatives have been of great service to the consuming public.

The leading dairy cooperatives present a fine example of this. They have standardized the quality of milk, so that the buyer may be sure of getting just what he wants. They have perfected marketing and distribution machinery so that dairy products take the least possible time in going from the farm to the retailer. They have been instrumental in preventing destructive price fluctuations, whereby the consumer paid less than a product was worth one day and more the next—and everyone involved suffered in the long run. They have conscientiously worked to give the public a better product at a fair price.

Sound agricultural cooperatives perform an essential and valuable service, both to their members and to the public at large. They are receiving intelligent support from members and the people, where they understand the cooperative ideal.

36,000 Automobile "Murders"

The President of the United States, in letters to the Governors of the 48 states, has urged the enactment of uniform regulation of traffic, and intensified safety educational campaigns.

There is no good argument against uniform traffic legislation and regulation in the face of the fact that the killing record of automobiles last year touched the 36,000 mark.

Think of it! Thirty-six-thousand lives snuffed out by automobiles in one year. Why should there be any argument about uniform traffic laws and the need of cooperation between states to eliminate such a disgraceful record as this?

Take a specific example: Why should one city be allowed, as at present, to maintain three different types of "stop" signals at intersections, thus confusing both its own drivers and those from other states? Legislators could work on a "life saving" program such as this to the benefit of every man, woman and child in the county.

A State Can Live Within Income

Nebraska is advertised as being a debtless state today; as a commonwealth where the law prohibits pledging the state's credit for more than $100,000; and also as a state which has ridden through war and peace, drouth and plenty, without issuing a dollar's worth of bonds.

It built a $10,000,000 state capitol over a period of twelve years out of its annual tax levy. Its roads are paid for by a four-cent gasoline tax and motor vehicle license fees, plus the usual Federal aid.

Nebraska's government, aside from road building, is supported by a general property tax and it has no income or sales tax.

These facts seem to prove that a great state can be operated on a business basis and stay within its income.

Nebraska should be an object lesson for every state in the union, many of which are staggering today under bond issues to pay for political experiments and inefficiency which the coming generations will struggle to pay if they are ever wiped out. The taxpayers should rise up in arms, as it were, against practically every proposal that is made to further burden the people with taxes.

The lawmaker today who suggests tax increases as a way to meet state problems, is in most cases simply showing his inability as a business man to balance the public's business budget.

During the War Between the States a Union squadron entered Mobile Bay under command of Captain Craven. The Monitor Tecumseh was struck by a torpedo and began to sink. At the time of the explosion Captain Craven and his pilot were in a room together far below the deck. In this room there was only one way of escape and that was up a small ladder. At the shock both men made a dash for the ladder, and Captain Craven, seeing that his pilot was reaching for the ladder, stopped and stepped back saying "After you Pilot." In the delay that followed the boat went down and the Captain went down with her, while the pilot made his escape. Just another instance when one man died that another might live. That is the kind of stuff out of which heroes are made whether their glory be sung or unsung.

On entering my new parsonage home I found a window pane that was shattered. On examination I decided that the glass had been struck with a rock or the ball out of an air rifle. The glass was broken into many pieces but still it clung together and gave protection just about as well as if it had not been broken. However, the glass never ceased to talk in loud language of the blow that it had received. Like many a human life, it was shattered and yet it was holding on and holding together, but all who look his way know that he is shattered. Should the brace support of a good wife or the church be removed, the man would fall into hopeless ruin.

A friend of mine told me this story. Said she: "My little boy was in very poor health when he was a lad of eight years. He moped about and never felt like playing. One day a new neighbor moved into the house next door and in that home there was an invalid child. Immediately my son became interested in the helpless friend and started to doing things for him. The more he did the more he wanted to do, and in a few weeks I observed that something was developing with my own boy. Roses came to his cheeks and speed came to his feet and health came to his body. Then I observed that he had forgotten himself in helping another lad and that brought life and health to him." If you want to become dant in joy, quit thinking about your- dant in joy, quit thinkin gabout yourself and get busy doing things for other folks. Unselfish service will produce robust Christians.

Two men met on the sidewalk and entered into conversation about their daily employ. One of the men said that he was a brick mason and that he spent all of his time building walls. The other man replied, "It is signular that we should meet thus, why, my man, I am a wrecker and I spend all my time tearing down walls." As I listened to the conversation of those two men I realized that I had the whole human race before me in those two men. After all there are just two kind of folks in the world. One class is out to build walls and the other class is out to tear them down. One class is out to build walls of purity, walls of prohibition, walls of social protection, walls of honesty and walls of civilization, while the other class is out to tear all of these walls down to the level of the brute. Which are you—a wall builder or a wall breaker?

I stood at the edge of an open field and on the opposite side I could see an object moving. Looking as best I could I decided that it was a beast. It kept moving toward me and after a little I saw that it was a man. Then the object kept coming nearer and nearer and then I saw that it was my own brother. When we look upon the human race at a distance men seem to be only brutes. When they come nearer they seem to be human beings just as we are. When they come near to us they become our brothers. "I hate that man" said Lamb to a friend who stood by his side as a man passed by. "Why," said the friend in astonishment, "I did not know that you even knew him." "I do not", replied Lamb, "and that is why I hate him. If I knew him I would love him." When we are close to the human heart we are going to cry, "My Brother.".

Black-Draught Good For Biliousness and Bad Taste in Mouth

"I have found Thedford's Black-Draught so good for biliousness, bad taste in the mouth and other disagreeable feelings due to constipation," writes Mrs. Mary Garner, of Burleson, Texas. "My mother used it for a number of years and we do not think there is a better medicine. I was pleased when I saw Syrup of Black-Draught advertised. I sent for it and gave it to my children (as a laxative) for colds and when they felt bad. Soon they felt fine." . . . Vermont Jr. High School News

Our basket ball team (boys) bowed in defeat again to the swifter and more experienced team from Mt. Pleasant last Friday by the one-sided count of 24 to 8. Little Earl Melton and George Chambers were the big guns for the visiting teams, the former looping the ball for 12 points while the latter was cracking out two markers to his credit. Coach Glasscock deserves credit for molding one of the swiftest and most sportsmanlike Junior high school teams in Chilton County. He has instilled in the players the principle of fair play regardless of victory or defeat. It will take plenty of hustling to win over those boys. The team at Vermont this season is composed of all young and inexperienced players, but they have shown wonderful improvements, and in a couple more years this school will place a real strong contender on the court. Most of the players are in the elementary grades thus giving them a distinct advantage in having several more years to play before completing Junior High School work.

Miss Icie Belle Cobern, Child Attendance Officer, made a brief visit to our school last week.

Our P.-T. A. meets next Thursday night, March 7th, 7:00 o'colck. Remember that we have only two more meetings and we want you to be with us on the occasions. We hope to have Supt. Little to address us on our next meeting date.

The P.-T. A. ladies have been busy this week with their final preparations for staging the entertainment on next Saturday night. Folks, this is going to be one of the most ludicrous and amusing programs that has ever been given at Vermont. You just can't pass up this chance to see Judge Hoptoad conduct his court. It's a wow. Then there is the Hen-peck Hollow Gossip—a whole show by itself and finally comes that funny little skit, entitled "Foul Deeds." Not as dull moment during any of this program.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnson motored to Selma last Saturday to witness the Third District Basketball tournament. Mr. Johnson got quite a thrill watching his old "Alma-Mater" team (Jemison High School) turn back five teams Saturday to win second championship. This places them among the sixteen best teams in the state and affords them an opportunity to compete for the state championship team, at Tuscaloosa, on March 7-8.

APPRECIATION FOR KINDNESS

We wish to take this means of thanking everyone for his kindness and help during the illness and death of our dear husband and father. We feel deeply indebted to our many friends for what they did for us in trying to make our grief less. We know that no one will ever take his place in our lives. That place in our home is empty. But we thank God that our loved one lived a life that was a credit to his family. We have no fear that he is not waiting on the other side for us.

Our husband and dad was one to be proud of. Among his many good examples, one seemed to impress all with whom he came in contact. That was his ability, at all times, to be peaceful and to refrain from profane language. Never was he heard to use any profane language.

May God in His mercy, comfort and bring peace to us all. God knows best. May we become resigned to His will.

Again let us thank each and everyone for his kindness.

—Mrs. R. L. Veazey and family.

STAGE SET FOR BIG SPRING SALE

Low Rates Pave Way For Many More Alabamians To Enjoy Comforts and Convenience of Electric Cooking and Water Heating

Low rates, low prices and unusually reasonable terms abundantly complete the triangle of value on which we base our confident prediction that our 1935 Spring sale of electric ranges and water heaters will set a new all time record.

Until you've actually owned an electric range or water heater you can't imagine what a world of comfort and real enjoyment these two appliances can bring into your home.

When you cook electrically you will have many more carefree hours to spend in your garden or with your friends. Your kitchen will be cool and clean, your pots and kettles free from soot and grime. And meals will be tastier, because foods cooked electrically hold their flavor.

An electric water heater is an equal aid to living comfort. It reduces the hot water problem in the home to one simple thing—turning on the faucet. Automatically and silently it maintains an inexhaustible supply of piping hot water at all times. And gives you this constant service without dirt, smoke or flame.

During our Spring sale, beginning March 1st, electric ranges will be offered at prices ranging from $77.50 up and electric water heaters from $60.50 up. Convenient terms will be available.

Drop around and see us sometime soon, and let us figure out for you how economical it is to own and use these two dependable home services.

Its Easy To Have A Lighted Outdoor Living Room

A cozy outdoor garden, enclosed with shrubs and vine covered fences, bordered with flowers, softly lighted by electricity, will prove a wonderfully attractive retreat during hot-weather nights this summer. A little cash, a little ingenuity, a little careful planning can easily transform your back yard or garden into such a fairyland — an "out-door living room" which you, your family and friends will find a place of constant pleasure.

With modern outdoor lighting many beautiful effects can be achieved. For instance, underwater colored lighting for your lily pond, portable spot lighting to reveal the full beauty of your flowering dogwood, your boxwoods, or other shrubs in which you take especial pride. Then there are border lights for your flower beds, and many other lighting methods which are new and novel. Our lighting engineers have made special studies of outdoor garden lighting, and will be glad to advise and assist you with your "outdoor living room." Under the FHA financing plan you can finance such improvements at low cost and on long terms.

MARVELS

How would you like to bathe in melted snow? Folks who live in Iceland actually do! But the melted snow in that part of Iceland is really the hottest spring water in the world. Snow on the peak of the volcano, Hecla, in Iceland, melts and rushes down thru deep ravines in the volcano's seething sides, then underground for 30 miles to emerge finally as steaming natural springs, some of which have a temperature as high as 260 degrees Fahrenheit. Citizens of Iceland use this hot water for bathing and washing clothes.

Alabama has no volcanoes, and no natural hot springs. But many citizens of Alabama do have a hot water supply which is equally abundant and even more convenient. They use electric water heaters.

America's first bath tub was built in Cincinnati in 1842. It was of mahogany, lined with sheet lead, and was exhibited at a Christmas party. Next day, local papers denounced it as a "luxurious and democratic vanity." Medical men took it up and pronounced the bath tub a "menace to health." In 1843, Philadelphia undertook by public ordinance to prohibit bathing between November 1st and March 15th. Two years later Boston made bathing unlawful except when prescribed by physicians. Bath tubs were taxed $30 yearly. And that was only little more than 90 years ago! Today all recognize that the daily ath is a vital part of good health, good breeding and good business. And that hot water—instantly available at any hour through the convenience of electricity, is an essential service in the modern home.

Famous Cotton Seeds Sold At Local Store

The Southern Seed & Plant Company is agent for the famous Mars-Rose cotton seed, it was announced this week by Evan Parrish, manager of the establishment. F. D. Orr of Birmingham, is in Chilton County this week contacting farmers relative to this much-advertised cotton.

Mars-Rose cotton has gained national recognition within the past few years. Propagated and developed by the Rev. A. D. Cosgrave, of Lawton, Okla., who has been experimenting with the product for fifty years, the seeds were first offered for sale in 1933. at the rate of $100 per bushel. However, the Southern Seed & Plant Company is selling these seeds this year for a small fraction of this price.

In 1932, the Rev. Cosgrave is said to have produced 20 bales of cotton on five acres where these seeds were used. It was the following year that he offered them to other farmers and was paid $100 per bushel.

The local seed firm invites farmers of this section to visit its store and see proof that these seeds are worthy of the fame that has been accorded them and their originator.

We have a fine Sunday School lesson for next Sunday and we hope everyone will be able to be back in line again by then and really get our Sunday School going again. BUTLER COUNTY WOMAN 'VERY HAPPY' OVER PRAISE FOR RELIEF ACHIEVEMENT

MRS. IRENE DAVIS AND THREE CHILDREN

Greenville, Ala.—Mrs. Irene Davis the tle widow who wears the mantle of ne of Alabama's greatest women of 34" because she begged for the right pay back everything the Governent furnished her for a livelihood, and id repay every dime, is the happiest oman in Alabama today.

"It is not because I feel that I derve the honor and all of the praise at I have read and heard about rough the press and radio," she told he Advertiser correspondent yestery. "I think there are many women ho have done more than I have and ho are more deserving. But it has ade me very happy."

Mrs. Davis is a little woman schooled the traditions of the old South. Just few miles from the three-room leaky anty on the beautiful paved Mobile ighway where she now resides, her andfather not so many years ago aked out a homestead, became in e a well-to-do if not wealthy slave uer, and planter.

Up in Chilton County her maternal andfather likewise staked off a homead near Maplesville when this coun was a wilderness, and became a ve-owner and a planter of position d influence.

"My paternal grandfather's name John Peagler, she said. He came utler County while he was a young n from what was known as the angeburg district in South Carolina. that day and time there were few vns and localities were referred to districts.

"My maternal grandfather was Hig R. Atchison. He settled in what now Chilton County about two miles m Maplesville. I know he once ownslaves as I often heard mother speak this, and I know that Grandfather agler also at one time owned quite it of land and slaves in Butler Coun-

Mrs. Davis is the daughter of the Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Peagler. Her her, she said, was too young to enter War Between the States, but two his brothers, Henry and Matthew agler enlisted. Matthew, she said, illed on the field of battle.

Briefly she told of a happy childhood, of want or care, on the farm near plesville where she was reared, how completed high school and then e to Montgomery to take a business rse. Upon completion of her busis course she worked for a while in ntgomery for the American National rance Company. That was nearly ears ago. In Montgomery she met husband and later went with him to Houston, Texas. Mrs. Davis spoke reluctantly about her husband. "We separated about 11 years ago," she said. "I haven't heard from him since and I suppose that he is dead. His health was bad."

She helped her parents, who, a few years ago, sold their farm and her father rented a farm near Georgiana, she said. The money obtained from sale of the homestead in Chilton County. she said was deposited in the Georgiana bank, and shortly afterwards the bank failed. The death of both of her parents occurred a year or so later.

"It has been a hard struggle since that time," she said. "I tried to get a job. For two weeks I sought work in Montgomery, but everywhere it was the same answer—"we are laying off help, not employing anyone." We, my three children and myself, had tried farming and we made a little something besides corn bread and syrup and that was about all I could give them. My neighbors were not in much better shape than myself. I knew the relief office had been opened in Butler County and I put it off as long as I could. Then I just had to go and ask for some help, not for myself but for my children."

Here Mrs. Davis paused and clenched her lips tightly.

"I never thought that I would go there," she said. "I couldn't bear to see my children suffer any longer.

She told of how the rehabilitation program had been announced, how the Relief Director at first refused to enroll her in the program and permit her to receive loans for food, seed, and fertilizer, because she didn't think she could "make it."

Borrowed Mule

The rest is a well known story, how she "managed" by borrowing a mule from a neighbor for her 14-year-old son to plow, how she worked a day in her neighbor's field for each day the mule worked in her field, how she repaid in full the $110 advanced her during the year and stored plenty of feed and foodstuff to last her through the Winter and Spring.

"You must know I'm happy," she said, "and I'm so glad that it is a cup they are giving me. Not that I deserve it more than others, but because my children will always have something with which to remember their mother."

"Well Lawrence," he was asked, "do you think your mother is one of Alabama's greatest women too?"

"Huh," he replied, "she's the greatest woman in the world."

P. M. Pitts Urges The Trade-In-Clanton Idea

Editor, Chilton County News.

Dear Editor:

Allow me to congratulate you upon your editorial today entitled. "It Pays To Trade In Clanton."

"The citizens of Clanton and the surrounding trade territory are due much consideration to the progressiveness particularily in recent years to some of our leading local merchants. Some one has said that a good show window is an excellent silent salesman for the business man. Many of our leading places of business have greatly improved their show windows and are to be congratulated upon the apparent interest they have manifested in their business.

"We have one of the best and most progressive towns in the State of Alabama and I am convinced that merchandise can be purchased here as cheaply as anywhere, including the largest cities. Pardon me for personal illustration; last year during the summer while I was in Montgomery on legal business I observed in an attractive show window of a shoe store, a pair of shoes that attracted my eye. I walked in, was fitted with this well known brand of shoes for which I paid five dollars. Two or three days later I observed the same shoe in the window of one of our local merchants and took the trouble to see that it was of the same brand and stock number and asked the proprietor of this store his price on this particular shoe. Much to my surprise and disgust he was selling this shoe for one dollar per pair less than I had paid in the shoe store in Montgomery. Not only did I lose one dollar, but I lost money to a stranger and did not help my fellow townsmen. At this time personally I resolve in the future when making similar purchases to always see if I can be suited by local merchants instead of going elsewhere.

"One of the best ways to build up our own town and our community is to trade at home, by doing this you will not only help and assist your neighbor in a business way; but in many instances will save money."

Yours truly,

PERCY M. PITTS.

Clanton Boy Scouts To Reorganize Here Soon

A meeting for the purpose of reorganizing the Scout work in Clanton will be held at 7:30 o'clock on March first, at the Baptist church.

In the past several months the Troop has been inactive but as the Summer draws near we will need something to fill our spare time. A question that is often asked is "What is a Boy Scout and what is the nature of one." I am going to try to answer this by a series of writings in your local paper.

A Scout is one who finds fun in hiking through the woods. He can tell north from south by moss on trees and east from west by shadows. He can talk to another Scout across a river by signaling. He knows most of the trees, birds, and animals in his locality. He knows poisonuous and non-poisonuous snakes. If he should become lost from camp in a forest he could find his way out by the guidance of the star. A Scout never becomes lost but sometimes the camp gets lost and he has trouble finding it.

If by chance the matches are left at home in a chair he just laughs and proceeds to make a fire Indian Fashion (rubbing two sticks together). When a fire is built he cooks his own meal so as not to get sick. He doesn't use a pan to cook bread, he uses a stick. Ask a true Scout.

A Scout keeps himself physically fit. He avoids the poison of alcohol and tobacco. He also thinks ahead what he would do in case of accident, fire, wrecks, tornadoes or in case of a person drowning. He knows first aid from the ground up. Scouting is a fine training for a boy between the ages of 12 and 18 years of age.

If you happen to be of age, be on hand March first. Watch your local paper next week.

—John Thomas Marlar, Scout Reporter.

WHAT NEGROES ARE DOING

By Benjamin Anderson

Teacher of Vocational Agriculture

Chilton County Training School

P.-T. A. Holds Annual Session

The Annual P.-T. A meeting which is a joint meeting of all local P.- T. A.'s in the County was held at the County Training School last Friday, February 22. All local organizations were well represented and made good reports.

he P.-T. A. had as its guest speaker Mrs. J. H. Anderson, of Birmingham, President of the State Congress of Parents and Teachers. In a very simple manner Mrs. Anderson addressed the association giving everybody some new ideas and suggestions that can be made practicable in the future. For the position she holds, Mrs. Anderson is a very capable woman, and her interest in the work is deep-seated as was manifested in her address.

Another interesting feature of the program was a very practical demonstration by the Vocational boys on repairing leaky tubs, harrows, single stocks and building steps at home.

There was also a very good exhibit of the work being done in the adult school in Clanton, where Mrs. Jackson and Mrs. Gordon are teachers. The exhibit itself, was evidence of the good work being done by our people who are grasping the opportunity which the school offers.

Others participating on the program were our County Superintendent, Mr. Little, the attendant officer, Miss Cobern, and the principal of the County Training School who gave an interesting history of the works of the great philanthropist, the late Julius Rosenwald, who gave so liberally of his immense wealth for the promotion of Negro education in the South.

We must congratulate our President, Mrs. Leila C. Woods for her untiring efforts in the field and for bringing to us such a splendid program. The program was interesting throughout and all reports including financial reports were very good.

IN MEMORY OF MRS. M. A. CLARK

On February 10, 1935, the death angel visited the home of our dear mother and grandmother and bore her spirit away to its heavenly home. All was done for her that loving hands could do, but God in his wisdom saw fit to call her home. She lived as she died, a christian and we know that our loss is heaven's gain, and may God help each of us to live to meet her again some day. We miss her but in His keeping she is not dead but sleeping.

She was born in Coosa County May 10, 1853. She was a faithful member of the Chestnut Creek Baptist church. She is survived by three sons, J. D. and J. L. Patterson of Phoenix City; W. T. Patterson of Cooper; one daughter, Mrs. I. S. Vinson of Cooper; one sister, Mrs. Ellen Watts of Clanton; two brothers, Steve Hilyer of Clanton and Bill Hilyer of Coosa County.

She was laid to rest February 11 in Chestnut Creek cemetery. The Rev. Willie Jones officiated and Spigener in charge.

Clanton Boy Completes Coyne Electrical Course

James Robert (Gabby) Tiffin, graduate of the Chilton County High School and son of J. B. Tiffin, of the Tiffin-Klinner Furniture Company, has recently completed a course practical electrical engineering at the Coyne Electrical and Radio School in Chicago.

Young Tiffin, who has been a student at the school for several months, recently completed the prescribed course in radio, television, sound and refrigeration. He will be connected with the Tiffin-Klinner Furniture Company, where it is believed that his expert knowledge in this field will be highly valuable in rendering a greater service to the patrons of the store.

Graduating from the Chilton County High School in the 1934 Class, Tiffin left for Chicago several months ago and since that time has been engaged in his studies. A letter from the Coyne Electrical And Radio School stated that young Tiffin was one of the most outstanding students of the year, declaring that his instructors feel sure that he will accomplish much in this field.

226 Babies In Chilton Co. Have Registered

Montgomery—At least 226 babies in Chilton County will be sure of their "first citizenship papers" since that many baby census cards already have been returned to the State Board of Health Montgomery in connection with the "Register Your Baby" campaign.

In 1933 there were 628 births recorded from Chilton County, according to Dr. J. N. Baker, State Health Officer. The 1933 birth registration is used as a basis for estimating the number of cards that may be returned from any county, Dr. Baker pointed out.

Parents in Chilton County can materially assist the Board of Health, and the two other cooperating agencies, the Bureau of the Census and the Alabama Relief Administration, and at the same time assure their baby of proper birth registration by filling out and returning a baby census card. The cards do not require postage. They are being checked with records in the Vital Statistics Bureau of the State Board of Health.

Motorists Urged To Try New Gulf Oil

The Gulf Refining Company today announced that its super-refined motor oil, known as Gulfpride, is now being made from 100 per cent Pure Pennsylvania crude oil. In addition, Gulfpride will continue to be made by the exclusive Alchlor Process which has contributed so definitely to the exceptional quality of this lubricant.

In a special statement, H. P. Hobart, Gulf's General Manager of Lubricating Sales, said: "Super Refined by the exclusive Alchlor Process, Gulfpride, we believe, has been for several years the outstanding motor oil on the market. It has given better mileage in test after test. It surpasses every specification of the Army and Navy. It has been in great demand not only by critical motorists but by aviators and boat owners as well. Now, by making Gulfpride from 100 per cent Pure Pennsylvania crude oil, we have taken a further step forward and have made the 'world's finest motor oil' even better.

"Incidentally, some automotive engineers liken the results of the Alchlor Process to inspection of a barrel of apples. Assume that when the apples are gathered, only those apparently good are packed in the barrel. This original sorting corresponds to the usual refining methods. Then someone who is super-critical inspects every apple in the barrel minutely and discards every apple which is blemished or otherwise not perfectly formed. The result is a remaining lot of apples that are as perfect as possible. So, with the regularly refined oil, the Alchlor Process inspects each hydrocarbon molecule and discards every one which is not perfectly formed and which is not thoroughly saturated chemically. The result is an oil which is as homogeneous and as perfect as is possible to have lubricating oil. Add to all this 'Pennsylvania Quality' and you have, with present known methods, what may rightfully be called the 'ultimate'."

W. L. Sims, recently appointed distributor for this territory, urges the motoring public to try this super refined oil.

MY PERSONAL COLUMN

Billy Smith

Of course you have been reading accounts in the daily newspapers of the State about Mrs. Irene Davis of near Greenville and her heroic fight against want and poverty. She, with her three fine children, won and her work shall go down in history. It makes us feel a keen pride to learn that this same Mrs. Davis has in her that strong determination to work and overcome obstacles as is seen in the people of Chilton County. Mrs. Davis was born in Chilton County, near Maplesville and we are proud of her. See story and pictures elsewhere in the News this week.

This column's prediction a few weeks go that a modern brick structure would occupy the lot now covered with the old Mullins & Moore building is soon to be a reality. Yes, frankly, we like everyone else, are proud to see the boards and nails pulled loose on the Mullins corner making way for progress.

Clanton will soon have the opportunity to welcome a new business concern to its midst. Another hardware store is scheduled to open in the Walker Building, formerly occupied by B. L. Jones.

The seed dealers are being rushed these days and we are glad to see it. It means that out stalwart progressive farmers are headed for another year, another opportunity, another crop, and I'm wishing you all the best of luck.

Clanton has a new family and take it from us, we say "Welcome, Mr. and Mrs. Neighbors." This greeting goes to Mr. and Mrs. R. O. Neighbors and family who are now residing on Sixth Street in the home formerly occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Matt Ware. Mr. Neighbors is the former sheriff of Coosa County, and a good one he was.

Is business good or is business good? Our likable City Clerk Claudie Pipes says it is good. We uncovered the fact the other day that Mr. Pipes has issued 302 city businesss licenses from January 1, to February 15th this year. This is compared with last year when 304 licenses were issued by the town from January 1st to October 1st. Quite a difference we say. And you should get Claudie to tell you something about the way people are paying up paving assessments to the town. Yes, we are getting along fine.

We recently found ourselves somewhat taken back, or maybe it is because we are a bit old fashioned, so to speak and have not kept up on our reading. Anyway, we were confronted with the information that you should no longer call them "tramps" or "hoboes." No sir, those rapidly diminishing personages making up the roving population of this country have been elevated and are now correctly called "transients." So watch your tongue in the future. Remember it is Transients and not hoboes.

We are indeed happy to learn of the improvement of our friend Hamp Draper of Wetumpka who has been at death's door for several days, a victim of pneumonia.

Speaking of watching your tongue. I am indebted to Miss Lucille Sherwood for this thought which I quote, "Watch Your Tongue. It Is In A Wet Place and May Slip." What a splendid thought for one to keep in mind at all times.

Heartiest congratulations to Miss Dewey Branch, efficient assistant to Dr. N. S. Johnson. We recently learned that she has in the past ten years attended one thousand and fifteen babies at birth. Included in this number were twelve sets of twins. And we understand all in Chilton County. We must say this is some record for Miss Branch and for this county.

When Mr. H. F. Downs assumes his duties as Acting Postmaster at Clanton tomorrow, succeeding "yours truly" he will have ready for sale some of the new baby government savings bonds which have just made their appearance on the market. They are in denominations of $25, $50, $100 and $500, maturing at the end of ten years.

Members of the Clanton Pilot club met Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Reid Mullins, where they enjoyed a George Washington birthday observance. The living room was decorated in colors that are typical reminders of historical events which have made this patriot the father of this nation.

Despite the inclemency of the weather the attendance of the club was exceptionally good. Following the serving of dinner general discussions of current topics held the interest of the members.

Senior English Student Interviews Mrs. Roberts

(An English Project at C. C. H. S.)

When told I had to get an interview with some successful woman, I immediately thought of Mrs. Barney Roberts. She is in my opinion, one of the most successful women in town—indeed, of my acquaintance.

She was born Elna Sartor, in Clanton, Ala., on July 22,1895. She was married rather early, at 19, to Barney Roberts. I asked her if she approved of early marrages, and she replied that she did, in nearly every instance, although "every rule needs an exception in order to prove it." She added that she approved of all short engagements.

"Did you have an early desire for a musical career, Mrs. Roberts?"

"Yes, I have had one ever since I can remember. Although I loved music, I wanted to teach rather than do concert work. Perhaps it's just as well," she laughed. "My hands are much too small for concert, but I would like for one of my children to have such a career."

"So you desire a muscial career for your children?"

"Oh, yes, indeed. Very much."

I glanced at the timing instrument on the piano, used for beginners, and, pointing to it laughingly, asked, "Had you rather teach older pupils than very young children?"

"Not particularly. It depends more on the pupil himself than the age. I have a special preparation for teaching beginners."

"What do you want most, Mrs. Roberts?"

"I aspire to be a successful teacher, and then of course I have boundless ambitions for my daughters. My highest ambition?" Catching an addition to the question I murmured. She chuckled delightedly, "I am afraid its rather ridiculous."

"Never mind. Most of our ambitions are."

"Well, even taking into consideration the fact that I can't carry a tune, I've always wanted to sing."

My next question was whether she liked operas, movies, and entertainments of that sort, and which she preferred.

"Yes, indeed," was the instant reply. "I am very fond of them. Of course there is more real beauty and art in the opera, but equally, of course, in a town of this size. I have very few opportunities to hear them. Movies are always entertaining, and some of them are truly beautiful works of art. Il Irovatore and Lohengrin are my favorite operas, and Fredric March and Norma Shearer are my favorite movie stars."

My next question were on books, literature of all kinds, authors, etc. I found in the course of the conversation that she much prefers classics to modern literature, and that Scott and Browning are her favorite writers. She reads the newspapers, although when questioned as to her opinion of the famous Hauptmann tiral, she admitted that she had not read enough of the details to advance on opinion about the outcome.

"Mrs. Roberts," I asked, a little fearfully, I'll admit, what do you think of 'this younger generation' we are always hearing so much about? Do you think modern youth is degenerate?"

"No, my dear, I do not," she said kindly. I sighed in relief and she smiled. "I think it is a great mistake to fill a young person's ears with moans and groans about 'modern young people are certainly going to the dogs' and, 'what is this younger generation coming to.' Times are different, and therefore young people are different, too, but not necessarily bad. I do not approve of public dances, however."

"Do you like to travel?" I asked

"Yes, indeed, though I've never been abroad, or anything like that. I think my most interesting trip, or rather visit, was the time I spent studying at the Conservatory in Cincinnati, and seeing sights, too."

When questioned as to clothes she replied decidedly that she thought modern styles were much more sensible and comfortable than the old-fashioned ones. "not to mention being less expensive," she added humorously. "I like pastel shades better, though I like pretty clothes in almost any shade."

My next Question, concerning modern jazz, she answered honestly. She likes jazz in moderation, but she does think it shows a lowering of the standards of art and beauty, and a rather degenerate taste. So few people nowadays can appreciate classical music at all. Even semi-classical. They listen to nothing but jazz and are bored by truly beautiful art."

The next few questions were miscellaneous. She likes formal entertainment semi-color She is a Democrat and a Roosevelt supporter. Is decidedly not a fatalist, enjoys watching baseball games, and hopes she is not a coward, although she is dubious about certain circumstances. She laughingly admitted that she was afraid of bugs in any form.

"Do you like mythology?"

"Yes. Grecian, especially, and I prefer prose to poetry.

"What types of singing do you prefer?"

"A man's tenor voice, and my favorite musical instrument is a piano."

She told me that she preferred small town life to any other kind. "I would hate to live in the country," she said whimsically. She approves of make-up in moderation, and prefers coty's perfume.

"Do you think doctors should use liquor and dope as medicine?"

"Only in case of extreme necessity. I am decidedly for prohibition!"

I closed my notebook and arose to go. Mrs. Roberts arose also.

"If I were a real celebrity you were interviewing," she laughed, "I should probably ask you to tea. As it is, I don't serve afternoon tea and I've a pupil coming."

"Thank you, anyway," I replied.

"You are quite welcome," she answered, and closed the door.

VIOLATORS OF LAW RECEIVE BIG SENTENCES

Seventeen Are Sent To The Penitentiary From Judge Glover's Court Here

Seventeen were sentenced to serve terms in the State penal institutions here last week during criminal week of the Spring Term of Circuit Court. Judge Arthur Glover, who is presiding in this county for the first time since his election last November, meted heavy punishment to many, especially to liquor violations.

Four convicted of manufacturing whiskey were given sentences of two to four years, instead of the usual term of one year and one day to 18 months. Expressing the belief that the people must want the law enforced since they voted for its retention in last week's election, Judge Glover said that punishment will be meted in the degree of severity which seems necessary for the law's enforcement.

Those sentenced to prison are:

Cecil Willis, v.p.l., 81 days; Gilbert Jackson, carrying a concealed pistol, 106 days; Lindsley Cleckler, v.p.l., 80 days for fine and cost and five months additional punishment; Aaron Scott, petty larceny, 123 days; Curtis Killingsworth, petty larceny, 132 days.

Alton Wallace, transporting whiskey. 96 days; Arlie Taunton, v.p.l., 81 days; Will Kennedy, v.p.l, 84 days and six months additional punishment; William Darby, manufacturing whiskey and

Erection Of City Hall To Begin

200 TO GET WORK IN LOCAL PROJECTS

Contractor Says Work To Begin Tuesday If Possible

Mayor C. Fenn Jones received information from Algernon P. Blair, contractor for the erection of Clanton's new city hall, that he expects to begin work next Tuesday, March 12.

The commencement of this project will place three of four construction jobs in Chilton County underway. Work was begun several days ago on the installation of a $30,000 waterworks system at Thorsby. Already more than fifty men are engaged in preparations for the paving of an approximate two miles addition on the Clanton-Selma Highway.

It is expected that these jobs will give employment to approximately 200 men during the next several months and although no definite information been received regarding when work will be begun on the erection of a new postoffice building here, it is believed that it will get underway in the early spring.

The city hall will be a two-story brick builling, housing the city offices, a library, a city jail, an auditorium, and storage room for the fire equipment.

Located on the vacant lot opposite the court house, next to Dr. Arthur Johnson's office, this building will be an outstanding addition to Clanton.

LIQUOR LAW VIOLATORS GIVEN WARNING BY SHERIFF HARDY

City Also Will Put Cap On Violators Of The Prohibition Law, Says Mayor Jones; Chilton Dry In Recent Election

Sheriff J. R. Hardy issued warning this week to all violators of the prohibition laws that these violations must cease, or every effort will be made to land them in jail. "The people have spoken. It seems to be their wish that this law remain on the statute books and it shall be my policy to bend every effort towards its enforcement," he declared.

After court is adjourned this week Sheriff Hardy said that he is going to comb the county for the capture of violators of the prohibition laws. Declaring that he has information of several places where liquor is being sold he said that it is his aim to raid these places just as fast as he can get around to them.

Mayor C. Fenn Jones said that it shall be the policy of the town to enforce all laws, not excluding the prohibition law, however, he said that he does not expect to have the town's officers spend their entire time enforcing this law, to the detriment of the enforcement of all other laws.

"I believe that the prohibition laws should be treated just as any other law on the statute books. They should all be enforced to the best of the ability of the enforcement departments. The prohibition laws should be enforced, so should all other laws. That shall be my attitude," he said.

Chilton County voted dry in the election last Tuesday by a vote of almost three to one. Only four boxes gave repeal majorities. These were: Beat 1. Beat 2-box 2, Beat 13, and the Absentee box. The total vote in the county was 1,587 against modification—644 for modification; 1,580 against and 646 for light wines and beers; and 1,592 for, and 626 for the legalization of hard liquors.

Your County Officials

A Brief History of Newly Elected Officers

T. L. McKee, Tax Collector

Chilton County's newly-elected tax collector is one of the section's best-known men. For many years, Tom McKee has taken an active interest in county governmental affairs. Today he is termed by some "the greatest vote getter" in the Democratic Party in this county.

Born and reared in Chilton County he has always kept his citizenship here, although he lived away from Chilton for several years at a time in the pursuit of his business. The youngest of 11 children of Mr. and Mrs. John G. McKee, T. L. spent his boyhood on a farm in the Macedonia community.

His early education was gleaned in the county's public schools, often he had to walk from one and one-half to four miles to the little one-teacher schools. Later he attended Troy Normal for one year before launching into a career of teaching.

During his 52 years, he has been farmer, teacher, saw mill operator, student traveling salesman, merchant, and a close observer of humanity. He entered the mercantile business during the construction of Mitchell Dam, after having spent nine years of his life teaching in the public schools of Chilton, Coosa, and Shelby counties. Leaving Mitchell Dam, he also operated stores at Cherokee Bluff, Wetumpka and Hot Springs, Ark.

Ill health caused him to remove West for a time, living in Florence, Ariz. for two years, and in Arlington, Tex. for one year. While there he was representative of a Memphis manufacturing concern.

Returning to Chilton County about three years ago, he immediately interested himself in the election of a Democratic Ticket here. Many political observers in the county are of the opinion that he carried a greater influence for the entire Democratic ticket in the recent election than any other candidate.

He was married in 1905 to Miss Zora Marcus, who, too, is a native of this county. They have six children, three boys and three girls.

Although he has always been active in political campaigns, this is his time to seek office for himself, and he declares that his keenest ambitions are to render a really worthwhile service to those who made it possible for him to be named their tax collector.

COUNTY AND STATE JOIN TO PROMOTE HEALTH PROGRAM

Full-Time Office With Physician, Nurse And Secretary To Place County Among Foremost In Health Over Alabama

Members of the County Commissioners Court voted unanimously in regular session Monday afternoon to appropriate $2.000 as the county's contribution to the maintenance of an all-time health unit here. Actual cost of maintaining the unit will amount to $5,500 per year, it is understood. The County Board of Education recently voted to appropriate $500 to this cause, and the remaining $3,000 will be supplied by the State Health Department.

Motion for the appropriation was made by Commissioner J. C. Atchison and was seconded by Commissioner Howard Oden. The vote was unanimous.

Supt. Luther E. Little, Dr. V. J. Gragg, and Dr. C. O. Lawrence, who have been working for sometime to secure an all-time health unit for this county, appeared before the court Monday morning, outlining the duties of the unit and the benefits that may be derived. Superintendent Little cited figures to show that more than $13,000 worth of health work has been performed in the county during recent months through the cooperation of the State Health Department and the Alabama Relief Administration. which he declared is a fair example of the regular routine duties of the organization.

Dr. J. B. Williams, chiropractor, made a lengthy attack on the proposition declaring that in his opinion that more harm than good is done by health unit

A compromised verdict between the State's Solicitor Winston Huddleston and Defense Attorney Lawrence F Gerald last Wednesday meted a punishment of $150 fine and 125 days in jail to Joe Gray, wealth farmer of Clanton, for the slaying several months ago of Harvey Chandler, a reputedly close friend and associate.

Chandler, who was a former mayor of Clanton and at one time a prominent business man, was shot in his room at the old Thornton Hotel, where he and Gray allegedly were engaged in a drinking party. John Foshee Opens Law Offices In Centerville

John Foshee, popular young lawyer who for the past two years has been associated with the Clanton law firm of Reynolds & Reynolds, has removed to Centerville, where he will practice his profession.

Coming to Clanton from his native Maplesville about two years ago, young Foshee took an active interest in the recent political campaign, contributing perhaps as much as any other man to the overwhelming victory of the Democratic Party in Chilton County.

In this campaign and in many other ways he demonstrated the fact that he is outstandingly capable, and will likely accomplish much in his profession. The recent death of Judge Fuller left a vacancy at the Centerville bar, and Mr Foshee expressed the belief that it will be possible for him to gain a foothold in the practice of law in that city more quickly than in Clanton, where the legal profession is really crowded.

Consistent Gains

Now that President Roosevelt has asked Congress to extend the National Industrial Recovery Act for 2 years, a consideration of the progress made by American business since June 16, 1933, when the original measure was approved would seem to be in order. How have the new controls and co-operations provided by NRA codes aided trade and industry in the steady return to better times? In the answers to these questions will be found the justification for continuing the Recovery Administration.

Eptomizing some of the gains under NRA the Cleveland Plain Dealer takes issue with the stand of the pessimistic Jeremiahs, who have been arguing that progress made has been in spite of NRA rather than with its cooperation.

The Plain Dealer, calling attention to the fact that the first 342 industrial corporations to report on their 1934 operation tell of a 29 per cent increase in earnings goes on to say that this "good news pokes another large hole in a favorite wail of the anti-new dealers, namely, that NRA is taking all the profits out of business.

"The 1933 income-tax returns," the Plain Dealer continues, "weakened that argument of the Jeremiahs. They showed that 1933, although far from being a business year to be hilarious about, registered substantial gains over 1932. NRA was in effect for approximately half of 1933. It prevailed for all of 1934, which now shows this very notable advance over 1933.

"It is true that the good showing of the industrial corporations for 1934 is not matched by the records of the utilities and the railroads. It may also be argued that if it had not been for increase in wages and materials attributable to NRA, the earnings of some of the industrial corporations would have been larger, or at least their officers think they would have been.

"Yet that assumption can hardly be proved. For it is reasonable to suppose that the impetus which NRA gave to pay rolls caused a considerable part of the added business which produced that 29 per cent gain in earnings. In other words the spiral was turning upward. There is plenty of additional evidence to show it. Busy retail business and an auto production which is surpassing all expectations, all testify to the consistent gain. There is still a long way to go. But every day makes sadder those prophets of gloom who are so sure the New Deal is all wet."

Social Security Through Thrift

Plans are now underway for the furtherance of social security. The aged, the dependent, the sick and other unfortunates are to be assured of a subsistence livelihood through governmental aid.

It is interesting to compare this new program with the work of an institution which has existed ever since the country began—life insurance. Life insurance offers means whereby anyone, when earning capacity is at its peak, may put away a little money periodically and get it back when he is old and his earning capacity has dwindled or disappeared.

Millions of Americans have taken advantage of life insurance to assure for themselves the safeguards that the social security program is designed to create. And these millions did so without the stigma of charity or relief—they have achieved independence and security through their own thrift and wisdom and foresight. They have put aside dollars that were earned with comparative ease during their younger days, to provide for the time when dollars would be harder to get.

This is not an argument against governmental aid for the unfortunate and the destitute. But it is a fact that almost every citizen has had a chance to assure his own security—and that those who did so provide fine examples of the American characteristic of thrift and independence that made this country great.

America, The Country Of Inconsistencies

An English visitor not long ago made a three or four weeks' trip across the United States, and the things he saw impressed him so deeply that he had to retire to his study at once and write a book.

In this book, according to advance reports, he expressed his utter amazement at the contradictions he found in American life. Accustomed to the staid and orderly conditions of England, he was bewildered and a little appalled by what he saw over here.

These things being so, his only possible recourse was to turn author and speak his mind about things.

It is impossible not to feel a little sympathy for him, because if there ever was a country which it is is impossible to understand at a glance it is this America of ours.

Some of us, indeed, have lived in it all our lives and still don't understand it. It is, all in all, about as amazing a land of contrasts and contradictions as human beings ever made.

It is a land which professionalizes college atheletes and makes heroes out of prize fighters and baseball players; it is also a land which produces scientists like Millikan and Compton and casts a 200-inch telescope to look at stars that man never saw before.

It is the land where the dollar is worshipped, but it is also the land which is willing to go seven or eight billion dollars in the hole in an effort to break its way out of a trade depression.

It is the land of cheap movies, cheaper radio, and "society leaders" who endorse tooth paste for pay—and it is also the land that produces persons like Jane Adams and gives men like Leopold Stokowski free rein to create beauty.

It puts a Huey Long in its Senate, and then counterbalances him with a George W. Norris. It is the land of the Lindbergh kidnaping, but it is also the land which produced Lindbergh himself.

It is world-famous as a land of boasters, but for years it has paid good money to foreign authors and lecturers to tell it what is wrong with it.

It is the hard-hearted land of lynchings, and it is the generous land which will send millions of dollars to Japanese earthquake victims. It maintains a gigantic navy and spends millions on aircraft, but is is the only nation brave enough to expose the chicanery of munitions manufacturers.

You could go on like that for an hour. How, indeed, is any foreigner to understand such a people

A compound of wisdom and foolishness, of braggidocio and humility, of strength and weakness—we can't understand ourselves.

We can only sense that we are a strange people of infinite possibilities, who are building a society unlike any other on earth . . . and our saving grace is the fact that we have the courage and the idealism to insist that it shall also be better than any other.

Fifty Years Of Success

We believe that every Southern man takes pride in any outstanding achievement of a Southern industry, such as the F. S. Royster Guano Company of Norfolk, Virginia, which this year is celebrating its Fiftieth Anniversary.

The Royster Company was started at Tarboro, Edgecombe County, North Carolina, by Mr. F. S. Royster in 1885, and for ten years all the fertilizers manufactured by the Company were made at Tarboro. At this time the demand for Royster goods had increased so rapidly that it became necessary to build a much larger plant. Norfolk being the nearest port, it was only natural that the Virginia city should be selected as the sight of the new plant. This, however, was only the beginning of Royster growth, for so rapidly did the demand for Royster Fertilizers spread that factories were soon built throughout the South—in South Carolina Georgia, Alabama and Mississippi in addition to those in Virginia and North Carolina. And then further demand required modern plants at Baltimore, Maryland, and as far west as Toledo, Ohio.

The success of the Royster Company has been phenomenal; and we wish to extend our congratulations to the Company, one of the South's outstanding institutions in whose success the entire South should take great pride. Among the best things we can say is that it is one of the few large concerns which has never changed hands and is now owned and operated by the same people who started the business fifty years ago. This is most unusual, and is responsible, we are sure, for the outstanding reputation of this Company.

One day I received a call to report in a distant city at once. It was only a few minutes until the train was due and on thinking the matter over I decided that I could not make the train. My wife assured me that I could. Said she, "You leave the packing of your grip to me and you get yourself ready.' When my wife was a corpse I did not know what to do and a devoted friend came to me saying, "Doctor, just leave everything to me, and I will take care of everything for you." He did this in a most beautiful way. Many a time we are face to face with problems when we are helpless. We do not know what to do and how to plan. How blessed it is to have our Father in heaven to say, "Leave all that to me." There is much in life that we can do for ourselves, but sometimes we are not able to advance and then it is that God steps in and says, "Leave all that to me." Blessed is the man who learns to leave many things to God.

I was strolling through the woods on a hot summer afternoon and came to a clear cool spring as it flowed from beneath the roots of a poplar tree. The pool of water that was at the base of the hill was as still and as clear as the eyes of a babe after sleep. There were no sounds other than a faint gurgle ever now and then. I sat there and watched that little rill as it wound its way over the pebbles and through the rubbish, and this thought came to me "Little stream, you have heard the call of the ocean and now I see that you are answering that call. You have started on your way in answer to the call of the deep." That is the same call that echoes in my bosom, in your bosom, I hear the voice of the deeps of love calling to me. I hear the voices of the universe, with its earning, its service, its sorrows, its death, its everlasting life, calling. In childhood we hear that call and the deep of our being answers to the deep of God and we start out on our everlasting journey. It is the voice of the deep calling, "Old Black Joe," and if is the voice of the deep calling for you and me.

I was sitting on the river bank and saw a cow that came up to the water's edge wanting to cross over to the other side. She walked up and down on the river bank but never ventured to cross. While sitting there I saw a crow in the upper air and he, too, came to the river bank, but he did not pause on his wings, but flew over to the other side. It is a fact that the crow and the eagle never worries over crossing swollen streams. They are made to soar in the upper air. In like manner, the higher we live above the things of this world, the less trouble they will give us. Like the cow, too many of us live down where the things of this world hinder and trouble us.

I went to a church member in search of funds for the kingdom of God. This man told me that he could not pay because he has nothing do for for a num- of months. He had lost his job and was numbered with the idle. To be sure he would pay if he just had a job. A few weeks late I went to this same man and asked that he teach a Sunday School class. His answer was that he did not have the time to study his lesson. He ws so busy all the time that it was just out of the question for him to prepare a lesson. What strange mortals some folks are. When they are asked to give they are idle and can make nothing to give, and then when they are asked to do something, they are too busy for service. Just to be plain I think that some folks purely lie to God many times.

I saw an old house in ruins. Once it had been a show spot in the community, but now it was a gathering place of dust, cobwebs, briars and thorns. No one had dug out the foundation. No one had pulled down the walls but there it was, a dilapidated old building. This old house had not been abused, but it had been neglected. To damage your own soul, to damage the soul of your children, to damage the life of your community, you do not have to dig out foundations, all you have to do is just to neglect. Many a child grows up to be a nothing and all because they have been neglected. Dust and cobwebs, briars and thorns gather where there is neglect.

ERDIS ATKINSON TO REPRESENT JEMISON AT DEMONSTRATION

The Jemison F. F. A. has selected Erdis Atkinson to represent the Jemison school in the Chilean Nitrate of Soda Demonstration. Erdis was selected after a very careful survey of a number of locations for the demonstration was made.

The demonstration comprises 2½ acres of corn, 2 acres fertilized with 200 pounds of Chilean Nitrate each, and one-half acre not fertilized. The Chilean Nitrate of Soda Company furnishes the fertilizer free of charge.

This demonstration is on the side of a road where the passing public may observe the effects of the nitrate of soda.

Are You Undecided?

PERHAPS you and your family have given serious thought to having a telephone in your home, but are not quite sure you really need it.

It is a matter which concerns everyone in the family. Think how much a telephone would help Mother with her shopping and household duties, and how Father would find it handy in many ways. The young folks too, would use it frequently in arranging social activities with their friends.

In addition, a telephone assures you prompt assistance in emergencies and quick personal touch with friends and relatives both in ahd out-of-town.

When you sum up the many advantages of telephone service, compared with the small cost of only a few cents a day, you will probably decide it really doesn't pay to try to do without it.

Order your telephone today. Your friends will be glad to know you have one and every member of your family will enjoy it. Just call the telephone business office.

IN MEMORY

On February 6, the death angel visited our home and took away our precious wife and mother. She leaves to mourn her going a husband, Grier Culver, and three children, and six step-chidren, a mother and two brothers and two sisters, and a host of relatives and friends.

Mother, we know thou art through with toil and care. She bore her suffering without fear, for she knew when God called her she was ready to go. She was 58 years and 9 months old. She was very kind and tender. She was very pure and good and to know her was to love her, but we hope to meet her in a better world above. She was a member of the Primitive Baptist church for many years.

She was laid to rest at Chestnut Creek church. Funeral services were conducted by Elder Kelley and Tucker Spigener was in charge.

We wish to thank our many friends and neighbors for their kindness shown us during our grief and sorrow.

—Her daughter, Mrs. Fonzie Williams

TOMMY TIFFIN TO LOCATE IN GADSDEN TO PURSUE WORK

Tommy Tiffin, son of J. B. Tiffin, of the Tiffin-Klinner Furniture Company and popular young man of Clanton, has recently completed a course in electrical and radio engineering at the RCA Radio School in Chicago.

He returned to Clanton from the Illinois school little more than a week ago and announced that he expects to assume a position with the Broadhead-Klinner Furniture Company in Gadsden. He and his wife will remove to Gadsden at an early date, it is understood.

While a student at the RCA school young Tiffin was an outstanding student and was graduated with honors. After completing his work at the school for several weeks he continued his studies at the Hyde Park Radio Labortories, and is now equipped to do expert radio repairing and installation.

James (Gaggy) Tiffin, a brother, recently completed a similar course at the Coyne Electrical School in Chicago but he rematriculated to study television, and will remain in Chicago for several weeks.

CHICOHI CHATTER

If I were to say that the original was a visitor at this institution af learning last Friday, would I be dubbed a puss-in-Boots of the story book lays fibber? Three-fourths likely. Well, all I have to say is if it wasn't Missus Kitty herself. Ella Ruth Walton proved a reliable pseudo-tabby.

Several Biology aspirants gave a clever skit illustrating the uselessness and harmfulness in killing the little birdies, who killed cock-robin, and all that, y' know. It seemed apparent to all listeners that they were trying puss-in-Boots for the murder of the fowla

Before I wander further let me remind you that I have at last proven that Sam Johnson is not the only one, true to life, that is "Always In Trouble." This is to be proven Friday night, March 8, on our ancestral stage in a play bearing this woe-inspiring, all enticing title, "Always In Trouble." This play is being sponsored by the Senior Class. Several of the members of this cast (oh, I won't go into that) class are included in the cast. Song hits and latest dances—slides will be introduced between acts. That famous Venable-Pitts pair in a new tap and song number. Watch the posters downtown for further info. Sam, theonly difference in your predicament and the heroes and sheroines of this farce is that they finally solved their problem.

Here's something else you ought to know. So I just read on—it may put you to sleep, if nothing else. There's big doins down thisaway. The privileged characters (sarcasem) have accomplished things in the line of class pictures, colors, motto and flower and stuff. Their good judgement and eye for beauty will be proven or not by the following facts which I myself will write as my next, but not my last words, of wisdom (?)

Motto—Strive for Character, Not For Fame.
Colors—Blue and Silver.
Flower—Larkspur.

Oh yes, pardonnez-moi. The pictuahs, deah, deah. Last Monday Mrs. Yeargar of Yeargar Studio in Montevallo was in our school in the interest of taking individual pictures of the Seniors.

The Sr. II's Search for Beauty will begin on March 11th and run until March 22, the night of the annual Junior play..

It's being told around that our girl's basketball team, encouraged by their perfect record of no games in the red, intends to enter the basketball tournament to be held at an early date.

VERMONT SCHOOL NEWS

The concert last Saturday presented by our P.-T. A. was declared an overwhelming success. The gross receipts from the door totaled $37.45. The auditorium was filled to capacity. There being a large number from each of the following places: Clanton, Maplesville, Selma, Prattville, Isabella, Stanton.

Attendance for the fifth month was 87.5 per cent We trust that a better mark will be made during this sixth month.

Basketball season is drawing to a close. We are expecting to play only two more schools, Maplesville and Stanton.

Miss Manning spent the week end with her parents at Isabella.

Our Parent-Teacher meeting will be held at the school building tonight (Thursday) March 7 We are anticipating a large number present. Mrs. Johnson is planning to present a program centering around the "Life in Holland," by the third and fourth grades.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Cagle from Mitchell Dam and Mrs. Gene Wyatt from Clanton were among those present at the entertainment last Saturday night

The Jr. Three English Class presented a debate at chapel period last Thursday. The subject involved was: Resolved that the Radio is a greater asset to modern needs than the telephone. Many very clever and amusing illustrations and arguments were given by both sides. Robert Craswick, Frances Kendrick and Madge Williams upheld the affirmative, while R. P. Kendrick Lizzie aMe Lewis and Adell Scott supported the negative. The former were adjudged the winners. Judges rendered their decision on a four-part score namely:

a. Style of presentation; b. position on the floor; c. selection and arrangement of subject matter, d. manner of expression.

We were glad to see our friends and former patrons, Mr. and Mrs. M. L Williams and family, who were present at our program last Saturday night. They now live in the Culp school district.

We are expecting a responsive chord from those patrons who are diligent in their desk fee assessments. A committee has been appointed to approach them relative to the matter.

We take this opportunity to thank those who furnished us the costumes, furniture, lights, etc., which were used in our recent entertainment.

Texas Lady Tells How Black-Draught Laxative Helps All Her Family

Here's how Black-Draught fills the needs of a family laxative in the home of Mrs. J. S. Stoker, Fort Worth, Texas: "The grown-ups in my family," she writes, "have always taken powdered Thedford's Black-Draught for biliousness, headaches and other ailments (due to constipation) and found it a reliable remedy. I was very pleased when I saw Syrup of Black-Draught advertised. I bought it and gave it to my little daughters, ages 6 and 4. HEY, BIG BOY, I Can Tell You Sumpin' 'bout YOUR CROPS

● "You know I need vitamins in my food. They make me big and strong and healthy.

"And your crops are like me—they need things in their food that act like vitamins in mine."

That's a fact . . . and becoming better known every day. Your crops do need vitamin-like elements—the so-called impurities, such as boron, iodine, calcium, strontium, sodium, potassium, lithium and so on.

"A Pure Food and Drug Act for plants would be a death warrant to all living creatures."
—Scientific American

Chilean Natural Nitrate supplies these vital impurities, in Nature's own proportions. That's why this nitrogen fertilizer produces such healthy, money-making crops.

For your own protection say "Chilean" when you order nitrate. Two kinds—Champion (granulated) and Old Style. Both genuine. Both natural. Both Chilean. And both give your crops the vital impurities.

Lespedeza

By J. C. Lowery, Extension Agronomist

1. Uses: Lespedeza is a valuable crop for improving the soil, for hay, for pasture, and for controlling erosion. Crop yields are greatly increased on lands allowed to grow lespedeza for a few years. It is an excellent crop to plant on lands removed from cotton production. Seed of all kinds of lespedeza and all of the cultivated varieties are valuable sources of quail feed.

2. Soils: Lespedeza grows on all soils of Alabama except the lime soils of the Black Belt. It grow best on fertile, loamy, moist bottom lands.

3. Fertilizers: Apply broadcast when the soil is prepared, 600 pounds per acre of basic slag. Apply 1000 pounds per acre if the lespedeza is to occupy the land for several years.

4. Hay: Lespedeza will make sufficient growth to cut for hay only on moist, fertile soils. On poor soils it will not grow tall enough for hay. It has approximately the same feeding value as Alfalfa hay. There is less waste in feeding lespedeza than any other hay due to its leafiness and fine stems. Cut for hay when the plants are forming seed. For hay, sow 25 to 50 pounds of seed per acres about the first of March on well prepared soil. Run a harrow over the land after sowing to cover lightly. Lespedeza is often sown on small grain.

5. Pastures: Lespedeza is the most generally grown pasture plant in Alabama. It furnishes little grazing before June 1. Disk pasture land sufficiently to scarify the surface of the soil and sow 25 to 30 pounds of seed per acre. Sow in late February or early March.

6/ Varieties: For hay sow Kobe or Tennessee 76. These varieties make larger yields than Common, but they often do not reseed themselves. Common lespedeza is the best variety for pasture in Alabama. These varieties are preferable to Korean for Alabama.

7. Inoculation: Artificial inoculation of lespedeza is not necessary on Alabama soils.

8. Weeds Control: Dodder or "love vine" is the worst pest of lespedeza. Prevent dodder by sowing clean on dodder-free soil. Small patches of dodder may be picked by hand. Control annual weeds by mowing in early summer.

9. Saving Seed: Seed for the needs of the farm can be easily saved. Information relative to saving lespedeza seed will be made available by the county agent prior to time of harvest seed.

Orchards Need Good Cleaning

Giving the orchard a thorough cleaning before the trees start blooming is an important job which farmers should not overlook at this season of the year.

Julian Brown, extension horticuturist, advises farmers to properly prune and remove all diseased or dead branches. "All prunings should be taken from the orchard and burned," he says. "All terraces, fence rows, and ditches should be cleaned off. Such places are likely to harbor diseases and insects that will result in wormy and decayed fruits.

"The dormant spray, if it has not been applied, should be applied in the immediate future."

Farmers Penalized For Short Staple

Auburn, Ala.—In emphasizing the importance of farmers growing better staple cotton in 1935, J. C. Lowery, extension agronomist, reports that Alabama farmers were penalized because of short staple cotton in a number of areas of the State during the fall of 1934.

"The percentage of cotton shorter than 7-8 inch was 21.1 per cent in 1934 compared with 8.7 per cent in 1933 If the amount of short staple varieties planted in 1935 shows an increase over 1931-1933 in line with the increases in the short kinds in 1934 there is a likeli-experienced this fall."

Mid-Term Finds President "At The Top Of His Form"

"Despite nearly two years of the most rigorous of all peace-time Presidencies," says Frederic William Wile in the Washington Star, "Mr. Roosevelt celebrates his 53rd birthday in prime physical condition. To observers he seems not a day older than when he launched the New Deal on March 4, 1933. His invincible bouyancy and virility are a constant marvel to those who know the terrific working pace he insists upon maintaining.

"The Washigton group that sees him most regularly—the 150 to 200 newspaper men and women who besiege the White House officers Wednesdays and Fridays—cannot recall a single occasion on which the President has exhibited any semblance of ill humor or irritation. He himself doubtless would ascrbie his unchanging vim and vigor to a worry-proof temperament, which reflects itself in his inveterate smile and fondness for hearty laughter. Unmistakably, like the other Roosevelt who once occupied the White House this one is 'having the time of his life.' Mid-term finds him in gayest of spirits and at the top of his form."

IN MEMORY

On February 6th God called from our midst Mrs. W. G. Culver. We often think of her since she went away. Her doors were always open and her gentle voice we could hear say, "come in." She would always meet us with a smile.

We saw not the white robed angel
As it entered with folded wings
And carried our dear sister
To the arms of the heavenly King.
She has gone home to Jesus
There with the angels to share
We are praying to meet her
And won't it be wonderful there.

—Written by her sister, Mrs. E. H. Devaughn.

TO ALL METHODIST FAMILIES

Each member of your family has received or will receive this week an envelope of the Clanton Methodist Church, Fellowship League of Sharing. We are entering the Lenten Season during which we shall be thinking especially about the life of service, sacrifice, and sharing of our Lord.

The envelope you receive invites you to save a penny per meal from now until Palm Sunday (March 3-April 7) and share it with others. The children are to save a penny per day during this period and share with others.

All the envelopes are to be brought to the church on Palm Sunday, on which day a special and unique program will be presented. Look forward to this day as well as to Easter Sunday. The offering that you bring in the envelope will go for benevolences, what we formerly called "Conference Collections," for the promotion of the Master's Kingdom at home and abroad, in giving the Gospel of light, hope and love to the entire world.

Every member and child will want to share in this great program of world service. Show your love and loyalty by helping to lift the load of sin and suffering from the hearts of your fellowmen.

Your co-worker in His service,
—A. E. Middlebrooks, Pastor.

Cattle Prices Continue Rise

Auburn, Ala.—Although the trend in cattle prices is expected to continue upward throughout 1935, it is probable that the advance in prices in the remainder of the winter will be less pronounced than the sharp rise which has occurred since early November, reports the Bureau of Agricultural Economics in the "Cattle Price Situation" of February 15.

"Market supplies of all classes and grades of cattle and calves this year will be materially smaller than the large commercial marketings in each of the past two years, and a marked decrease in the slaughtering supplies of other meat animals also is probable for 1935," the report says. "The number of cattle on feed this winter is the smallest in many years, and supplies of well finished cattle will be smaller during most of the present year.

Kept Taking Cardui Until She Got Rid of the Severe Pains
When Mrs. Ida Hege, of Edinburg, Ind., was in a painful, run-down condition, she took Cardui, with the results she describes below: "I had just been what one might say dragging around, feeling miserable and all out of sorts. I remembered how Cardui helped my aunt. I sent for six bottles of Cardui and when I had taken them, I was much better and stronger. I did not suffer so much pain. I continued taking Cardui until I had taken nine bottles. I do not have the severe pains." . . . Thousands of women testify Cardui benefited them. If it does not benefit YOU, consult a physician.

SHOCKED VETERAN

He told a News reporter at noon Monday, only a few minutes after he had made the unsuccessful attempt to hang himself, that he had been to Lake City, Fla., where he had hoped to be admitted to a Veterans hospital. Admittance was refused him, he said, and he was returning to Detroit. He claims that he doesn't remember anything about the gun-waving incident on the bus, but admitted that he is subject to "spells."

Mayor C. Fenn Jones received wire late Tuesday afternoon from Fred W Frahm, chief of detectives of Detroit that Ray Bernstein is shell-shocked World War veteran and is man of excellent reputation.

He was ordered South, the telegram read, by his physician two weeks ago for health treatment. For the past 15 years he has been employed by Detroit firm. His wife left immediately for Clanton to return her husband to his home.

Guards have been placed in the cell with the man to prevent him from injuring himself.

Evidently he had not been in the Florida city long, for in one of his pockets was an automobile driver's license, issued in Detroit, January 25, 1935. Numerous other papers in his possession bore the name of Ray Bernstein. A notebook contained a note: "Be sure to write to your loving wife, Ilene Berstein, 1706 Clements Avenue, Detroit, Mich," written in a femine handwriting.

In his suitcases were several papers which showed that Ray Bernstein fought during the World War in the 42nd Rainbow Division. He was decorated in the Battle of the Marne for heroism.

Following the scene on the bus he was rushed to the Central Alabama Hospital for treatment. While there he is said to have offered one of the nurses money to help him escape. It was believed at that time that he might be a member of some criminal gang but officers agreed Tuesday that he is likely the victim of shell shock or gas.

In his conversation with the News reporter, the man expressed fear that he is going to be mobbed. When other prisoners talked or laughed loudly he looked wildly and said that it was "that mob" trying to get to him. He begged the reporter to stay with him, declaring that he feared that he is going to be mobbed. Efforts a quieing him were of litle avail.

A paper in his pocket, purporting to be the "autobiography of American" stated that he was born in the Ghetto, New York City, November 5, 1896; was reared by a German family while his mother "slaved" for $12 per week for a hat store. His early life was sordid, the unfinished document read.

Besides having the guns, he also had about three rounds of ammunition for each. Underneath his clothing was a rubberized money belt, which was empty. His three suitcases contained a goodly supply of linen and other wearing apparel.

public works program he has planned, it will be inclined to favor those persons who have shown a willingness to work by accepting the two-months employment offered now. These persons will be selected from the socalled marginal "white collar" groups who have not been eligible for relief on the basis of actual destitution. They will be assigned to projects supervised by the various state departments and will be paid an average of $45 per month each for the two months period.

The governor explained that Mr. Henderson will be in charge of the county relief agencies that will handle the qualifying of applicants as to eligibility and that Senator Thomas will have charge of the task of lining up, with the heals of the state departments the jobs for the applicants after they have qualified. Persons to be eligible for this work must be able to certify that there is insufficient income in the family and only one member of a family group will be eligible for one of the places.

Senator Thomas stated that all applications must be handled through the various counties' local relief agencies. Those who are interested in securing work on any of these projects are advised to make application with the relief office, where investigation will be made as to their need and qualification.

work. His profession is opposed to the use of medicines and drugs.

It was pointed out to the commissioners by Dr. Gragg and Dr. Lawrence that Chilton is one of only 15 counties in Alabama that does not maintain a health unit. They declared that it is impossible to evaluate the results and accomplishments of this work, which serves largely in the capacity of preventing and checking diseases. Dr Gragg quoted the old adage that "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure." This, he said, is exemplified in health unit work.

The set up as planned for Chilton County will furnish a physician, a nurse and office help. Regular examinations will be given all school children, advice given regarding physical defects, thus preventing and correcting numerous ailments before serious injury is suffered.

One of the most important phases of the work is that of sanitation. Health lectures will be given at the schools, training children to take better care of their health, and regular inspections of dairies, drug fountains, public water supplies, and other agencies that might be germ carriers will contribute much to prevention and spread of diseases.

Dr. J. N. Baker, State Health Department head, was immediately notified of the action of the Commissioners Court. He declared that selection of the personel of the unit will be made at once.

Dam road. Cecil E. Edge, of Birmingham, who represents manufacturers of asphalt paving products, was introduced by Mr. Cox. He declared that this type of paving may be installed for $5,000 per mile.

Two miles of this road has already been graded for paving, and both Mr. Cox, who is an experienced road builder, and Mr. Edge expressed the opinion that little work will have to be done to this base. However, both stated that the quality of the base determines the durability of the road.

Members of the court apparently are interested in the plan. Commissioner C. D. Duke and Judge J. Lee Smith were delegated to make an investigation and learn what aid can be expected from the State and Federal Governments. It was reported in the meeting that Mayor C. Fenn Jones had assured those interested in the promotion of this project that if the county paves outside the city limits, the town will make an effort to complete the paving to the city limits, thus connecting the road on into the court house.

Sometime ago representatives of the relief administration presented a similar plan to the commissioners court, but no action ever taken toward securing any of these funds for Chilton County.

At the fall term of circuit court, a jury in this case failed to reach a verdict after more than 12 hours deliberation. Defense attorneys pleaded insanity at that time, producing evidence to prove that Gray had been an addict of dope and whiskey for more than 20 years, often being drunk for months at a time.

Gray began serving his sentence in the Chilton County Jail immediately after being sentenced.

NEW FURNITURE STORE IS OPEN TO PUBLIC NOW

Herbert Klinner Is Owner Of The New Firm; Invites Visits Of People

Clanton continues its stride in progress. This week appears the announcement of the opening of another new business establishment here. H. W. Klinner, who for the past two years has been manager of the E. L. Klinner Furniture Company here, has announced that he has severed his connection with this firm and is opening a store of which he will be sole owner and operator.

For the past two years Mr. Klinner has served the furniture needs of the people of this county and declares that he believes that he will be in even better position as manager of his own store to render a greater service to those who need furniture. A native of this county he stated that he expects to make this his home in the future, and with this in view will naturally have the incentive to render the greatest possible service to his customers.

Commenting, Mr. Klinner stated: "I expect to live in Chilton County, and I want an opportunity to grow with the county. To do this I realize that I must give the people something really worth their consideration. With this new line of furniture and the easy payment plans under which I expect to operate, I fully believe that I will be in position to realize this ambition."

The new store is located next door to the Wadesonian Theatre. Mr. Klinner stated that he was unable to name his entire staff at the time of this writing, but said they will be people like himself, who really have an ambition to give high class service to the people of this county.

MISS MERONEY'S OFFICE REMOVED TO COURT HOUSE

The office of Miss Nolan Meroney, child welfare superintendent, has been moved to the court house, where she is occupying temporarily the witness room back of the main auditorium.

Since the establishment of this department in Chilton County, Miss Meroney has had offices in the Upchurch Building, in which the relief offices are situated. The removal was made because of the inadequacy of the space and to reduce rents that are being paid by the county.

Miss Meroney is urging everyone not to forget that the week beginning Easter Sunday has been designated "Crippled Children's Week." Seals are being sold to raise funds for the treatment of these children.

Clanton Girl Escapes Serious Injury Here

Miss Elizabeth Harris, daughter of G. C. Harris, Sr., and popular student at the Chilton County High School, suffered minor injuries Saturday afternoon, when the car which she was driving overturned twice on the highway just south of Clanton.

Although the car rolled over twce, Miss Harris escaped serous injury. A painful cut on the back of the head and bruises about the body were the total of her injuries. She was treated at Dr. N. S. Johnson's office and is still confined to her room.

MANY ARE GIVEN JOBS THROUGH THOMAS' OFFICE

Chilton Will Share Equally In Number Of Jobs Given By Government

The placement of 2,500 unemployed in Alabama on projects throughout the 67 counties, affording jobs for the "white collar" class, is getting underway. Senator Earle Thomas, representing this district in the State Senate, has been placed in charge of the allocating of jobs to the various counties. Miss Kittye Clyde Austin, local relief director, through whose office applications for this work must be made, stated Monday that she had not learned just how many jobs will be available to Chilton County, but expressed the opinion that this county will share equally with other counties according to population.

Fifteen had already begun work Monday morning. These were allotted in the following classification:

Stenographic help for the child welfare superintendent, the home demonstration agent, and the county farm agent, (one for each office); six clerks for the county agent; two clerks for the federal housing administration program; two garden supervisors to aid in planning relief gardens; one clerk for the archives and history department; one commodity clerk for the relief department.

Two Unmasked Bandits Get $6 At Grooms' Store

Two unmasked bandits leisurely strolled into the Grooms Store, West End, about 8:00 o'clock Tuesday night, and while one held a gun on Joe Grooms, the manager of the small grocery store, the other rifled the cash register and searched Groom's pockets.

The men walked into the store as any other customers would do and ordered a can of salmon. When Mr. Grooms reached for the can, one of the men whipped a gun from his pocket and said, "We got you now so you had better give us your money."

He told them that he only had a small amount, but they could get it. While one held a gun on him the other rifled the cash register and made a hurried search of Grooms' pockets. They took only about six dollars, Mr. Grooms told Sheriff J. R. Hardy.

Evidently the men had been watching for some time, because Mrs. Grooms, who was at the store with her husband, had only a minute or two before left and gone to their home a few yards away.

While the bandits were in the store a woman customer came for a soft drink, and the man with the gun warned Grooms that he had better be quiet.

After they walked leisurely out into the darkness, Grooms ran to the home of Sheriff Hardy, nearby, and notified him, but no trace of the men had been found early Wednesday. Grooms said that he had never seen either before and Sheriff Hardy expressed an opinion that they were hoboes who had ridden a freight into town.

WORK OF SETTING UP HEALTH OFFICE FOR COUNTY IS BEGUN

Temporary Quarters And Personnel Selected; Applications Will Be Accepted By State Board Of Health For Nurse In Chilton County

Recognizing the urgency for the continuance of the health program that has been underway here for several weeks through the cooperation of the County Board of Education and the Alabama Relief Administration, the State Health Department and member of the County Board of Health have taken steps to prevent any disruption in the program by naming a temporary health officer, who will assume the duties of supervising this work until selection of a permanent personel for the new health unit can be made.

Dr. H. C. Nickson, graduate of the school of medicine of the University of Louisville, has been named by Dr. J. N. Baker, head of the State Health Department, to serve as temporary health officer until such time as final appointment of a permanent personel of the unit may be made. This appointment is subject to the endorsement of the local board of health.

Arriving in Clanton Tuesday with Dr. W. H. Y. Smith, of the staff of the State department, Dr. Nickson began the work of setting up his office here. For a time the health unit will be located in the offices of county superintendent of education.

Selection of a nurse and office assistant has not been made. Dr. Nickson explained that applictions for the position of nurse must be filed with Miss Montgomery, State Health Department, Montgomery, who will pass upon the qualifications. Anyone wishing to make application for the position as office assistant may see Dr. Nickson at his office.

A recent survey revealed that near 50 per cent of the white school children in Chilton County are effected with hookworms. Of the several thousands tests made 49.4 per cent proved positive Because of the urgency of continuing this program without interruption, a temporary health set-up is being made here. Considerable time will be necessary to select a physician who is fitted in every way to assume the duties of supervising the health work in this county, it was explained.

Dr. Smith said that the State department is gratified that Chilton County has recognized the advantages of this program and declared that the department will stand ready at all times to cooperate in every way possible to assure the greatest success.

Members of the Commissioners Court voted unamiously last week to appropriate funds for the county's share in maintaining a health unit here.

GLOVER METES PUNISHMENT TO OFFENDERS

A Total Of Twenty Persons Given Sentenc esAs Court Session Ends Here

A two-weeks term of Circuit Court adjourned here Friday afternoon. Twenty persons were sentenced to serve terms in the State prisons for violations of various laws.

Judge Arthur Glover, presiding in Chilton County for the first time since his recent election, gave liquor law violators reason for fear when he meted sentences of from two to four years in every conviction for manufacturing whiskey.

Most of the cases tried during the three days of civil court were of minor importance. Many of these were continued or compromised without going to a jury.

Seventeen sentenced to serve prison terms left for Kilby Thurslay morning, and five others received sentences Friday afternoon, however, two of this number gave notice of appeal.

Ted Wilson, pleading guilty to charges of grand larceny in connection with the stealing of an automobile, was given a sentence of from three to five years. This is said to be Wilson's third offense.

W. R. Taylor, alias Ben Taylor, was given a prison sentence of four months and 49 days additional on a charge of issuing fradulent checks. Lloyd Caton, convicted of transporting five gallons of illicit liquors, was given three to five years.

J. C. Roper and Elijah Thomas, both convicted of violating the prohibition laws, gave notice of appeal. Roper was given a sentence of three months and 92 days additional punishment, and Thomas received four months and 79 days. Notice of appeal was given in both instances.

Taylor, Caton, and Wilson will be transferred to Kilby within a few days, Circuit Court Clerk J. C. Pattillo said.

Your County Officials

A Brief History of Newly Elected Officers

Howard Oden, Commissioner

Howard Oden, the only Democratic member of the Commissioners Court of Chilton County, is fast demonstrating that he possesses the necessary qualifications to make good his campaign promises to the people of this county, which he avers is his one ambition while serving in this capacity.

Declaring that if officials would only live up to the promises they make when asking for office they would all be held in the highest esteem by the people who elected them, Mr. Oden said that it is to be the one aim of his administration. "I made a promise to do everything I could to make Chilton County a better and more progressive county. It shall be my aim to spend the county's money wisely," he said.

Born and reared in the vicinity of Maplesville, Howard Oden is well acquainted with the needs of Chilton County. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Oden, of Mapesville. His mother has been dead since 1910, but his father is still living and is a close observer of the activities of public life in this county.

Educated in the public schools of this county and the Jacksonville Normal School, Mr. Oden launched into a career of teaching when a young man, and taught for eight years in both Bibb and Chilton counties. Besides teaching he has been engaged in farming, and for six years was rural carrier on Maplesville route 2.

Never has his business activities taken his interest entirely away from public affairs. He declares that he believes that he has served on more committees than any other rural man in Chilton County. For many years he has been recognized as one of the leading men in the Isabella community, and the Isabella school owes much to his leadership while serving as one of its trustees for ten years.

This is his first time to hold public office. Four years ago he made the race for membership in the State Legslature, but was defeated by former Rep. Percy M. Pitts. He was elected in the recent election by a majority of 245 votes.

Hiram Kelly Of Near Here Injured In Wreck

Hiram M. Kelley, 49, suffered a concussion of the brain and several cuts and bruises about the head shortly after noon Wednesday when the wagon on which he and his son, Denson, were riding was struck from the rear by a heavily-loaded fertilizer truck.

At the Central Alabama Hospital where he was rushed in a Spigener ambulance, Dr. V. J. Gragg said that he did not believe the man had suffered internal injuries nor a skull fracture.

His son, who was driving the team and sitting on the seat beside his father, was uninjured. He said that another truck with a long trailer was passing them on the highway when the northbound truck struck the rear of the wagon.

WORK ON CITY HALL WILL GO FORWARDFAST

Materials Placed on Lot; Now Is A Scene Of Busy Men And Machines

Work got underway Monday morning on the erection of the new two-story brick city hall in Clanton. With the arrival of the resident engineer the superintendent of construction, and the supervising inspector, the erection of the new building to house the city offices was officially begun.

J. D. Shanesey, superintendent of the construction, who will have supervision of the workmanship that goes into the new building, arrived in Clanton Saturday afternoon and Monday morning was ready to begin operations.

W. F. Scott, resident engineer with the PWA, also arrived here Monday. The job of seeing that the construction and materials come up to specifications will be his. Working through L. T Shook, supervising inspector, Mr. Scott, who has had more than 35 years experience in the building trade, will in reality be the last to pass judgement on the workmanship. He has been connected with the PWA for several months, and before that time was with the CWA, and will have supervision over the city hall and the watermains extension.

Estimating that the waterworks project should be completed within three weeks and the city hall by the middle of June, Mr. Scott seemed optimistic regarding both projects.

C. W. Stanley, well known Chilton Countian, has been named carpenter foreman. It is understood that every effort will be made to use local help on these projects. Hundreds crowded into the local re-employment office, seeking work on this and other federal projects.

Two Receive Minor Injuries In Wrecks

Miss Elnora Wright, of Vida, who is visiting Mrs. O. P. Klinner, of Clanton, suffered minor injuries early Tuesday morning when the car in which she and Mrs. Klinner were riding collided with another, driven by Charlie Bell, on the paved highway in front of the Clanton Motors building.

She was rushed to the hospital in a passing automobile where it was found that she had not suffered serious injury. A gash on the back of her head and bruises about the face and head. She was able to return to Mrs. Klinner's home after having her injuries dressed.

The accident occurred when Bell is said to have attempted to drive into the Clanton Motors building, and Mrs. Klinner's car was too close to stop before the machines struck.

Elijah Wilson, 20-year-old son of Jack Wilson, received several minor cuts about the face Sunday afternoon when the car in which he and another young man were riding left the road and crashed into a ditch. Wilson said that he lost control of the car when a radius rod broke.

HOSPITALIZAT'N NOW AVAILABLE FOR YEARLY FEE

Small Advance Payment Will Protect Subscriber In Case Of Sickness

Announcement is made this week that the Central Alabama Community Hospital Service is now available to people of this vicinity, whereby, for the payment of the sum of $12 a year a person or any one of his or her dependents may secure hospital care in the Central Alabama Hospital for a period not to exceed three weeks.

This service includes board, bed, operating room fee, laboratory, minor dressings and nursing care. It does not include X-Ray or special nurse.

For some time this service has been contemplated by members of the medical profession here and the lirectors of the Central Alabama Hospital. It has been carefully plannned, both from the standpoint of the hospital and the benefits it will offer to those subscribing to the service. There seems no doubt that it will fill a long-felt want, and will enable many people of limited means to secure hospital service where they never would be able otherwise to do so.

Subscribers to the service will receive a membership card setting out all the details of the contract, and enumerating all conditions and requirements on the part of the subscriber and the promoters of the service. The cost will be $12 a year, payable in advance. This will entitle a holder or any one of his dependents (who are named on the card) to the services stipulated on the contract.

Sale of membership cards will begin in the next few days. Agreement for carrying the sales plan out in the county has been made by the promoters of the service with Mr. Buford Lawrence. Mr. Lawrence expects to build up an adequate sales organization whereby the benefits can be made available to each and every family in Chilton County.

Several doctors in the county have already expressed their interest in the movement, and will become active in presenting its advantages to the people.

BEAUTY OPERATOR WILL SOON BE BACK AT WORK IS HOPE

Miss Willie Maude Kelley, operator at the DeMabel Beauty & Art Salon, who has been ill for several days with an attack of pneumonia, is reported to be much improved and will likely be able to return to her work within the next week.

She stated Monday that she hopes to be back at work early next week, and regrets that it has been necessary for the popular establishment to be closed for several days.

Mrs. Mabel Simms, owner of the establishment, is in Atlanta for several weeks.

W. N. DAVIS AND FAMILY OF NEW YORK STATE VISIT HERE

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Davis have had as their guests over the past week end, Mr. Davis' brother, W. N. Davis, Mrs. Davis and their two sons from New York State and also Mr. Davis' sister, Miss Sarah Davis of Vanderbilt University.

Mr. Davis, who makes few trips down South, is connected with a large concern operating oil wells near the Pennsylvania line.

Dr. Harvey Nix and daughter, Helen, of Maplesville, were in Clanton Monday.

DR. GRAGG IS OPTIMISTIC OVER THINGS

Paints A Pretty Picture Of Future If Present Trend Continues On

Following is a letter of interest from Dr. V. J. Gragg, of Clanton:

Dear Editor:

Some strange things happen. I was sure our good county would go dry, but I was surprised at the entire state doing so. However, it makes me have more confidence in my fellowman. I hear some criticism of the man who would take a drink and yet vote dry, I think that should be to his credit. He, at least, shows that he has good intentions, even if lacking in will power.

Next, I want to compliment Judge Smith and his court for their action in unanimous passage of the health unit. By it, many, many bad tonsils, adenoids, bad teeth, hookworms, and other diseased conditions that ruin our children will be found and weeded out. Many "rehabilitated" school children will make a grade in a year when it has formerly required them two.

Now just a word about the row they seem to be having in Washington over relief measures. I do not think a "dole" or free gift should be given to anybody who is mentally and physically able to earn a living. Last year many able-bodied men on the dole list were afraid to work, and frankly said when offered work, "I better not do

A Logical Government Undertaking

In his address to Congress on proposed public works for the current year, the President laid down certain broad principles on which he wished the program to be based. Among them were: That projects be determined on the basis of the amount of direct labor they would provide; that the highest possible percentage of the money spent go into pay envelopes; that the work produce things that would be of definite public usefulness; that the projects be of a type that would not compete with private endeavor.

Few public works projects could better fit those principles than grade-crossing elimination. The great bulk of every dollar spent would go to labor, both on the job and in heavy industries—paint, cement, steel, etc.—providing necessary supplies. No private business would be harmed. And the public would not only receive the boom of stimulated purchasing power, but would be benefited in another vastly important field—safety.

Thousands of people have been killed at grade crossings; each year brings its heavy toll. Only a small proportion of the thousands of existing crossings are adequately protected. Past campaigns to eliminate crossings have produced some results—but lack of funds has brought such work almost to a stop.

No work is more in the public interest than grade-crossing elimination, and its cost should be borne entirely by the public instead of the railroads because everyone in the country would reap the benefit.

The Saving Quality Of Work

One of the most deplorable things about the present situation lies in the fact that work has been cast in a role of destroyer, in spite of the fact that all human history proves that it holds the solution of man's chief difficulties.

Men everywhere are saying that hours are too long and that too many things are being produced and are looking for relief from arduous and trying times in the cutting down of labor and in the reduction of the supply of things the world so sorely needs.

Tens of millions of dollars are paid to men not to raise food while millions survive only because necessities are doled out to them.

Men say there is too much of everything when millions suffer from lack of shoes and clothing and other elemental necessities of life.

And it is all founded upon a philosophy that is contrary to every lesson of experience.

More than ten million persons are out of work and in dire need of things, and cannot buy the things because they cannot find the work.

And they are kept out of work because of the false notion that prices must be kept high by holding production to the minimum.

The great concern of the American people today should be to get these idle millions to work. It is far better that the ten millions now idle should be at work wearing shoes and clothing that they buy with money they have earned than that the price of shoes and clothing and other necessities shall be kept at such a figure that the idle cannot buy and the makers of these things cannot find work.—Tuscaloosa News.

Trial By Judge Favored

Trial by judge instead of by jury is gaining rapidly in popularity in this country. Those states which permit defendants to waive jury trials find that more than three-quarters of them prefer to do it because they believe a judge will give them a fairer trial than twelve inexperienced jurors who are likely to be unduly influenced by the prosecutor, the press and the prejudices which might arise from a defendant's religious, economic or social status.—Collier's Weekly (New York).

Moving Forward

For weeks before the Supreme Court upheld the administration's monetary policies, every issue of federal bonds had established all-time highs. Henry Ford had announced that he was spending nearly $6,000,000 in capital improvements on his River Rouge plant "to double its capacity for manufacturing at least a million cars in ten months." The United States Steel Corporation had announced approval of appropriations for capital expenditures totaling $47,000,000 "for alterations and modernization of finishing plants alone." This was the largest amount the country's premier industrial organization had set aside for such a purpose in more than five years.

B.C. Forbes had estimated, as a result of his own industrial survey, that "the pent-up needs of the durable goods industries aggregated fully $40,000,000,000—forty thousand millions." Col. Leonard Ayers, the Cleveland economic commentator, put the total at twice that collossal sum.

A few days before the gold clause decisions, Gen. James D. Harbord, chairman of the one hundred million dollar Radio Corporation of America, remarked that "The increase in the number of companies reporting profits is encouraging evidence that business is ready to advance. Meeting severe tests has its advantages," he continued. "Another factor is the willingness to cooperate behind a chosen leader."

In his message to Congress delivered January 4 the President was principally concerned with the vital need for immediate work-relief to supplant the degrading dole and the promptest possible transfer from work-relief to private pay rolls. He was not at all apprehensive as to underlying conditions. That he was speaking by the book on the day after the Congress convened is proved conclusively by all reports on trade and industry issued by private statistical agencies as well as from official sources.

The Federal Reserve Board's seasonally adjusted index showed that the impressive spurt in industrial production during December was materially increased in January. It reached 90 per cent of the 1923-25 average on January 31, 1935, as compared with 86 per cent in December This was the largest volume for any January since 1930.

Figures on industrial dividends supplied by the Research and Planning Division of NRA for Congress, in considering the President's recommendation for temporary extension of that recovery agency, showed dividends and interest in December, 1934, were 150 per cent of their total in 1926, even though the national income had declined nearly 40 per cent since that date and volume of production had declined one-third.

Substantial progress has been made in lifting the prices of agricultural products nearer into line with prices of industrial products, a prime objective of the Roosevelt administration. The Housing Administration has disclosed the existence of rich surpluses which the great corporations have hesitated to employ in replacements. And in the government's orderly process of safeguarding and also insuring bank deposits, the gratifying fact has been revealed that many millions of individuals are conserving their savings.

There are here all of the elements for a strong and steady advance which readily can reach impressive proportions.

o-o-o

Self Help Is Best Help

It is forecast that the government is going to make a change in its policy toward agriculture It will have less to say about what the farmer should do and not do—and will leave more up to the farmer himself.

Progressive American farmers will welcome that change. And they will also welcome the chance it will give them to show the stuff they are made of. Farmers face great problems—and the only way they will ever be satisfactorily solved is by the efforts and work of the farmers themselves. Even if government, by fiat, could make all rosy in the agricutural world, it would be of small worth if the farmer became a financial and mental dependent in the process.

Today several millions of farmers are banded together in cooperative associations, handling dairy products, cotton, walnuts, wheat and other goods. The co-ops are controlled by the farmers—they reflect farm sentiment and farm ambitions. They represent real private initiative through collective action that doesn't ask for favors, that doesn't depend for existence on government, and that gets results. Cooperatives are the best weapons the farmer could have for fighting depression.

o

Not many moons ago I was in a community where they had recently buried a man with his face to the West. The men carrying the body to the grave made this mistake without thinking, and as soon as they were convinced that the man's head was to the East they immediately dug up the casket and changed it so that the man would be in correct form. I have buried hundreds of people and never have I knowingly buried one body with the feet toward the West. We have always left the body in the silent city of the dead with the feet toward the East. Why do we have this as a custom ? The answer comes to us out of the bosom of every man. We do this because we believe in the immortality of man and we are looking of the dawning of the resurrection morning. Some day there will be a light to shine into the darkness of the tomb and then it will be God's Tomorrow.

A splendid family moved into our community and I called to see them. I expressed my delight at having them to become a part of our community life and assured them that there was a warm welcome for them in every heart. I was told that they were pleased to live in our midst, but that they were not there for long. In one year they would be moving on to another locality. They never remained in any community long, but were eternally on the move. Our little ones move into our homes and hearts and we are delighted to have them, but they never tarry long. We would like to keep them as little babes, as little lads, as rollicking youth, but they never tarry long in one manner of living. Our children hurry through infancy, they speed through childhood, they rush through the teen age. They are eternally on the move. In fact, all of us never tarry long in one state of life. We are creatures of passage and soon we will be going into another world.

In the community where I lived as a lad there was an old harmless, demented man who was known to all. This man had no respect for position or cultivation. He would walk into the home of the best, or into the home of the poorest and take his seat and eat from the family table as though he belonged there. He was no respecter of persons. He treated rich and poor alike. There is an unwelcome visitor coming to my home and to your home. He is no respector of persons. He treats rich and poor just alike. Someday you will see sickness, sorrow, death walking in at your door. He will take a place at your table, he will sit around your hearth, he will stretch himself on your bed. How we tremble when he comes.

I was crossing a street one busy afternoon and found myself caught in a traffic jam. On looking just ahead I saw an open space and observed that it was marked "Isle of Safety." Pedestrians, like myself, were stepping into this space and I too, pushed my way is among them. This space had been marked off in the middle of the street, so that those who were caught in a jam into which I had been placed, could step into the Isle of Safety and be safe. During the week we are rushing here and there and by Saturday our souls are in a traffic jam. God has provided for us an "Isle of Safety," which is none other than his Holy Sabbath, that we may step into His house and worship and be safe. When you fail to step into God's "Isle of Safety" you will most likely be run over in your spiritual life by the traffic of the world. We see so many souls crushed beneath the traffic of the world and all because men will not remember the Sabbath day to keep it holy.

On the border of French Territory the Berbers lived as a molesting enemy. They were just a small tribe of Mor rocco but they would rush from their hiding places in the hills and on the plains they would plunder, rob and kill and then go back to their hiding places. The French government could do nothing about them until they threw a cordon of troops around their hiding places and starved them out. Did you know that the only way for you to master your evil nature—that nature of yours that goes out into the world to feast on sin, is for you to throw about your own heart and life an army of will power, and stand on guard that your thoughts and your passions may not run wild in the world.

MANY REHABILITATION FAMILIES REPAY ADVANCES WITHIN THE FIRST YEAR

Within less than a year from the time they were taken off the direct relief rolls, many hundreds of rehabilitation families have paid their debts to the Federal Emergency Relief Administration, according to reports received by the FERA from the state Rural Rehabilitation Corporations through which funds are disbursed and collected.

Repayments, made in cash, in farm products and in work, are deemed by all reporting state corporations as abundantly justifying their operations. In Alabama, for example, where work was the principal method of liquidating total advances of $650,000, clients had repaid more than $500,000 at the end of the third week in February. During the first six months of operation,s, Arkansas farmers repaid one dollar out of every three dollars advanced. In states where payment in farm products are made, more than one-seventh of the advances have been liquidated.

A large per cent of the 125,000 rehabilitated families have been restored as cash customers of their local merchants. A typical case was quoted from Missouri in which the client, previously on relief and with practically no buying power, has purchased $675 worth of goods locally. In explaining the objectives of the plan, Administrator Harry L. Hopkins said:

"In 1929 one-half of the farmers of the United States were producing seven-eighths of the commercial crops and this one-half could, within the next few year, expand their production easily to include the final one-eighth, leaving the other one-half of our farmers with no market for commercial crops. We are, therefore, getting away from commercial farming and setting up rehabilitation families for production of home needs. This means that supplementary income must be provided to purchase things people cannot grow or make at home. Such income may have to come from rural industries."

The administrator quoted as an example a Georgia community which took over an abandoned blacksmith shop, for which FERA has financed $485 worth of machinery. The shop, he said, is crowded daily with men making wagons and parts, or repairing them; sharpening plows, shoeing horses and mules, etc. Across the road, in the school basement, their wives are putting up meat and vegetables with equipment supplied by FERA. A small toll is charged to liquidate the administration's investment and maintenance costs.

"When clients in this manner are enabled to become even partly self-supporting," Mr. Hopkins added, "their morale is sustained and the taxpayer saves part of the money otherwise necessary for direct relief."

o

On October 22, 1933 God planted a beautiful little flower in the home Mr. and Mrs. James Dunlap. For sixteen short months it blossomed in all its beauty, then God transplanted it from earth to heaven.

How deeply we feel this shadow cast upon us, when one so sweet has been called away. A golden link in our family is broken, a place vacant which can never be filled.

God only can understand the aching void in our hearts. But there's a brighter; it is just through the thin veil where Christ is and where she is too, sweetly sleeping in the arms of Jesus.

We shall miss her
Since she went away,
But we will strive to meet her
In a better world some day.

She leaves to mourn her loss, mother, father, one brother, one sister and a host of relatives. Brislin Brothers of Selma prepared the body for burial Funeral services at Highland, Brothe A. C. Trice officiating.

Her grave was banked with exquisit flowers. Lovely, though they were dimmed in comparison to the lovel flower sleeping beneath.

Our darling is sleeping,
Beneath the silent clay,
But if we live as we should
Some day we'll meet little Ila Ma

Ford Offers Values In Commerical Cars

Delivery equipment is a traveling advertisement that should reflect the prestige of the business concern using it," according to the local Ford dealer.

"Clothes may not make the man," he said, "but they usually are one of the indexes by which his standing is estimated, just as the exterior of a store building reflects the quality of its business.

"The smartest shop would quickly lose much of its distinction if it used run-down vehicles to make deliveries to its customers. No matter what the nature of the business, good-looking delivery equipment tends to increase its prestige. Such equipment is a traveling advertisement for its owner.

"Style is emphasized more and more each year in the production of commercial cars, and this is especially true with regard to the new Ford V-8 commercial cars.

"The new Ford commercial cars not only have the new longer springbase which is a feature for the passenger cars but also have more attractive lines than formerly. The sedan delivery and the panel delivery cars are especially handsome. They are cars with which the smartest shop can add to its prestige, but their popularity is not limited to exclusive stores, for the prices are so low that they are adapted to a wide range of business.

"The new Ford V-8 closed cab 'Pick-Up' is a small truck which combines attractive appearance with wide utility. It has all the attributes of the new Ford passenger cars. Its 123-inch springbase has made it possible to increase space load in front of the rear axle although the maneuverbility of the 112-inch wheelbase car is retained, as is the case with the other commercial models in the new Ford line."

Vermont Jr. High School News

The Chilton County Post, of the American Legion will join the Legion Auxiliary in holding their meeting at our school next Friday night, March 15, at 7:30. They extend a cordial invitation to everyone whom might be interested to be present. Candies, sandwiches and drinks will be sold by the Jr. High boys and girls. A good time for everybody—come!

Our Parent-Teacher Association met in regular session last Thursday night. Seventy parents were present. There was a large group of the younger set and friends of the school present, among them being the Rev. J. S. Johnson, pastor of the Antioch Methodist Church. The devotional exercise was conducted by the Rev. Johnson. He then made a four-minute talk regarding the merits and value of our P.-T. A. We fully appreciate his words of kindliness and encouragement, and extend to him a most gracious invitation to be with us again at our final meeting, April 4.

Mrs. Bertie G. Johnson, third and fourth grade instructor, presented her classes to the P.-T. A. in quaint Holland ways. Various scenes, poems, songs, plays, depicting the quaint customs of the Dutch people were rendered very appropriately by the third and fourth grades. Another little scene which was very unique and instructive was the rendition of a ten-minute playlet in which different members of the classes impersonated the customs and manners of the Chinese, the Eskimo, the Indian, the Dutch, the Mexican, the Japanese, and the Americans. The characters were dressed in costumes very significant with those worn by children in the above countries. In connection with the same program, Miss Manning, primary instructor, presented some of her little first and second grades in that charming little play, "Hans and Gretel."

This week a general discussion has been carried on in all the rooms, by the entire teaching force, regarding "Forest Protection Agains the Ravashes of Fire." If we American people continue to disregard the potential value of our few woodlands, we might as well prepare now to face the same pitiful experiences which our neighbors across the Pacific, China, are now and have been for several centuries beset with. The choice timber resources of this great State of ours are gone, and they can never be reclaimed by this generation unless we eliminate some of our present short-sighted policies, especially the one of constant burning off of the wooded sections. Is it any wonder that we suffer from drouths; dying trees, shortage of bird life, loss of fertility, erosion of land surface? Further, is it any wonder why many springs and streams, once regular, are now dry; and can we not understand why our creeks and rivers flood the land after heavy downpours of rain. We have no right to expect that the older generation will provide ample forest resources, because they alone must shoulder the blame for the reckless way in which our trees have been handled in the past, thus it becomes the duty of every boy and girl in this great country of ours to stem the tide of forest destruction. We Americans take great pride in revealing our patriotism. Will we reveal this patriotism in the cause of beautiful trees, clear running brooks, crystal springs, attractive bird life, wild flowers, and nature as a whole? If our answer is yes to the above, then we'll step in line and fight every forest within our range.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnson spent the past week end with his uncle and aunt, Dr. R. B. and Miss Elizabeth McNeill of Jemison.

Miss Cagle and Miss Manning spent the week end with their parents.

Several of the students are making preparations to present an interesting Bird Day program. Following this will be another program, relating to our wild flowers. Each of the Junior High school boys have pledged themselves to build a bird box and encourage our insectinorous birds such as the bluebird, black martin and wrens, to make their homes close to us.

Miss Cagle (to Cleve in Health Class) "Did you ever see a house fly?"

Cleve: "Yes'm, on March 21, 1932, when the tornado went through."

The young people of the Sardis community met at Sardis church last Wednesday night to organize a singing society. They invite everyone interested in the cause of good singing to meet regularly with them.

Plans are pending toward having the Liberty Hill Quartet render us another of their programs. Further announcements relative to this will be forthcoming later.

Our attendance for the sixth month has greatly exceeded that of last month.

We regret the absence of our school mate, Gertrude Carter, who has been suffering the past two weeks from an attack of flu. We hope she gets back in school this week.

Don't forget the Legion meeting tomorrow night.

Thorsby Institute News

Monday morning at chapel Jack Higgins, president of the Senior Class of Thorsby Institute, presented the school with a large new flag on behalf of the class. This came as a surprise gift and is very much appreciated. On pleasant days it will be seen flying from the flag-pole in front of the school building.

Saturday night an interesting program was given by the Helen Keller Literary Society. The boys quartette sang "Duna." This was their first appearance. Their voices blended very well. The girls' trio also made their first appearance. The Cassitae Club sang in their new costumes of blue trimmed with white. They sang "Where Go the Boats?" "The Star" and Tinkle-oo." After the club sang, a short Indian pageant was given in which J. W. Pouncey gave as a reading part of "The Song of Hiwiatha." He represented "Hiawatha" and Inez Jackson was "Minnehaha." She sang very sweetly "By the Waters of Minnetonke" as a solo. The last number on the program brought in Earl Pate as Leopold and Mary Francis Harris as Mozart's sister and Mae Pearl Sorrell as Mozart in his youth.

Term examination will be on Thursday and Friday of this week.

On Saturday morning, Miss Jenkins, Miss Lois Primm, Louise Mims, Blanche Morgan and Sarah Green motored to Montevallo to see the screen version of Victor Hugo's "Les Miserables". Famous Corner Of Main Street Bare

For the first time in more than a half-century the northeast corner at the intersection of Main Street and the Montgomery-Birmingham highway in Clanton is barren. Only debris remains as a reminder of the old Mullins Building, which stood like a sentinel here for several more than fifty years.

The work, begun several weeks ago, of wrecking this old frame structure preparatory to the erection of a more modern brick building, has been practically completed. With the removal of the debris the site, which has never been vacant since Clanton was a mere hamlet, will stand barren until construction is begun on its successor.

While Clanton marched progressively forward, the old building has stood, a grim reminder of other days, when customers drove ox-carts to its doors and loaded with provisions for another six or eight months.

Oldtimers stood around this corner Saturday, swapping yarns that centered around the place when the late W. I. Mullins was a young man, getting his start in the world.

But soon another building will rear its head in its stead, and perhaps fifty years hence still another generation, too will shake its head as progress grinds old memories underneath its heel.

One In Three Uses Premium Motor Oil

Extensive Survey Shows That Car Owners Demand The Best

Over 30 per cent of the motorists on the highways today buy premium priced motor oil, a survey by the Gulf Refining Company reveals. The officials in charge also pointed out that this percentage would probably be even higher if every car owner had been questioned, since the survey was conducted largely among those who own cars costing less than $1,000.

Another significant factor in this same survey concerned the popularity of motor oils made from 100 per cent pure Pennsylvania crude oil. Due to newspaper and magazine advertising all over the United States, many motorists are demanding this type of oil.

As a result of comprehensive survey, the Gulf Refining Company has announced that its premium motor oil, Gulfpride, is now made from 100 per cent pure Pennsylvania. This lubricant, which won its title as "the world's finest motor oil" because it has been super-refined by the exclusive Alchlor Process, will retain that popular feature. It will be sold in a new metal, cylindrical container which will be destroyed by the service station salesman immediately after the oil is poured into the crankcase.

A powerful advertising campaign will announce the new Gulfpride Motor Oil. This advertising will feature the six points of superiority: (1) that Gulfpride is super-refined by the exclusive Alchlor Process; (2) that it is made from 100% pure Pennsylvania; (3) that it is packaged in tamper-proof, refinery sealed metal containers; (4) that it gives quicker starting; (5) that it assures higher mileage; (6) and that it increases oil mileage.

CHICOHI CHATTER

No, I'm not nuts, but I expect some of the three who read last week's Chatter, have come to this drastic conclusion. Only a typographical error, Geraldine. Yes, I wouldn't put that in writing.

I really had good, honest intentions of writing on the beauties of nature this week but the daffodil in my orchid ranch bloomed but a day and grew despondent in our humid atmosphere. 'Tis bad.

Our fame is spreading—yes, oh, yes! It was only las twek that three of our "faithful nine," as Mr. Warr so fondly dubs it, received epistles from abroad; and they weren't Sears Roebuck mail orders, either. They arrived from France, the land of sunshine, of milk and honey, and to translate the current French reader I can say accurately mostly mountains. You can see that I am a star pupil in this French business, I know so much about France.

These letters are, of course, written in French, but at the end of each are a few lines written in the French student's conception of English. As to date we have the laugh on them for naturally, they were amusing, but wait until we answer them in French. "He who laughs last 'y know. But maybe they'll write again and then everything will be raspberries.

If my adviser would allow me to use a little harmless slang I would tell you so much better of the coming Junior play, which is an annual event. Anyway, it's really going to be a wow. Some of the lines are 'simpully' killing and 'muggsy'—oh, I wish you could see muggsy. There's a little of Ed Wynn and Joe Palooka with a dash of Mae West. There, now, figure it out for yourself.

In the meantime, the search for beauty moves on with a bang! Deposit your penny votes for your favorite at Upchurch's Drug Store. On March 22, the night of the play "For Pete's Sake," bring your extra pennies, all you can rake and scrape, for the contest for Miss Chicohi will be on that big night, brought to a thrilling climax. "For Pete's Sake," come.

I have seen three people smile, one actually hee-haw and a great many happier looking people this week. There's only one answer. Test week is over.

It seems I mention the Senior Class a great deal in my words, words, words, but can it be helped? We challenge the underclosemen!

Mrs. Yaeger, who made the pictures which will probably go down in history, et cetra, returned on Monday of this week with the proofs, which were pronounced by all, excellent.

Field agents from various colleges have been visiting the Seniors in interest of the college they will attend next year. It is not too early to begin thinking of this, but doesn't it give you a funny feeling?

Mr. Searcy takes the cake on getting up 'spur 'o the moment' programs. A posy to you. A very entertaining one in which all could take part, presidel over by Helen Newell, was held in this ancestral hall some days ago.

The Democracy Class and the business Law Class attended court last week. To some, it proved a new experience.

MISS PARDUE ATTENDS IMPORTANT CONFERENCE RECENTLY

Recognizing the general spread in the use of electricity, home demonstration agents in District Two of Alabama met last week at Auburn to discuss the uses and advantages of electricity in rural sections.

Discussing the conference, Miss Pardue, Chilton County agent, said that speakers on the program explained that they were not interested in selling electricity for any power companies, but, realizing that it is only a matter of a short time until its use on farms will be general, and it is the duty of farm and home supervisors to be acquainted with electrical terms that they may be ready to render every possible service to their counties.

A native of Coosa County, she had spent quite a bit of time in Chilton County with her children.

Mitchell Dam Sports

Our most interesting recreation this winter has been basketball. Our boys organized a team and began regular practice early in the season on our outdoor court. So much interest was aroused that Supt. Hollis, assisted by the men of the camp, soon prepared an indoor court.

We have had some very interesting games during the season, but the big game of the season will be played Friday night, March 15, at 7:30, when Coach C. C. Porch brings his Mountaineers from Asbury. For several seasons the Mountaineers have ruled supreme on Sand Mountain. The Porch Bro. have been down with us one time this season but did not have their team along. You will see some real basketball skill displayed in this game.

We also expect to have a preliminary game. Win or lose, we play solely for the sport of the game and the highest type of sportsmanship has been displayed in our games.

Come out and enjoy the evening.

—Hit the Bull's Eye This Year—

With CONCENTRATED PURITY

The Bull's Eye you are shooting for is greater yield per dollar of expense. That's why you must have a high-test nitrate of soda, one that is quick and sure in action and "delivers the goods" under all conditions.

Because of its concentrated purity, ARCADIAN, THE AMERICAN NITRATE OF SODA, hits the Bull's Eye every time. Concentrated purity assures you that you are getting the greatest possible amount of nitrogen, the growth element.

Don't scatter shots and waste money on elements that are already in your soil, or that your soil does not need, or that it needs so badly that puny doses are without any value. Hit the Bull's Eye with ARCADIAN, THE AMERICAN NITRATE OF SODA. This product of the South is pure and sure.

Have you entered the great American Nitrate of Soda crop contest?—$5,000 in prizes! See your fertilizer supplier for details.

Recent Graduates Of Local High School Are The Recipients Of Many Honors At Colleges

One method of determining the scholarship and academic success of a high school graduate, is whether or not he succeeds in college.

The senior class of 1934 stands out as one of the best prepared that has ever gone out from Chilton County High School. Of the twelve students who went to college last September, the College - Freshman Entrance Examinations and Intelligence tests reveal that every one not only passed, but a number of them ranked high at the close of the first semester's examinations in all their courses. Not only have these students met the college requirements in a very admirable manner, but a number of them have already achieved honors in scholarship and extra-curricular activities. Joe Moore made the College Glee Club the first year at the University of Alabama, which is a rare thing for a first year student. Dan Smith won a silver loving cup in a competitive debating team at Auburn a few weeks ago. He was also chosen to represent the Freshman Class of Auburn at the Southern Baptist Convention which met in Memphis, Tennessee last October. In addition, the official Registrar's records reveal that Dan made an average of 93.1% in Business Administration, which is the highest average made by any member of the entire three hundred and eighty-one students composing the Freshman Class of Auburn, and is ranked as one among the ten highest in school. He has recently won a place as news editor on the school paper, "The Plainsman".

Another student who is making a brilliant record in college is John Ezell, who made above 90% in all of his courses at Wake Forest College, North Carolina. This young man showed such a thorough background in courses as English, chemistry and mathematics that he was honored with a scholarship in teaching and coaching students who are weak in mathematics. Roberta Cochran made above 90% in all her work at Huntingdon College, Montgomery. Virgil Robertson and James Dennis have not made below 85% in any of their work at Auburn.

The above information is official from the institutions attended by the students. Chilton County High School feels justly proud of its products, and stands ready at all times to help anyone who attends our school.

MISS CAMPBELL

would recover.

Shortly after noon Monday she could no longer breathe, her lungs were so congested, and oxygen was applied, which kept life in her body for almost another 24 hours.

Miss Campbell came to Chilton County five years ago as a teacher in the elementary school at Stanton. The following year she was a member of the faculty of the Enterprise school, west of Verbena, and for the past three years she has taught at the Clanton elementary school. As a tribute of the esteem in which she was held by the faculty and the students the school was dismissed Tuesday morning when news of her death was received, and remained closed through Wednesday to permit all who could to attend her funeral at Selma.

Brief services were held Wednesday morning at 9:30 o'clock from the Clanton Methodist church to permit her friends here to take a last look at the body. Dr. A. E. Middlebrooks, pastor of the church, officiated. The body was prepared by Martin & Sons and following services here was taken to Selma where funeral services were held from the Jud Breslin Funeral Parlors. Dr. Middlebrooks also had charge of the services there.

In Clanton the following friends served as pallbearers: Lester Jones, Ralph Johnston, Arthur Burnette, Jack Burleson, Mack Wyatt, and G. C. Rowe. Three of her close friends in Selma were chosen to serve with Lester Jones, Ralph Johnston, and Arthur Burnette, at the Selma services.

Supt. Luther E. Little, U. H. Abrams, principal of the Clanton school, and Dr. E. E. Upchurch served with others from Selma as honorary pallbearers.

She is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Campbell; two brothers, Ernest, of Selma, and R. M. Campbell, of Birmingham; and two sisters, Mrs. M. J. Hollingsworth, Selma, and Mrs. Howard Long, of Burnsville.

CLANTON PILOT CLUB HOLDS REGULAR BI-MONTHLY MEET

The Clanton Pilot club met Tuesday evening in the home of Mrs. Hugh Simpson, where a delicious dinner was enjoyed by those attending. Because of the inclemency of the weather the attendance was small, but Mrs. Mamie C. Smith, president of the club, urged a full attendance at the next meeting.

Routine business was discussed at the session. One of the most important phases of the program wa discussion of plans for a regular meeting place for the club to convene in its bi-monthly sessions. For several weeks it has met in the homes of various members, but it is planned that by next meeting definite arrangements will be made to secure a regular place for convening.

that job for you, they might take me off the list." Many able-bodied people lived off the taxpayers and Red Cross on that theory. Another thing, the relief wage of $2.40 per day was entirely too high as a relief wage. Comparatively few received it while the majority went without being able to get work at any price. Another thing was that it placed the wage scale where a farmer could not pay for labor. It is my opinion that one could not hire all the work done on the best farm in Chilton County and pay a dollar a day the year round for the kind of labor he would get. If there is one farmer that can do that let's hear from him.

I do believe the government should care for its feeble-minded, feeble-bodied, and sick, who are not able to care for themselves. I think that is an absolute duty.

I also think the government should furnish the jobless, every one of them who are able and want to work, a living job. However, it should be at a low wage and for the purpose of relief. And they should earn this wage—I learn from a most reliable source that it cost $100.00 to dig up a certain tree in Clanton and $36.00 to put a foot-log across Walnut Creek. That, to my way of thinking is highway robbery of the taxpayers. Give all, who need the work, a job. Work the roads, build school houses and beautify school grounds, and do dozens of other useful things.

The biggest and best project in Alabama that I can visualize, is making the Coosa River navigable. From below Gadsden to well up in the State of Georgia and from Wetumpka to the Gulf, it is already open. Here, even with us, the three large dams of the Alabama Power Company have solved the greater part of the remaining problem; and a liberal appropriation by Congress to be carried out with relief work, would solve the unemployment problem and, at the same time, open up one of the greatest waterways of the South.

Then think what it would mean for paper plants and similar industries running up into the millions of dollars to be located along the banks of the Coosa River, with their thousands of employes to spend money with our business men, to purchase thousands of dollars worth of foodstuffs from our farmers.

The opening of the Coosa is favored by our governor and many other men of ability. Why not strike now while the iron is hot and it can be done at low cost and do great good by relieving the unemployment situation?

If I am right, good people, put your shoulder to the wheel. Use your influence and let's get it going now.

A GOOD DAY'S WORK

In the opinion of the News the Commissioners' Court of Chilton County, in cooperation with Judge J. Lee Smith, did an outstanding piece of work last Thursday, when in special session they uninamously voted to place expenditure of county funds on a budget basis. The wisdom of a carefully planned budget in individual and business expenditures has long been recognized as valuable, but for one reason and another, public monies have not as a rule been given this careful attention.

As we understand it, Judge Smith originated and worked out the plan, which was submitted to the commissioners, who entered into the idea with a fine spirit of helpfulness that put it into effect.

It will be remembered that prior to his present activities, Judge Smith made an enviable record as Mayor of Clanton, where he first proved that he had the ability to put sound business principles to work in public office.

The new administration has only been in office for a few months, but the record of its activities points unerringly to the goal of efficient government, and wise spending of the taxpayers' money. We take this opportunity of commending them especially on this last move. We believe that the verdict of Chilton County people will be one of endorsement, and that with this same attitude of a sincere desire on the part of officials to serve efficiently continuing, the next few years will witness a new era in the affairs of our local government.

Art Exhibit Being Attended By Many

The arts exhibit at the high school this week is quite an advantage to the cultural Chilton County which is indeed fortunate in having this exhibit. Prof. L. C. Warr extends a cordial invitation to the public to visit the high school all this week where the pictures will be on display. Admission is ten cents which helps to defray part of the expense attached to the exhibit.

Gentlemen: It Happened This Way

There may have been a time when Sie Foshee, popular salesman for Hayes Chevrolet questioned the selling power of advertising, but that time is now past. According to Mr. Foshee, "the proof of advertising value is results," and he assured a News representative Monday of this week that the used car advertising being carried each week by the Hayes Chevrolet Company is a big aid to him in selling these cars.

This advertising has been running only a short time, but it never misses an issue. "All Used Cars That Look Alike Are Not Alike" is the thought behind every listing of cars. That, together with a frank statement of the cars actual condition has made an appeal to the buying public which has resulted in more sales, according to Mr. Foshee.

"Not only have sales been increased, but to such an extent that we are now in the market for several good used cars, necessary to keep our stock complete," Mr. Foshee concluded.

Friends of Miss Bettie Mullins are sorry to know that she is confined in a Montgomery hospital following an operation Wednesday.

C. Reese Mullins, Jr., has returned from Eufaula and will be located in Clanton.

MORE COOPERATION NEEDED IN CARE OF CRIPPLED CHILD

Welfare Superintendent Cites Figures As Being Alarming; Chilton Must Give More Thought To This Item

Miss Nolan Meroney, County Child Welfare Superintendent, cites the statistical information given below, in urging a greater coopeartion of the people of this county in rendering aid to the crippled and unfortunate children of our county:

The study of dependent, neglected and delinquent children who need special care.

The following statement appeared in The Birmingham News, Sunday, March 17th:

"The immensity of the problem faced by the State Child Welfare Department this year in providing for the care and proper upbringing of neglected delinquent and in many cases, destitute children, throughout Alabama, is illustrated by figures made public on a survey recently completed under the supervision of Mrs. A. M. Tunstall, department director, in 29 of the state's 67 counties.

According to the census taken in 1930 there were, in that year, 1,243,196 children in Alabama under 19 years of age, 597,079 of this total residing in the 29 counties the survey included, namely Colbert, Lawrence, Morgan, Madison Jackson, Marshall, Cherokee Etowah, Calhoun Cleburne Talladega, Tuscaloosa, Fayette, Lamar, Sumter, Marengo, Hale, Chilton, Chambers, Lee, Wilcox, Butler, Pike, Barbour, Conecuh, Covington, Houston, Escambia and Baldwin.

M. S. PLIER URGES EXTENSION OF CITY LIMITS IN LETTER

Sees Continued Growth Of Town And Urgent Need Of More Room; Has Property Out Of City Limits

Sheffield, Ala., March 15th, 1935.
Editor, Chilton County News:

On my last visit to Clanton some days ago I heard quite a lot of discussion about the proposition of extending the limits of Clanton to include the people who are now really a part of Clanton, have business in Clanton, making their living off of Clanton, but legally they are not in Clanton, and Clanton gets no credit in population for their presence.

I bought some property several years ago in the "Willis Addition" because it was so close to Clanton I believed some day on account of the growth of Clanton the property would be worth much more than the price I paid for it. Had this property not been near Clanton I would not have been interested in it at all. Clanton is not only a benefit to me and my property, it is also a great financial benefit to every person who resides in the improved section nearby.

I am for the extension for many reasons. Clanton would have a better standing before the entire country if we can show a population of 3,500 or 4,000 people instead of just 1,800. It would be more attractive to people looking for a new home, or location, or to establish industries many of which Clanton affords a splendid opening and opportunity. Let's try to influence and attract these prospects to come to our town by letting them know who we are and what we have to offer them. Then, too, I am personally opposed to taking

A Constructive Traffic Program For States

Motor accidents last year struck deeper at the heart of the American home than ever before. Conditions have now become so critical that one child in three needlessly faces the probability of death or injury in an automobile accident before he completes his normal life span, according to the National Bureau of Casualty and Surety Underwriters, which has analysed street and highway fatalities and injuries for 1934.

To the typical American family of father mother and three children this statement should have great significance. And to national, state and municipal authorities who who are responsible for the safety of all citizens, it is a challenge to drastic action.

Last year, 36,000 persons were killed and more than a million injured in traffic accidents. While traffic itself was slightly heavier, as shown by registrations and increased gasoline consumption, speed, criminally reckless driving, and the apparent indifference of the public must bear a lion's share of the blame.

A constructive program for states must include:

1. Uniform traffic laws such as drivers' license laws, financial responsibility statutes and other uniform traffic rules and regulations as recommended by such representatives bodies as the National Conference on Street and Highway Safety, the United States Bureau of Public Roads, the American Association of Motor Vehicle Administrators, the National Safety Council and others.
2. Modern enforcement procedures such as those advanced by the International Association of Chiefs of Police and others.
3. Good driving instruction for, upper class high school students as recommended by leading educators, state and municipal Boards of Education, the Education Division of the National Safety Council, and the National Bureau of Casualty and Surety Underwriters.
4. Adult education through intensive community programs involving municipal authorities, police departments, schools, churches, clubs and other public organizations as recommended by all safety authorities, notably the National Safety Council, the American Association of Motor Vehicle Administrators and others.

Certainly, enough effective material has been developed by competent observers during our many years' experience with the traffic problem. Much of it is waiting only for an aroused public sentiment to compel its use.

"Chicago Primary"

(Editorial in Baltimore Sun)

"The primary election vote for nomination of candidates for mayor of Chicago makes disturbing reading for the Republican party. The successful Republican candidate won with a total vote of 69,500, the lowest ever polled by a Republican mayorality candidate in a primary. The Democratic candidate for re-election, Mayor Kelly, was renominated with a vote of 479,825, the largest ever given a mayorality candidate of any party in a primary The total primary vote was 697,112, a little less than half the registration.

"The Democartic mayor is credited with having given the city a tolerable adminisration under difficult circumstances. Partly due to legislative reform of antiquated tax laws, his regime has included restoration of municipal finances to a sound basis. Following an era during which school teachers and other municipal employes were compelled to go for months without pay and city finances were in a state of utter chaos, the mayor has made a record that seems to have satisfied the electorate.

"But the surprising development in the situation is the almost complete collapse of the Republican stalwarts, as measured by the primary showing."

Firemen in the English town of Lingfield are disgusted. They got a dandy new fire engine a year ago and there hasn't been a fire in town since.

Community Suicide

One of the strangest phenomena witnessed in most towns and small cities is the apparent eagerness with which many otherwise good citizens contribute to the tendency to commit community suicide.

These citizens will often show uncommon zeal in boosting any movement to obtain city improvements, to promote the location of new industries, to secure better educational facilities, and so on. Yet many of these same proud boosters will deliberately engage in a practice which nullifies all their otherwise laudable efforts—and wonder why their town doesn't go ahead.

We refer to the suicidal habit of buying away from home

The enormous growth of the mail order habit in recent years is largely responsible for the failure of many communities to make the progress which their natural advantages should make possible. The money that ought to be kept at home for the expansion of local trade and industry is sent away to distant cities, never to return. The life-blood of prosperity is allowed to ebb away through the indifference or thoughtlessness of the very persons who should set an example of local pride and loyalty.

A trifling saving here and there, usually more imaginary than real, is sufficient to cause the average citizen to forget his duty to his community and to himself, which if performed would mean far more in the direction of local prosperity than all his other boosting efforts put together.

Why boost in one direction, while commiting community suicide in another.

o-o-o

The Town Band

It is safe to say that no institution of a civic nature gives greater returns for the money and effort expended upon it than does a good town band. The benefits derived through the maintenance of a band touch the entire cultural, social and commercial life of the community.

Members of the organzation are enabled to develop their musical talents in pleasant association with their fellows, while the discipline necessary to their successful advancement is most desirable for boys and young men.

After the band is capable of playing in public its presence adds immeasurably to parades, ceremonies and celebrations of every kind, while its regular concerts are a source of enjoyment for the entire citizenship.

As a business proposition, a good band is of the greatest value in advertising its town. The better the band the better the advertisement, of course. In some localities it is the custom for merchants' associations to take the band occasionally on good-will trips to various rural communities in their trade territory. Such trips invariably result in closer relations and consequently increased trade.

It does not take a large town to maintain a good band; in face, some of the best amateur bands are found in towns of less than 1,000 population. With earnest and willing members, a capable instructor and reasonable support from the leading citizens a good band may be developed anywhere.

A town that does not possess a band is overlooking one of the most valuable agencies for its social and commercial advancement.

"It is only logical that President Roosevelt should ask Congress to lengthen the life of NRA by two years. NRA did much to break the downward spiral of shrinking jobs and ever more cut-throat competition, of sweat-shops pulling employers down to their wage and working condition levels, of credit contracting and cash freezing in the banks. It is still working well to counteract those influences of depression. We think it would be a catastrophe to abandon NRA and go tobogganing back."—New York News. (Ind.)

"NRA must be reenacted with such changes as experience has proved necessary to prevent the plunging of American industry into a worse maelstrom than one can readily picture in his imagination."—Woonsocket, R.I., Call. (Ind. Rep.)

"America has tried a temporary NRA, has seen its benefits, faults and dangers. By and large, the benefits were worthwhile. Neither industry nor labor wants to go back to the old ways, for industry suffered directly and labor indirectly. There will be real concern and real hope that Congress will be equal to the tast of constructive statesmanship." — Milwaukee Journal, (Ind.)

A late invention is a "radio traffic cop." Being a machine, it may work.

D. W. Haskew

In Southeast Alabama I went into a man's place of business on Saturday afternoon and to my surprise and embarrassment the man staggered to me and placed his arm over my shoulder and began to blubber like a baby. He was so affectionate and unreasonable in his statements that I supicioned that he was drunk. I made an effort to detect the odor of whiskey but failed. After so long a time I managed to get myself from his embrace and immediately I left the store. I made a bee-line for a good man and I made inquiry if this man drank. I was told by this good man that he had known his neighbor in business for thirty years and that he never knew him to take a drink, but he then led me to the sidewalk and pointing down the street just beyond this man's place of business he said to me, "Read that sign." I read: "Beer." Then I received this information: "For the last week I have been seeing that man go into that place, and he told me that he had started to drinking beer." My affectionate brother was tanked up on beer and he was as drunk as a fool. If you vote to repeal the prohibition laws you vote to make drunkards all over this country of ours. The kind of beer that will be sold when it is legalized will make folks drunk. Smoke that.

In North Carolina I climbed to the top of a tall mountain peek. It was the highest point in all that section, and my outlook was beautiful. After remaining there for some hours looking to the North, the East, the South and the West, I finally decided to descend. At that moment it occurred to me that I could not leave that elevation without going down. I was "down", it mattered not in what direction I traveled I had to go downward. When our great nation reached national prohibition we stood on the highest peak of whiskey control. After remaining on this elevation with its beautiful outlook for a sober nation, we decided to descend. It matters not if our nation did repeal her prohibition laws, it matters not if we repeal our state prohibition laws, we decide to descent from the best method on earth for the whiskey traffic. When we repeal we decide to go downward—in everything.

I was in a country home and an old decrepit dog came staggering into the room and the family made room for him. He strectched himself upon the rug and no one dared to disturb him. The father related this story: "Parson, I guesss you think rather strange that we allow that dog to have the choice place around the fire but it is this way. One day a mad bull made a dash for our little boy and this dog saw it and as quick as lightning he dashed between and seized the nose of that bull between his teeth and swung on. The bull forgot the boy and gave all of his attention to the dog until our boy was safe in our arms. That dog saved the life of my boy and he shall have all the comforts that I can give him. I reverence the dog and his master. Had it occurred to you that the prohibition laws in our state and nation have protected your boy and my boy during the last sixteen year To be sure the "mad bull" has gotten by the bull dog of the law many times during that time and he has gored many a fine youth to death but still, the faithful bull dog of the law has stepped between whiskey and our lads and save them from ruin. If you vote to repeal our prohibition laws you vote to take the bull dog of the law from between your lad and the mad bull of intemperance.

I made a call into a home of poverty and there sat a woman with a little child leaning against her knee. In tears she related the story that had called for her to ask to see me. Said she: "Brother Haskew, I worked during the week and I do not really make enough money to buy food and clothes for myself and this little lad. Saturday night I brought home my little sum of money and placed it in the Bible there on the table and then went to my room to dress that I might go down town and settle my bills. While I was out my husband slipped in and stole the money and went out with it for a night of revelry. He came back late Sunday afternoon as cross as a bear and my money all gone and not a thing to show for it. What I want to know is must I continue to try and live with him?" The repeal of our prohibition laws will mean the repeating that story thousands of times. In the name of God, folks, we cannot do it.

THE LENTEN SEASON

The observance of Lent. the great fast preceding Easter, is a custom which originated with the early church, probably in the latter part of the second century, but the number of days included in the Lenten season has varied widely at different times.

In the beginning, it appears from the writings of Irenaeus and other early fathers of the church, only one or two days of fasting were observed. By the fourth century periods of three six and even seven weeks were observed in various countries. with widely different customs with respect to the continuity of the fast.

As at present observed, Lent is a fast of forty days, not including Sundays, beginning with Ash Wednesday—this year on March 6—and ending the Saturday before Easter.

During Lent is is considered desirable by the churches observing it that their members abstain from food each fasting day until evening; also that the season be marked by frequent attendance at worship and increased diligence in works of charity. Various degrees of strictness in these observances have prevailed from time to time, and exceptions are made in accordance with the physical needs of certain individuals Indulgence in wordly amusements is considered unsuitable to the Lenten season.

Lent is observed by the Roman Catholic, Anglican and Lutheran churches.

Feels a Lot Better When Black-Draught Relieves Constipation

From many states come reports like the following from Mr. W. M. Henderson, of Jasper, Fla: "I have been taking Thedford's Black-Draught twenty years. I take it for constipation that gives me a dull, tired, aching feeling, and I have headache, too. Black-Draught relieves me of this trouble. After a few doses, I feel as good as new. I keep it in my home. I have a big family. When one of us is ailing (from constipation), we take Black-Draught and almost always feel a lot better. It has been worth its weight in gold to my family." . . . Sold in 25¢ packages. "Children like the Syrup."

Miss Sheppard Doing Splendid Work In Recreational Program Here

One of the most interesting projects that has been undertaken by the Alabama Relief Administration in Chilton County is the recreational program, under the supervision of Miss Lila James Sheppard, of Verbena, who hopes to organize recreational clubs and parks in all of the urban and most of rural communities of the county.

Already two clubs have been organized, Verbena and Jemison, and Miss Sheppard stated this week that she expects to organize and set up centers in Stanton, Maplesville, Thorsby, and Clanton almost immediately. The work is being handicapped because of the lack of funds for travel, she explained, therefore is progressing more slowly than is desirable.

Endeavoring to build more healthy bodies in the youngsters of the country, the government through the relief administration agencies is promoting organized recreation throughout the country. It is believed that strong, heathy bodies are more capable of surviving such economical storms as this nation's people have experienced during recent years.

Approximately 45 boys and girls at Jemison and 25 at Verbena are ardently grasping the opportunity of healthy play afforded. At Verbena a park was available and swings, tennis courts, croquet, and facilities for other games which afford exercise for both youngsters and their elders are being installed.

Miss Sheppard stated that is is her aim to also estabish these centers in the rural communities where it is at all possible. Members of the P.-T. A. at most of the schools in the county are lending their cooperation for the furtherance of the program.

Possessing a natural fondnes for children, Miss Sheppard is especially well fitted for this work, and will be successful in accomplishing a worthwhile service to the county.

TWO SUFFER MINOR INJURIES IN AUTO COLLISION SATURDAY

Virgil Glass and Miss Frances Davis, both of Clanton, suffered minor injuries Saturday night, when the car in which they were riding collided with another car on the Clanton-Selma highway, one mile west of Clanton.

At the Central Alabama Hospital, where they were taken for treatment, it was reported that Glass had suffered two fractured ribs and Miss Davis sustained a bruised right arm. Glass remained in the hospital over the week end.

The accident occurred when the light truck in which Glass and Miss Davis were riding struck another car, driven by Tom Frank Teel. A third car blinded Glass and he did not see Teel's car, which he said was stopped in the road with the lights off.

Teel, who is also of Clanton, was uninjured.

HEY, BIG BOY, I Can Tell You Sumpin' 'bout YOUR CROPS

● "You know I need vitamins in my food. They make me big and strong and healthy.

"And your crops are like me —they need things in their food that act like vitamins in mine."

That's a fact . . . and becoming better known every day. Your crops do need vitamin-like elements—the so-called impurities, such as boron, iodine, calcium, strontium, sodium, potassium, lithium and so on.

"A Pure Food and Drug Act for plants would be a death warrant to all living creatures."
—Scientific American

Chilean Natural Nitrate supplies these vital impurities, in Nature's own proportions. That's why this nitrogen fertilizer produces such healthy, money-making crops.

For your own protection say "Chilean" when you order nitrate. Two kinds—Champion (granulated) and Old Style. Both genuine. Both natural. Both Chilean. And both give your crops the vital impurities.

Prof. L. C. Warr stressed the educational and cultural advantages to be derived from the art exhibit sent here by the Colonial Art Company which is at the high school all this week.

LITTLEFIELD SUCCUMBS TO KNIFE WOUND

Bolton Brothers Held On Murder Charge In County Jail

Funeral services for Barney Littlefield, 45, who died Saturday night at a Birmingham hospital, of knife wounds suffered several weeks ago in an altercation at the court house, were held Monday morning at 11 o'clock from the Pleasant Hill cemetery. The Rev. W. S. Cox officiated. Martin & Sons were in charge of the burial services in the Blow cemetery.

George Bolton and Ernest Bolton, brothers, are being held in the County Jail on charges of first degree murder in connection with the stabbing which cost Littlefield his life.

The dead man was allegedly stabbed in the men's rest rooms at the court house while he was sitting on one of the stools. P. L. Robinson, former deputy-sheriff, testified in a preliminary hearing for Ernest Bolton two weeks ago, that he was present when the altercation began, and stated that George Bolton made a slash at Littlefield, declaring that he would cut his head off.

Robinson said that he ran up the stairs to the court room to notify officers of the impending fight, but when Policeman Browder and Deputy Smith reached the scene, only Ernest Bolton was there. Littlefield had been taken to the Central Alabama Hospital and Bolton's brother had gone.

At the preliminary, Robinson testified that when George told Littlefield that he would cut his head off, Ernest caught him by the arm and pleaded with him not to do that. Ernest in his own defense told Justice of the Peace J. L. Wilson that he did not do the stabbing, but declined to say that his brother did. These three were the only persons present, the former deputy said.

At the Central Alabama Hospital, Littlefield apparently was much improved until Thursday when his condition rapidly grew worse. He was taken to a Birmingham hospital Saturday morning for blood transfusions, but his life could not be saved. Internal bleeding is said to have begun Thursday or Friday. The knife pierced his heart.

Surviving Littlefield are, his father, H. T. "Uncle Tom" Littlefield; his widow, Mrs. Cora Littlefield; two sons, Drennon, and Winfred; four brothers, L. F., M. T., John, and D. C., all of Clanton; four sisters, Mrs. Ora Blow, Mrs. Flora Little, Mrs. Dora Glass all of Clanton, and Mrs. Magnolia Sasnett, of Anniston.

Pallbearers were: Herman Lowery Laverne Littlefield, H. D. Hilyer, Paul Honeycutt, Rasmonds Sammons, and Honrie Little.

A warrant charging the Bolton's with murder was issued Monday morning, it is understood. They have been held in jail since the stabbing, awaiting the outcome of Littlefield's injuries.

CRIPPLED CHILDREN WILL GET BENEFIT OF SALE OF SEALS

Easter Sale Of Seals To Begin April 21st: President Roosevelt Commends Movement; Public Urged To Buy Seals During Easter Week

The Alabama Society for Crippled Children is lending its full cooperation this year in the Easter Sale of Seals for the benefit of crippled children and during the Easter week, beginning April 21, the sale of these seals will be actively pushed.

Ninety per cent of the money raised in this sale of seals will be used in Alabama and the communities contributing and is believed to be one of the best methods of raising funds to aid the crippled child.

There is an immediate need for funds to carry this work forward. At present there are 625 crippled children in Alabama who are now ready to be placed in hospitals for operations and the funds to be raised from this Easter Sale are necessary before these unfortunate children may be able to walk normally.

When President Roosevelt wrote his endorsement of the plan, he said: "I write now to commend the movement, which several states soon are to launch in an effort to arouse national consciousness in behalf of the crippled child and to raise funds for his care and general welfare."

Town's New Industry Is Thriving Says Manager

Clanton's newest industry is rapidly gaining recognition and apparently is enjoying a thriving start. The constant ring of the hammers and the roar of the bellows, shaping hot metal into scores of necessary and useful articles, is fast becoming a recognized part of the din of the Chilton County metropolis.

This industry is the Clanton Foundry and Machine Shop, operated by Frank Roos, who believes that he can make anything if its chief element is iron. Mr. Roos came to Chilton County several weeks ago and set up his foundry, the equipment installed, he is just beginning to get ready to really show the people of this section what can really be done right at home.

Already dozens of intricate and useful articles are piled about the dirt floor, andirons, plow points, plow slides, and numerous others can be made, it was explained. If the part needed to repair any implement can not be found at the hardware stores, Mr. Roos declared that he can cast it right in his shop.

This promises to be a worthwhile addition to Clanton's industrial establishments. Much money that has heretofore gone out of the county for this type of work can now be spent at home, Mr. Roos pointed out.

Chevrolet Offers Public Every Service Facility

"Never forget a customer—Never let him forget you."

Originated by William E. Holler, general sales manager of Chevrolet Motor Company, this now famous slogan is placed above the desks of Chevrolet dealers throughout the country, and it is a guide to relations between try; Chevrolet owners and dealers everywhere.

"The value to the motorist of his contact with the automobile dealer of today," said Mr. Holler in commenting on this subject, "is determined largely by the ability of the dealer to meet the motorists' demands. Especially is this true as it applies to service on cars alrealy sold.

"Today Chevrolet is in the hands of approximately 10,000 dealers in this country alone. This means that the complete service facilities of one of the world's largest distributing organizations are at the disposal of owners of more than 5,000,000 Chevrolet cars now in operation in every state in the Union.

"It has been, and always will be, the constant aim of Chevrolet dealers to serve car owners with complete maintainance facilities," said Mr. Holler. "The service rendered to Chevrolet owners is not only thorough and comprehensive, but scientific and meticulous. We insist that every dealer's service man be a specialist in his line.

"Chevrolet maintains a service manager and a crew of service instructors in every one of its 43 zones for the purpose of training dealers' service managers and mechanics in the best-known methods of shop practice and service station management. At regular intervals, classes are held in each zone for service men from surrounding territories.

"Another distinctive feature of Chevrolet service," Mr. Holler pointed out, "is the special tool and precision machinery equipment which is available to every Chevrolet dealer. The use of these practical counterparts of the production tools actually used in the manufacture of Chevrolet cars, greatly lessens maintainance cost and insures standard methods of repair.

"Dealers, by the use of these tools and the special instruction afforded their service departments, may perform adjustments and services for owners with the same unvarying precision and speed that the factory does in manufacturing the car. It goes without saying that it is to the owner's advantage to make use of the special facilities of Chevrolet dealers for the servicing of Chevrolet cars."

TAX COMMISSION CLOSING IN ON TOBACCO TAX VIOLATORS

Counterfeiting Ring Nabbed In Jefferson County By Tax Agents; P.-T. A. Aids In Bringing Violators In And Helps State Schools

Evidence of the existence of a counterfeiting ring turning out bogus tobacco revenue stamps was uncovered recently by agents of the State Tax Commission in Jefferson County. As a result of their work, Russell A. Wright, owner of the Wright Cigar Company, Birmingham, has been indicted by the Jefferson County Grand Jury on charges of buying, selling and having in possession of the State Tax Commission will lead, it is believed, to the eventual discovery of the counterfeiting plant itself. While the counterfeiting machinery has not yet been unearthed, agents of the Tax Commission were reported "closing in" on this phase of the investigation, with further developments expected at an early date. The case against Wright was made by B. W. Pierce and Cecil L. Davis, field agents of the Tobacco Tax Division.

Since the present administration took office in January, a number of retail tobacco dealers have been fined for re-using tobacco stamps, which had been once legally used and then re-attached to additional packages of cigarettes. The Wright case, however, presents an entirely different aspect, involving the use of an undetermined quantity of fake stamps illegally manufactured and fraudulently put into circulation. As a result of the startling discovery of counterfeit stamps in the Wright case, agents of the Tax Commission are at work to track the counterfeiting business to its source. There is no telling how much revenue the school fund of Alabama has lost from this source, and this additional leak plugged a further boost in revenue from the tobacco tax is to be expected.

The State Tax Commission recently changed the type of revenue stamp used for tobacco. The new stamp is especially designed for attaching to cellophane and is of such character that it cannot be detached and re-used, thus breaking up another source of law violation which has been cutting down the State's revenue.

The State Tax Commission has found a valuable ally in its fight against the cigarette bootlegger in the Parent-Teacher Associations over the State. Proceeds from the Tobacco Tax go to the public school fund and the P.-T. A. has been aroused by the widespread robbery of this fund by violators of the law and is cooperating splendidly with the Tax Commission in putting down such violations. The legitimate tobacco dealers are also working hand in hand with the State Tax Department in securing the enforcement of the law.

Chilton Boys Get API Military Honors

Three Chilton County boys, students at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute at Auburn, and graduates of the Chilton County High School have received honors for military and class work last week.

These were Virgil Robinson, son of Mr. and Mrs. P. R. Robinson, Herman Harris, son of Mr and Mrs. Grady F. Harris, and Dan Smith, son of Mrs. Mamie Smith. They received ribbons because of their military aptitude and high scholastic standing. Dan Smith who has also ben serving as one of the news editors of "The Plainsman" school paper is now serving as managing editor of the paper.

Chilton Is 52nd To Secure Health Unit

Montgomery, Alabama—Alabama's State Health Department, which has been used as a model by many other states and several foreign countries, is making substantial progress toward the restoration of the widespread system of pre-depression days when 90 per cent of the State's population was protected by full-tme health units.

Chilton County citizens will come under such protection March 15 with the establishment of a county health deparment. County officials have appropriated funds for the establishment of a three-piece unit, consisting of a health officer, public health nurse, and a clerk. The unit will work in close cooperation with the State Health Department.

Chilton County will be the 52nd county to provide full-time health service to its people, only two less than when the health system was at its peak in 1931. Dr. J. N. Baker, State Health Officer, said progress also was being made toward re-establishing some of the county units that were discontinued in recent years because of a lack of funds. Let us all hope that the present legislature will somehow provide the funds necessary to build back this service so badly needed, but especially in our more rural counties.

Survey Shows Trade At Best Since 1931

New York.—The strong trend of nearly all branches of trade at the turn of the year already has developed sufficient force to lift the records of gain above all the comparative ones as far back as 1931, the weekly trade review of Dun & Bradstreet said.

Of greater significance than this, however, the survey says, "is the assurances generally expressed that the well-constructed base on which achievement now rests provides for the continuance of progress on a less checkered course than it was forced to follow at times during 1934.

"In face," the survey continues, "welfare rolls in many districts definitely are smaller than a month ago, the drop being in direct relationship to the expanding total of the numebr employed. In the automobile-producing centers employment now has reached the peak since 1930, with constant additions being made to pay rolls."

Immunizing Dogs For Rabies Effective

"The proof of the pudding," said Dr. J. N. Baker, State Health Officer, "is in the eating. The State Department of Health has sponsored a bill in the present Legislature requiring that all dogs be licensed and a prerequisite of licensure would be that they be immunized against rabies. Unlicensed dogs would be handled through municipal or county pounds. A certain amount of opposition has developed towards this bill. However, witness what has happened in Birmingham during the past two months where a city ordinance which embodies all the salient features of the proposed act was enforced January 1st, 1935.

"In Birmingham for January and February of this year the animal heads positive for rabies have decreased 70 per cent and the number of anti-rabic treatments 70 per cent, when compared with January and February, 1934. Jefferson County outside of Birmingham, although unaffected by this ordinance, shows a decrease in positive heads of 48 per cent and in treatments of 53 per cent for the first two months of this year, in comparison with the first two months of 1934. This shows conclusively that Birmingham was serving as a focus of infection for the whole area.

"This decrease has taken place in the face of an increasing number of rabid animals and treatments distributed in other sections of the State. Statistics have shown that formerly Birmingham was without doubt the city most badly infected with rabies in the United States and probably in the whole world. Five made dogs roamed its streets every minute of the day, every day of the year. Now other cities in Alabama seem to be taking the unenviable eminence which Birmingham had achieved. Only recently Montgomery and its environs sent five positive dog heads to the State Laboratory in one day.

"With the increasing spread of rabies in Alabama some legislation for the control of the dog population is imperative," concluded Dr. Baker.

ROBERT LEE SURLES KILLED BY TRUCK

Robert Lee Surles, 19-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Surles, died in the Central Alabama Hospital in Clanton March 3rd

Death resulted from injuries sustained in a truck wreck at Billingsley February 28th

He leaves to mourn his loss a mother and father, one brother, Ronald; one half-brother J. F. Shepard; two sisters, Rowena and Lucille; two half-sisters Mrs. Homer Turner and Mrs Tom Weldon; and a host of friends.

His body was laid to rest in New Cedron cemetery with Martin in charge and the Rev. S. J. Ezell officiating.

A precious one from us is gone.
  A voice we loved is stilled.
A place is vacant in our home
  Which never can be filled.
We loved him, yes, we loved him,
  But angels loved him more
And they have sweetly called him
  To yonder shining shore.
The golden gates were opened,
  A gentle voice said come,
And with farewells unspoken
  He calmly enterd home.

Cotton Meal Is Good For Mules

Southern Seed Product Is Found Substitute For Scarce Grains

Since domestic supplies of corn, oats and hay are seriously short, farmers throughout the South should give attention to the use of cottonseed meal as a mule feed, declares Dr. Milton P. Jarnagin, head animal husbandry department, College of Agriculture, University of Georgia, Athens.

It is real economy to add two pounds of cottonseed meal to the daily ration of each mule or horse, replacing about four pounds of corn or oats.

Corn at $1 per bushel (56 pounds) is $35.70 per ton. One pound of cottonseed meal equals, as feed, two pounds of corn in mule and horse rations, giving a relative potential value of $71.40 per ton to cottonseed meal.

Cottonseed meal contains about four times as much protein as corn. Where it is fed as a protein supplement, in amounts required to properly balance the ration, it will have twice the feeding value, pound for pound, as corn.

A Georgia farmer, H. E. McMath, of Sumter County, writes:

"We place daily 1½ to 2 pounds of cottonseed meal per mule in the feed troughs in which about 25 mules are fed. It is distributed over the corn on the cob. The next morning the meal has disappeared! The mules are in good condition, sleek and glossy, and this method of feeding is much cheaper.

"The protein content of cottonseed meal is much higher than corn, and does not make the stock pant and blow or perspire during the hot summer months as stock will do that are fed on corn along with hay."

To increase the palatability of cottonseed meal two to three pounds of salt should be sprinkled over each 100 pounds of meal fed.

In view of the fact that hundreds of carloads of corn are annually shipped into Alabama from other states, it would be of great advantage to Alabama farmers to replace much of this and consume their own home grown cottonseed meal, as the increased consumption of cottonseed meal would reflect back into increased price of cottonseed, advises livestock specialists of the Alabama Experiment Station, Auburn.

Coosa Launches Cotton Program

Rockford, Ala.—Four one-variety cotton communities have been organized in Coosa County at Rockford, Nixburg, Weogufka, and Goodwater to improve the grade and staple of cotton produced each year.

"Only a good staple variety averaging around an inch will be grown," reports E. N. Merriwether, county agent. Growers are being stocked with good seed sufficient to plant seed patches to multiply the supply of good seed for use in future years."

Farmers in each community have selected a cotton improvement committee to help in carrying out the cotton program.

Keep Tree Roots Damp When Planting

Montgomery—Tree planters are urged by the Alabama Commission of Forestry to see that the roots of the seedlings and saplings be kept constantly damp while being transported and handled preparatory to planting. According to information issued by the Commission, the drying out of root systems is responsible for a very large proportion of planting failures.

Experiments with coniferous evergreens indicate roughly that if the roots of the trees are permitted to dry out for as long as ten minutes there will be a death rate of 5 per cent in the planted stand. A twenty minute exposure to the sun or drying winds will result in a loss of approximately 10 per cent; thirty minutes, 70 per cent; forty-five minutes, 90 per cent, and a full hour of exposure to drying influences is apt to cause a total loss. For these reasons the regular planting procedure requires that the seedlings of pines and other conifers be carried about the work in a bucket with the roots immersed in thin wet mud. The seedlings should not be removed from the bucket until the planting hole is dug and they are ready to be placed immediately in the ground with the damp earth pressed firmly about the roots.

Hardwood seedlings and saplings will endure more root drying than will conifers. However, the only assurance of uniform survival of most tree species is to keep the roots in a damp condition by packing them in earth or wet shavings or wrapping them about with damp burlap. Both hardwood and conifer planting stock that is being transported from point to point preliminary to planting should be packed in this way.

L & N RAILROAD WILL SPEND BIG SUM FOR IMPROVEMENT

Improvements Being Made To Take Care Of Larger Shipment Of Fruits And Vegetables From South Alabama

Approximately $25,000 will be expended for additional storage, loading and passing tracks at Bay Minette, Ala., and loading points on the Foley Branch, which will call for 28,000 to 30,000 man hours of employment, also the purchase of approximately $6500.00 worth of cross ties. The announcement is of general interest as indicating the growth of the movement of fruits and vegetables from these points on the L & N Railroad in South Baldwin County, which last year amounted to approximately 4,500 cars, and the continued growth of the territory is indicated in the provision of these extensive improved facilities.

Coincident with the announcement arrangements were made to begin work immediately on the following improvements:

Bay Minette, 80 car storage track.

Loxley, 80 car passing track and 46 car storage and loading track.

Summerdale, 295 ft. extension of combination house and team track.

Robertsdale, 228 ft. extension of house and team track.

Foley, 965 ft. equipment track.

50 Million A Year Saved By New U. S. Financing

When the Roosevelt administration entered office, more than $6,000,000,00 etered office, more than $6,000,000,000 was outstanding in Fourth Liberty bonds, all bearing interest at the loan rate of 4¼ per cent. On April 15 next $1,850,000,000 of these bonds come due and according to its March 4 offer, the Government on that date either will redeem them in cash or exchange them for new 25-year bonds bearing 2 7-8 per cent interest.

On March 15, $528,000,000 in 21-2 per cent notes matured, which the Government replaced with new five-year notes bearing 1 5-8 per cent interest, redeeming in cash the insignificant number turned in for that purpose.

Neither transaction represents new borrowing. Both are entirely refunding of older issues and add nothing to the national dabt. But they have attracted extremely favorabl comment in financiaal circles, principally because the lower rates are expected to influence investment money to enter commercial channels and together they effect an annual saving of more than $50,000,000 in interest.

A significant point emphasized by financial commentators is that the Government's failure to seek new money in connection with its regular annual March refinancing clearly indicates that the Treasury anticipates a smaller deficit for the current fiscal year than was forecast in the President's budget message.

DEATH OF SAMMIE DUNLAP

On March 3 the death angel visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Dunlap and bore away the spirit of their little daughter, Sammie. She was just sixteen months old. To know her was to love her.

Sammie was too sweet to stay in this old world and God took her to his heavenly home. Burial was at Highland church March 4, with Brislin Brothers in charge and the Rev. A. E. Trice officiating.

We saw not the white robed angel
As it entered with folded wings
And carried dear Sammie
To the arms of the Heavenly King
There with the angels to share
With never a sorrow or care.
We hope to meet her some day
In that home not far away.

Special Effort Being Pushed To Stamp Out Hookworms Among Children In Co.

A survey of school children has been made in Chilton County in order to determine the amount of hookworm infestation that existed. This survey has shown that one out of every three children in Chilton County has hookworm. This is quite a high rate for a county so far north in Alabama, since previous surveys have shown that the heaviest hookworm infestation is in South Alabama. The survey also showed that some schools had more than 50 per cent of the children infested with hookworms. Every child that has been shown to have hookworms has been given the treatment. It is to be hoped that every child who has received the medicine will take the drug and rid themselves of hookworms. Follow up work will show how many children have actually been ridden of these worms.

Continuation of this work is being carried on by Dr. H. C. Nickson, health officer, who stated that a recheck of every positive case will be made within the next few weeks.

Below is given a list of the schools in the county and the per centage of infestation:

Do Your Plants Have Indigestion

Do you remember way back when as a boy you thought you knew more than mother and father, and ate several green apples? And how well you remember the terrible stomach ache you had:

Well, you may not know it but growin potatoes, cauliflower, or other crops on soils which are too sour (acid) gives the mindigestion. That's why these crops can't produce big bumper yields. Authorities have proved with field experiments that it is most profitable to grow crops on land that won't give crops acid indigestion. This is because plants, like humans, can't make the best use of food in the presence of too much acid.

This explains why plants can't get the full benefit of the nourishments contained in fertilizers which release acid in the soil. The acid in the fertilizer puts the "brakes" on the crop.

A new scientific development has recently been announced by one of the principal fertilizer manufacturers. It is a "Non-Acid Forming (Physiologically Neutral) Fertilizer." Claims are made that this fertilizer is so formulated that it will not create acidity in the soil and that it does not change the soil in any respect. It permits crops to go full speed ahead.

Coupled up with this important feature, this new brand contains added magnesiu mand calcium and other important elements which agricultural authorities claim are very essential to best crops. Further, they say these elements are deficient in most soils.

It appears that this new physiologically neutral brand of fertilizer is just what our farmers want. Already reports indicate it has produced much better yields and quality in all crops than where regular acid forming fertilizer was used.

Feed Cottonseed Meal And Hulls To Horses, Mules And Oxen

CORN AND HAY SUPPLY SHORT

The 1934 corn crop in the United States is seriously short --- about one billion bushels below normal and the domestic hay crop also short. Cottonseed meal and hulls can replace corn and hay in rations. Conserve your corn and hay by substituting cottonseed meal and hulls in daily feed for horses and mules. Cottonseed meal is a very rich and concentrated feed. One pound of cottonseed meal will replace two pounds of corn or oats.

See your county agent or nearby oil mill for information on feeding cottonseed meal and hulls to all types of livestock.

"For Pete's Sake" has a story and a cast that will interest you throughout. Lying as a fine are certainly calls for a strong head, a stout heart, and a good memory, and Peter Pepperdine has all these qualifications to fit him for a magnificent liar. When his exasperated aunt, in an effort to discipline him, starts on a summer tour of Palestine without him, he rents her mansion, against her expressed desire, to her dearest enemy, the mother of his lady love, and masquerades as her butler, disguising his pal, Bill, as her gardener and muggsy the despised college grind who is supposed to tutor him all summer, as her housemaid. However, Aunt Sara spoils everything by suddenly canceling her trip and coming home. Peter and Bill are in a fix. How do they ever manage to get things straightened out? Come out and find out for yourself.

The cast includes Celia Gerald, Lois Foshee, Eloise Rasberry, Sara Lawrencer, Ruth Gowan, Gertiwyl Vinson, Quentin Kelley, Frank Hogan, Jack Gillespie, Bill Armstrong, John D. Thomas and Morgan Reynolds.

the selfish position. before my friends and the public, of being willing to receive benefit from Clanton each day, and not be willing to give something back to Clanton thru taxes for this support and material gain I receive.

Why not come together, play the game fair, and all strive to make Clanton a larger and better town instead of trying to hold it within the very small area it now occupies. Clanton is a very important part of Chilton County and every person in the entire County should be interested in making it a city of many thousands of people.

SCHOOLS

county will continue until April 19, he stated. The reason for the above named schools closing earlier is that they were begun at the same time as the high schools in the county.

Efforts are being made by the faculty and Parent-Teachers Association of the Clanton Grammar School to secure funds for at least another month, giving the school an eight months term. The Town Council appropriated $400 for this purpose at a recent meeting, leaving approximately $535 to be raised. Dr. W. L. Parrish, chairman of a committee to raise this amount, declared this week that he is confident of the cooperation of the people of Clanton, expressing firm belief that arrangements will be made for the continuance of this school for at least another month.

Eleven teachers are employed at the Clanton school and 458 pupils are enrolled.

The five accredited high schools in the county will complete their nine months terms May 17, according to Mr. Little. These schools are located at Clanton, Verbena, Maplesville, Isabella, and Jemison.

CRIPPLED CHILD

that 12,935 were dependent, neglected or delinquent. With 2.6 percent of the children in the counties named dependent, neglected or delinquent, it is estimated that there were 32,323 such children in need of care in the state of Alabama as a whole."

In Chilton County there were found to be 289 dependent, neglected and delinquent children who need special care. 243 of these children are white and 46 are colored. 21 of the 289 were found to be dependent, 272 neglected and 6 delinquent. 34 were attending school, 218 were not attending school and 37 were under school age.

This is not an absolutely accurate picture of the situation because a number of cases have been called to the attention of the Child Welfare Supt., which were unknown to her or to the Relief Administration at the time of the survey. Some of these children are crippled, many are undernourished, a few are blind and many are suffering from defective vision. Some are mentally deficient.

"These figures are startling and should be a challenge to every citizen of Chilton County. What are we going to do about it?," Miss Meroney challenged.

BUDGET PLAN

000 monthly for the upkeep of the roads in the four districts, and sets aside an emergency fund of $1,500 per month for the repair and purchase of equipment.

Calling the special meeting, Probate Judge J. Lee Smith outlined a system to the court which he had prepared for the establishment of a budget plan of maintaining the county's roads. After a lengthy discussion the court voted unamiously to adopt it. Judge Smith urged the measure as being justified by sound business judgement, declaring that the county's funds are at lower level than in many years, due to increased expense during recent months of carrying the burden of a heavy relief roll.

Members of the court were quick to recognize the advantage of the plan and joined in enthusiastically in working out minor details to perfect the system.

system. Com. J. C. Atkinson, Howard R, Oden, and J. P. Bean voluntarily diverted $40 per month from their $1,000 to district 4, represented by Com. C. D. Duke, because of larger area, thus giving Mr. Duke $1,120 and the other districts $960.

The average monthly income from the State gasoline tax is approximately $5,500. This provides the $4,000 road and $1,500 emergency fund.

Judge Smith explained the advantages of the budget idea, declaring that it divides the funds more equally throughout the county. With each district being allotted its share, the money may be spent as the commissioners deem it wise instead of each trying to secure as much as possible for his district by having work done that perhaps would be more effective at a later date. Too, it will have a tendency to create a spirit of friendly vieing with each other among these officials, because each commissioner will want to demonstrate his business judgement in accomplishing as much as possible on his budget.

The plan as adopted calls for the continuance of the system until the end of this half-year, July 1, when Judge Smith said that he believed that the commissioners will be in favor of extending it to cover the remainder of the year.

cation, is a resident of Thorsby, a graduate of the Thorsby Institute and the Alverson Business College, Birmingham Since completing her course at the Birmingham institution, Miss Martin has been employed by the County Welfare Board.

Dr. Nickson stated that it is his plan to continue the health work that has been begun in connection with the schools in the county. Now is the most appropriate time to do this work, he explained, while school is in session. Later it is his aim to put into effect a county-wide program that will include a thorough examination of all school children, sanitary inspections of places where persons' lives might be endangered by the spread of diseases, health lectures to both young and old, and other phases of work that might be valuable in the furtherance of this program.

Your County Officials

A Brief History of Newly Elected Officers

Arthur Martin, Tax Assessor

When questioned about his plans for the operation of the office of tax assessor of Chilton County, Arthur D. Martin's answer was a simple one. The newy elected official declared that he expects to render the best service of which he is capable to the tax-payers of his county.

The simplicity of this answer characterizes the man who for next four years will occupy the office of tax assessor. Those who know him well will tell you that Arthur Martin is the type of man that can be expected to do the right thing to the best of his ability.

Born and reared in the Riderville community, he is a native and practically a lifelong resident of Chilton County. Except for a brief time while he operated a grocery business at Centerville, Mr. Martin has lived in this county, engaged most of the time in farming.

He is the only child of Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Martin. Educated in the public schools of this county, he has always been an ardent supporter of education. For several years he served as trustee of the Isabella school, located in the community in which he has made his home for the past 26 years.

This is his first time to serve as a public offical. Four years ago he made the race for the office to which he was elected in the last November election, but was defeated by Akins I. Collins. In the recent election, Mr. Martin was victorious by a majority of 91 votes.

Although he has never held elective office before, he has been actively interested for many years in governmental affairs, especially in this county; and as a member of the Board of Registrars for eight years has been influential in spreading the philosophy of clener government.

He is married and the father of five children, and is a member of the Baptist church.

Last week it was stated the hour was seven o'clock which was incorrect, as Mr. Pitts states in the following letter. The program will be made up of short talks about the resources, assets and other good things about Clanton, with musical numbers interspersed and promises to be one of the best yet.

Too Many Used Auto Tires

A telephone call Tuesday from J. E. Easterling the congenial operator of the Woco Service Station near the courthouse, instructed the News to "stop that ad I've been running in your paper about used tires."

On being questioned as to why, J. E. replied, "I've got more used auto tires now than I know what to do with." So—if you will pardon us—again a little want ad brought results.

NOTED BILLINGSLEY WOMAN IS LAID TO REST LAST TUESDAY

Miss Bone, known to her many friends in the Western section of the county as "Miss Nannie," had lived in Chilton County for the past 40 years. She became ill about three weeks ago, when she was stricken with pneumonia. She is a daughter of the late Rev. W. J. Bone, widely known minister.

She is survived by two brothers, O. D. Bone, of Clanton route 2, and Prof. J. F. Bone, of Hartford, Ala.; five sisters, Mrs. L. E. Gandy, Mrs. Canzada Williams, both of Clanton route 3, Mrs. J. T. NEW SPRING APPAREL OUT

Stores Ready With A Complete Line Of New Goods

"In the Spring a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love," sighed the poet of long ago. Every day on every hand, we see both men and women, and children, too, turning to their various "loves." The sod must be turned; it's about time for Spring cleaning; and, of course, a survey must be made of the old swimming hole, or the favorite fishing pole has to be dragged out.

A tour of Clanton stores reveals wide-awake, up-to-the-minute merchandisers, who believe and practice the philosophy of Springtime. Every store is literally lined with bargains in Spring merchandise. There's just the dress for mother, sister, or wife—the suit that'll take ten years from your age, or in the case of those in their 'teens perhaps 'twill add five—anyway Clanton merchants are chanting the song of Spring.

Every display window reminds those who saunter down the streets that old Man Winter has yielded his throne, and a more lovely, warm hearted ruler wields the sceptor in his stead.

Maybe you plan to make that fishing trip that you have missed for the past five years. If so, you'll find the tackle, lines, hooks, and other essentials that will mean much to the success of outing at some of Clanton's many stores

March 22nd was the date for the official debut of the Season, and the degree of enthusiasm which Old Sol has been injecting into his task of warming the earth, after long months of Winter's reign, imbues one with the well known Spring fever and makes him want to lean against a post in sheer appreciation.

Violets and Sweet Williams are creeping from underneath half-hidden stones, heralding songs and sunshine; birds flutter joyously here and there, seeking the early worm or gathering materials for the nests that must be made ready for mating season, and soon the woods will don their cloaks of verdant green.

The pungent smell of fertilizers fill the rural air. Soft plowed earth bournes the roads where soon another year's crops will stand. Perspiring mules and horses placidly draw plows that are guided by brawny arms along winding furrows. Dog Woods are blooming—hickory buds are swelling, it's time corn was in the ground. A warming note from the Whippoorwill's throat cautions those who would be laggard.

The "Forty days of Groundhog weather are past. Easter may be a month away, but Spring and Spring fever are here!

LOCAL OFFICE OF NRS UNDER NEW MANAGER

W. H. Slaton Assumed Charge Of Office Last Monday

William H. Slaton, of Mobile, arrived in Clanton Monday morning to assume the duties as manager of the Chilton County office of the National Re-employment Service, which has supervision of selecting the employes for the several federal projects in this county.

Mr. Slaton, who has been with the service since the inaugeration of the CWA in 1933, succeeds M. C. Slaughter, who transferred to Montgomery several weeks ago. Since Slaughter left here, Grover C. Harris, Jr., has been serving as acting manager of this office. He will be retained as assistant, Mr. Slaton announced.

Before becoming connected with the CWA, Mr. Slaton was engaged by a large lumber concern at Tuskegee for seven years. Since joining the staff of the CWA and other federal agencies to furnish employment to the thousands of needy men and women throughout Alabama and other states, he has been located at Union Springs and Mobile as manger of re-employment offices, and at Montgomery as statistician.

Only about fifty men are employed on the two PWA projects now underway in this county. The extension of the watermains for Clanton and the installation of a $28,000 waterworks system for Thorsby was completed this week.

W. A. Martin, well known farmer of near Jemison was a recent visitor to the News office.

Causes Of Crime

In their efforts to find an explanation for the increasing prevalence of crime, many thoughtful persons have concluded that the tendency to burden the public with a growing multiplicity of laws may account for much of the lawlessness which now prevails.

Speaking before an international convention of police chiefs, Dr. Carlton Simon said: "We can limit and harass human freedom to such an extent that even the normally balanced individual feels that he is oppressed and will seek unlawful means of expressing his personality."

Through the operation of innumerable laws and the activities of government agencies employed thereunder, we are restricted, inspected, spied upon, investigated and caused many unnecessary annoyances which are resented by a people who love freedom.

If more attention were paid to apprehending and punishing real criminals while allowing greater freedom from harrassment to respectable citizens, we should doubtless have a more law-abiding and happier citizenship

A Senator's Retort

Much favorable press comment has been accorded Oklahoma's blind Senator, Thomas P. Gore, because of his courageous and spirited reply to certain of his constituents who threatened him with political vengeance if he did not vote for the $4,880,000,000 work-relief bill.

Aside from and consideration of the merits of the bill itself, the Senator's retort is worthy of repetition. He said:

"This will acknowledge your exceedingly diplomatic and hospitable telegram. It shows how the dole spoils the soul. Your telegram intimates that your votes are for sale. Much as I value votes, I'm not in the market; I cannot consent to buy votes with the people's money.

"I owe a debt to the taxpayers as well as the unemployed. I shall discharge both. None but the bully resorts to threats and none but the coward yields to them.

Dare to go out on the filmiest cloud,
Skimming the ocean of sky
Free of the weights that have burdened the heart,
Dare to surmount, and to fly!
Far above hills that have taunted the eyes—

Over the marshes of uncertain thought,
Rapids that snatch at the breath.
Better to perish, if perish you must,
On the horizon of dreams,
Rather than limit yourself to a world
Always as small as it seems!

Governor Graves has just paroled 116 Alabama convicts to allow them to return to their rural homes and cultivate crops so as to assist their families to earn a livelihood and thus escape being objects of charity.

The "crops parole" ordered by Gov. Graves as a means of "helping the folks back home" will end July 15 and the convicts must return to prison to complete their sentences. This will give time for the cultivating of the crops, but the harvesting will be left to the women and children.

Figures Don't Lie

A survey of the two-year period ending January 31 last, prepared by the Bureau of Labor Statistics and just issued by Secretary of Labor Perkins, showed marked increases in the number of workers employed in this country at the present time have actually regained the buying power they enjoyed in 1929. And of even more importance, when taken in conjunction with the relatively moderate rise in the cost of living over the period covered, the survey reveals a recovery in buying power of notable proportions.

While the survey emphasizes the need for absorption of workers now unemployed in the durable goods industries, it shows that further increases in the earnings of those already at work is not necessary to place business activity on a level with that of 1929.

Largely as a result of increased factory output of 38 per cent between January, 1933 and January, 1935 the total number of workers engaged in the reporting manufacturing industries increased 30.6 per cent during that period. To a lesser degree, the increase was due to a reduction of 3.7 per cent in the average number of hours worked per week. Weekly payrolls for these factories showed a gain of 62.3 per cent, about one-half attributable to increase in numbers employed and the remainder to an increase of 24.2 per cent in their average weekly earnings. The earning expansion was said to be due principally to application of code wage minima.

Using data on wages and prices of all commodities as of November, 1934, Secretary Perkins found that the cost of living had increased by 5.3 per cent over the entire period covered by the survey. Since last November food costs have risen and rents have been slightly firmer, but prices of many manufactured goods have been lower.

For manufacturing industries alone, the rise in workers' buying power is placed at an average of 4 per cent below the comparable 1929 figure. However, for all reporting industries the average buying power is actually 3 per cent larger than it was before the depression began.

Considered in connection with the sharp rise in farm products, which in recent weeks has brought farm purchasing power to the highest point in several years, this substantial gain in buying power of industrial workers explains the splendid showing registered in retail trade and in nearly all of the consumer manufacturing industries. As the President predicted when he signed the National Industrial Recovery Act on June 16, 1933, the gains recorded are not sensational but they have been steady and sure

Penalties Of A 30-Hour Week

Advocates of the thirty-hour week, who are claiming that the pending measure will pass both the House and Senate, will be remiss in their duty of the country unless they accompany the proposal with some workable plan of offsetting the increased cost of living and the decreased employment that will inevitably result from the inauguration of the thirty-hour system.

It requires no skilled mathematician to understand that when the labor of the producer is cut from forty to thirty hours the thing he produces will cost twenty-five per cent more to turn out. That is as plain as the nose on ones face. Now, the imperative question is, how is this increase to be met?

No argument is required to prove that as matters stand, the consumer cannot possibly shoulder any such increase in the cost of producing things that are needful. It is a self-evident fact that tens of millions of persons are having great difficulty in making ends meet with prices as they are, and unless their incomes are increased in proportion to the increased cost of things, buying will slump as certain as two and two make four.

The gentlemen in Washington should let the country know what profit there is to be derived from legislation that will discourage buying and diminish gainful employment. Will the fact that men will have more time for recreation compensate for the fact that they will have less of the comforts of life, because of higher prices, and fewer opportunities to be at work because of decreased demand?—Tuscaloosa News.

D. W. Haskew

One day in early Spring my wife and I were out in the woods in search of flowers. As we strolled over the hills and across the streams we detected a a sweet odor in the air that told of blooming flowers somewhere. We journeyed to a tree that was covered over with blooms, thinking that we would find the flower that was filling the air with sweetness, but there was no odor there. After much search we finally located a cluster of little flowers that were blooming at our feet and from them was coming the odor that filled the air with fragrance. It is not the folks in this world alone who stand high in the ways of life, in whom we find the sweetest elements of living. In the humble homes, in the most unlikely places, we often find the lives that bloom in beauty and fill the world with sweetness.

I moved to a parsonage and found a neglected corner of the yard all covered over with briars and thistles. After arranging the inside of my new home I entered the yard to make it what I thought it should be. It took much perspiration and many scratched fingers to clear out that corner of briars, but it was done. Wife and I planted flowers in that corner and soon the unsightly ground was made to bloom in beauty. The year before that corner in the yard grew briars and thistles, but under our toil and care it was made to grow flowers that were beautiful indeed. It is well for us to know that flowers will grow in places that will produce briars and thistles. Why do we find so many unsightly places in human lives? Is it not because of neglect? When we become willing to weed out the briars and will go to the trouble of planting flowers, we will also learn that flowers will grow in human hearts where thistles have been growing.

One night my wife and I were reading by the lectric light and she came across a bright idea in her magazine and she decided to practice it on me. Looking at me out of the corner of her eye she said, "I have just learned that your purse is made of pig skin." Of course I was curious to know how she had made such discovery and this is what she shot back at me,—"Because every time I ask you to open it you squeal." I was silent in language but my thought ran to and fro among my church members and I could locate many who doubtless had purses made out of Bull dog skins, for every time I asked them to open their purses they growled. Blessed is the man who carries a smiling purse for his wife and for his church.

I carried my daughter's little girl down town to see the circus parade. We were standing on the side walk and the little child was holding to my finger. Soon the parade came in sight and the pushing crowd closed in around us and shut out the vision of the little girl on the ground. I glanced down at her and saw the tears trickling down her cheeks. She did not have to speak. I knew what was troubling her and instantly I lifted her into my arms. I shall never forget the touch of that baby arm as it went around my neck and the joy that filled that little face as she looked into my eyes for a moment. She said nothing, but she did not have to speak. I knew and she knew. With her eyes up level with mine we watched the parade as it went by. Look all around you my friend and if you have a heart you see little faces lifted toward you. Our children are begging that we lift them up and give them vision. Blessed is the man, the woman, who is lifting childhood that they may see.

History tells us that Ulysses pretended to be crazy to prevent being carried into the battles with the Trojans. He hitched an ox and a mule together and began plowing the soil and sowing it down with salt. Some suspected that he was pretending insanity and to test him they seized his little boy and thrust him into the furrow that he might be burried alive. Immediately Ulysses rushed to the lad and rescued him from danger. The attitude of their leader toward his child made them know that he was sane. It is the attitude that the church assumes toward the child life that determines our sanity and our Christianity.

GUESSING THE FUTURE

Making predictions concerning what future years will bring forth has long been an interesting, if generally futile, indoor sport. A writer in Le Martin of Paris recently recalled some of the prophesies of the monk, Theodosius, whose writings were discovered in an old monastery.

In the year 932 Theodosius tried to predict some of the things which would or would not happen in the coming 1,000 years, so that time is up. Here are some of his guesses:

That Mohammedanism would be destroyed, the Cross having conquered the Crescent. But there are still more than 200 million Mohammedans in the world.

That the demand for books would cause pious monks to spend night and day copying manuscripts of the great bishops. He did not forsee the invention of printing.

That while the magnetic power of rubbed amber was interesting, nothing important would come of it. This phenomenon was later developed and became the clue to the discovery of electricity.

That it was madness to think man could ever fly, or raise himself into the air like a bird. Another poor guess.

But with respect to his skepticism about flying, Theodosius was no farthe wrong than a certain United State Congressman of only 32 years ago, wh opposed an appropriation for airplan experiments. declaring that only a foo would believe that mechanical fligh was possible of accomplishment. A fe months later the Wright brothers fle at Kitty Hawk—and everybody know what has happened since.

FORD V·8

THERE is no way to compare the Ford V-8 with any other car because there is no other car like it.

The Ford enables you to step up into the fine-car class in performance, beauty, comfort and safety. But there is no stepping up in price. That is kept down by Ford low-profit policies and unique manufacturing methods. These are as different as the car itself.

It takes eight cylinders to give the modern performance you need these days. The Ford is powered by a V-8 — the finest type of eight-cylinder engine. You have to pay more than $2000 for that in any other car.

WITH THE STUDENTS OF ISABELLA HIGH SCHOOL

Plans for rebuilding of our school are moving forward more rapidly. Arrangements have been made for the purchase of a building site where the grounds will be adequate for all purposes. A delay of several weeks has been caused by the deadlock in the United States Senate over the passage of the public works bill. With this deadlock broken in favor of a plan acceptable to the President of the United States, hope is running high among our people that our new building will be better than the old. We believe things will begin to move within a few days.

1936 Promises Heavy Political "Off Year"

PLENTY OF ROOM FOR MANY CAMPAIGNS SEEN NEXT YEAR

Opposition Looms For Present Senators, Congressmen

By Atticus Mullins in The Montgomery Advertiser

Politics is with Alabamians always just as the poor are in the old Biblical quotation and it will not be long now before the voters of Alabama will be in the middle of another hot Statewide contest involving a United States Senator, nine congressmen, two members of the Supreme Court, the game commissioner, the president of the Alabama Public Service Commission and members of county boards of revenue and county commissioners.

The year 1936 is considered an off year in politics in Alabama, but even in this off year there will be plenty of excitement and not the least of the contests will be for delegate to the Democratic national convention where a candidate for President will be nominated.

The most important of the offices to be filled next year is that involving the United States Senate. Senator John H. Bankhead will be up for reelection, having served one term and it is certain that he will ask for the second term, a Democratic time honored precedent. Since Senator Bankhead's stand for the farmers of Alabama and the South, and his success in giving the farmers a fair price for cotton, talk of serious opposition to him has faded. It is regarded as possible that somebody will run against him but so far political observers are not expecting his opposition, if he has any, to get far.

Congressional Fights

Every Alabama congressman will have to stand for reelection next year. Already there is talk of opposition to Congressman Buck Oliver, Congressman Joe Starnes and Congressman Lister Hill. The name of Capt. Pete Jarman is mentioned in connection with opposition to Oliver, the name of former Congressman Miles Allgood to Joe Star and the names of Robin Swift, Earl McGowin, and George Grant, to Congressman Lister Hill. Other congresssmen may also have opposition by the time the entries begin to make themselves felt in January of 1936, less than ten months off.

Supreme Court Justice Bouldin and Knight must be re-nominated and reelected in 1936 if they expected to continue as members of the court. No opposition to either has been heard of and so far as the writer has heard no feelers have been put out by prospective opponents. And it seems to be doubtful at the present writing that any opposition will appear because both Justice Bolling and Justice Knight have made enviable records on the court, both are popular and widely known to the voters and both can campaign if necessary.

Game Commissioner I. T. Quinn has held his office for a number of years and the State of Alabama now ranks among the leading States of the Nation in sound and efficient fish and wild life conservtion. Mr. Quinn may have opposition if he decides to run to succeed himself but the man who runs against him will have to be bold indeed to tackle the job with any prospect of success.

So after all, 1936 will not be such an "off year" in politics although the opinion is now held that insofar as the re-nomination of President Roosevelt is concerned, there is not much chance for a "Stop Roosevelt" slate of delegates as was the case in 1932. However, many things may happen within a year and a "Huey Long" slate of delegates is not beyond the bounds of possibility.

Voter Is Told Where To Go By Worried Solon

Washington.—Two months in Congress has convinced Representative John S. McGroarty, former poet laureate of California, that there's no place like home.

"I ought to like a fight because I'm Irish," the Washington Post quotes him as saying, "but I don't like all this contention. And I don't want to come back."

As a sample of a congressman's trials, he displayed a letter he wrote a constituent. It read:

"One of the countless drawbacks of being in Congress is that I am compelled to receive impertinent letters from a jackass like you, in which you say I promised to have the Sierra Madre Mountains reforested and I've been in Congress two months and haven't done it.

"Will you please take two running jumps and go to hell?"

New Salem

Since we had such a fine singing last first Sunday afternoon we are all looking forward to the next first Sunday. We want to take the space to express our thanks to the "Friendly Singing Society" for their splendid help and want to cordially invite them back every first Sunday afternoon.

What has happened to our Sunday School? When the weather is cold there may be some allowance for a slack in attendance but when the trees start budding and the air is filled with the sweet narcissus odors there isn't much excuse. Let us pull our attendance record up to the top notch. It can be done. Song service starts promptly at 9:30 o'clock and Sunday School at 10:00 o'clock. Be sure and be there next Sunday and bring your friends along.

Since the first Sunday in May is always set apart in memory of our dear Mothers, all the boys and girls are especially urged to attend Sunday School and B.Y.P.U. in order that a program may be worked up. We are planning on a bigger day than the first Sunday in May has seen in a long time.

Plans are being made by the women of New Salem church to get a better lighting system, so call around Thursday afternoon before every third Sunday and see what some wonderful plans the social women have agreed on.

Don't forget the B.Y.P.U. every Sunday night.

DOWLING MAKES A FINE RECORD AS A.E.A. PRESIDENT

Montgomery.—"President Dowling next week closes his administration as President of the Alabama Education Association with the highest paid membership in the history of that organization," said Frank L. Grove, Secretary yesterday in refering to the meeting of educators in Birmingham next Thursday.

By March 18, 12,050 individuals engaged in education had been reported members. This number represents more than 94 per cent of the white teachers employed in the state.

In forty-five of the sixty-seven counties every teacher is a member of the Association. The same is true in thirty-two of the forty-five cities, and in six of the seven state colleges.

A record breaking attendance is expected at the annual meeting of the Association scheduled to open in Birmingham, Thursday, March 28.

TRUCKING CODE WILL CONTINUE

Continuance of the Trucking Code is assured, according to Geo. C. Harris, Chairman of the Alabama State Code Authority for the Trucking Industry, with headquarters in Birmingham.

Mr Harris predicted that self-regulation of the industry, with the NRA as umpire, will remain in effect whether or not the bills, before Congress, to place trucks under control of the Inter-state Commerce Commission are enacted. The measures, which are now in the hands of committees of both houses of Congress, propose that administration of the Trucking Code be transferred to the office of Federal Coordinator of Transportation Joseph B. Eastman.

Hearings at Washington on the renewal of the NRA, Mr. Harris said, indicates a disposition on the part of members of Congress to continue codes, at least for the major industries. The Trucking Code is the third largest under NRA.

J. W. Hayes, Jemison, Honored On His Seventy-Fifth Birthday Last Sunday

One of the most brilliantly conducted birthday celebrations held in this county the past week took place when J. W. Hayes was honordd last Sunday at his home in Jemison, Ala.

Mr. Hayes, one of the counties oldest and most widely known citizens will be seventy-five years young on the 29th day of this month and as he puts it is "good for another hundred."

The home and yards of the Hayes home resembled a huge gathering of merrymakers, and that it was. With 103 guests present, Mr. Hayes, with Mrs. Hayes, who is 72, were the center of attraction. Included in this number were a few of his close friends, the remainder were all relatives from all parts of the country.

A short religious service was held at eleven o'clock, conducted by the Rev. Greene of Jemison, and the Rev. R. N. Honeycutt, one of the county's oldest ministers.

The bountiful dinner for this event was spread on a thirty-foot table in the spacious yard of the home. Around this table the guests gathered to pay further honor to this venerable gentleman. At the table Mr. Hayes could point out forty-seven grandchildren, seventeen great-grandchildren, twenty nine in-laws and twelve children. He has two deceased daughters.

In the afternoon, his eight sons cornered him in a room and with all the preparations of giving their "dad" a good paddling, surprised him with a fine suit of clothes.

Mr. Hayes has resided in Chilton County in the vicinity of Jemison and Thorsby practically all his life.

Selling Alabama To Alabamians

The Alabama Division of the National Cottonseed Products Association now has a campaign on, the object of which is to sell Alabama to Alabamians; in other words, urge Alabama people to use more cottonseed meal and hulls for feeding of livestock, as well as for fertilization purposes. I've never been able to understand why the people of the South are prone to chase away to distant points for feed and fertilizer ingredients when they have right within their midst a product so eminently valuable and sufficient. And there's another way to look at the matter, too: when we use at home that which is produced at home, it naturally follows that we pay to ourselves a better price for that which we produce and have to sell. Alabamians, for your own sake, buy Alabama."

After telling his wife he had dreamed he was going to die, David Murray of Aberdeen, Scotland, arose and shot himself, dying instantly.

Therefore, it is interesting to know that producers of mixed fertilizers use more ARCADIAN, THE AMERICAN NITRATE OF SODA, than any other nitrate in their mixtures.

The same things that make American Soda ideal for mixed fertilizers make it second to none for top and side dressing. It is a high-test product, pure and sure.

In addition, ARCADIAN, THE AMERICAN NITRATE OF SODA, is one of those excellent Southern products which Southern leaders are proudly using and recommending. Now is the time to join the ever-increasing number of farmers who are on "Uncle Sam's side of the fence."

Governor Graves Raps Job Hunters

Calling state officials and legislative leaders into his office at his regular press conference, Governor Bibb Graves laid down his future rules on patronage matters in their presence.

Telling those assembled that six men were waiting at the governor's mansion this morning when he awoke, seeking to talk about jobs, and that when he arrived at the state capital 24 were on hand looking for jobs, he said:

"Can't you see, gentlemen, that I can't work for the bigger things when I'm tied up all day and part of the night with jobs?

It doesn't do the state of Alabama any good to push Bill off the payroll and put Jim on. You haven't gained a thing.

"You have to have patience with me and bear with me until we get the bigger things started, there will be new jobs.

"After today I will see no one regarding patronage matters, not even the speaker of the house or the president of the senate, until the program starts."

ARA Wants All Purchases Distributed

Thad Holt, director of the Alabama Relief Administration has issued an order to all county offices under his administration, that they submit local bids with every order for printing and all other supplies needed in the work of the county agencies throughout the st.ate.

The bulletin mailed by E. S. Myer, acting purchasing agent, states to the various directors and officials, that an earnest effort must be made to allow local establishments to share in the business that is being placed.

It was pointed out that all orders must have three bids attached before the purchase can be made, and the Alabama Press Association has requested that the policy of the ARA be impressed more clearly upon the directors so that this business can be shared by all types of establishments throughout the state.

The Chilton County News feels that this announcement of policy by the ARA will mean more business for the local business houses who go after these purchases. Let's continue the age-old practice of "Trade at Home" and everyone pull at all times to build a greater Clanton by spending our own money here and retaining as much other business here as possible.

UP!

Food, Clothing, Rent and Everything Except Electricity in Alabama

Back in pre-depression days, folks thought a lot about the means of living high. Now they're bothering about the high cost of merely living. And rightly so. Ham and eggs, clothing, rent—in fact most everything in the family budget is going up, UP, UP. And take it from the "powers that be," the end is not yet in sight. Recent press dispatches out of Washington say the high cost of living is actually going to jump considerably more these next few months.

But there's one exception to the general rule of higher prices. That's electricity in Alabama. Almost every home in Alabama is getting electricity today lots cheaper than a year ago. And the end is not in sight. With increased use of electric appliances—ranges, water heaters and refrigerators—average rates in Alabama for electricity—already the cheapest item in the household budget—will keep on going down, DOWN, D O W N. Which is pleasing to a lot of Alabama folks. As for instance these customers, who have been kind enough to write us.

Mrs. A. G. Westbrook, Demopolis, Ala., writes: "I have just learned that a further reduction in your residential rate for electricity is now in effect, and naturally, I am very much pleased, especially since the prices of all other commodities which go into the usual household budget have been steadily rising during the past year or so."

"I have read a lot about low rates in other places, but it seems to me that Alabama is the real place to look for low rates," writes Mrs. Eugene Smith, of Ozark.

Sam D. Daily, Centreville, Ala., wrote: "I wish everybody would start a crusade to make taxes as low as your prices for electricity—maybe the reason some of us don't use any more electric.ty than we do, cheap as it is, is because we have to save all our spare change to pay taxes with."

"I wish the price of other necessities of life we have to buy were as cheap as electricity," says Mrs. H. O. Hinton, 711 14th Ave., Tuscaloosa, Ala.

Wish we had space to print more of the scores of letters we have recently received. We'd surely like to hear from readers of Power News what they think about the cheap electricity they buy from us.

IT WONT BE LONG NOW

Hot Weather's on the Way. Is Your New Refrigerator?

Something tells us that it won't be long now before those sizzling summer days are with us once again. It's been an early Spring and that usually means a long, hot summer.

But nowadays summer in the South can be quite livable, in fact enjoyable, provided people are prepared to give hot days the proper greeting. The best imaginable aid to summer comfort is good refrigeration, now within the easy reach of almost any pocketbook. First requirement of good refrigeration is a good refrigerator—ice or electric. This season there are many improved makes and models of both electric and ice refrigerators, which enable you to make those tasty summer treats—frozen salads, and desserts—appetite tempters on hot days and nights. Which reminds us to tell you that our Spring sale of electric refrigerators begins—no fooling—on April 1st. Won't you come by and see them?

Miss Keller, who was born in Tuscumbia, Ala., was deaf, dumb and blind when 19 months old. Today she is an authoress famous throughout the world. Recently she wrote, "My message to you, dear boys and girls, is this: Be careful of your eyes, guard them as you would your most loved possession. When you read or study make certain you have plenty of glareless light, so that your eyes will not be subjected to strain. Remember, an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure."

Surveys show that not one home in ten is well lighted, according to new scientific knowledge. In the majority of homes, children are actually becoming near-sighted because parents don't realize how much light they need for studying. To give you the benefit of this new knowledge about light and eyes, we are offering a new free service. Telephone and our lighting experts will come to your home and measure your lights with a SIGHT METER, the remarkable little instrument that measures light and tells whether there is enough of it.

MARVELS

III

Nero, the Roman Emperor, had slaves bring snow from the mountains to cool his wines. Alexander the Great had trenches dug for storing snow. Sir Walter Scott told how Saladin, leader of the Mohammedan armies, sent a frozen sherbet to Richard the Lion Hearted, much to the amazement of that famous monarch. What a marvel ice was in the "good old days"! But now—it's a necessity. With hot weather just around the corner of the calendar, isn't it about time to think about that new electric or ice refrigerator?

IV

It gets mighty hot in South Africa. But there's ~~going to be~~ at least one place where the weather man will be compelled to behave. Three huge machines have been made by the Carrier Engineering Corporation, Newark, N. J., to cool the air for the world's deepest gold mine, Robinson Deep, in South Africa. Cooled, conditioned air will be sent down to the depths of the mine workings—8,385 feet—over a mile and a half. Down there the temperature is close to 100 degrees, and men work at less than 30% efficiency. In many Alabama plants, and stores and offices, efficiency of workers can be likewise increased by air conditioning. Our engineers will gladly show you how.

V

Fog has always been the greatest enemy of safe transportation on sea, air and land. But modern science bids fair to conquer it. Not long ago near Dayton, Ohio, a cloud seven miles long and almost a half mile thick was banished from the sky in seven minutes! A new and improved electrically operated mechanism, tried out in Buzzard's Bay in one of the year's densest fogs, cut out of that fog a clearing 100 feet wide, 2000 yards long. Some folks are "foggy" about the cost of electricity in Alabama. That kind of fog can also be cleared away—electrically. All such people need is to start using complete electric service—cooking, water heating, refrigeration, etc.—to learn how really cheap electricity is in Alabama, because the more you use the cheaper it is.

Mr. Wright had been ill for some time, and was stricken with pneumonia about three weeks ago. He had been at the home of his uncle during his illness.

Cottonseed Meal Gaining In Favor

Auburn, Ala.—With county agents arranging and conducting feeding demonstrations in cooperation with farmers, cottonseed meal is gaining in favor among Alabama farmers as a feed for work animals, both horses and mules. They are following instructions given by Prof. J. C. Grimes, of the animal husbandry ivision ofthedmann husbandry division of the Alabama

Three good reasons are named by Mr. Grimes as to why this should be done. They are:

1. Cottonseed meal, up to two pounds per day, is a good feed for horses and mules. Experiments and many feeding tests have proven this to be true.

2. Cottonseed meal is an Alabama product. It is a southern product; and the South is an area which does not produce enough feed if cottonseed meal is not included.

3. Most southern farmers can save money by feeding a limited amount of cottonseed meal to their work animals. They also gain by consuming a product which they produce.

HIGHLAND

Last Saturday and Sunday were our regular preaching days and our pastor, the Rev. M. Lockhart, delivered two wonderful sermons. We all love Bro. Lockhart because he never fails to bring to us some wonderful messages. We feel like all who missed these sermons really missed something worthwhile. Although we had a very large crowd out Sunday, which we surely do appreciate, our pastor asked me to announce that the B. Y. P. U. class of Pates Chapel will put on a program at this place the first Sunday night in April. We invite you all to come and be with us for I am sure it will be a wonderful program and we feel kie you will miss some wonderful messages if you miss it.

Don't forget we have our Sunday School every Sunday morning at 10:00 o'clock and we invite you all to come and be with us.

Big Time For Veterans April 13th-14th

The department of Alabama, American Legion will hold a Spring Rally April 13th and 14th in the Wren Memorial at Talladega. This rally, according to Adjutant D. Trotter Jones, formerly of Talladega, is being planned to help stimulate interest in membership.

To encourage Legion officials to work a little harder in building up their membership during the next four weeks, the department is offering prizes to post and department officials. Every post commander and adjutant securing twenty per cent of his post's 1934 membership between March 18th and April 14th will be given either an officer's ceremonal badge or an officer's cap insignia. Every department executive committeeman and vice-commander who has twenty per cent of his district's 1934 membership reported during the above period will receive a Legion uniform.

The Talladega meeting on Saturday night, April 13, will be a social affair, followed by a dance. The Sunday session will climax the rally and a special program is being arranged.

Every post in the State is urged to send representatives to the meeting. The Wren Memorial was erected in memory of Ed (Shorty) Wren, who served overseas in the Rainbow Division and was department commander of the Legion at the time of his death.

State Health Legislation Is Favored

Montgomery, Alabama — Impressed by the "spirit of earnestness, optimism, constructive effort and teamwork" on the part of the legislature during the short session, Dr. J. N. Baker, State Health Officer, expressed confidence this week that three important public health measures already placed into the legislative mill would be enacted into law soon after the recess.

These bills deal with sterlization of the heritable unfit, control of rabies within the State, and state aid to counties in caring for their tuberculous. The sterilization bill was prepared under the direction of Dr. W. D. Partlow; Superintendent of the State's Institutions for the Insane. The other two were prepared by Dr. Baker, who said he considered all three of vital concern to the State.

"For the last four years, the entire time of the three sessions of Alabama's legislature has been spent in devising ways and means of somehow carrying on, in the face of steadily decreasing revenues, without increasing the taxpayer's burden," Dr. Baker said. "As is well known, many worthwhile activities, notably health and education, suffered cruelly as a consequence; and but for the fortuitous coming of federal emergency aid, both seemed threatened with collapse."

"The first, or short, session of the present legislature consumed 15 of the 50 legislative working days allotted by the constitution. While much still remains to be done, one has good cause to be hopeful that constructive thought and statesmanlike vision will be applied to many problems of an urgent nature still unsolved but hinted at and dropped into the legislative hopper."

"A spirit of earnestness, of optimism, of constructive effort, and of team-work on the part of all of the members of the legislature and of both houses was apparent; which spirit, if preserved, may be confidently relied upon to lift our impoverished State to a measurably higher plant."

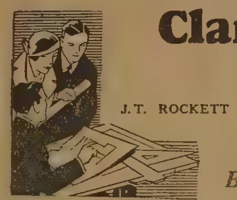
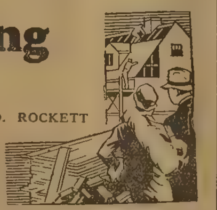
ALL KINDS OF BUILDING MATERIALS





Housing Administration Described As "Alarm Clock For Sleeping Capital"

"We are not authorized to build any houses; we have no Government money to give away; we are directed to sell the nation two ideas," Federal Housing Administrator James A. Moffet told a mass meeting in the Chamber of Commerce auditorium in Oaklahoma City. "One is that now is the time for home owners to modernize and make repairs. If they postpone it, they will have bigger bills to pay when their properties are worse run down. The other idea is that the nation's home shortage, running to possibly five million houses, should be supplied at once.

"Back of both propositions is the fundamental fact that a healthy and permanent prosperity will come to our country only when the construction and durably goods industries are prospering. Therefore, as some one has expressed it, "the Housing Administration is an alarm clock for sleeping capital, which should be up and about the business of employing workers and creating new wealth."

"We point out why modernizing and building should be done. To make these operations immediately practical and inviting, we insure the lending institutions of the country against loss from loaning. We enable the home owner to borrow his funds promptly and on easy, convenient terms. We urge communities to put on their Better Housing campaigns, furnish them educational material and give them all the help we can. We name regional directors and other field representatives, all co-operating with community organizations But in the final analysis it is up to the communities to organize and they are making a fine job of it.

"Today more than 6,000 communities, representing 65 per cent of the total population, are either conducting or perfecting plans to conduct these campaigns. Of the total number, 2,096 communities have started house-to-house canvasses and to date they have resulted in calls on 5,600,000 individuals and secured pledges of over 1,200,000 modernization jobs. This nation-wide campaign to date has generated more than $400,000,000 worth of modernization and we are just getting started. As a result, the prosperity expected by producers and manufacturers of building materials and other durable goods has begun to show in gratifying volume. Some of these companies have reported increases in present business over a year ago as high as five and six hundred per cent."

POPLAR SPRINGS

Saturday and Sunday were our regular preaching days. Our pastor being unable to preach on Sunday, the Rev. W. H. Wilson filled the pulpit.

Sunday School is progressing nicely. We do not have such a large crowd every Sunday but there seems to be more interest taken in the study of the lesson.

B.Y.P.U. is coming into its own again at this place. We are glad to see the interest taken and hope it will continue to grow.

The singing society met on Sunday afternoon. There was a good crowd and some real good singing. The directors for the afternoon were: Mr. Dock Harris president, who presided over the singing; W. M., Floy, and O. L. Devaughn; Jesse Jones, T. E. Wyatt, G. C. Weldon, Latham Wilson, and Steve Stanley. The next singing at this place will be on the third Sunday in April when the annual Easter Singing will be held. This is usually the first all-day singing of the year and much nterest is centered around this day. We hope that this year we will have the most successful singing that has ever been held at this place. The public is cordially invited.

The Rev. Matthew Nichols will preach here next Sunday morning at 11:00 o'clock. Let's give him a large audience.

Feeding Corn To Hogs Profitable

Auburn, Ala.—Surplus corn can be profitably marketed through hogs, says F. W. Burns, extension livestosk specialist, who says that experimental work shows "that 6 1-2 bushels of corn and 50 pounds of tankage will produce 100 pounds of pork."

"Allowing $40.00 per ton for the tankage we find that hogs will pay $1.00 per bushel for your corn even at the present price of $7.50 per hundred, and present indications are that the market for hogs will continue to advance during the spring and summer," he advises.

Summer Thinning Damages Woodlands

Auburn, Ala.—Thinning of woodlands should discontinue at this season of the year as there is danger of an insect infestation in the freshly cut material, advises D. J. Weddell, assistant professor of forestry of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

"The only improvement cutting recommended for the summer months is the removal of injured or storm-damaged trees," he says.

Questions And Answers About Housing Plan

Following is some general information on the program:

1. Who May Apply? Any property owner, individual, partnership, or corporation, with a regular income from salary, commissions, business, or other assured source. It is not necessary to be a depositor in the financial institution consulted.

2. To Whom Do I Apply? To any financial institution approved by the Federal Housing Administration; or to a contractor, building supply dealer, equipment manufacturer or retailer.

3. How Much May I Apply For? From $100 to $2,000, depending on your income, for improvements on any one property.

4. How Long May Notes Run? For any number of months from one to five years. However, the term of the notes depends entirely on the discretion of the financial institution which may at its option require loans to be repaid over such lesser periods as justified by the amount you can reasonably afford to pay each month.

5. What Security Is Required? That you have an adequate regular income and a good credit record in your community. Other security may be accepted if deemed necessary by the financial institution to facilitate extension of credit; or if required by the law governing certain institutions.

6. What Assurance Need I Give? (a) That you own the property. (b) That the annual gross income of the signers of the note is at least five times the annual payments to be made on the note. (c) That your mortgage, if any, is in such standing that the financial institution is justified in approving the loan. (d) That you will use the proceeds solely for property improvement.

7. What Signatures Are Required On The Notes? Signature of the property owner; and (except in special cases) if the owner is an individual and is married, also signature of wife or husband. No other co-signers or endorsers are required, unless necessary to facilitate a loan which could not be made otherwise.

8. What Is The Cost Of This Credit? The financial institution may not collect as interest and|or discount and|or fee of any kind, a total charge in excess of an amount equivalent to $5 discount per $100 original face amount of a one-year note, payable in monthly installments. Charge for longer periods than one year is on the same basis.

9. How Do I Pay The Note? By making regular, equal, monthly payments (seasonal payments for farmers) until the note is paid in full.

10. May The Owner Of Any Kind Of Property Apply? Applications will be considered for credit to improve one-family, two-family, or other residences; apartment. buildings, stores, office buildings, factories, warehouses, farm buildings.

11. Where Do I Make Payments? The regular installment payments will be made in person at the place of business of the financial institution; or by mail; or as otherwise arranged. No payment shall be made to any governmental office or organization.

12. May I Pay The Note In Full Before Maturity Date? Yes, at any time. A reasonable rebate will be allowed for prepayment, if charges have been collected in advance.

13. May I Make More Than One Payment At A Time? Yes, as many as you wish, but such payments should be in exact multiples of the agreed payments—that is, if monthly payment is $10, larger payments should total $20, $30, etc.—not, for example, odd sums such as $18 or $25.

14. What If I Am Late In Making My Payment? The maker must not permit his payments to fall in arrears. Should a payment be more than 15 days late, the financial institution's expense, caused thereby, should be reimbursed in part at the rate of not more than five cents per dollar for each payment in arrears. Persistent delinquency will make it necessary for the financial institution to take proper steps to effect collection in full.

passed, Coosa County veterans will receive $126,606.06 and other counties in proportion to the number of World War veterans living in their boundaries.

Senators To Support

State headquarters for the American Legion announced yesterday that U. S. Senators Hugo Black and John H. Bankhead have pledged their support of the bonus bill, which passed the House last week and will probably be taken up in the Senate in a few days.

William S. Pritchard, of Birmingham, commander of the Legion in Alabama, notified department headquarters Monday he has just received a telegram from Senator Bankhead in which the Senator said he had decided to vote for the bonus measure. Senator Black had already committed himself to the bill, but yesterday's wire was the first definite expression the Legion commander had received from the junior Senator from Alabama concerning the bonus bill as passed by the House.

Senator Bankhead's telegram read: "I have decided to support the bonus bill. Am wiring you in the interest of my over-worked office force in the hope that we will not be swamped with letters and telegrams urging support of bill."

Congresman Oliver and Hobbs cast their vote against payment of the bonus, having already pledged their support to the President in his program.

COLLINS CHAPEL

federal works program.

With the passage of the bill, appropriating $4,880,000,000 for the continuance of Public Works Program throughout the nation it is hoped that Chilton County will be able to secure funds for extensive building and renovation of school buildings over the county, Mr. Little stated.

Application has been made through the superintendent's office for $152,000 for the erection of buildings and other school projects in Chilton County. By delaying the awarding of the contract for the erection of the Collins Chapel building, it is hoped that funds may be secured for a much better structure than could be erected from monies now available.

In addition to the Collins Chapel building, plans are being formulated for the rebuilding of the Isabella School building, which was also destroyed by fire a few months ago, erection of new buildings at Providence and Mars Hill, an addtion to the Clanton Grammar School, and the erection of a vocational additional at the Chilton County High School, and 23 other school projects throughout the county. All of these projects were listed by Superintendent Little in his applicaton for the $152,000. It is also understood that Mayor C. Fenn Jones, in listing possible projects for the Town of Clanton, named the addition to Clanton Grammar School. Mr. Little feels that Mavor Jones' application should increase the possibilities of securing federal funds for this and other school projects in the county.

It has not been decided definitely what type of building will be erected at Collins Chapel, but if the new Works Program is what it appears to be, Supt. Little declared that it will likely be a five-room brick with auditorium.

YOUTH KILLS SELF

it is understood.

Earlier in the evening he was reported to have gone to the home of a neighbor, a Mr. Cleckler, and asked to borrow a gun. When questioned as to what he wanted with it, he told the man that a certain family "had it in for him." Mr. Cleckler said that he told Friday that he had no shells for the gun, and tried to prevail on him to spend the night at his home.

Walking the short distance to the home of his brother, Earle Friday, he went into the bedroom to retire. His brother told W. J. Patrick, Billingsley merchant, that the last he saw of him before he heard the shot the youth was stting at a table, smoking a cigaret, writing.

When Earle heard the report of the gun, he jumped from bed and ran onto the porch, where he found his brother already dead.

Ross had been working on a farm for J. E. Pierce, several miles from Billingsley, and had apparently been well satisfied, his family said. He had spent Saturday night at the home of his brother in Billingsley.

Besides his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wade Friday, he is survived by his brother, Earle, and several sisters.

Kiwanis Club Takes Part In Carring Large Group

In response to the invitation of the Kiwanis Club of Clanton, an even 200 farmers of Chilton County assembled in Clanton about six o'clock Monday morning ready to make the annual pilgrimage to Auburn for a day's study and observation of things at the Alabama Experiment Station. County Agent, J. W. Fant, chairman of the Kiwanis Committee on Agriculture, had charge of arrangements for the trip He invited 200 farmers, and received acceptance of 200 to make the trip Fant says that convinces him our farmers have a mighty good batting average.

To carry the Chilton County group on the trip Monday it required 20 automobiles and two big school busses Eleven of the automobiles and the two busses were furnished by members of the Kiwanis Club. Nine automobiles were furnished by other interested citizens and business men. Every part of Chilton County was represented in the delegation.

As a sample of the way farmers were mixed up in the different groups, it is cited that one automobile contained a farmer from Mars Hill west of Jemison, one from Union Grove, east of Jemison, one from Fairview west of Clanton and one from Maple Springs south of Clanton.

The entire group arrived in Auburn between 10:30 and 12:00 o'clock. As they arrived there groups were formed for making the tour of the experiment station. Each group was in charge of an expert of the Auburn staff.

Visits were made to the departments where demonstrations were studied on subjects of farm flock poultry, forestry fire prevention, cover crops, soil building, soil erosion, live stock, and trench silo.

From one to two o'clock the farmers assembled for lunch, after which they were arranged in a group for a picture to be made. The tour of inspection was continued as late as five o'clock for some of the sections.

County Agent Fant pointed out that the Chilton County group that visited the experiment station included not only farmers from every corner of the county, but also representatives of the 4-H Club work, the three departments of vocational agriculture in the county headed by the three vocational teachers; two members of the Court of County Commissioners and two members of the County Board of Education and the County Superintendent of Education and the Tar Assessor-elect.

The negro farmers were not to be outdone altogether. Benjamin Anderson, vocational teacher at the County Training School, made the trip and carried five negro farmers with him

Upon their return to Clanton Monday night many of the farmers making the trip were heard to declare that it was the best event of the kind ever pulled off. Mr. Fant said the first inquiry made of him after the crowd got to Auburn was how many counties those men represented. When he told the inquirer they were all from Chilton County the fellow appeared astonished at the turnout.

On the paternal side, his father and uncle, Dr. Joe Johnson, were both noted physicians in Clanton, and on the maternal side of the family is Dr. C. S. Strock, a brother of his mother, Mrs. Sallie Strock Johnson. His two brothers, Dr. N. S. Johnson, of Clanton, and Dr. Sam Johnson, of Pensacola, are widely known in the medical field; and his sons, Arthur, Jr., and Joe Hall, are preparing for the medical profession. Arthur, Jr., is a medical student at the University of Alabama, where Joe Hall plans to also enter when he has finished his preparatory work at the Gulf Coast Military Academy, Gulfport, Miss.

Dr. Johnson was graduated from the Vanderbilt School of Medicine, Nashville, Tenn., in 1909 and had been practicing in Chilton County for the past 26 years. After completing the course at Vanderbilt, he specialized in the treatment of eye, ear, nose, and throat diseases in both New Orleans and Chicago. He was 47 years of age only a few weeks before his death.

Surviving him are his widow, Mrs. Mable Hall Johnson; two sons, Arthur, Jr., and Joe Hall Johnson; two brothers, Dr. N. S. Johnson, all of Clanton, and Dr. Sam Johnson, of Pensacola; and one sister, Mrs. J. E. Gowan, also of Clanton.

After the games, the team and Coach J. Carl Glasscock were presented the silver trophy by the principal of Calera Jr. High School, who praised the team on its excellent technique and good sportsmanship. A short speech of acceptance was made by Julius Traywick, captain of the team.

Coach Glasscock should be rightfully proud of his team and they of him. Taking almost inexperienced boys and making an undefeatead team and championship winners of them is a credit to his coaching ability. He has developed speed, accuracy, team work and, best of all, poise and self-confidence in his team. Mt. Pleasant has played twenty games this season and lost none. We are proud of the team's and the Coach's accomplishment.

Negro Qualifies As Extra-Ordinary Sleuth For Finding Chicken Thief

Maybe Sheriff J. R. Hardy is—or maybe he isn't contemplating naming ideon Smith, Lomax negro, deputy ith special assignment to sleuthing for chicken thieves.

Anyway, Gideon proved his mettle a few nights ago—and incidentally exhibited considerable resourcefulness in the capture of an alleged chicken thief

Late in the night, Gid heard a commotion in his hen house, and promptly slipped out of bed to investigate In the moonlight he espied a man running down the railroad back of his house with a sack on his back.

Gideon rouses his son—they crank the fivver and rattle off down the ighway, park beside the road and ease over to a brushpile that overlooks the ailroad tracks. A few minutes, and here comes the man with the sack on his back.

Curtis Floyd's alibi that "A man handed him dem chickens as he was walking down de tracks" didn't get him anywhere with Gideon; and evidently Sheriff Hardy didn't take much stock in the "a'ibi" either, for when Gideon marched the negro and his chickens up to the county jail, the doors swung open—and Gideon drove back home alone.

Your County Officials

A Brief History of Newly Elected Officers

John P. Bean, Commissioner

Commissioner John P. Bean, the only Republican candidate to stem the tide of the Democratic landslide in November's election, is a man who should be able to render the most worthwhile service to his district. For he was born, rearedd, and spent all of his life on the same farm in the Mineral Springs community, which is the heart of the First District, served by him.

This is the second time that the voters of Chilton County have chosen him to represent their interests in this district. In winning against the odds of a complete swing to the Democratic Party in Chilton County, Commissioner Bean apparently is held in high regard by his constituents.

The son of the late Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Bean, he was born and has spent his life on the same farm, living now within about one-quarter of a mile of his birthplace.

Although an ardent supporter of education he states that he never had an opportunity to secure anything more than a public school training, in the schools in his community, which include Collins Chapel, Union Grove, and Mineral Springs schools. For a great many years, he has served the Mineral Springs schools. in the capacity of trustee, and has always taken an active interest in civic and governmental activities of his county.

Before he was old enough to be subject to draft for work on the public roads, he was named overseer in his community, and continuously since that time has studied road building and maintenance.

Mr. Bean has been engaged in farming throughout his life, and when serving his district as commissioner—he has continued to operate his farm. The farmers, he believes, are the backbone of this county, and while serving as commissioner—it is his aim, he said to render to them every possible service.

He and all of his family are members of the Church of Christ.

WATER MAINS EXTENSION IS FINISHED HERE

Work Is Well Underway On Erection Of New City Office Building

The work of installing several thousand feet extension to the watermains in Clanton has been completed which are now ready for use, according to an announcement Tuesday by Mayor C. Fenn Jones, who explained that this gives the town 18 new fire hydrants and fire protection to approximately 75 homes that have not been within reach of a hydrant before.

Contractors in charge of the installation of the new watermains and extensions pronounced the project completed Monday afternoon. Approximately 12,000 feet of piping was laid, much of it replacing old and inadequate mains. Practically every section within the corporate limits is now served four to six-inch mains, instead of the smaller ones that have been in use.

Several thousand dollars were expended by the town in extending this nervework of pipes that thread their way underneath every section of Clanton. Besides the advantages afforded by having better fire protection and a more generous supply of water with greater pressure, the property owners in these vicinities where these mains have been installed will now be able

Judge Smith And Commissioners Are Well Pleased With The Budget Plan

Meeting for the first time, Monday and Tuesday of this week, since the adoption of the budget system for the operation of the County's business members of the commissioners court expressed themselves as being highly elated with the plan.

Although in operation less than three weeks, every member of the court gave expressions of being well satisfied with the system. They are finding, they say, that it serves as a barrier to protect not only the County's money, but to protect the commissioners themselves. When some friends, or salesman, is overinsistent that he be given a job or an order, it is easy to show him that the budget system necessarily makes the purse strings tight. In this way it helps shift some of the responsibility from the over-burdened shoulders of the four men who are responsible for the expenditure of the County's monies.

At a special session in early March, it was voted unamiously by the court upon suggestion of Judge J. Lee Smth, that the county be operated on a budget system as much so as possible Each district was allocated $1,000 for the maintenance of roads; and a $1,500 emergency fund was set aside each month for the upkeep and purchase of machinery. Realizing that the Fourth District is much larger than either of the other three, Com. Atchison, Oden, and Bean agreed to assign $40 each to Com. Duke's district.

The Country Needs More Men With A Faith Like Henry Ford's

It is generally recognized that the greatest need of America is a spirit of confidence which will cause people to invest their money in active enterprises. The government spending projects have largely been intended as a stimulant to private confidence in the economic future.

This country was not built upon an attitude of hesitating vacillation, but rather upon one of strong-willed courage.

Today, as never before, Henry Ford stands out as a leader in the industrial world. While others wait to be sure—so sure—of the eventual trends, he is going ahead with a big program of expansion. It is causing money to circulate, men to work, and leading the cycle which will definitely whip our economic depression. Incidentally, we suspect that his vision will also make him some money.

It is gratifying to learn that every day sees others starting the same thing. The automobile industry is leading in the trek back to normal conditions, and normal employment. Other industries may well follow suit. It will mean profit to them, and a speedier journey to the goal of recovery.

Mr. Justice Holmes

The death of former Supreme Court Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes, on the eve of his 84th birthday, brought to a close one of the most distinguished careers of the past century.

In Justice Holmes, the phrase "public service" found its highest possible meaning. His entire life was devoted to the welfare of the nation—every deed, every thought, was actuated by the most lofty patriotic ideals. His was an influence that went far beyond the law, to which his abilities of mind and spirit were primarily dedicated, and found its reflection in every walk of life, from Civil War days to the present.

The friends and acquaintances of Justice Holmes have often paid tribute, not only to his brilliance, but to his generosity. Many a man who has risen to high position in public or private life owes his start to encouragement and teaching given him by the great jurist, and his unflagging interest in young men with the potentialities of achievement is well known.

Men such as Justice Holmes are rare in any time—and they seem to be particularly rare in these days when expediency, greed, and the lust for power dictate the actions of so many of us. It is not too much to say that Mr. Holmes will be remembered as John Marshall, Franklin, Adams and others are remembered—as a man who unselfishly served his country to the best of his vast abilities, an dat the end of life could look back on great and difficult tasks well done.

More Hopeful Trends

The forces of recuperation are steadily gathering momentum. From all parts of the country come reports of more favorable business trends and better than all else the substitution of a spirit of optimism for the gloom that has been too dominant in the national thinking.

Hard upon the heels of the announced purpose of the American Bankers Association to cooperate with the Government in the recovery program came a declaration of like purpose from the Investment Bankers Association of America. The task set by the latter group is indicated by President Crane's comment that the most vital problem of recovery is to reopen the capital market in order to revive heavy industries, and that this is more a function of investment bankers than of commercial bankers than of commercial bankers.

Retail trade has remained good in recent months, a fact which has contributed a persistent, cheerful feature to the business picture. Observers now predict for this year the best Christmas trade since the depression began. Everywhere one detects the substitution of optimism for pessimism—the replacement of a spirit of antagonism by a spirit of cooperation.

Merryle Stanley Rukeyser, well-known economist, struck the prevailing note of hope the other day when he declared that the prophet of doom who kept repeating that we were on te verge of collapse has been belied by the course of events. He added that the new attitude is to regard business men and bankers as instrumentalities for economic improvement through whom the President can work.

It was in this new spirit that representatives of code authorities for 23 durable goods industries assembled in Washington, adopted a resolution affirming faith in the NRA, and set themselves resolutely to the task of improving the working of their codes in the light of experience.

Finally there is the appeal in behalf of members of the National Industrial Recovery Board for cooperation from American business in reorganizing NRA, the NRA which will be called upon to function after the present recovery act expires next June. Arthur D. Whiteside, a member of the Board, has stated that if business men will formulate their ideas and send them to Washington in the form of constructive suggestions, their ideas will be used in shaping a new NRA. There is no reason on earth, said he, why the NRA should mean that business men lost individualism and become regimented.

These all may be only straws in the wind, but taken in the aggregate they indicate unmistakably that more favorable winds are blowing.

The Reckless Pedestrian

Last year the automobile fatality record touched an all-time high, with a total of 36,000 killed. One of the worst aspects of the record was the pedestrian toll.

Those who believe that accidents involving a car and a pedestrian are always the fault of the motorist, are sadly mistaken. In five out of every eight accidents in which a person on foot was killed by a car, the pedestrian was entirely to blame.

Thirty-four per cent of the pedestrians who were killed because of their own carelessness, were struck while crossing in the middle of the block or against traffic signals. Seventeen per cent were killed while walking on the wrong side of the road. Eleven per cent of the pedestrian fatalities involved children playing in the streets. Nine per cent of the fatalities resulted from walkers stepping suddenly out from behind parked cars into the stream of traffic. It is a significant fact that, in 1934, the rate of death per pedestrian accident was 45 per cent worse crossing in the middle of the block than at the intersection, and 74 per cent worse crossing against signals than with them.

The careless walker, like the careless driver, constitutes a grave problem that must be definitely solved if we are to lower the automobile toll. The cure for pedestrian recklessness is purely up to the individual—all the traffic laws in the world cannot make a person walk properly on streets and highways if he is congenitally careless. Obey the signals, never cross in the middle of a block—and keep your eyes open and your mind busy with the problem of safely reaching your destination. That advice amounts to "life insurance" for the pedestrian.

Another paradox is that clear profits are sometimes made through shady transactions.

One Kentucky man shot another who called him a common liar. It is provoking to be called common.

MORAL ECHOES

D. W. Haskew

Often I am driving through towns and cities where they have the "Stop" and "Go" signs. I try to obey them for that means safety for myself and for the pedestrian. In Dothan last year a driver crashed a red light and the driver left an aged judge bleeding and dying in the street. God has placed before all of us the "Stop" and the "Go" signals. On Saturday night the red light of God's word comes on above your business and you are ordered to stop. I saw a store open on the Sabbath. The owner was crashing a red light. I heard a man using profane language and he had crashed a red light. I saw a man dead in the woods where lovers met. He had crashed that red light, "Thou shalt not commit adultry." No man ever crashes a red light where God places it without hurting himself and hurting some one else. Do not forget that God has placed as many "Go" signals as He has placed "Stop" signals. The religion is not only refraining from doing certain things, but is doing certain things. It pays to obey God's laws that govern heavenly trafic.

I was in a Sunday School room where the music was dragging heavily. The pianist was striking the keys with enthusiasm and vigor, but the singers were drolly and sleepy and the music was poor indeed. In the midst of the song a young lady entered and before she could find a seat she had been urged to take five song books. Those in the room seemed too stupid to sing and yet they held a song book in their hands. On seeing the new comer each one thought it a good time to get rid of the book as well as the responsibility of helping with the singing. It is amusing to see the unselfish liberality of some folks when they have a job on hand that they do not want. That was not the first time that I had seen folks offering their song book to another, not because they were anxious to be kind to a new comer, but because they did not want to sing. That leads me to say that human kindness often takes on rather peculiar settings. It is easy for us to give away a job that we do not want.

I saw a man fishing in the Morrison Springs and he had near him a long string of beauties that he had just taken in from the clear water below. I wondered at his success for I had tried and had failed. I ventured to ask—"Friend, would you mind telling me what are the rules for successful fishing in this Spring?" The man laid down his pole and took out his can and tobacco. While filling his pipe he replied,—"I will tell you my three rules and you can take them for what they are worth. My first rule is to bait my hook and throw it into the spring.. My second rule is to get back from the shore out of sight. My third rule is to get behind a tree so that I know that I am out of sight." Those are good rules for spiritual fishing. A baited hook counts for much in the kingdom, and then to get ourselves out of sight counts for still more. Blessed is the man who hideth himself when he is fishing for men.

A legend tells us that one time the birds could talk to each other. That legend gives to us this story. One day a woodpeck and a dove sat on a limb together and each was eying a peacock strutting his feathers on the yard fence near by. Said the woodpeck to the dove "See that old ugly, silly fowl with his ugly feet and his horrid squawk." "Oh," replied the dove, "I do not see his feet and I failed to hear his squawk, I was admiring that beautiful circle of feathers that he lifted before my vision. Look, they are shining like the colors of the rainbow." There are always two ways of looking at people. Through one vision we see their faults and their egotism, but through the other vision we see them in their beauty and worth.

There were fifteen of us in a Bible class in a Theological school in New York. Fourteen of us were on time. One pupil came in five minutes late. The teacher seeing the late comer went back over the lesson up to where he had gone when the late comer entered. That late comer beat the class out of seventy minutes of instruction. The moral is this,—Do not meet an engagement late. If you do, then play the honest game and pay those who wait for you something like the value of their time. No man has a right to steal the time that belongs to some one else.

Every Baby Should Be Registered Now

"Every baby a registered one" is the object of the Alabama "Register Your Baby" campaign.

The dictionary defines a baby as "an infant of either sex," but every mother knows that a baby is a small creature made up of about equal parts of sweetness and temperament. Each mother thinks there is no baby quite like her own, and no matter how many she has, she could not spare a single one.

Uncle Sam wants to help parents protect the future of their children by having a complete record of the facts pertaining to the child's birth, both in the federal Bureau of the Census at Washington and in the State Board of Health at Montgomery.

The "Register Your Baby" campaign is being carried on by the Federal Bureau of the Census, the Alabama State Board of Health and the Alabam Relief Administration.

"Parents owe it not only to their children to fill in and mail the baby census card, but to themselves, their state and federal government. Parents who have not received one of these cards or have lost or mislaid it, may secure one from their local post office, the relief field worker in their community, or by addressing the "Register Your Baby" Campaign, care of the State Board of Health, Montgomery. A card should be filled in and mailed for every baby born within the past twelve months, even if the attending physician is known to have registered the birth," said Dr. J. N. Baker, State Health Officer.

GRAVES SIEGED BY JOB-HUNTERS

MONTGOMERY.—Here's a hot tip to persons who hope to secure jobs with the state government:

Stay at home and give Governor Bibb Groves a chance to get his administration fairly launched before pressing your bid.

From the day the "little colonel" took office hundreds of job applicants have thronged the capitol corridors and the offices of his secretaries. It has been very difficult for the chief executive to confer with his legislative leaders and department heads, or to attend other pressing matters of state wide importance.

Last week the governor announced that he could see no more applicants until he "took a little time to attend to state business." But this statement failed to keep crowds of applicants from milling about the capitol.

Only Small Amount Is Needed To Place Car In Shape

The uncanny ability of "Pyroil" to make an automobile run smooth prevent sticking valves and other things, is fast becoming known to auto owners of this section, since Dief's Service Station has been selected as exclusive dealers in Chilton, Autauga and Shelby Counties.

While it is fast gaining in favor here, Mr. Diefenderfer stated that tourists and those who are using cars a lot, are constant users of "Pyroil."

"It only takes a few ounces of Pyroil in you gas or your crankcase to see the difference it makes," Mr. Diefenderfer stated. "The best way to determine if Pyroil does what it claims to do is to try it out, or ask anyone who has used it," he continued.

Dief's Service Station will be glad to explain the advantages of this popular product to anyone who inquires.

Records Are Kept By Ala. Farmers

Auburn, Ala.—Farm record books are now being furnished by county agents to all signers of cotton, corn-hog, and peanut reduction throughout the State.

The books furnish a convenient means by which farmers record all items of income and expense and keep an accurate check on the profit or loss of various crops.

The accurate information kept in these books provides the farmer with essential and valuable information for transactions with local banks and with the federal farm credit agencies.

Keeping of the AAA farm record books, a standard 4-H project in Alabama, has been adopted already by boys and girls in several counties. About 300 club members in Calhoun County accordng to County Agent S. R. Doughty, have enrolled in the project and are assisting their fathers in keeping the farm records.

This precious one is now at rest. God keep the silent sleeper. But let's not think of her death—just waiting out younder in that fair and happy land with loving hands to welcome us there.

—Her loving friends,

Since the new officers were electe several very interesting programs hav been given: the last one being base on foods. Much interest is being show in the club this year and all of th girls are striving to become third de gree members by the end of this term

The Sr. II Class met last Tuesday for the purpose of electing new ficers. They are: Mary Carr Mims president; J. C. Jones, vice-preside Frances Sexton, secretary and treas er; Sara Calfee, Andrew Jones and Orville Wright, social committee; Edna Simms, reporter.

F. F. A.

The green hand members were en tertained with a picnic March 22 by Mr. Locke. The Future Farmers c tributed and attended also.

The trip to Auburn was well rep sented by this chapter. We feel more like pushing forward in agriculture af ter attending such demonstrations. Our greatest lesson was how to grow fen posts from black locusts and the injury to young forests by fire. This dem stration alone was worth the trip.

On last Friday, those taking part the public contest met and delivered their speech before the judges. T winners are Carson Williams, fir prize; Raymond Oden, second prize

The chapter has prepared more i teresting programs for the future whi we hope to put over with success.

LETTERS! LETTERS! LETTERS!

"My, oh my!" says Reddy Kilowatt, "what a pleasure to get all these nice letters. Here's one from Mr. Cecil Allen, of Pell City, and another from Dr. E. G. Givhan, of Montevallo. Read them!"

I have been a customer of the Alabama Power Company for a long time. I've always found the service far superior to what I might expect, and I've always wondered how you could give such value for so little money. And the nice part about it is you keep doing it for less and less money.

Very truly yours,
Cecil Allen.
Pell City, Ala.

I wish everybody would start a crusade to make taxes as low as your prices for electricity--maybe the reason some of us don't use any more electricity than we do, cheap as it is, is because we have to save all of our spare change to pay our taxes with.

Very truly yours,

Dr. Gragg Writes On Hospitalization

Following is a letter from Dr. V. J. ragg, well known physician and sur-on of Canton in which he touches the hospita service of the Central labama Hospital:

"So many people are asking questions out the Central Alabama Group Hos talization that I feel it necessary to y to meet their inquiries with some rther explanation of this work.

By paying $12.00 per year, the entire mily, whether one person or a dozn, is entitled to the hospital service t to exceed three weeks per year. his is for hospital service and not r the doctor's bill. The patient sects his own doctor and makes his n trade with his doctor and the spital service places no restrctions on at part of it other than that the docr is expected to be a doctor in good anding in his Medical Society.

"Among the many advantages of this mmunity Hospital Service, two of e most prominent is that the patient has his hospital bill paid as provided on the membership card and therefore is free of a large hospital bill which might otherwise draw heavily on his finances and oppress him while suffering the troubles and privations common to sickness in the family.

"From the doctors standpoint the outstanding advantage is that the hospital bill already having been provided for, the patient is in much better position to pay his doctor and other bills with the funds that would otherwise have been paid out for a hospital bill had he not been a member of the Hospitalization Group.

"Even before the depression, millions of families were too poor to pay their hospital or doctor bill when illness entered the home. Since the depression it is a problem which is continuously growing in both size and seriousness. It is estimated that around 70 per cent of all American families are unable, with the present low income or entire lack of income, to meet the necessary cost of medical and hospital care. This unfortunate situation gravely affects both the doctor and those who are ill. In some parts of the country physicians have quit their practice and are driving taxies and such other work in order to make a living.

"It is estimated by the State Health Commissioner of New York that 50,000 people die yearly in that state for lack of hospital and medical care, and this estimate would probably hold good as an average over the entire United States. This indeed is a grave situation and we should put forth every effort to solve this problem in a way to help both the patient and the doctor. And when we have such a solution we should not hesitate to make the best of it.

"You will bear with me for calling attention to the fact that today, just today, I operated on a case, a man's wife. He had contemplated taking membership in the Community Service, but had just delayed the matter and now has both a doctor bill and a hospital bill to pay where there would have been no hospital bill had he taken the membership fifteen days ago.

"So far as the patient is concerned this plan is not only possible, but is much easier than the old way. The cost is spread out over so many people for only $12.00 for an entire year, instead of one individual having to pay a large hospital bill in one lump sum in one day. It is also better for the doctor because the patient has his hospital bill already paid and has his ready cash to apply to his doctor bill.

"I would most respectfully invite your serious attention to this matter and ask you if you are not vitally interested.

Yours very truly."

V. J. GRAGG.

Chevrolet Production Is Now Above 5,000 Daily

Detroit, April 2—Pushing steadily upward, production of Chevrolet passenger cars and trucks is now exceeding 5000 per day. On March 19 a total of 5,162 units rolled off the production lines of the company's 9 assembly plants, according to an official statement just released by W. E. Holler vice president and general sales manager.

"Within a week or ten days," said Mr. Holler, "the new Chevrolet assembly plant at Baltimore, with an estimated yearly capacity of 80,000 units, should begin to add its daily quota to our present facilities. Once we begin to get the benefit of this added production, present schedules will show another substantial increase.

"Deliveries of Chevrolet passenger cars and trucks from January 1 to March 10, the latest figures available, are 30.3 per cent above the same period in 1934. Every department of our business is now working at top speed to meet the demands of the public and our dealers for more cars and trucks."

Mr. Holler stated further that orders for delivery to buyers, through more than 10,000 dealer retail outlets, have increased steadily every week since the formal announcement of the company's new models on January 5. At present, unfilled orders on hand are said to be nearing the 100,000 mark.

Clanton Scout Activities

Monday night, April 1st, the Boy Scouts opened their meeting in the basement of the Clanton Baptist church It was opened by repeating the Scout Oath. This was the first meeting of this year.

Then the discussion of the reorganization of Troop 47. It was voted that we meet again Thursday night at 7:00 o'clock. Everybody is urged to be there.

The boys also voted to build a Scout cabin and camp near the river. This will afford a place for the Scouts to spend the summer. Plans are being made for a Scout baseball team. The cabin and ball team will cost a good bit of money. That caused a queston—how to raise money?

Mr. Wade has consented to let the Scouts have a picture in the near future. When we get it we want the support of everyone. You will not only be helping the ones involved now but the future boys of America.

The time for the Scout Jamboree is drawing near so we want everyone to join so as to go with us. So be at the church Tuesday night.

Farmer Finances Cotton With Milk

Abbeville, Ala.—W. O. Baxter, primarily a cotton farmer, has, in large measure, financed his cotton crop operation through the sale of cream and whole milk, reports county agent C. S. Keller.

"By selling cream and feeding the skimmilk to chickens, and in turn selling eggs, I have kept going where many of the other cotton farmers have had to borrow money, or have lost out. This kind of work is very confining, but it is worth the trouble."

Chrysler Dealers' Sales Set Another Record

Chrysler dealers had their biggest total of retail deliveries since July 14, in the week ending March 2. This 33 weeks record was the result of the retail delivery of 2997 Plymouth and 921 Chrysler cars, a total of 3918 units.

The Plymouth deliveries represented an increase of 7.4 per cent over the 2790 cars reported in the preceding week, though that week in turn had been better by 23.1 per cent than the week of February 16.

The grand total of 3819 units in the week of March 2 is an increase of 100.7 per cent over the corresponding week of last year, 268.2 per cent over the corresponding week of three years ago.

In the first nine weeks of 1935, including March 2, Chrysler dealers delivered at retail 20,522 Plymouths and 4586 Chryslers. This is an increase in Plymouth deliveries of 91.4 per cent over the corresponding week of last year. Chrysler deliveries represent an increase of 743 per cent over the 544 units delivered in the corresponding weeks of last year. Plymouth and Chrysler deliveries combined for the nine-weeks period were approximately two and a half times those reported in the corresponding period of two years ago and in excess of three times those of the corresponding period in 1932.

Both the Plymouth and Chrysler deliveries for the first nine weeks of the current year far exceed the totals reported for the same period of 1934 and 1933 combined.

Guy DeLoach Now Selling Plymouths

Polk Bros. Motor Co., Inc., announce this week the appointment of Guy DeLoach as salesman for the new 1935 Plymouths, widely known as America's high-speed safety car. Mr. DeLoach is a native of Chilton County and a resident of Cooper, Ala. He is a young man who has spent most of his time in the automobile selling game, both as straight salesman and in his own business, and now, he states, after trying out several other makes, he is more than ever convinced of Plymouth's outstanding superiority.

For the past two years he has been employed on the Boulder Dam project in Colorado. He says that conditions ther really test the stamina of a car, but that his Plymouth came through it all with flying colors.

Mr. DeLoach will be glad to figure with you on any product in the line carried by Polk Bros, but he especially invites his friends to call on him and take a ride in the 1935 Plymouth, for he believes that careful investigation of these new cars will convince even the most particular man or woman.

Tuesday Is Moving Day At Court House Here

It's a long way from October, but Tuesday was moving time at the court hcuse in Clanton anyway.

Five changes were made during the day in the occupants of several offices in the building. It all began when M. D. Foshee moved his office into the Robinson Building, over the Mazar's Store. The National Re-employment Office which has occupied the grand jury room at the head of the stairs in the court house, was moved into the office formerly occupied by Mr. Foshee; the Child Welfare Office was moved into the grand jury room, and two witness rooms at the back of the auditorium were occupied by those working on the relief sewing project.

All in all, it was a busy day—at least that is the sentiment expressed by M. T. Littlefield, who spent most of the day lugging chairs, desks, tables, and other office equipment about the building.

COUNTY AGENT TALKS ON CHILTON'S AGRICULTUR

Following is the address delivered by John W. Fant, county agent of Chilton County, last Friday night over radio stations WAPI, WBRC and WSGN in Birmingham, as a part of the broadcast sponsosed by the Birmingham Chamber of Commerce in cooperation with the Kiwanis Club of Clanton.. Photographs appear elsewhere in the News this week:

"Fellow Kiwanians, and friends of the radio audience, I bring you greetings from Clanton, the heart of Alabama; a town surrounded by a farm-owning, home-loving, God-fearing, industrious farm people, who have the social urge to the extent that the population of the town is doubled every Saturday.

"There are 4,197 farm families consisting of 1,550 farm owners, 1,636 sharecroppers and share tenants and 1,011 cash tenants, in the 16 beats composing the county. Clanton is located in the geographic center of Beat 4, which has an area of 54 square miles and a farm population of 1,000 families. Beat 4 is the geographic center of Chilton County. Chilton County is the geographic center of Alabama.

"The development of agriculture in the county is very graphically given in the following quotation from John Temple Graves' "Book of Alabama and the South:"

"The survival and growth of products of the plow over products of the axe and the saw, which has featured so many of Alabama's counties, is emphatic in Chilton. Before 1900, a timber and turpentine industry engaged the majority of the population, although agricuture was important. As the fine timber stands of hardwood and pine were cut off, farming increased its relative importance and has been the principal source of revenue for more than 30 years."

"Cotton was the sole cash crop for many years and is now the principal cash crop. Over 9,000 of the 12,500 bales produced in 1934 were placed in the hands of the Alabama Cotton Cooperative Association through its local office in Clanton.

"The Alabama Extension Service had its birth in Alabama and Chilton County when Mr. W. H. Conway was appointed County Agricultural Agent in 1907 Through his leadership the farmers were persuaded to terrace their farm land and diversify their crops and produce a living at home. This program introduced other cash crops, such as grain, forage, poutry, dairying, livestock truck crops, and fine fruits. Quoting again from John Temple Graves: "Fruit and berry culture is conspicuous in the vicinity of Clanton, Jemison, and Thorsby. Strawberries are sold under co-operative auspices; watermelons are shipped in quantity; and the peaches of Chilton County are called unblushingly the largest in the South."

"The following crops in addition to cotton were sold from the farms of Chilton County in 1934:

"Strawberries, corn, truck crops, watermelons, fruit, poultry and dairy products, and beef cattle to the amount of approximately $175,000. A good portion of this produce was sold or loaded for shipment in Clanton. Much of this produce was sold at roadside markets along the highways.

"In 1923, a department of vocational agriculture was established at Isabella and one at Jemison in 1929, and one at the Negro Training School in 1926 This added three more trained farm leaders to the agricultural staff of the county. In 1933, Miss Ruth Pardue was employed as Home Demonstration Agent in the county. This gives the county a well-rounded farm leadership setup.

"Under the leadership of the county and home agents and teachers of vocational agriculture, a live-at-home program has been emphasized. As a result of this program the farmers produced ample food and feed for home use marketed $1,301,931.71 worth of crops in 1934.

"Under the leadership of the H Demonstration Agent, the farm wo of the county made clothing, can vegetables and meat, grew pou products, made cheese, planted y round gardens and saved the farm approximately $17,500,000 in 1934

"I make the following comparison farm income and bank deposits in C ton to show the relation that agri ture has to the prosperity of Clan

"In 1928, the year before prices everything began to break, the f income was $1,819,300. The bank posits in Clanton were $1,039,583.80 cember 31, 1934.

"I think the industry and fores of the farmers in establishing a l at-home program is responsible for fact that not a single bank closed doors, very few bankrupts were clared, and very few farms were under mortgage in the county du the depression.

"All this leads one to believe the progress and prosperity of C ton is dependent upon the prospe of the home owning, home-loving, G fearing, farm people engaged in sc ship. Clanton prospers when the fa ers prosper, and offers great possi tific farming under intelligent lea ties for new industries, such as c neries, food mills, creameries, te mills, oil refineries, and other indus whose raw products are derived f the farm.

To Our Doctor & Nurse Friends Throughout This Section:

We have recently installed an approved electric refrigerator container for all our biologicals, which is approved by the State Departments of Health. We invite you to come in and inspect this equipment that you may be assured of the very best and absolute purity at all times.

It is exceedingly important that these serums, not only be kept at a cooler temperature than is usual in this climate, but that they be especially protected from any variations in temperature. This electric refrigeration, automatically controlled, is the only way we know to positively assure this result --- regardless of what the weather may be doing outside.

This is just one more move toward the goal of always making our store "The Home of Quality" and to which we cordially invite your attention and inspection

"The Home of Quality" Alred Drug Company Clanton, Alabama

Quality is not expensive

This advertisement is addressed to the woman who is going to be fashionably dressed, but who wants to do it as economically as possible. Its purpose is to explain that first-quality is not expensive

Here's Why,

When you buy a hat, dress, coat, lingerie, or accessories you pay for material, workmanship and style. All are very important. However attractive a garment may appear, if the material is poor, it will not give service, therefore will be expensive no matter how little the cost may be.

Accent your own individuality by wearing the clothes especially designed for you. You then enjoy that enduring satisfaction which is the right of every one of our customers.

We sell first-quality Material, Workmanship, and Style in all our garments, and it means satisfaction to you—and more, it actually means economy. Let Me Call Your Attention to a Special Showing of Dance Frocks for Graduation Time.

Rabies Control Need Strikingly Shown

Montgomery, Ala.—Death of a 10-year-old boy in Cullman County from the effects of rabies and outbreaks of the disease in other widely separated sections of the State were pointed to by the state health authorities this week as proof of the immediate need of legislation controlling stray dogs.

Charles Kein, 10, died in Cullman a few days ago from rabies—one of the most horrible diseases a human being can have. Following his death approximately 40 school children with whom he had been associated began taking anti-rabies treatments furnished by the State Health Department.

In Montgomery, three persons began taking anti-rabies treatments last week one of them afive-year-old child who was bitten on the face by a "mad" dog. The dog also bit numerous pets in the vicinity. About the same time a small dog was struck by an automobile and bit its mistress and another person as they were trying to dress its injuries. The pup died and was found to have been suffering from rabies and the two injured persons are being inoculated.

A large rabid dog pulled a man from a horse in Tallassee and was known to have bitten several animals in that town. A cow that died in Wetumpka, at first believed to have been poisoned, was found on examination at the Health Department Laboratories here to have died of rabies. It was the third cow the owner had had to "go mad" in recent months.

"In every instance where an outbreak of rabies occurs we can expect another outbreak, possibly more serious, at the end of the incubation period, which is four to six week," said Dr. J. N. Baker, State Health Officer. "Persons who have pets which they suspect of having had contact with rabid animals should keep them up for at least that long and it would be well to have them inoculated against rabies."

Dr. Baker said an anti-rabies law such as that now pending in the legislature would drive rabies from the State within a few years.

Fenn Jones, Mayor of Clanton lastFriday night over radio stations WAPI, WBRC and WSGN in Birmingham as a part of the broadcast sponsored by the Birmingham Chamber of Commerce in cooperation with the Kiwanis Club of Clanton and which was a splendid boost for our town and county. Photographs appear elsewhere in this issue;

"I did not come to Birmingham to try to entertain you with pretty speech that has no real meaning but I came to tell you a few facts about Clanton. Clanton is in Chilton County, Alabama, 60 miles South of Birmingham, 45 miles North of Montgomery, on the Louisville & Nashville Railroad, and the Federal Concrete Highway number 31. It is 12 miles from the Alabama Power Company, Lay Dam, 16 miles from Mitchell Dam, both of which are located on the Coosa River where electricity is generated and transmitted to many cities and industries through the country. These two large lakes afford splendid fishing opportunities to Clanton people and others who enjoy that sport. It is an ideal place for rest and recreation, being reasonably hidden from the law enforcement squad.

"Clanton was incorporated in 1897 38 years ago, embracing an area one mile square, with a population at that time of about 400. The present legislature will pass a bill extending the corporate limits to include the people and business now properly a part of Clanton, which will increase our population to near 4000.

"Good roads lead into Clanton from every direction, and Clanton attracts some trade from Autauga, Elmore, Coosa and Shelby counties. Clanton streets are paved in the business section, and paving in the residential parts is being considered. Clanton is now erecting a City Hall at a cost of $23,000, and extending the water mains at a cost of $13,000. Material is being placed on the ground for a new theatre building. The Peoples Savings Bank will remodel and enlarge their building this summer at a cost of several thousand dollars. An apartment house is being built now. A large two-story wood business building was recently removed and plans are being drawn for a brick building to take its place at a cost of $15,000. The contract has been let for a $50,000 postoffice building on which work will begin in the near future. The Selma Highway is being paved from Clanton. A vacant business lot on Second Avenue sold a few weeks ago for $500 a front foot. Clanton did not have a bank failure during the depression, and not a bank failure in the entire County There is not a vacant business building in the city, neither a vacant residence, and there is a demand for more homes for rent. Clanton has not felt the depression as keenly as other business centers of the State as is evidenced by its continued growth.

"Clanton is supported by agricuture almost entirely, but the farm lands are divided into small tracts, and as a rule is owned by the men who cultivate the land. This makes good trade conditions for Clanton. Clanton has three drug stores, three hardware stores, eight grocery stores, ten dry goods stores, two wholesale grocery stores, three furniture stores, one ice plant, a foundry, three automobile dealers, a laundry which gives emploment to fourteen people, three beauty parlors two weekly newspapers, fourteen white barbers are required to serve the local and visiting trade, two banks with a combined deposit of one million and forty thousand dollars, four cotton ginning plants, three lumber mills, one theatre with seating capacity of 300 and well attended.

"The Standard Oil Company, Sinclair, Good Gulf, Woco Pep, Shell Texaco and Pan-Am, all distribute their product from Clanton. The Alabama Mills Company, cotton factory gives employment to 300. The Central Alabama Hospital receives patients sufficient to support the institution. The Chilton County High School has an enrollment of 290 pupils, the Grammar School 450. Eight automobile service stations, two hotels, several tourist homes and cafes, and many other business establishments. Clanton has an airport and some of our citizens own planes. There are ten lawyers, six doctors and five dentists, but I cannot say all of these genlemen are kept busy. Clanton has two Funeral Homes and I am pleased to state they are not very prosperous on account of our pure water and healthful surroundings.

"Clanton people are religious and law-abiding. Clanton has a $65,000 Baptist church, free of debt, with 800 members. The Methodist, a building that cost $75,000, fully paid and 400 members The Presbyterians are proud of their $6,000 building and increasing membership. The Christian church, the Adventist, and Four Square Gospel, all have comfortable buildings, and their influence for good in cooperation with the larger churches send forth a Christian spirit and good fellowship which accounts in part for Clanton's prosperity and advancement.

"Clanton geographically is in the heart of Alabama. When you are touring the country we want you to stop at Clanton. Our hotels and cafes will serve you well prepared and wholesome food at reasonable prices. Our policemen will be liberal with you, and give you all the assistance and information possible in a courteous manner. You, who may wish to change your present location, or invest some money in a growing city with a bright future among people who have a heart, I earnestly and sincerely invite you to investigate Clanton, Alabama."

Black-Draught Brings Refreshing Relief of Constipation Troubles

Constipation produces many disagreeable sensations, several of which are mentioned by Mr. T. E. Stith, of Boonville, Ind., who writes: "I have used Thedford's Black-Draught many years when needed for biliousness and other minor ills when a laxative was needed. I have a tight feeling in my chest when I get bilious. I get dizzy and feel very tired, just don't feel like doing my work. After taking Black-Draught, I feel much better. This is why I continue to use it when needed." . . . Thedford's Black-Draught is a good, purely vegetable laxative, obtainable for 25¢ a package.

Tung Oil Exports On Rapid Up-Grade

Exports of tung oil from Hankow the port which handles the large bulk of China's exports of this important paint and varnish material, reached high levels in January and increased 136 per cent over January, 1934, and 50 per cent compared with December, 1934, according to the Department of Commerce office in Birmingham.

This large increase was due in part the statement said, to the release of up-country stocks and in part to supplies from the new crop which was coming into the market in January.

Total exports from Hankhow during January totalled 11,268,000 pounds compared with 7,522,000 pounds for December and 4,768,000 pounds for January, 1934, statistics show.

41 MILLIONS SENT TO STATE BY U. S.

Federal Aid Far Outweighs Tax Contributions

Alabama during the year ending June 30, 1934, received $41,140.21 from the Federal Government while the Government received $14,984.37 from the state.

The amount of Federal funds given Alabama was 2.25 per cent of the total paid out to all the states.

Alabama paid $1,938,284.21 in income taxes and $12,063,700.16 in internal revenue receipts.

While Alabama received far more than it paid, the Southern state sends millions to the North and East yearly for interest, for autos, radios, refrigerators, and other articles. This money helps swell payments made to the Federal treasury by states making larger contributions.

SAFETY GLASS ALL AROUND—NO EXTRA COST
FORD ECONOMY • COMFORT ZONE RIDING • V-8 POWER

Why take less?

FORD has always aimed to make the automobile-buying dollar go as far as possible.

This was illustrated when Ford brought the V-8 engine to the low-priced field—without increasing operating cost.

This year, the 1935 Ford V-8 gives you traditional Ford low prices, traditional Ford operating economy — and, in addition, riding comfort, body roominess, new beauty and new safety features that will satisfy the requirements of almost everyone.

Comfort Zone Riding gives "front seat comfort" even to rear seat passengers. Deep cushioned, high-backed, wider seats. Big, air-balloon tires. Easier steering and a clutch that responds to the touch of your foot. Consider safety: There's safety glass all around—on all models—at no additional cost. A new, welded all-steel body that's insulated with sound-deadening material. New, more powerful brakes, with an unusually high ratio of braking surface to car weight. And a lower center of gravity that gives increased safety and stability on curves!

Why be satisfied to receive less than this for your money?

Examine this new 1935 Ford V-8. Ride in it. You'll realize that it is not only a new Ford V-8 Car—but a new automobile value.

"PIGS IS PIGS"

AND CROPS ARE CROPS

Yet they're much alike at Feeding Time

● Strange, isn't it, to think of pigs and crops this way . . . but science presents more and more evidence every day to show that food requirements of animals and plants are much the same.

Animals need vitamins. They could starve to death on chemically pure food. So could your crops, without vital impurities.

Chilean Natural Nitrate supplies the vital impurities—supplies them in Nature's own balance and proportion. These vital impurities are the rare elements—iodine, boron, calcium, magnesium, lithium, strontium, and many others. They're all there, combined with nitrogen, to make your crops strong and healthy.

Chilean Natural Nitrate is ideal for your crops. It is natural, the only nitrogen that comes from the ground.

For your own protection say "Chilean" when you order nitrate. Two kinds—Champion (granulated) and Old Style. They are both genuine. Both are natural. Both are Chilean. And both give your crops the vital impurities.

"A Pure Food and Drug Act for plants would be a death warrant to all living creatures."

WHAT NEGROES ARE DOING

By Benjamin Anderson
Teacher of Vocational Agriculture
Chilton County Training School

N. F. A. Sponsors Ham Show

A big ham and middling show is planned for Friday, April 19, at the County Training School. Prizes will be offered for the best ham exhibits.

Last winter the N. F. A. boys sponsored a drive for better methods of killing and curing pork. The club boys assisted many different individuals in using the new method recommended by the experiment station at Auburn.

Any person interested in the show is asked to bring his ham or middlings and take an active part in the show by arranging his own exhibit.

National Negro Health Week

Along with the Rehabilitation Program, the teachers of Agriculture and Home Economics are psonsoring a better health and clean-up campaign in observance of aNtional Negro Health Week. Their slogan this week is "Burn, Bury, and Beautify."

Over forty years ago this movement was started at Tuskegee Institute by our great educator and leader, Booker T. Washngton. Since that time it has become nation-wide and is now being carried on under the auspices of the Annual Tuskegee Conference, National Negro Business League, National Medical Association and in cooperation with the Negro U. S. Public Health Service State, County and City Health Departments and other civic agencies.

It is eagerly hoped that each home in every community will be affected by this program. It is a good practice to general clean at least twice a year, but many of us fail to general clean at a.l

Let us ll clean up. Keep n mnd the slogan—"Burn, Bury, and Beautify."

"Clanton, The Best Town In Alabama By Two Dam Sites"

Following is the address delivered by John L. Hollis, superintendent of Mitchell Dam in Chilton County last Friday night over radio stations WAPI WBRC and WSGN in Birmingham, as a part of the broadcast sponsored by the Birmingham Chamber of Commerce in cooperation with the Kiwanis Club of Clanton. Photographs appear elsewhere in the News this week:

"Among the many other distinctions which gives Clanton the right to claim to be one of the best towns in Alabama is the fact that almost at tis doorway are situated two of the outstand- hydro-electric developments within the State, or for that matter within the Southeastern States, built, owned and operated by the Alabama Power Company.

"Lay Dam, the first dam built by the company is only 13 miles from Clanton and is connected with it by a good gravel road. This dam was completed in January 1914; is 1,543 feet long, 104 feet high and has a present capacity of 110,000 horsepower. It creates a navigable slack water pool 24 miles in length. The dam was named for Captain W. P. Lay of Gadsden, the first President of Alabama Power Company and a pioneer in hydro-electric development.

"Mitchell Dam, also on the Coosa River, only 15 miles from Clanton and connected with it by a good road, was completed in August, 1923. This dam is 1,264 feet long and 106 feet high. It has a present capacity of 72,000 horsepower with an ultimate capacity of 120,000 horsepower. It creates a navagable slack water pool extending up stream to Lay Dam, a distance of 14 miles.

"This dam was dedicated to the memory of James Mitchell, the executive head of the company from the beginning of its active work in 1912 until his death in 1920. Upon a large bronze tablet affixed to a boulder weighing over 100 tons which was cut from a hill near the dam, is the dedicatory inscription to Mr. Mitchell and a beautiful expression from the gifted pen of the late Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes, which reads as follows:

> "To gather the streams from waste and to draw from them energy, labor without brains, and so to save mankind from toil that it can be spared, is to supply what, next to interlect, is the very foundation of all our achievements and all our welfares."

"The secenery around both these dams is rugged, wild and beautiful Every visitor to Clanton should take advantage of the opportunity to ride out and enjoy these veritable beauty spots of nature, inspect the dams themselves and see the generation of electricity by water power in its most advanced and technically perfect manner. Visitors will be cordially received by the operators at the dams and every opportunity given them for a thorough inspection. These dams represent an investment of many thousands of dollars and along with transmission lines and distribution systems create taxable values which pay annually large sums in taxes to the State, the County and Towns therein.

"These dams not only make available electric power for the homes and for industry in Clanton and other towns of Chilton County, but also through 70 miles of rural lines approximately 2,500 people on the farms of the County are served.

"With the advantages of practically unlimited hydro power, delightful climate, splendid schools and churches stragetic location between Montgomery and Birmingham on a great trunk line railway, surely there is no reason why Clanton should not grow and expand It is the purpose of its citizenship that it shall and every one who comes to cast his lot in Clanton shall receive a warm welcome and every assistance in the building a business or estalishing a home within its confines. So I say to you, Clanton, the best town in the State by two Dam sites."

It is also understood that the highway department will in the very nea future, hard surface the road from Calera to Montevallo, and possibly fr Calera to Columbiana. Both these ro are at present gravel roads and subjec to considerable dust and mud. Representative Charlie Cox of Clanton is doing considerable work on such proj over the state, making such rec mendations to the highway departme as he deems advisable to improve th condition of Alabama's highways.

Jack Locke, who succeeded Senator Earle Thomas as vocational instructor at Isabella High School, and Miss Madaline Heflin, home economics teacher, are conducting similar courses in the western part of the county.

These teachers are cooperating with the Relief Administration in the promotion of the rural rehabilitation program, and are serving strictly in an educational and not an administrative capacity, they explained.

Mr. Montgomery stated that approximately 20 families are represented in the classes at both Mars Hill and Mineral Springs. Besides the group work, Miss Newell is also giving cooking demonstrations in the homes of several of these families.

to secure much lower insurance rates, Mayor Jones explained.

Clanton now has a total of 61 hydrants, scattered throughout the corporate limits. Chief of the Fire Department, W. H. L. Smith, stated that he believes that every house in town can be reached with the hose now. This will be a great advantage in fighting fires, he continued. Heretofore it has often been impossible to get water to combat fires in the outlying vicinities, and only chemicals were available to use in an effort to extinguish the fames.

Work on the erection of the city hall is rapidly going forward. The foundation is completed and several inches of the walls have been built. Mr. Shaunnesey, superintendent of construction expressed the belief that the job will be completed by June 15.

demonstration agent, on "Clanton as an Agricultural Center," and John Hollis, superintendent of Mitchell Dam near Clanton, on "Clanton's Dam Sites."

Greetings and welcome from the Birmingham Chamber of Commerce were extended by James C. Lee, chairman of the wholesalemerchants' and manufacturers' division, and response was given by Percy Pitts, of Clanton.

In his talk, Mayor Jones outlined a building program now in progress in Clanton and presented other facts in Clanton's claim of being "one of the first towns in Alabama."

The building projects, as outlined by the mayor, include building of a city hall at a cost of $23,000; extension of water mains, $13,000; erection of a new theater building; projected remodeling and enlarging of the People's Savings Bank Building at a cost of several thousand dollars; work on an apartment house; building of a $15,000 brick business buildng; letting of the contract for a $50,000 postoffice building and others.

There was not a bank failure in Clanton or in the entire county during the depression the mayor said, and there is not a vacant residential or business house in the town. Geographically, the town is in the heart of Alabama, Mayor Jones said.

A program of music included three selections by a quartet composed of Ed Glasscock, Evan Parrish, Herbert Lowery and Mr. Pitts, piano selections by Miss Jane Roberts, and a vocal solo by Mr. Pitts, accompanied by Mrs. Pitts.

Following the program at WAPI the visitors were entertained at a dinner at the Bankhead Hotel. Speakers were Sam F. Clabaugh, president of the Protective Life Insurance Company; Lloyd E. Foster, general manager of the Birmingham Chamber of Commerce; State Senator Earle Thomas; J. G. Smith, president of the Birmingham Chamber of Commerce, and Mr. Pitts. Mr. Lee was toastmaster.

der this plan at Dothan, Andalusia, and several other cities in South Alabama.

Mr. Alexander also explained that there is a favorable possibility of securing an outright grant from the federal government of 30 per cent of the amount of the application. Citing approximate figures, based on only a brief knowledge of the town and its needs, Mr. Alexander estimated that an adequate system here would cost in the neighborhood of $60,000. He asked the council for permission to make a survey of the town and render a report in which he would give an estimate of the number of potential users and the approximate cost preparatory to submit- an application through the Montgomery office of the PWA for funds for its installation.

After more than an hour and a half of discussion of the proposition, the council voted unamiously to postpone action until the next regular session giving the members an opportunity to discuss the advisability of the move with the people of the town.

According to the estimate given by Mr. Alexander, between 250 and 300 potential consumers would be necessary to make it advisable to enter the application. The cost to the individual consumer for ordinary usage would amount to approximately $50 per year, he said Three hundred at this rate would give the town about $5,000 net profit each year, after the cost of operating and the interest and retirment of the bonds had been paid. In Clanton, he said that he believes there is a possiblity of operating the system successfully on even fewer subscribers.

There would be no obligation on the Town's part to repay any of this indebtiness to the government except from revenues realized from the operation of the system after expenses had been deducted, it was explained.

Definite Pick-Up In Trade Noted Locally, Even In Rural Stores; Former Summer Slump Apparently Missing

That proverbial corner around which Prosperity is alleged to have been lurking these many years, seems to have at last been reached. Judging from the reported improvement in business conditions in Chilton County during recent weeks—and the optimistic smiles adorning the faces of Clanton merchants, the Depression has evidently lost the battle; the armistice has been signed—and it's triumphantly on to Progress for the people of Central Alabama.

When merchants jubilantly aver that business here last week was on a par, if not above, those fondly-remembered "good-old days of 1929-30," then it begins to look rather badly for Old Grouch who has wielded the sceptor for the past four years.

One merchant queried about business last Saturday, declared that he could not conceive of it being any better; others over town were jubilant over the improvement that the first week of April has brought.

Coming at a time when there has been a lull in the amount of money being poured from the coffers of the federal government into the laps of our people, little doubt can exist that there is reason to believe and trust in its

Winner Of Marriage License Must Wait For 21st Birthday, Judge Says

Usually when a man gets himself a marriage license, he has serious intentions of taking unto himself a bride But this rule does not apply in the case of Carl Dawson, 17-year-old Isabella lad.

In fact, Carl had no intention of getting a marriage license—but just the same he got one, and now, of course he is legitimate prey for those who long for a sparkling circlet on the fourth finger of their left hand.

Some poet said long ago, "Music hath powers to charm the savage beast." And 'twas good music that got Carl in the predicament in which he now finds himself. Namely: the possessor of a marriage license—without a bride-to-be.

Last Saturday night, Carl drew the bow across the strings of his violin with such feeling that the judges at the Fiddler's Convention in the court house in Clanton awarded him first prize—a marriage license.

The prize was given by Probate Judge J. Lee Smith, who explained that the youthful winner may use it at any time he wishes after he has reached the age of twenty-one. He was given a slip of paper which calls for a marriage license at the probate office of Chilton County.

Would-be-friends, sympathetic with the lad who must wait years before he can realize any benefit from his success, suggested that perhaps arrangements might be made whereby he can swap the unwanted marriage license for a hunting license, but whether or not this will meet with the approval of Judge Smith was not learned.

Forty-eight other prizes, awarded by Clanton merchants and business establishments, were given at the contest..

BIG FOUR HDWE. NOW OPEN WITH NEW BARGAINS

Will Retain Same Corp Of Of Workers As The Former Owner

The Big Four Hardware Company successors to the Farmers' Hardware is now open for business in Clanton located on the well known corner which has been occupied by this firm's predecessor for more than 15 years. The change in the ownership and management of this establishment was effected last Wednesday.

A.E. Reagan, manager of the new concern, annuonced this week that the staff which has served the public during previous years has been kept intact, and will continue in their various capacities. For years, Lester Jones, Amon Jones, and Lonnie Richardson have been familiar names to the people of this county, who will without doubt learn with a great deal of pleasure that they will continue to serve their needs.

Lester Jones is well versed in the hardware needs of the people of Chilton County, and his connection with the new firm will be advantageous from many angles.

Mr. Reagan, who operated a hardware store in Thorsby for many years brings to Clanton a wide experience C. C. Conway, also associated with the new establishment, is an experienced hardware man. All in all the staff of the Big Four Hardware is composed of men that know the business and will be able to serve the people of Chilton County as they should be served, is Mr. Reagan's expressed opinion.

MISS ELIZABETH GRAGG WEDDED TO GEORGE POPWELL FRI

A social event of interest to many people in Clanton and Chilton County was the marriage last Friday afternoon of Miss Elizabeth Gragg to Mr George Popwell. Both the bride and groom are members of the younger social set of Clanton.

They were quietly married at the probate office in Columbiana. Judge L. C. Walker read the ceremony. Afterward they went on a short wedding trip, returning to Clanton late Saturday

The bride is the attractive daughter of Dr. and Mrs. V. J. Gragg, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs Walter L. Popwell. Mrs. Popwell is a senior at the Chilton County High School, and Mr. Popwell is a graduate of the Greensboro Military Academy Greensboro, Ala.

The young couple will make their home with the groom's parents in Clanton.

PROSPECTS FINE FOR BIG CROP

First Car Is Expected To Leave This Week Says Manager

Despite the unfavorable weather conditions that have prevailed for the past few days, strawberry growers in this county are optimistic regarding the outlook for the 1935 crop. L. E. Diefenderfer, manager of the Clanton Berry Growers, declared Tuesday that he believes it will be possible to ship the first carload from here the latter part of this week.

Unless continued rain and cold caused the berries to rot, Chilton County has the best outlook for a good crop in several years, he said. Fear of frost is the greatest bane in the grower's life at present. A few days ago, when a hailstorm seemed to be threatening there was an uneasy moment among those who expect to reap benfit from the lucious, red fruit—and that includes almost every person in Chilton County.

This crop is fast becoming recognized as one of the County's chief agricultural industries. Merchants and business men look forward with renewed hope on the eve of the strawberry season; growers anticipate funds that will mean much in financing them and their farms through the months until money is available from other products; and pickers know that their services will be in demand, stimulating the entire economic circuit in the locality.

A short crop in other sections make the outlook favorable for good prices for berries produced by Chilton County growers.

Mr. Diefenderfer stated that plans now call for the loading of a car here Friday or Saturday of this week, and although many growers are complaining of decaying fruit, he declared that he believes little damage has been incurred should the weather conditions become normal immediately.

Negro Shot After Refusal To Shave Drunk

A warrant, charging attempted murder, was sworn out Monday by Isaiah White, Maplesville negro, for the arrest of Church Seales, another negro.

White told Sheriff J. R. Hardy that the accused negro had fired a shotgun through a window in his home a few nights ago, striking White in the right hip.

The trouble all started, he said, when Seales came to his home in a drunken condition and wanted him to shave him He refused—an argument ensued. That night, he told the sheriff, Seales returned to his home and made an attempt on his life.

ELOYSE'S BEAUTY SHOPPE OPEN ALL THIS WEEK END

Miss Eloyse Jones, operator of the popular Eloyse Jones Beauty Shoppe announces that she will be at home three days this week, and after which she will be here only on Saturdays until school is out.

The shop, which is in connection with the Service Barber Shop, is being considerably enlarged and redecorated, being placed in another section of the building than in the past.

60-Gallon Outfit Captured Recently

Sheriff J. R. Hardy, Deputies Smith Nivens, Thornton, and Policeman Browder captured a 60-gallon still Monday night, near the Dixie Fishing Camps on the Coosa River, and arrested the two negro operators.

The still, which was a crude affair—fashioned from an old steel drum, was in operation when the officers surprised the negro moonshiners. The outfit was destroyed and the negroes were brought to jail and charged with manufacturing whiskey and possession of a still.

This is the first raid engaged in by Deputies Smith and Nivens since their appointments in which a still in operation has been captured.

Sheriff Hardy renewed his warning that moonshiners had better watch their steps because he intends to catch them if they continue to violate the laws.

Non-Voting Citizens

How eligible voters who fail to go to the polls could control elections if they all should ever decide to cast their ballots is illustrated by some figures recently compiled, from which the following facts are taken.

In the presidential election of 1932 only 58 per cent of the population of the United States over 21 years of age voted. In the "off year" election last November only, about 41 per cent of the potential voters went to the polls.

It may be fairly assumed, however, that the percentage of eligible voters who failed to exercise their right of franchise was about the same in both parties, so that if every potential voter had voted the result might have been practically what it was in each instance.

It is one of the paradoxes of a democracy that citizens who would fight for the right to vote, if the privilege were denied them, will refuse or neglect to exercise that right when they have the opportunity.

The Upward Spiral

Improvement in business conditions is reflected in editorials gleaned from newspapers published in widely separated States from the Atlantic to the Pacific coasts and including such inland commonwealths as Kansas, Michigan, and Ohio. In all of these States comment emphasizes the steady upward swirl of the business spiral.

"Business in Southern California," says the Glendale News-Press, "generally showed improvement in 1934. This was a circumstances almost visibly evident to observers in both large and small cities." This paper goes on to say that the most decided advance was in the agricultural area where bank debts reflected the increased amount received for crops and expended by the growers. Automobile sales went up 14 percent while industrial employment was bettered by 12 percent.

From North Carolina comes assurance through the Greensboro Record that the rapid recovery of banks in the Tar Heel State "constitutes one of the most cheering and amazing chapters in the story of the State's economic and financial progress since the depression." Pointing out that improvement has come a long way since the banking holiday, the Record quotes the prediction of the State bank commissioner that "by the end of this year the resources of North Carolina banks will be almost at the high peak which was shown before 1929."

The Witchita (Kan.) Eagle takes the motor car as the first barometer to record permanently clearing skys. Declaring that automobile output through 1921-29 reflected the state of the popular purse the Eagle believes that the current increased output of cars is indicative of growing public confidence in the upward economic trend of the times. "The new cars everywhere in sight," says the Eagle, "mirror something stronger than a mere hope of better days to come."

"Every day now makes sadder the prophets of gloom," declares the Journal, Hamilton, Ohio, adding: "There is little doubt remaining that business is moving upward and forward. The first 342 industrial corporations to report for 1934 show an increase in earnings of 29 percent. Busy retail business and auto production surpassing all expectations; testify to consistent gains."

On the outlook for hopeful signs the Kalamazoo (Mich.) Gazette finds encouragement in the report of the United States Chamber of Commerce that the total manufacturing pay roll in this country is now larger by some 1,300,000 workers than it was 2 years ago and concludes: "For some reason or other—Government, private or a combination of both—production seems to be clearly gaining. That alone should be recognized as a highly encouraging symptom."

End Of A Swindle

Some years ago William Renick and his wife, lately of Seattle, learned of a legend to the effect that one Jacob Baker, a surveyor, who settled in Pennsylvania in 1765, was at one time owner of land in the vicinity of Philadelphia, which he had leased to the government for a period of 100 years. This land is now occupied by the Philadelphia navy yard, post office and mint.

Naturally Baker did not live to reclaim his land at the expiration of the alleged lease, but sêveral thousand supposed descendants have at various times believed they had an interest in his estate, although they had no confirming evidence.

Taking advantage of this situation, the Renicks promoted Baker "inheritance associations," claiming to possess documents which would establish the claims of Baker's heirs. They had no such documents, of course, but by playing on the cupidity of the supposed heirs they collected various fees on the strength of representations that they could recover a large sum from the government.

Finally an Illinois couple who had been swindled made an investigation of the Renicks, with the result that a few days ago William Renick entered a Federal prison to serve six years, while his wife was let off with a two-year term.

Swindling schemes similar to this have been worked for centuries, but the crop of suckers never fails. Perhaps a new generation of Baker "heirs" will fall for the same game a few years hence.

Show Me

Skidmore, Mo., April 1.—For six months Pearl Toylor county newspaper carrier, thought he was about the "promptest" man in this section of the country. He arrived here each evening just at 5:27 by the postoffice clock.

Boasting of his punctuality to a resident the other day, he was informed that the clock hadn't been running since last Summer.

Being from Missouri, the punctual gentleman of course had to be shown.

But one wonders if he would not have been happier had he never been shown.—Montgomery Advertiser.

Fatal Errors

Traffic accidents were more numerous and more severe in 1934 than any previous year.

Eight of the worst driving mistakes responsible for last year's tragic record are listed by the National Bureau of Casualty and Surety Underwriters as follows:

(1) Driving too fast for conditions, a cause named specifically in 22 per cent of all accidents resulting in fatalities charged to drivers alone, and a distinct and sometimes controlling factor in accidents attributed to many other causes. (2) Driving on the wrong side of the road. (3) violating (5) Passing on curve or hill. (6) Failing to signal or signaling improperly. (7) Driving off roadway. (8) Reckless driving.

Pedestrians made fatal errors too. Four of the worst were:

(1) Crossing between intersections, a mistake that accounted for more than 25 per cent of all pedestrian fatalities. (2) Crossing against the signal light at intersections. (3) Playing in the street, an error made chiefly by children, resulting in 16 per cent of all pedestrian deaths. (4) Coming from behind parked car.

Motorists and pedestrians! Avoid these fatal errors in 1935—and you will be doing your part to reduce the traffic toll.

In Hogs And Corn And Wheat

Nothing reveals the improved condition and increasing buying power of the farmer quite so strikingly as some figures just issued by a large agricultural publication.

For example, to buy a certain popular low-price automobile, the farmer today pays 626 bushels of wheat. Two years ago the same streamlined model, if it had been in existence then, would have cost him 1,455 bushels, the yield from two and one-third as much accreage. A farm tractor costing him fifty-nine 200-pound hogs today would have cost him 131 such hogs in 1933.

Probably most surprising of all, however, is the comparison of prices in the case of a gasoline-powered washer. For it the farmer pays today 117 bushels of corn. Two years ago it cost him 712 bushels, more than six times as much.

Undoubtedly there is a disposition to take for granted those things and conditions by which we are constantly surrounded. It is only when they are put up to us in some interesting or different new way that we fully comprehend and appreciate what is taking place.

D. W. Haskew

A young musician was assigned a lesson and asked to report at the music hall for an hour of practice. She came on time and found an artist at one of the pianos paying music that stirred her very soul. She sat the whole hour through and never touched a key. The music of the artist enraptured her very soul and for days she came to practice but she sat and listened day after day. She wasted all of her practice hours in listening to the artist who could eclipse her in playing, and it is needless to say that she never became a musician. For that same reason many a person fails to reach the ambition that stirs the soul. They find some one who can teach, preach, sing, sew cook, farm and fish better than they can, and they sit by and look on and listen while the job is being done by skilled hands. That leads me to say that it matters not how well the other fellow can play, if we are ever to become musicians ourselves, we must make use of our own practice hours.

I had a steward in my church who was dignity personified. In the church he appeared as though he would break if he should bend. I grew to think that this man must be a Chesterfield at church and at home. One day I called at his home and found that he was in a small house in the rear of the building I found my way back to him and there he was in his sporting togs. He held in his hand his fishing tackle and he was himself. Said he: "Parson, a five pound bass at the end of that line would be Mozart, Beethoven, Shakesear and Cicero all in one thrill." That man had the spirit of fishing and with that spirit dominating his feelings he forgot all about fashions and thrills. I hear that our fishing for men has come to be too much of a dignity personified. The Lord wonders sometimes if we would not break if we should bend If we are to be good fishers of men we must forget about the dignity that makes us stiff and be real men with our heart in the task.

To me one of he most attractive places in New York is the Acquarium. I have walked through its different apartments for hours looking at the fish. I saw all sorts—big and little pretty and ugly, white and black, red and blue. Many people, like myself. were in there studying and observing the fish. Many had note books, some had sketch books and all alike were making notes and drawing pictures, but not a person in the Acquarium was catching fish. I have attended many conventions and institutes that reminded me of that experience. Men and women in the church who had done nothing but walk about among the churches and observe, were there to tell us all about how to catch fish. The way to learn how to catch fish is to catch them. It is rather repulsive to the ordinary person to be told how to do a thing by those who never done anything. I am delighted to sit at the feet of any fisherman and learn, when that fisherman is catching more fish than I am. In fishing for men we need more than Acquarium observations.

When the Emperor of Germany dismissed his great Counselor, Bismarch Punch drew a cartoon in honor of the occasion. The cartoon represented Bismarch as leaving a vessel while the Emperor was standing in haughty attitude, bowing the statesman to shore. Under the cartoon was written this statement: "Dropping The Pilot." In like manner many a man has decided that he no longer needed Jesus Christ The ideals of the man of Galilee did not suit the man in his plans and pursuits and so the Master was discharged. Under all such lives like that should be written "Dropping The Pilot." It was a sad day for the Emperor when Bismarch left his Cabinet and it will be a sad day for anyone when Jesus is bowed out of the life.

As a lad I stood many a time around an old washpot in the back yard and watched my mother make soap It was made from lye dripped through ashes, and the product made was not hard soap, but soft soap. The thing that I learned then about soft soap was that it was ninety per cent lye Since that day I have heard much about "soft soaping." in almost every form of life and I have never forgotten that all soft soap is about ninety per cent lying. When people soft soap you just remember what soft soap is made of and ego will not become dangerously large.
